Clay Denies U.S. Berlin Policy Shift

Reports Called Inaccurate By State Officials

BERLIN (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special envoy to Berlin, asserted Saturday there has been no change in U.S. policy on Germany and that the west is determined to maintain its rights in divided Berlin.

At the same time it was disclosed that Clay had advised West Germany to face up to the reality of Communist East Germany.

CREATES FUROR

Clay came out with the advice Friday in a private talk with reporters and West Berlin publishers. Clay insisted that he should not be quoted, but the story created such a furor in Western political circles that his name quickly became connected with it.

The general called in reporters Saturday to issue a statement declaring: "There has been no change in U.S. policy and no change was announced by a U.S. spokesman in Berlin."

Informed sources said it is clear the United States has not made any decision at this stage to give any recognition to the East German Communist regime. But the new line taken by Clay apparently was intended to set the stage for a Western package proposal in forthcoming negotiations with the Soviet Union on Berlin.

Such a proposal may seek to trade some limited recognition of East Germany for a formal confirmation by both the Soviet Union and East Germany of a Western rights in Berlin and on the access routes to the isolated city.

A proposal of this nature would constitute a major concession in-

Fiery Lava Threatens 3 Villages

PAHOA, Hawaii (AP)—A roaring curtain of fiery lava erupted along an old volcanic rift on eastern Hawaii Island Saturday. Residents of three small plantation villages were ordered to evacuate.

Volcano observatory scientists said a 1,500-foot long flow of continuous laval fountains gravely threaten the 1,400 persons who live in Ophikau, Kalapana and Kapoho.

The molten rock was reported shooting up to 300 feet in the air.

The eruption, second in two days for this volcanically volatile rural area on the slope of Kilauea is located about five miles south west of Pahoa and 25 miles from the island's major city of Hilo.

Civil defense sound trucks began telling residents to evacuate. The towns are either on the coast, directly down from the eruption, or inland, but still potentially in the way of a flow.

Friday, a brief eruption took place in an isolated and uninhabited area. The eruptions all are on mighty Kilauea volcano, one of the most active in the world. The dome of Kilauea Caldera has been expanding steadily for a year.

Saturday's eruption is about 10 miles from the remains of Kapoho, a tiny plantation village of 300 persons destroyed by an eruption in January 1960.

In two weeks, the eruption buried Kapoho and the nearby town of Koae under 35 feet of lava and destroyed millions of dollars in crops. There were no injuries.

29 On Airliner Die In Crash

ANKARA, Turkey, (AP) — A twin-engine Turkish airliner crashed in torrential rain near here Saturday night. Airline officials said all 25 passengers and the crew of four were believed killed.

All the passengers were Turkish citizens, the airline reported. The crash occurred near Esenboga Airport which serves this capital city.

The plane, a Fairchild propjet passenger liner, was en route from Adana, near Turkey's southern coast, to Ankara.

The crash was the first at Esenboga since Jan. 19, 1960, when French Caravelle jet flew into a mountain killing all 42 aboard.

Quick Givers Drive Urged By Crossland

Conway Crossland, campaign chairman for the 1962 United Givers Fund, urged all parish residents to make this campaign a quick one.

"Let's meet our quota within a short time, and we can do it by everyone doing his fair share," said Crossland, who is president of the Central Savings Bank & Trust Company.

Allowing for an approximately 5% contingency, Crossland set the goal this year at $260,000. The drive is divided into four sections with a chairman and a goal for each.

They are:

Monroe, W. W. Kellogg chairman, quota $195,000.

Sterlington area, Marvin O. Ramsey, chairman, quota $7,000.

Twin City colored, A. H. Bowie, chairman, quota, $3,000.

"We have a good organization and everything is working smoothly," Crossland said. "We urge everyone to do their part and then we will have no trouble in reaching our quota.

"It is a privilege to give and work in such a program as this. So let's all do our part."

Ex-Convict Fights For Right To Teach

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Eight years ago, Dean Bay got into trouble. He took his punishment—18 months in the Washington State Reformatory for grand larceny—and set out to straighten out his life.

Now he is a college graduate, a father of five children and a lay Baptist minister. Now he is fighting for a certificate to teach school after being turned down three times.

Since the turndowns, which were by divided votes of the Oregon State Board of Education, he has obtained a teaching position at a private school north of Seattle. He is teaching seventh-graders, subject to his getting a teacher's certificate from the State of Washington.

The state superintendent of public instruction, Louis Bruno, will decide whether he gets it. Such decisions, says Bruno, rest on "what is best for the individual and for the schools."

Bay, now 32, was convicted of grand larceny in 1953 in connection with a series of thefts of money and property when he was a night policeman in Goldendale, Wash.

After serving his term, he worked his way through Eastern Oregon College of Education at La Grande with the help of three state scholarships. He taught for a year at Weston, Ore., Elementary School on a temporary certificate.

His fight for the right to continue teaching in Oregon was backed by his college, the local chamber of commerce and Dr. Harris Hunter, chairman of the Washington Board of Prison Terms and Paroles.

Dr. Leon P. Minear, Oregon chief of public instruction, said he opposed granting the certificate after considering the rights of

JFK Names Negro U.S. Court Judge

Leader In Drive For Integration Is Bench Choice

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy has risked new controversy with Southern Democrats by nominating Thurgood Marshall, Negro integration leader, to a high federal judgeship.

Marshall, who has argued the civil rights case for Negroes in court since 1938, was chosen Saturday for the U.S. 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in New York.

NOT UNEXPECTED

The appointment was not unexpected, but neither was it announced until Congress headed into the closing hours of its 1961 session. The Senate must confirm Marshall's nomination, and it must pass first through the Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., who has long been identified with the most adament Southern foes of racial desegregation.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, here for the weekend with the President, said Kennedy would submit Marshall's name again on an interim bass. This step would be necessary for Marshall to serve on the federal bench until the Senate, with hardly time left this session, acts on the nomination next year.

Kennedy made public his selection of Marshall, veteran lawyer for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on the first full day of his 13th straight weekend on Cape Cod.

Western Lanes Robbed; Loss Is Near $1000

Burglars struck the Western Lanes Bowling Center sometime Friday night taking an undetermined amount of cash, according to West Monroe police.

Burglary of the establishment located on the White's Ferry Road in West Monroe was discovered by W. H. (Sonny) Durham, manager.

He found the Friday nights cash receipts missing from the office when he entered the building shortly after 8 a.m. Saturday.

Investigation revealed that a number of vending machines had also been broken into and the money taken from them. An accurate count of the loot was undetermined last night, but it was estimated to be around $1,000 according to Durham.

Officers said entrance was believed to have been gained through a back door which had been pried open. Leads are being worked on by West Monroe police.

Opening Grid Upsets Mild

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A couple of mild upsets, a couple of good scares for favored teams, and a show of impressive power by teams expected to be good, but not that good, marked the first major Saturday on the college football program.

Among the favored elevens which were patting themselves on the backs for emerging on top after having their troubles were Wisconsin, a Big Ten Power, which eked out a 7-0 victory over Utah on a sloppy field, and potent Penn State, which surged to a 20-10 triumph over Navy after being held even for three quarters.

ALABAMA WINS

In the mild upset category were Iowa State's 14-7 decision over Oklahoma State in a Big Eight encounter, and Wyoming's 15-14 victory over North Carolina State.

Alabama, known to be tough, more than lived up to expectations in whipping Georgia 32-6, thanks to a rock-ribbed defense and the fierce rushing of fullback Mike Fracchia. Missouri, a Big Eight stalwart, rolled over Washington State before a crowd of 37,000 at Columbia, with Ronnie Taylor, a rugged little quarterback, directing the Tiger offense with aplomb.

Two losing streaks were snapped during the Saturday play. Virginia, which had failed to win in its 28 previous starts, finally crashed through with a 21-6 victory over William and Mary, and

SESSION TO CONTINUE

Maneuver Stalls 'Sine Die' Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unexpected parliamentary wrench jammed the legislative machinery Saturday just as Congress appeared to be rolling to adjournment.

A Republican maneuver on an appropriations bill stalled the adjournment drive — aimed at Saturday night — but the real issue seemed to lie in a special tax bill affecting the huge Du Pont corporation.

The Senate had emerged from a vestpocket filibuster, passed one of three remaining appropriations bills and seemed headed for the finish line. Then Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana suddenly broke the news that means this session can not end before Monday—and may run well into next week.

Mansfield explained he had been advised by the Republican side that an objection would be made to taking up the $1-billion supplemental appropriations bill approved Friday by the Senate Appropriations Committee. Under Senate rules, money bills can not be passed until three days after committee approval unless there is unanimous consent to wavie the rules.

The Democratic leader earlier had thought he had assurances there would be no objection. When he learned unanimous consent would not be forthcoming he at once got an order for the Senate to meet again Monday.

It appeared the sudden slowdown traces to a pending bill to ease the tax impact of a court-ordered disposal of General Motors stock held by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co.

Mansfield had planned to lay aside this legislation in order to call up the supplemental appropriations bill. But a Republican groundswell developed against this procedure.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Republican leader from Illinois, made this clear when he said the

Congress Votes Bill Creating High Pay Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress Saturday sent to President Kennedy a bill creating 490 new supergrade posts in the government and 280 new high-pay scientific posts.

The Senate completed action on the compromise measure by a vote after the House had approved it by a 228-71 roll call.

The President asked for such legislation, saying that higher salaries were needed to attract and keep experts in such complex fields as space exploration.

The supergrades—classes 16, 17 and 18 in civil service—pay up to $18,500. Seventeen of the scientific posts have a top salary of $21,000, with the remainder carrying salaries of up to $19,000.

Supergrades—356 at the order of the Civil Service Commission, 50 at the order of the President, 35 to the Defense Department, 15 to the National Security Agency, 14 to the new Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, 6 to the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and 4 to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Scientific positions—135 to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, 80 to the Defense Department, 18 to the Federal Aviation Agency, 14 to the Arms Control and Disarmament agency, 10 to the National Security Agency, 5 each to the Agriculture and Commerce departments, 4 to the National Aeronautics and Space Council, and 3 each to the Interior, Health-Education-Welfare and Post Office departments.

No Weather Changes Today

Once again the outlook calls for partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures with afternoon showers expected.

The high in the Twin City area is predicted to range between 86 and 92 degrees.

Yesterday's weather showed cloudy skies and a few degrees cooler with the high, as registered by the Federal Aviation Agency at Selman Field, 89 degrees, and the low of 68 degrees.

Jet Fighters To Join U.N. Congo Units

McKeown States Warplanes Will Arrive Monday

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — The United Nations announced Saturday that jet fighters and bombers—comprising the world organization's first offensive air force since the Korean War—would arrive in the Congo Monday.

Ireland's Gen. Sean McKeown, U.N. Congo military commander, told a news conference that 14 warplanes are being sent by Sweden, India and Ethiopia.

JETS TO ARRIVE

He said Ethiopian F86 jets will arrive on Monday as will four Swedish Lansen jets. Indian Canberra bomber - interceptors will fly in later in the week, he added.

McKeown said the jets will be used primarily to escort U.N. transport planes—including American - manned cargo carriers placed at U.N. disposal by the United States—on trips in the Congo.

However, during the conference, McKeown referred to the attacks on U.N. forces by a single Katanga jet during the fighting in the secessionist province of the Congo.

U.N. spokesmen reported that calm generally prevailed throughout Katanga, with both sides honoring the cease-fire which went into effect three days ago. The only shooting reported was sporadic sniping by Katangese on the Baluba refugee camps outside of Elisabethville.

Local Anti-Red Program Used As State Guide

The Monroe Chamber of Commerce's Americanism program is being used as a guide by the Association of Louisiana Chambers of Commerce for other state Chambers.

An outline of the local program was furnished the state organization for distribution to members. In the outline the Monroe organization detailed what they have done, how they did it and what they used in the way of materials.

The movement here began after Chamber leaders attended the ALCC meeting in Baton Rouge May 8 and 9. The program was started with a "small cell - like group."

According to ALCC, a number of Chambers of Commerce around the states have started anti - Communist Americanism programs.

BASTROP—Diana Jane Smith, a girl with a big task, last night was named Miss North Louisiana Cotton Festival Queen and immediately broke into tears.

"I am not in a position to say much" said the 20 - year - old Miss Louisiana runner-up from Oak Ridge. "About all I can say is I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

18 BEAUTIES

Sparkling her way to the top, she once again heads for the Miss Louisiana pageant at Lake Providence in 1962 for another shot at the top state beauty crown.

Miss Smith, and the first runner-up, Betty Gibbs, 19, of Monroe, succeed Miss Louisiana Lyndra Pate, of Shreveport and Miss U.S.A. Sharon Rene Brown, of Minden, in the first and second spots respectively.

Beverly Sumrall, 17, of Lake Providence, was second runner up. Johnette Bond, 18, of Minden, was fourth runnerup.

Miss Pate, in giving up her Cotton Festival crown, said, "I honestly believe it is the crown I cherish most."

Jerri Roberts of Joyce, "Miss Louisiana Forest Festival," was taken to a hospital after falling and spraining her ankle. She had been ill during the pageant.

Arrest Made In Monroe; Liquor Taken

A 50-gallon "white lightning" liquor still was smashed Friday night when federal and local law agencies staged a moon-light moonshine raid, and arrested two persons.

Federal agents, in cooperation with the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department and Monroe city police, seized approximately seven gallons of the corn liquor and destroyed the still located on Highway 15 off the Arkansas Road.

ARRAIGNED

Arraigned before the U.S. Commissioner yesterday on charges connected with the still and raid were 54-year-old Ray James Tullus and his wife, Mrs. Lucille Tullus, both of Highway 15, West Monroe.

James F. Lee, federal alcohol and tax investigator, said yesterday that Tullus was arraigned on complaints of possession of untaxed whiskey, transporting untaxed whiskey and operation of a moonshine still. He was released under a $1500 bond.

Mrs. Tullus was arraigned for possession of untaxed whiskey and operation of a still. She was released without bond.

According to city police, Tullus was arrested in the act of delivering some of the untaxed alcohol and led the lawmen to his still

Titan Gets First 'War' Launch Test

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A Titan missile fired from here Saturday dropped its mock warhead "in the general area downrange" 4,500 miles away near Wake Island, the Air Force said Saturday night.

The Titan—a 97-foot, 110-ton monster—is this country's mightiest missile. It was fired from here at 12:36 p.m.

It was the first firing of a combat-type Titan from what is called an armored combat launch site—where the missile rises from an underground silo and then is fired toward its target.

Details of the exact distance covered wasn't given. Said the Air Force: "Preliminary telemetery reports indicate the re-entry vehicle impacted in the general target area downrange."

The Air Force spokesman added: "We're exremely happy with the entire test, this being the first Titan launched from an operational-type facility."

The firing Saturday followed the operations system for Titan shots: The two-stage rocket lifted from the ground. Soon afterward the first-stage booster fell away. The second stage carried the nose cone to an area above the target zone. Then the nose cone—which would carry a nuclear weapon in a combat situation—plunged toward the target.

Troops already are in training here to man Titan bases being completed in Idaho, Colorado, South Dakota, Washington, Arizona, Kansas, Arkansas and California. Altogether, they will have 108 Titans in silos.

Survivor Of Crash Fatal To Dag Dies

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — The sole survivor of the plane crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold died Saturday, ending investigators' hopes that he could supply a first-hand account of the tragedy.

Harold (Harry) M. Julien, an American U.N. security guard, died in an Ndola hospital. He had suffered multiple injuries and severe burns in Monday's crash. His death raised the toll to 16.

A short time after Julien died, the Rhodesian Federation's director of civil aviation, Lt. Col. Maurice Barber, issued a statement clearly intended to counter speculation that the plane had been shot down.

He confirmed that bullets had been found in the body of one of the guards aboard the plane but that they had been exploded by the fire that followed the crash, not by weapons.

Julien was found lying among the wreckage of the secretary-general's burned-out DC6 after it crashed in the Northern Rhodesian bushland. He had lain there nearly 15 hours.

Investigators had hoped he would recover enough to provide information about the cause of the crash. He had been quoted earlier as mumbling about hearing explosions on the plane before it went down.

A tape recorder was kept at his bedside to catch anything more he might say to help solve the mystery. But doctors explained that whenever he stirred, he was put under heavy sedation again to ease his pain.

At the hospital when he died was his Cuban-born wife, Maria, 30. She had arrived Friday after a flight from the United States.

The hospital said Julien showed

A couple of mild upsets, a couple of good scares for favored teams, and a show of impressive power by teams expected to be good, but not that good, marked the first major Saturday on the college football program.

Among the favored elevens which were patting themselves on the backs for emerging on top after having their troubles were Wisconsin, a Big Ten Power, which eked out a 7-0 victory over Utah on a sloppy field, and potent Penn State, which surged to a 20-10 triumph over Navy after being held even for three quarters.

ALABAMA WINS

In the mild upset category were Iowa State's 14-7 decision over Oklahoma State in a Big Eight encounter, and Wyoming's 15-14 victory over North Carolina State.

Alabama, known to be tough, more than lived up to expectations in whipping Georgia 32-6, thanks to a rock-ribbed defense and the fierce rushing of fullback Mike Fracchia. Missouri, a Big Eight stalwart, rolled over Washington State before a crowd of 37,000 at Columbia, with Ronnie Taylor, a rugged little quarterback, directing the Tiger offense with aplomb.

Two losing streaks were snapped during the Saturday play. Virginia, which had failed to win in its 28 previous starts, finally crashed through with a 21-6 victory over William and Mary, and

SESSION TO CONTINUE

Maneuver Stalls 'Sine Die' Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unexpected parliamentary wrench jammed the legislative machinery Saturday just as Congress appeared to be rolling to adjournment.

A Republican maneuver on an appropriations bill stalled the adjournment drive — aimed at Saturday night — but the real issue seemed to lie in a special tax bill affecting the huge Du Pont corporation.

The Senate had emerged from a vestpocket filibuster, passed one of three remaining appropriations bills and seemed headed for the finish line. Then Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana suddenly broke the news that means this session can not end before Monday—and may run well into next week.

Mansfield explained he had been advised by the Republican side that an objection would be made to taking up the $1-billion supplemental appropriations bill approved Friday by the Senate Appropriations Committee. Under Senate rules, money bills can not be passed until three days after committee approval unless there is unanimous consent to wavie the rules.

The Democratic leader earlier had thought he had assurances there would be no objection. When he learned unanimous consent would not be forthcoming he at once got an order for the Senate to meet again Monday.

It appeared the sudden slowdown traces to a pending bill to ease the tax impact of a court-ordered disposal of General Motors stock held by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co.

Mansfield had planned to lay aside this legislation in order to call up the supplemental appropriations bill. But a Republican groundswell developed against this procedure.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Republican leader from Illinois, made this clear when he said the

Congress Votes Bill Creating High Pay Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress Saturday sent to President Kennedy a bill creating 490 new supergrade posts in the government and 280 new high-pay scientific posts.

The Senate completed action on the compromise measure by a vote after the House had approved it by a 228-71 roll call.

The President asked for such legislation, saying that higher salaries were needed to attract and keep experts in such complex fields as space exploration.

The supergrades—classes 16, 17 and 18 in civil service—pay up to $18,500. Seventeen of the scientific posts have a top salary of $21,000, with the remainder carrying salaries of up to $19,000.

Supergrades—356 at the order of the Civil Service Commission, 50 at the order of the President, 35 to the Defense Department, 15 to the National Security Agency, 14 to the new Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, 6 to the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and 4 to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Scientific positions—135 to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, 80 to the Defense Department, 18 to the Federal Aviation Agency, 14 to the Arms Control and Disarmament agency, 10 to the National Security Agency, 5 each to the Agriculture and Commerce departments, 4 to the National Aeronautics and Space Council, and 3 each to the Interior, Health-Education-Welfare and Post Office departments.

Jet Fighters To Join U.N. Congo Units

McKeown States Warplanes Will Arrive Monday

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — The United Nations announced Saturday that jet fighters and bombers —comprising the world organization's first offensive air force since the Korean War—would arrive in the Congo Monday.

Ireland's Gen. Sean McKeown, U.N. Congo military commander, told a news conference that 14 warplanes are being sent by Sweden, India and Ethiopia.

JETS TO ARRIVE

He said Ethiopian P86 jets will arrive on Monday as will four Swedish Lansen jets. Indian Canberra bomber - interceptors will fly in later in the week, he added.

McKeown said the jets will be used primarily to escort U.N. transport planes—including American - manned cargo carriers placed at U.N. disposal by the United States—on trips in the Congo.

However, during the conference, McKeown referred to the attacks on U.N. forces by a single Katanga jet during the fighting in the secessionist province of the Congo.

U.N. spokesmen reported that calm generally prevailed throughout Katanga, with both sides honoring the cease-fire which went into effect three days ago. The only shooting reported was sporadic sniping by Katangese on the Baluba refugee camps outside of Elisabethville.

Local Anti-Red Program Used As State Guide

The Monroe Chamber of Commerce's Americanism program is being used as a guide by the Association of Louisiana Chambers of Commerce for other state Chambers.

An outline of the local program was furnished the state organization for distribution to members. In the outline the Monroe organization detailed what they have done, how they did it and what they used in the way of materials.

The movement here began after Chamber leaders attended the ALCC meeting in Baton Rouge May 8 and 9. The program was started with a "small cell - like group."

According to ALCC, a number of Chambers of Commerce around the states have started anti - Communist Americanism programs.

Survivor Of Crash Fatal To Dag Dies

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — The sole survivor of the plane crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold died Saturday, ending investigators' hopes that he could supply a first-hand account of the tragedy.

Harold (Harry) M. Julien, an American U.N. security guard, died in an Ndola hospital. He had suffered multiple injuries and severe burns in Monday's crash. His death raised the toll to 16.

A short time after Julien died, the Rhodesian Federation's director of civil aviation, Lt. Col. Maurice Barber, issued a statement clearly intended to counter speculation that the plane had been shot down.

He confirmed that bullets had been found in the body of one of the guards aboard the plane but that they had been exploded by the fire that followed the crash, not by weapons.

Julien was found lying among the wreckage of the secretary-general's burned-out DC6 after it crashed in the Northern Rhodesian bushland. He had lain there nearly 15 hours.

Investigators had hoped he would recover enough to provide information about the cause of the crash. He had been quoted earlier as mumbling about hearing explosions on the plane before it went down.

A tape recorder was kept at his bedside to catch anything more he might say to help solve the mystery. But doctors explained that whenever he stirred, he was put under heavy sedation again to ease his pain.

At the hospital when he died was his Cuban-born wife, Maria, 30. She had arrived Friday after a flight from the United States.

The hospital said Julien showed

BASTROP—Diana Jane Smith, a girl with a big task, last night was named Miss North Louisiana Cotton Festival Queen and immediately broke into tears.

"I am not in a position to say much" said the 20 - year - old Miss Louisiana runner-up from Oak Ridge. "About all I can say is I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

18 BEAUTIES

Sparkling her way to the top, she once again heads for the Miss Louisiana pageant at Lake Providence in 1962 for another shot at the top state beauty crown.

Miss Smith, and the first runner-up, Betty Gibbs, 19, of Monroe, succeed Miss Louisiana Lyndra Pate, of Shreveport and Miss U.S.A. Sharon Rene Brown, of Minden, in the first and second spots respectively.

Beverly Sumrall, 17, of Lake Providence, was second runner up, Johnette Bond, 18, of Minden, was fourth runnerup.

Miss Pate, in giving up her Cotton Festival crown, said, "I honestly believe it is the crown I cherish most."

Jerri Roberts of Joyce, "Miss Louisiana Forest Festival," was taken to a hospital after falling and spraining her ankle. She had been ill during the pageant.

Arrest Made In Monroe; Liquor Taken

By SARAH LITTLE World Staff Writer

A 50-gallon "white lightning" liquor still was smashed Friday night when federal and local law agencies staged a moon-light moonshine raid, and arrested two persons.

Federal agents, in cooperation with the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department and Monroe city police, seized approximately seven gallons of the corn liquor and destroyed the still located on Highway 15 off the Arkansas Road.

ARRAIGNED

Arraigned before the U.S. Commissioner yesterday on charges connected with the still and raid were 54-year-old Ray James Tullus and his wife, Mrs. Lucille Tullus, both of Highway 15, West Monroe.

James F. Lee, federal alcohol and tax investigator, said yesterday that Tullus was arraigned on complaints of possession of untaxed whiskey, transporting untaxed whiskey and operation of a moonshine still. He was released under a $1500 bond.

Mrs. Tullus was arraigned for possession of untaxed whiskey and operation of a still. She was released without bond.

According to city police, Tullus was arrested in the act of delivering some of the untaxed alcohol and led the lawmen to his still

Titan Gets First 'War' Launch Test

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A Titan missile fired from here Saturday dropped its mock warhead "in the general area downrange" 4,500 miles away near Wake Island, the Air Force said Saturday night.

It was the first firing of a combat-type Titan from what is called an armored combat launch site—where the missile rises from an underground silo and then is fired toward its target.

Details of the exact distance covered wasn't given. Said the Air Force: "Preliminary telemetery reports indicate the re-entry vehicle impacted in the general target area downrange."

The Air Force spokesman added: "We're exremely happy with the entire test, this being the first Titan launched from an operational-type facility."

The firing Saturday followed the operations system for Titan shots: The two-stage rocket lifted from the ground. Soon afterward the first-stage booster fell away. The second stage carried the nose cone to an area above the target zone. Then the nose cone—which would carry a nuclear weapon in a combat situation—plunged toward the target.

Troops already are in training here to man Titan bases being completed in Idaho, Colorado, South Dakota, Washington, Arizona, Kansas, Arkansas and California. Altogether, they will have 108 Titans in silos.

Stanford, with a modest 11-game losing string, upended Tulane in a squeaker 9-7.

In other major games of more than sectional interest Texas, rated by some as the Southwest's best, rolled over California 28-3; Rice defeated Louisiana State 16-3; Army showed great potential in defeating Richmond 24-6; Kansas State upset favored Indiana 14-8; Florida downed Clemson 21-17, and Mississippi had too much speed and defense for Arkansas in the day's nationally televised game, Ole Miss winning 16-0.

Penn State, rated by some as candidate for national honors, could thank senior Don Jonas and sophmore Don Caum for pulling the game with the Middies out of the fire. Navy's scrappy defense held the Nittany Lions well in check for three periods, except for Jonas. Caum came along in the final period to spark the insurance Penn State drive.

Johnny Griffith, new Georgia coach, missed the one-sided defeat of his team by Alabama. He was hospitalized by an appendectomy. It was Georgia's first defeat in Sanford Stadium at Athens in 13 games. A sweltering crowd of 44,000 saw Fracchina shoulder the brunt of the potent 'Bama attack.

California, was stubborn,. but not stubborn enough for the Longhorns of Texas, who were stopped from running up a larger score by their own fumbling and an alert California pass defense. One fumble recovery and one interception were in the California end zone.

Missouri, with top runners of the Big Eight championship team of 1960 gone, presented a diversified attack capable directed by Taylor in downing Washington State. The Cougars, faced with their first shutout in 12 games, finally scored on a short Mel Melin-Pete Schenck pass for a touchdown in the last minute.

Senior substitutes Chuck Butler and Larry Royse teamed for a 47-yard scoring pass to give Stanford its victory and end the losing streak. Tulane gained only 31 yards net in the first half.

Wisconsin's highly-touted passing combination of Ron Miller and Pat Richter clicked on a five-yard scoring maneuver in the second quarter, and the touchdown held up for the victory. Jim Bakken, the Wisconsin place kicking specialist, missed on five field goal attempts. Utah, which defeated Colorado State University last weekend 40-0, was stymied by the Badgers' rugged defense.

Tailback Dave Hoppman exploded for two touchdowns, one on a 40-yard run, and Iowa State stalled a 98-yard Oklahoma State drive to give the Cyclones their conference victory.

A sophomore quarterback, Dennis Claridge, directed Nebraska to three of its touchdowns in the Cornhuskers' 33-0 victory over North Dakota. Sophomore quarterback Larry Corrigan made two of his four passes good for touchdowns as Kansas State upset Indiana.

Virginia's victory was its first since it upset Duke 15-12, Sept. 27, 1958, and provided an auspicious debut for new coach Bill Elias. A spectacular 88-yard run with a pass interception by William and Mary end Dennis O'Toole cost Virginia its first shut out victory since 1956.

Syracuse lived up to advance notices in downing Oregon State 19-8, with Ernie Davis, fleet 210-pound halfback, scoring two touchdowns and picking up yards where others failed. He carried the ball on five successive plays to score early in the final period. Syracuse completed 10 out of 10 passes.

Two field goals and a 30-yard touchdown run in the first 20 minutes gave Purdue a lead it made stand up for a 13-6 victory over the Washington Huskies. It was Washington's first defeat since losing to Navy 15-14 early last season.

Priest Believed To Have Died Of Heart Seizure

JUAREZ, Mexico (UPI) — The body of a Roman Catholic priest was found in a Juarez theater Friday night and El Paso police said it was believed he died from a heart seizure, discounting earlier reports he may have been thrown from the balcony.

El Paso detective Lt. Al Hijar said an atuopsy was being performed in El Paso on the body of Father Leo Labrador and "it appears at this time that he could have had some sort of seizure in the theater."

Hijar said reports to the effect that the priest "jumped or was pushed off the balcony onto the lower floor have not been corroborated by any fact or evidence so far. It appears like that never happened."

Hijar said the Father Labrador was taken to a hospital at 9:25 Friday night, and he was declared dead at 11:30 p.m.

"At that time he had no visible bruises or external blows or bleeding of any sort," Hijar said. "There were no broken bones or anything of that nature."

An autopsy was performed in Juarez. Hijar said the autopsy was reported to have shown death was "related to a brain hemorrhage," but that he had not seen a copy of the autopsy in writing.

Hijar said the priest was from St. Xavier's parish in El Paso.

Clay Denies U.S. Berlin Policy Shift

Informants said the U.S. government evidently believed West Germany would have to be prepared for any such fundamental change in the Western position.

Western policy since the war has been based on the principle that the East German regime is illegal and that there can be no official dealings with it.

Clay in his public statement recalled that the reunification of Germany remains the ultimate goal of U.S. policy on Germany. He did not say how or when this could be achieved.

The general also reaffirmed U.S. determinations to keep open the air corridors to this Communist-encircled city.

"We are in Berlin by right of victory," he said, "and we propose to maintain rights of access on the ground for Allied personnel and to keep the use of the air corridors completely free."

Clay Saturday ordered resumption of U.S. Army patrols on the 110-mile autobahn between West Germany and Berlin after a lapse of nine years.

An Army spokesman said the action was taken "to assist American military travelers" along the highway across Communist territory.

Informed sources said the order stemmed from an autobahn incident last Thursday in which two U.S. soldiers were detained by Communist police for six hours.

West German President Heinrich Luebke and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin conferred here following the disclosure that West German officials are being advised to face up to the existence of Communist East Germany, whether they like it or not.

He was allegedly selling the illegal liquor for $8 a gallon and could brew 50 gallons at a time. Five gallons of the brew were seized at the still and two taken at the point of his arrest in Monroe.

Monroe police, and sheriff's department deputies have already made a series of arrests connected with the outlaw whiskey.

At the still officers found four 55-gallon barrels of mash and one 55-gallon barrel on the fire cooking with Tullus' wife allegedly watching over the boiling brew.

CHICKEN HOUSE

The still was cleverly hidden in the confines of a small chicken house located at the rear of the residence. The building was described as approximately 20 by 12 feet in diameter and the inside was lined with tar paper. A gas burner was used in cooking the liquor.

The brew was made from a concoction of corn, sugar and yeast. The building was located about 25 yards from Tullus' back door.

Lee said they had been working on the case for approximately a month. In accordance with law, the still was smashed and axed to bits and the contents either seized or destroyed.

A test will be run on the seized liquor to determine its alcoholic content.

McKeown told the news conference that the United Nations always had the situation under control and could have won the battle for Katanga had it wanted.

Asked whether he thought the U.N. had accomplished what it set out to do in Katanga, McKeown replied: "This remains to be seen, but my belief is yes."

The U.N. operation was launched to take over the province for the central Congolese government in Leopoldville. U.N. officials said the operation was aimed at preventing civil war. But Katanga President Moise Tshombe, vowing to fight to the death, ordered his forces into battle.

McKeown said much will depend on future negotiations with Katanga during the cease-fire. U.N. officials reached the cease-fire with Tshombe after U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was killed in a plane crash on the way to cease-fire talks in Ndloa.

The Irish general said U.N. forces could have won but only with heavy loss of life.

JFK Names Negro U.S. Court Judge

Sound as Kennedy embarked in the afternoon on a short cruise aboard his 52-foot motor yacht, the Marlin.

On return, Kennedy concentrated once more on the speech he will deliver Monday morning to the United Nations General Assembly.

It was understood the death of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in a plane crash in Northern Rhodesia last Sunday has prompted Kennedy to place new emphasis on the U.N. structure in drafting his address.

Kennedy may also be more specific about U.S. proposals for maintaining a strong U.N. leadership than he had planned before Hammarskjold was killed. The United States hopes to gain support for an effective U.N. executive from nations avowedly noncommitted in the East-West struggle.

The death of Hammarskjold has given the Soviet Union an opportunity to force its campaign against the U.S. stand for an independent U.N. secretariat.

The East-West crisis over Berlin and possible avenues toward controlled disarmament also will figure in Kennedy's speech, now scheduled for Monday at 10:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Kennedy plans to fly from Hyannis to New York late Sunday afternoon and travel immediately by motorcade from La Guardia Airport to an uptown hotel—the Carlyle.

He will stay there overnight to write the final phrasing into his speech text. He may confer with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

Kennedy will see others before leaving New York around noon on Tuesday for Newport, R.I., where he will spend the remainder of the week.

He expects to talk with Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian leader, on Monday, and President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina on Tuesday morning.

The President received his regular intelligence briefing Saturday morning from Capt. Tazewell Shepard, his naval aide. For his off hours, he had the company of Mrs. Kennedy and their two children, who have been on Cape Cod most of the summer.

session now probably will last "deep into next week" and promptly added that adjournment will not come until after passage of the Du Pont tax bill.

Many Republicans, led by Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, share Dirksen's determination to pass the Du Pont bill. On the Democratic side, Sens. Albert Gore of Tennessee and Paul Douglas of Illinois are expected to spearhead stiff—and perhaps protracted—opposition.

Dirksen told reports that Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., was the one who served notice he would object to speeded-up action on the appropriations bill. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, assistant GOP leader from California, said that if Prouty hadn't objected several other Republicans were ready to do so.

The Senate remained in session for another hour and 45 minutes considering minor matters and then it, too, adjourned until Monday.

Several speeches for and against the Du Pont bill were made but no action of any kind was taken on the measure.

Sens. Gore and Douglas said they would postpone plans to leave for Europe Sunday and remain over to continue their fight against the bill.

The House was in recess but on call when Mansfield dashed the hopes of most members for adjournment Saturday night. It reconvened briefly, then adjourned until Monday.

Before recessing, the House gave 251-50 approval to a new arms control and disarmament agency urgently asked by President Kennedy and 228-71 passage to a measure to boost the number of government employes who may draw top-bracket pay.

The Senate later completed action on both bills by voice vote, sending them to the White House.

Dirksen estimated it would take a couple of days to complete action on the Du Pont bill—and said he is cancelling his speaking dates through next Wednesday.

Besides the Du Pont matter, there must be action on the $1-billion, catch-all appropriations bill, a public works money bill and the measure to provide around $4 billion for foreign aid before adjournment can come.

No particular difficulty is expected on the supplemental appropriations but Senate-House conferees have been deadlocked for days on foreign aid funds. The House spokesman, Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., has been holding out for much deeper cuts than Senate conferees have been willing to accept.

Doctors said that just before he died he regained consciousness and was able to talk with his wife.

"He was conscious shortly before his death," said a medical statement issued through the Northern Rhodesian government. "He recognized his wife and was able to talk with her on family matters."

The government information office declined to say whether Julien was able to give any clue about the crash.

His wife, a mother of two, left Ndola for Southern Rhodesia on her way back to the United States. Her husband's body probably will be flown home next week.

Julien, 36, was a former Marine from Queens, N.Y., who went through World War II and the Korean War without a scratch. He had been stationed in the Congo for more than a year and was due home later this month for a vacation.

Relatives said he had a reputation for being "always lucky."

Federation Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky, who has opposed the U.N. operation in Katanga, sent Mrs. Julien a message of condolence. She replied she was sure everything had been done to save her husband's life and ease his last hours.

Identification of other crash victim was reported snagged by lack of communications between Ndola and U.N. headquarters at Leopoldville.

Col. Bjorn Egge, U.N. intelligence chief, went to Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, for permission to set up a radio to get information from Leopoldville and elsewhere that the doctors require.

Chilling Rain, Snow Fall In Central States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold winds, chilling rain, snow and freezing temperatures hit the central part of the nation Friday while the East sweltered in temperatures of 90-plus.

Up to two feet of snow accumulated in some sections of the Rocky Mountain states, and temperatures plunged below freezing in sections of Minnesota, Nevada and the Dakotas Saturday, the first day of autumn.

Clear skies and temperatures in the 90s baked sections of the Northeast.

At Bellaire, Ohio, the extreme heat halted a high school football game when 15 players became exhausted. Two majorettes and about a dozen fans also collapsed. More than a dozen persons were treated at a hospital and four admitted, one in critical condition.

The mercury also hit 90 degrees in New York City, It was the 29th day of 90-or-above temperatures for the metropolis this year.

A broad band of showers and thunderstorms, some locally heavy, occcurred along the line of the Midwest cold front stretching from the Great Lakes southwestward to Oklahoma.

Chipmunks Moving Into Living Rooms

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Those dratted chipmunks that have been driving the country crazy on records and radio soon will be invading our living rooms.

Alvin, the singing troublemaker, and his two brothers will star in "The Alvin Show" beginning Oct. 4.

But the real "heavy" is a man with the unlikely name of Ross Bagdasarian. He created the noisy triumvirate in 1958 with a Christmas novelty record titled "The Chipmunk Song."

Immediately thereafter 4 million Americans lost their minds and bought the record. Since then he has sold 10 million other recordings of this loathesome trio.

In case you haven't worked up an intense dislike for Bagdasarian by now, here's the clincher.

He also composed and recorded a maddening little number titled "Witch Doctor" and had other millions of Americans undergoing psychiatric analysis.

Bagdasarian is sneaky.

On the surface he is a good-looking man, highly intelligent and charming. All this is a front for his private war against sanity.

Currently he is working day and night on the new TV show for which he writes scripts, composes music and provides the voices of the animated chipmunks in the cartoons.

"I play a character (what else!) in the show too," he said, dregging into a cottage cheese salad during a noon break. "I'm the voice of David Seville, a composer who shares his home with the three chipmunks.

"That's how it was on our records. But Alvin is the star of the show. He never lets anyone forget that.

"They are not the sweet, precocious little animals you see in most cartoons. They don't even look like animals. They don't have tails, and we dress them up in regular clothes."

Bagdasarian had to be cautious in choosing the correct cartoon figures for the new CBS show. He said the public already had a visual image of his wretched little singing group.

Church Talks For Merger Are Approved

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Episcopalians gave a go-ahead Saturday to a quest for the most sweeping reunion of churches in American history.

Lay and clerical delegates to the Episcopal governing convention joined bishops in approving talks seeking merger with at least four other denominations of various backgrounds and characteristics.

"Reunion will take a long time," said Howard T. Foulkes, of Milwaukee. "Yet under the guidance of the Holy Spirit it will ultimately come because it is the will of Our Lord and Master."

The measure winning Episcopal approval calls for joining United Presbyterians in asking Methodist, the United Church of Christ, the Polish Old Catholic Church and possibly others to take part in merger talks.

In passing the resolution by an overwhelming 139-18 majority, the House of Deputies added a slight amendment to a measure previously passed unanimously by the House of Bishops. Technically, the bishops will have to act again.

However, the bishop of South Florida, the Rt. Rev. Henry I. Louttit, of Winter Park, said there remains no question that both houses are "in favor of entering these conversations."

The amendment specified that the talks be on the basis of the Chicago and Lambeth "quadrilaterals." Bishops had specified only the Lambeth quadrilateral. Both, in general, set these essentials for a united church:

1. The Bible as the "revealed word of God" and rule of faith.

2. Acceptance of the ancient Apostles and Nicene creeds as confessions of belief.

3. Use of the two sacraments of baptism and the Lord's Supper, ministered with "unfailing use" of Christ's words in instituting them.

4. A ministry acknowledged by every part of the church as possessing not only the "inward call of the spirit, but also the commission of Christ," as carried on through the historic Episcopal succession.

This is the chain tracing ordination back to the apostles through the "laying on of hands," maintained by Episcopalians but not by other Protestants.

The envisioned merger would include about 20 million Christians.

New Agency On Education Is Proposed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Southern governors will be asked at their annual meeting here next week to take steps to improve adult education in their home states.

Dr. Winfred L. Godwin, director of the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB), said Saturday he would propose to the governors that they establish a regional commission on adult education. This agency would offer advice to states on how best to improve their programs, he said.

"We are approaching the time when we may have to establish general extension services for urban areas," Godwin added, similar to those provided rural areas through the agricultural extension service.

Godwin will make his report Monday to the SREB, which is meeting in conjunction with its parent organization, the Southern Governors' Conference.

The 25th annual Southern Governors' Conference opens with a reception given by Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington Sunday night. During the three days that follow, the 15 member governors will talk shop at informal gatherings, exchange ideas on common problems at official sessions and discuss politics the rest of the time.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will address the governors and their wives at the "state dinner" Monday night.

There probably will be a good deal of backstage maneuvering over selection of a conference chairman to succeed Gov. Price Daniel of Texas. Reportedly either Ellington, as host, or Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver, the conference vice chairman, will get the job.

Ellington, retiring SREB chairman, said he will ask the board to recommend that a special conference be held later this year for the purpose of making public the report of the Commission on Goals for Higher Education in the South.

The commission was created by SREB last year to study and recommend long-range goals for educational development in the South. Its chairman, former Virginia Gov. Colgate W. Darden Jr., will address the SREB meeting Monday.

Fifteen southern governors, all Democrats, are expected to attend the conference. They represent Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

Congress Okays Legislation On Arms Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress Saturday sent to President Kennedy the legislation he requested setting up a new agency to work on disarmament and arms control.

The Senate approved the compromise version of the bill by voice vote soon after the House okayed it on a 251-50 roll-call vote.

As drafted by House-Senate conferees, the bill establishes the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency headed by a director who will work under the direction of the President and secretary of state and have direct access to the White House, when necessary.

The agency will be administered by the State Department, but will operate independently of the regular machinery of the department.

The bill retains the House limitation on the authority of the agency and the administration to make disarmament agreements without the knowledge and consent of Congress.

Two-Car Crash Fatal For Youth

OLIVE BRANCH, Miss. (AP) A two-car, head-on collision near here Friday night killed Marvin Salmon, 16, of Olive Branch, and injured five other teen-agers.

Tony Ross, 15, driver of one of the autos, was in critical condition at a Memphis hospital.

Also injured were a passenger in Ross' car, Fay Ann Bickerstaff, 14, and three passengers in Salmon's car, Cecil Gadd, 15, Ray McNatt, 15, and Terry Strickland, 16.

Kennedy Names Deputy Director Of Peace Corps

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) —President Kennedy Saturday announced his appointment of Paul Geren, 47, as deputy director of the Peace Corps which is headed by Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver.

Geren, a career Foreign Service officer, now is deputy director of the Office of International Financial and Development Affairs in the Department of State.

Geren's salary is to be set by the President with a limitation at $19,500 a year. Shriver is serving without salary.

Geren, a native of El Dorado [illegible] studied at Baylor, Louisiana State, and Harvard universities. He was in Burma at the time of Pearl Harbor, and served with the Chinese army there and later joined the Burma surgeon, Dr. Gordon Seagrave. He escaped from Burma in Gen. IN GM STRIKE

Holdout Unions Get Extra Time

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Executive Board met for an hour and a half Saturday night and then recessed subject to recall on one hour's notice by UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

Without making a decision on what to do about 10 local unions blocking a final settlement of the two-week-old General Motors strike, the board in effect gave the holdout local unions until Sunday to reach settlement on new local working agreements.

The board, however, could order them back to work Monday morning even without settlement.

Reuther gave the board a detailed report on the status of negotiations involving the local unions which have not completed agreements.

Local settlements have been reached at 119 of GM's 129 plants, but the group lacking agreements represents key assembly and stamping plants and could cripple GM's car production indefinitely.

Presidents and shop chairmen of more than a score of locals were summoned here Friday to attempt to settle their problems under the guidance of UAW executives and GM labor relations experts.

Some progress had been made by late Saturday and the number of locals without settlements was whittled down. They represent fewer than 50,000 of GM's 350,000 production workers.

Both Reuther and GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton appeared hopeful of effecting agreements on working conditions at all plants so GM can get back into full production next week.

Reuther assigned UAW Vice President Pat Greathouse to the bargaining session of Pittsburgh Local 544, which represents nearly 2,000 UAW members at a strategic Fisher body stamping plant. A strike at this plant alone could tie up a big part of GM's car production because it makes metal stampings for all car divisions.

John McCarrell, defied Reuther by refusing to let the union expedite a settlement in negotiations at Pittsburgh.

McCarrell, however, yielded to an order to show up in Detroit and try to work out a settlement with the help of the UAW leadership.

While the continuing strikes at the GM locals occupied the main attention of the union leadership, the leaders of the Ford-UAW department were pressing for authorization to call a strike of 120,000 Ford workers if contract talks do not make progress next week.

Ken Bannon, national director of the UAW Ford section, said: "We intend to better the economic package won at GM. We will try to do better at Ford. In other words, we want to put the frosting of the cake this year at Ford."

Bannon said if the board grants him strike sanction, he will give Ford "a reasonable time to demonstrate its good faith in bargaining on a new contract."

Talks with Ford and Chrysler Corp. had been sidetracked while the union concentrated on GM as its No. 1 target this year, but it was expected the talks at both would be stepped up next week.

Dag's Death Paralyzing Blow To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The United Nations was emerging Saturday from a week of grief and confusion with strong hope that procedure soon would be agreed upon to select Dag Hammarskjold's successor.

One week ago Sunday night, Hammarskjold once known among aides hard-pressed to keep up with him as "the man who never sleeps" in pursuit of his U. N. Duties, went to his death in a plane crash in Rhodesia.

Nothing in the 16-year history of the world organization came as close to paralyzing it.

Hammarskjold, vilified and boycotted by Russia but supported by the West and considered a refuge by many of the smaller powers, had achieved in his eight years and five months as Secretary General the status of the centerpost that supported he United Naions and around which all of its activities revolved.

The shock left delegates in confusion approaching chaos.

There were proposals to postpone the opening of the General Assembly, scheduled for last Tuesday.

There was stark recognition that East-West agreement on a successor, who must be recommended by the security council, was next to impossible in that geto-ridden body.

There was clear understanding quickly underlined by Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko, that Russia would insist on immediate institution of its Troika principle of three secretaries general to run the organization—one each from Communist, Neurtralist and Western countries and each with a veto.

The assembly opened with a three - minute session and adjourned out of respect to Hammarskjold's memory. The next day it buckled down to work.

In three days, it had organized with Tunisia's Mongi Slim as president and had approved for discussion a 91-item agenda which provided for debate for the first time since 1950 the question of seating Communist China.

It began the drawn-out ritual of its annual general, or policy, debate and looked forward to President Kennedy's first appearance here on Monday to deliver what the West hoped would be a keynote speech to build the morale of the assembly.

Barring an unforeseen success by Russia in blocking it, hope ran high that an informal committee under leadership of Irish Ambassador Frederick H. Boland, had found a solution to insure continuity of leadership in the organization.

The group hoped to present early next week a resolution inviting the security Council to nominate a new Secretary General for election by the assembly in accordance with charter provisions.

Kennedy Names Deputy Director Of Peace Corps

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) —President Kennedy Saturday announced his appointment of Paul Geren, 47, as deputy director of the Peace Corps which is headed by Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver.

Geren, a career Foreign Service officer, now is deputy director of the Office of International Financial and Development Affairs in the Department of State.

Geren's salary is to be set by the President with a limitation at $19,500 a year. Shriver is serving without salary.

Geren, a native of El Dorado Ark., studied at Baylor, Louisiana State, and Harvard universities.

He was in Burma at the time of Pearl Harbor, and served with the Chinese army there and later joined the Burma surgeon, Dr. Gordon Seagrave. He escaped from Burma in Gen. Joe Stilwell's march, and later served in the U.S. Army.

U.N. To Get Reports Of JFK, Soviet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly soon will get a quick fill in from both sides in the wide-ranging policy dispute between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will speak to the assembly Tuesday morning, 24 hours after President Kennedy. The Soviet Union was put down for that time on an official list of speakers in the assembly's opening policy debate that was published Saturday. Gromyko will appear as head of the Soviet delegation.

With Kennedy's address Monday and Gromyko's Tuesday, the 99 U.N. members within two days will get statements of the latest positions of the two big powers on Berlin, disarmament, nuclear tests and current efforts to fill the gap left by the death of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. This repeats the pattern of last year, when President Eisenhower spoke on a Thursday and Soviet Premier Khrushchev on a Friday.

On the strength of what has been said already, Gromyko can be expected to:

1. Call for peace treaties with both East and West Germany, the admission of both to the United Nations and a new "free-city" setup for West Berlin involving the end of three-power Western occupation.

2. Urge the resumption of the long-suspended disarmament negotations and the recently recessed nuclear test-ban talks in a single negotiating body.

3. Demand that the United Nations install a secretariat leadership of three men—Communist, Western and neutral—with a veto apiece to replace Hammarskjold, killed in an African air crash last weekend.

4. Rehash the general disarmament plan that Khrushchev gave the assembly two years ago and freshen up the campaign for the abolition of colonialism that the premier started last year.

5. Insist that Chinese Communists be seated in place of Chinese Nationalists on all U.N. bodies.

The Soviet Union has got the assembly's Steering Committee to recommend that debates be held on a followup of last year's anti-colonial declaration and on a so-called "restoration of the lawful rights" of Communist China in the United Nations.

Soviet Suggests Big Four Meet On U.N. Leader

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union was reported Saturday to have proposed a meeting of Big Four diplomats to discuss the question of temporary U.N. leadership to replace the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Diplomatic sources said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin had given the proposal to a middle-of-the-road intermediary for relay to U.N. Ambassadors Adlai E. Stevenson of the United States, Sir Patrick Dean of Britain and Armand Berard of France.

But they said that in making it, Zorin stated that the temporary leadership of the U.N. Secretariat should be of a troika consisting of U.N. Under Secretaries Ralph J. Bunche of the United States, Georgy P. Arkadev of the Soviet Union and Chakravarthi V. Narasimhan of India.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is on record against a troika "in any form and at any level of the Secretariat." He told foreign correspondents in New York Friday such an arrangement "would paralyze the executive of the United Nations and weaken it irreparably."

Davis Decrees Sugar Week By Proclamation

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The week of Sept. 24-30 is designated as Louisiana Sugar Week.

Gov. Jimmie Davis signed a proclamation setting aside the week for attention to the sugar cane industry.

Highlights include the high yield awards in New Orleans Thursday, and the sugar cane festival in New Iberia Sept. 29-Oct. 1.

The governor's proclamation said Louisiana grows about three-fourths of the sugar cane produced in the continental United States.

The document says normally about 30,000 acres of sugar cane for sugar are grown in 19 Louisiana parishes by 5,700 farmers who employ some 27,000 workers. The value of the crop at retail level is around $120 million.

Jordan Working On Airport Plan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Jordan is working on plans for an international airport near the Dead Sea and enlargement of its one seaport, Aqaba, Communications Minister Abdul Majid Murtada disclosed Saturday.

He told newsmen that the airport will be unique because of its location.

It will be below sea level, which will make for safe landings in all weather at any time of year.

Murtada said Aqaba port, on a gulf of the Red Sea, will be enlarged and converted into an international port with free zones to receive and store bonded goods for neighboring states—particularly Iraq and Saudi Arabia.

Farmerville Homecoming Is Scheduled

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Homecoming for Farmerville High School is set for Friday night, Sept. 29.

They are Dan Albritton, Miller Booth, Bobby Edwards, George Earl Foster and Richard Revels.

Preceding the gridiron clash between Farmerville and Strong on the local field, coronation ceremonies will be observed at 7 p.m.

A parade through the downtown section at 2 p.m. led by the high school band, queen and members of her court, followed by colorful floats, trucks and gaily decorated cars, will launch the day's activities.

Prizes for the best decorated vehicles will be awarded in the four categories: Floats, $25.00 trucks, one and two ton, $17.00; trucks three-fourths ton and smaller, $12.00; cars $8.00.

These will be judged on the basis of originality and effectiveness of theme and all - over appearance. Highlighting the day will be the football game set for 7:30 p.m.

A special half - time performance by the band and pep squad is being prepared.

Eighth grade: Mary Ellen Cook, president; Oleta Nixon, vice president; Jane Johnson, secretary; Judy Womack, treasurer.

Tenth grade: Tommy Hodge, president; Paula Gilmore, vice president; Jackie Nelson, secretary-treasurer; Jackie Nelson and Mickey Cain, Student Council representatives.

Eleventh grade: Vickey Vestal, president; Joyce Perry, vice president; Sandra Taunton, secretary-treasurer; Sue Bolding and Vickey Vestal, Student Council representatives.

GEN. LUCIUS D. CLAY, right, President Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin, reviews steel helmeted U.S. troops with fixed bayonets as they pass by during parade in West Berlin Saturday. With Clay is Brig. Gen. Frederick O. Hartel, U.S. troop commander in Berlin. The parade was held in celebration of U.S. Constitution Week. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Berlin)

Reds Building South Viet Nam Forces

SAIGON, South Vian Nam (AP) —It was a bad week in South Viet Nam's war against Communist Viet Cong rebels and almost everybody here agrees it will probably get much worse before it gets better.

While world attention has been centered largely on Berlin the Congo and United Nations crisis, the Communists have started mounting major efforts. Some diplomats suggest developments here are part of a worldwide Red plan.

Viet Cong rebels from Communist North Viet Nam have started infiltrating from neighboring Laos in large regular fighting units, not just in small bands, well-informed sources say.

The Viet Cong has started attacking with major units, sometimes two battalions or more, in a rash of incidents around the country.

Most dramatic was the predawn attack Monday when rebel forces overran and burned the fortress housing the capital buildings of Phuoc Thanh Province, about 60 miles north of Saigon. The provincial chief and military commander and his aides were beheaded and more than 70 civil guardsmen killed as the rebels ran wild, freeing 270 prisoners, before fading into the nearby jungles.

It was the first time the rebels had managed to destroy a provincial capital. It was a serious psychological defeat for the government.

Western and Vietnamese officials emphasize that the real threat these days is not in the delta lands of the south or even in areas like Phuoc Thanh. Incidents there are called only symptoms of the real trouble— the flood of rebel units and supplies coming across the 200 miles of jungle and mountains that mark the border with Laos.

"We can handle any situation in the country with our present forces," one general told a newsman, "but the border situation can be impossible."

For that reason some informed sources say the current 14-nation conference in Geneva on Laos is vital.

W. Averell Harriman, chief U.S. delegate to the Geneva talks, met with Vietnamese officials here this week. He hinted to newsmen that the question of preventing the Viet Congo from using Laos as a highway of subversion would be a key factor in deciding on a future government for Laos.

L.S.U. DIRECTOR ELECTED

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism has elected Dr. Frank J. Price, director of the LSU school of Journalism, to its executive committee at its annual meeting here.

Dr. Price will serve one year. He has been a member of the LSU journalism faculty since 1940 and has been director of the school of journalism since 1956.

Kennedy Inks Peace Corps, Other Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Friday signed bills that made the Peace Corps permanent, expanded the program for changing salt water to fresh and granted federal help to the states in fighting juvenile delinquency.

They were among 22 new laws put on the books by the President before he left the capital to spend the weekend at Hyannis Port, Mass., deliver an important U.N. speech in New York Monday and then take a week's vacation at Newport, R.I.

In signing the Peace Corps bill, the President hailed it as opening the way for thousands of young Americans to work for peace and world understanding. He noted that the corps hopes to have 2,700 volunteers in training or abroad by next July.

Mindful that the legislation encountered little trouble in Congress, the President aimed a quip at his brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, the Peace Corps director. He expressed his esteem for "the most effective lobbyist on the Washington scene, Mr. Sargent Shriver."

Shriver has been operating the corps under a presidential order. The new law gives it permanent status and authorizes $40 million for first year operations.

Kennedy's brother Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, and other sponsors were present for signing of the juvenile delinquency bill. It provided $10 million annually for three years to help local communities establish experimental programs for cutting the youthful crime rate.

The President said juvenile delinquency had become a matter of national concern since it had risen in all sections of the country for the past 11 years.

The water bill authorized $75 million over the next six years for expansion of research and development systems designed to convert salt and brackish water to fresh.

European-Made Planes Seen In Near Future

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of these days, a lot of Americans may be flying around in airliners marked "made in Europe."

The British aircraft industry, for example, is making its biggest sales pitch in history to U.S. airlines. And there are signs the latter are impressed with the wares. Scores of officials have been visiting Britain in recent months looking over designs of new British jetliners.

One plane in particular has the Americans seriously intrigued.

This is the British Aircraft Corporation's BAC-111 — a short-range, twin-jet transport. Ozark and Frontier actually have signed "letters of intent" (tentative orders) for five and six 111's, respectively. Bonanza had a team of experts in England recently looking over the plane. Mohawk, Eastern and Braniff are among other airlines that have expressed interest.

The small (50-60 passengers) 111 has attracted the most attention because, as of now, U.S. manufacturers have been concentrating on the long and medium range jets. Only Boeing has indicated it might go into the short-haul field. It has done considerable preliminary design work on a small jet but has made no production decision.

Eastern alone estimates it could use 40 planes of the 111's general size and performance by 1964.

Britain has at least two larger jets on tap with which it hopes to crack the lucrative U.S. market, although the chances are not as rosy as the 111's. In the bigger jet field, the British are up against the well-established Boeing, Convair and Douglas jets.

France has joined Britain in its invasion of the American market. It already has sold 20 twin-jet Caravelles to United Air Lines and another 20 to Trans World with an option for 15 more. In addition, the French have a "baby Caravelle" well along in design which is being examined carefully by U.S. local service airlines.

The French have one advantage over the British. They have signed a contract with Douglas under which the American firm not only acts as sales and distribution agent for the Caravelle but also will manufacture the French plane in this country if enough orders are received.

The Netherlands' Fokker plant in Amsterdam is readying a short haul jet called the F-28 for the U.S. market — a version of the famed F-27 which is made in this country by Fairchild and is in service on several airlines. Ironically, the F-27 originally was a Boeing design which Boeing sold to Fokker after World War II.

It took a long time for European aircraft firms to get a foot in the American door. A Fokker tri-motor was the only foreign-made airliner to serve U.S. carriers until Britain's prop-jet Viscount was introduced in 1955. The Fokker became persona non grata in this country after 1931, when one of them lost a wing over Kansas and crashed. Among the victims: Notre Dame's Knute Rockne.

But the Viscount, a highly successful airliner and the first jet-powered transport to serve American cities, did much to erase prejudice against foreign-made equipment.

GEN. LEWIS HERSHEY

Director Of Draft Likes Austere Life

EDITOR'S NOTE — The most important public figure in the lives of 25,000 young men called to the colors this month is a vigorous old man named Lewis B. Hershey, Director of selective services for more than two decades. Hershey is proud of his system and confident that the ability to massively mobilize is as important a deterrent to war as massive retaliation.

By J. W. DAVIS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who has directed the military draft of nearly 13-million young Americans in the last 21 years, believes in the austere life.

He thinks it would be good for America, as it has been for him, and for this reason: "Every country in history that got to living pretty well had a hell of a time staying alive."

Gen. Hershey is very much alive at the age of 68. He outtravels any other man in the Selective Service System in carrying out his duties as draft director, and he outworks men decades younger than he.

"He likes to work too much to retire," an associate relates in a mixture of admiration and awe.

Hershey is at his office never any later than 8:30 in the morning. No two-hour, two-martini lunch for him. He prefers to eat, and lightly, in the little snack room in the basement, after standing in line with everybody else.

He doesn't smoke at all. He's no teetotaler, but at Washington cocktail parties, he'll carry around one lone cocktail that he never finishes.

Weekends that he's in town, he does yard work. He does dishes, too, and is not above turning a hand to the laundry.

But about half the time, Hershey is on the road, traveling from state to state and seeing everybody from governors down in an unrelenting drive to keep selective service going the way he thinks it should.

Still he finds time for civil service, with the Boy Scouts, the United Givers Fund, Civil Defense, the Red Cross, etc. Once, he won a diaper-pinning contest sponsored by the local Red Cross nursing service.

Hershey was born on a backwoods country farm in Indiana and went to a one-room school called Hell's Point. His mother died before he was 7.

By choice, he's spent half a century in military service, which most people will concede is not all beer and skittles.

Talking in his flag-bedecked office, the general made plain that he thinks the Selective Service System he has headed since before World War II is in a pretty good position to give Moscow some second thoughts.

"My aim," he said, "has been to keep the Selective Service System in shape so they (possible aggressors) could reasonably assume: 'Here is something that has the capacity to mobilize the people at a terrific rate, and we'd better think it over.'"

Hershey's attitude, as he leaned easily back in his big leather swivel chair, was one of complete ease. He's a big man, who looks more comfortable in civilian clothes than most soldiers—maybe because he's something of the lounger type.

The general clings to one military manifestation: A close cropped brush type hair cut. Once his hair was red. Still thick, it's now gray and white.

As Hershey sees it, there's no pressing need for change in the way selective service has been proceeding, in either the order of inductions or the grounds for deferment.

Farmerville Homecoming Is Scheduled

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Homecoming for Farmerville High School is set for Friday night, Sept. 29.

Her attendants, selected by their respective classes, will be Linda Acree, senior; Bettye Stewart, junior; Brenda Odom, sophomore; and Donna Albritton, freshman.

Their escorts will be from the class of 1941, which will receive special recognition at the game. They are Dan Albritton, Miller Booth, Bobby Edwards, George Earl Foster and Richard Revels.

Preceding the gridiron clash between Farmerville and Strong on the local field, coronation ceremonies will be observed at 7 p.m.

A parade through the downtown section at 2 p.m. led by the high school band, queen and members of her court, followed by colorful floats, trucks and gaily decorated cars, will launch the day's activities.

Prizes for the best decorated vehicles will be awarded in the four categories: Floats, $25.00 trucks, one and two ton, $17.00; trucks three-fourths ton and smaller, $12.00; cars $8.00.

These will be judged on the basis of originality and effectiveness of theme and all - over appearance. Highlighting the day will be the football game set for 7:30 p.m.

A special half - time performance by the band and pep squad is being prepared.

Reds Building South Viet Nam Forces

SAIGON, South Vian Nam (AP) —It was a bad week in South Viet Nam's war against Communist Viet Cong rebels and almost everybody here agrees it will probably get much worse before it gets better.

While world attention has been centered largely on Berlin the Congo and United Nations crisis, the Communists have started mounting major efforts. Some diplomats suggest developments here are part of a worldwide Red plan.

Viet Cong rebels from Communist North Viet Nam have started infiltrating from neighboring Laos in large regular fighting units, not just in small bands, well-informed sources say.

The Viet Cong has started attacking with major units, sometimes two battalions or more, in a rash of incidents around the country.

Most dramatic was the predawn attack Monday when rebel forces overran and burned the fortress housing the capital buildings of Phuoc Thanh Province, about 60 miles north of Saigon. The provincial chief and military commander and his aides were beheaded and more than 70 civil guardsmen killed as the rebels ran wild, freeing 270 prisoners, before fading into the nearby jungles.

It was the first time the rebels had managed to destroy a provincial capital. It was a serious psychological defeat for the government.

Western and Vietnamese officials emphasize that the real threat these days is not in the delta lands of the south or even in area's like Phuoc Thanh. Incidents there are called only symptoms of the real trouble— the flood of rebel units and supplies coming across the 200 miles of jungle and mountains that mark the border with Laos.

"We can handle any situation in the country with our present forces," one general told a newsman, "but the border situation can be impossible."

For that reason some informed sources say the current 14-nation conference in Geneva on Laos is vital.

W. Averell Harriman, chief U.S. delegate to the Geneva talks, met with Vietnamese officials here this week. He hinted to newsmen that the question of preventing the Viet Congo from using Laos as a highway of subversion would be a key factor in deciding on a future government for Laos.

L.S.U. DIRECTOR ELECTED

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism has elected Dr. Frank J. Price, director of the LSU school of Journalism, to its executive committee at its annual meeting here.

Dr. Price will serve one year. He has been a member of the LSU journalism faculty since 1940 and has been director of the school of journalism since 1956.

Kennedy Inks Peace Corps, Other Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Friday signed bills that made the Peace Corps permanent, expanded the program for changing salt water to fresh and granted federal help to the states in fighting juvenile delinquency.

They were among 22 new laws put on the books by the President before he left the capital to spend the weekend at Hyannis Port, Mass., deliver an important U.N. speech in New York Monday and then take a week's vacation at Newport, R.I.

In signing the Peace Corps bill, the President hailed it as opening the way for thousands of young Americans to work for peace and world understanding. He noted that the corps hopes to have 2,700 volunteers in training or abroad by next July.

Mindful that the legislation encountered little trouble in Congress, the President aimed a quip at his brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, the Peace Corps director. He expressed his esteem for "the most effective lobbyist on the Washington scene, Mr. Sargent Shriver."

Shriver has been operating the corps under a presidential order. The new law gives it permanent status and authorizes $40 million for first year operations.

Kennedy's brother Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, and other sponsors were present for signing of the juvenile delinquency bill. It provided $10 million annually for three years to help local communities establish experimental programs for cutting the youthful crime rate.

The President said juvenile delinquency had become a matter of national concern since it had risen in all sections of the country for the past 11 years.

The water bill authorized $75 million over the next six years for expansion of research and development systems designed to convert salt and brackish water to fresh.

European-Made Planes Seen In Near Future

The British aircraft industry, for example, is making its biggest sales pitch in history to U.S. airlines. And there are signs the latter are impressed with the wares. Scores of officials have been visiting Britain in recent months looking over designs of new British jetliners.

One plane in particular has the Americans seriously intrigued.

This is the British Aircraft Corporation's BAC-111 — a short-range, twin-jet transport. Ozark and Frontier actually have signed "letters of intent" (tentative orders) for five and six 111's, respectively. Bonanza had a team of experts in England recently looking over the plane. Mohawk, Eastern and Braniff are among other airlines that have expressed interest.

The small (50-60 passengers) 111 has attracted the most attention because, as of now, U.S. manufacturers have been concentrating on the long and medium range jets. Only Boeing has indicated it might go into the short-haul field. It has done considerable preliminary design work on a small jet but has made no production decision.

Eastern alone estimates it could use 40 planes of the 111's general size and performance by 1964.

Britain has at least two larger jets on tap with which it hopes to crack the lucrative U.S. market, although the chances are not as rosy as the 111's. In the bigger jet field, the British are up against the well-established Boeing, Convair and Douglas jets.

France has joined Britain in its invasion of the American market. It already has sold 20 twin-jet Caravelles to United Air Lines and another 20 to Trans World with an option for 15 more. In addition, the French have a "baby Caravelle" well along in design which is being examined carefully by U.S. local service airlines.

The French have one advantage over the British. They have signed a contract with Douglas under which the American firm not only acts as sales and distribution agent for the Caravelle but also will manufacture the French plane in this country if enough orders are received.

The Netherlands' Fokker plant in Amsterdam is readying a short haul jet called the F-28 for the U.S. market — a version of the famed F-27 which is made in this country by Fairchild and is in service on several airlines. Ironically, the F-27 originally was a Boeing design which Boeing sold to Fokker after World War II.

It took a long time for European aircraft firms to get a foot in the American door. A Fokker tri-motor was the only foreign-made airliner to serve U.S. carriers until Britain's prop-jet Viscount was introduced in 1955. The Fokker became persona non grata in this country after 1931, when one of them lost a wing over Kansas and crashed. Among the victims: Notre Dame's Knute Rockne.

But the Viscount, a highly successful airliner and the first jet-powered transport to serve American cities, did much to erase prejudice against foreign-made equipment.

GEN. LEWIS HERSHEY

Director Of Draft Likes Austere Life

EDITOR'S NOTE — The most important public figure in the lives of 25,000 young men called to the colors this month is a vigorous old man named Lewis B. Hershey. Director of selective services for more than two decades, Hershey is proud of his system and confident that the ability to massively mobilize is as important a deterrent to war as massive retaliation.

By J. W. DAVIS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who has directed the military draft of nearly 13-million young Americans in the last 21 years, believes in the austere life.

He thinks it would be good for America, as it has been for him, and for this reason: "Every country in history that got to living pretty well had a hell of a time staying alive."

Gen. Hershey is very much alive at the age of 68. He outtravels any other man in the Selective Service System in carrying out his duties as draft director, and he outworks men decades younger than he.

"He likes to work too much to retire," an associate relates in a mixture of admiration and awe.

Hershey is at his office never any later than 8:30 in the morning. No two-hour, two-martini lunch for him. He prefers to eat, and lightly, in the little snack room in the basement, after standing in line with everybody else.

He doesn't smoke at all. He's no teetotaler, but at Washington cocktail parties, he'll carry around one lone cocktail that he never finishes.

Weekends that he's in town, he does yard work. He does dishes, too, and is not above turning a hand to the laundry.

But about half the time, Hershey is on the road, traveling from state to state and seeing everybody from governors down in an unrelenting drive to keep selective service going the way he thinks it should.

Still he finds time for civil service, with the Boy Scouts, the United Givers Fund, Civil Defense, the Red Cross, etc. Once, he won a diaper-pinning contest sponsored by the local Red Cross nursing service.

Hershey was born on a backwoods country farm in Indiana and went to a one-room school called Hell's Point. His mother died before he was 7.

By choice, he's spent half a century in military service, which most people will concede is not all beer and skittles.

Talking in his flag-bedecked office, the general made plain that he thinks the Selective Service System he has headed since before World War II is in a pretty good position to give Moscow some second thoughts.

"My aim," he said, "has been to keep the Selective Service System in shape so they (possible aggressors) could reasonably assume: 'Here is something that has the capacity to mobilize the people at a terrific rate, and we'd better think it over.'"

Hershey's attitude, as he leaned easily back in his big leather swivel chair, was one of complete ease. He's a big man, who looks more comfortable in civilian clothes than most soldiers—maybe because he's something of the lounger type.

The general clings to one military manifestation: A close cropped brush-type hair cut. Once his hair was red. Still thick, it's now gray and white.

As Hershey sees it, there's no pressing need for change in the way selective service has been proceeding, in either the order of inductions or the grounds for deferment.

U.S. Leadership At Stake In Kennedy's U.N. Speech

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —President Kennedy personally faces a fateful challenge to United States leadership in the United Nations when he appears before the General Assembly Monday morning to deliver a major foreign policy speech.

Kennedy commands the full resources of American diplomacy and speaks with the authority which only a chief of state can exercise in this extremely power-conscious organization.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is counting heavily on Kennedy's speech to prod representatives of the nonaligned, or neutralist, countries into action to save the United Nations, as he see it, from Soviet strangulation.

Rusk has been working hopefully on the problem all week with the argument that the powers exercised by the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold must speedily be placed in the hands of some new executive in spite of adamant Soviet opposition.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson is counting on Kennedy's appearance to help him in his long forthcoming struggle at this assembly to block the seating of Red China and to achieve other American objectives. Those include the condemnation, at least indirectly, of the Soviet Union for resuming nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere.

The President is expected to include disarmament proposals in his address.

Kennedy also wants to get his views across not only to the delegates of the 104 countries represented here but to the great world beyond these modernistic walls, that he is striving for peace and order to save mankind from nuclear war but that he cannot and will not consider peace at any price.

He has the double task of convincing the delegates that he wants a peaceful solution of the Berlin crisis but that, to get it, he is justified in standing up to pressures from Soviet Premier Khrushchev even at the grave risk of nuclear disaster.

By far the most urgent of the challenges before the President, however, is that of finding enough support in the 99-nation assembly to get a man into control of the U.N. secretariat and prevent Hammarskjold's death from leading to a breakdown of the whole organization.

Rusk began the campaign to bypass the Security Council, with its veto system, within hours after learning of Hammarskjold's fatal plane crash in Africa last weekend.

His first hope was that the assembly, realizing the urgency of picking a temporary successor, would put aside its fears of Soviet opposition and act opening day.

But such uncertainty and apprehension developed among various of the neutralist delegations that the opening day ceremony was a four-minute session that adjourned out of respect to Hammarskjold's memory.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko then moved into the fight with a firm announcement that the Soviet Union was opposed to any temporary successor. He said the U.S.S.R. wanted adoption of a three-man directorate principle, whether the solution agreed on at this session was provisional or permanent.

Rusk, British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and others who feel that a prolonged void in the secretary-general's job would cripple the United Nations beyond repair still have not mustered the 60-odd votes they consider necessary for the assembly to act.

A dozen countries, led by Norway and Ireland, have been reported drafting a resolution which would set up the framework for a temporary U.N. executive. If they can get agreement on this, they then hope to get agreement on a man to fill the job and present the whole thing to the assembly.

They are said to have about 36 votes for their cause.

But some countries, particularly India, want the whole matter to go through the U.N. Security Council, which would make it subject to a Soviet veto. Many of the assembly delegates seemed to be influenced this weekend more by fear of Soviet displeasure or disruptive tactics than by fear of a breakdown in the United Nations.

U.S. officials, by contrast, are apprehensive that unless the assembly acts quickly the whole issue will become tangled up in parliamentary procedures and the moment for a bold stroke will be lost. In that case, the future of the organization would come under grave shadows.

Thus Kennedy's appearance here comes at a critical juncture in U.N. affairs, just as it comes at a climactic time in the East-West dispute over Berlin, and a time of discouragement in the world's hopes for imposing controls on the dangers of nuclear war.

No one disputes that what the President says will carry considerable weight.

But many diplomats quietly emphasize that if he promises action or makes threats or commitments of U.S. power he must be prepared to carry through to the limit. These observers have been worried by the apparent U.S. backdown from threats of intervention in Laos and the defeat earlier this year of the U.S.-supported Cuban invasion attempt.

Kennedy, in a word, faces a challenge not only to his policies but also to some underlying skepticism about his performance.

HOUSE PROBERS REPORT

Aid Project Hurts Prestige Of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The case of the Cambodian Road—an American foreign aid showcase project that some congressional critics say is full of potholes, cracks and washouts—is completed as far as the House Foreign Operations subcommittee is concerned.

Chairman Porter Hardy, D-Va., said "from now on it's up to the International Cooperation Administration to do something to fix responsibility."

For more than two years, Hardy's subcommittee has traced the tangle of events surrounding the building of the road in far-off friendly Cambodia. Hardy has repeatedly cited the project as evidence of dereliction of duty on the part of the ICA. Now, he says, the subcommittee has gone as far as it can go.

In a final report issued Saturday, the subcommittee said the road, which was intended to be a showcase of American "know-how," was "so badly bungled that it has damaged our prestige, burdened us with costly repairs, and supplied the Communists with an effective source of anti-American propaganda."

The main lesson to be learned, Hardy said in an interview, is: "We must plan out these projects more carefully, make sure they are carried out properly—otherwise, it just gives us a black eye."

But Rep. Frank M. Clark, D-Pa., has said that it is not true that the American-built road in Cambodia is falling to pieces.

Clark, who is not a member of the Hardy subcommittee, said recently he had visited Cambodia and found that while 13 miles of the road require major repairs, and about 12 need minor repairs, the remaining 105 miles are in excellent condition.

Clark had said the Hardy subcommittee has investigated the roadway "without much clarification of the facts," and had withheld information, thus stirring up a controversy that hurt foreign aid.

The facts, Clark declared, would support his findings that the "true fault for this entire fiasco must be laid at the doorstep of U.S. aid officials who, he said, interfered with the consulting engineers, Michael Baker Jr., Inc. of Rochester, Pa.

Clark said he had driven the length of the Cambodia road at an average speed of 50 miles an hour with a top speed of 80 miles. The report recommended speedy completion of an investigation by the inspector general's office to fix responsibility, and turning the result over to the justice department if the facts warrant.

The road was built from the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh some 130 miles to a port on the Gulf of Siam called Sihanoukville. It originally was to cost $15 million, but so far has cost more than $34 million, the subcommittee said.

The man in over-all charge of the project is Arthur G. Syran.

Last June, Syran told the subcommittee he expected a report by the end of the month that would fix responsibility for the road failure.

Asked about it this week, Syran told a newsman the report would not be completed for several months. A team of engineers had been selected from the Bureau of Public Roads to conduct the probe, he said, and Syran has no direct control over them.

"Engineers are pretty cagey guys," Syran said, "and they've got to dig in and be sure of their facts before they can make any charges."

Registration Set For TV Course

Registration for Biology 115 TV will be held at the first meeting of the conference session to meet Monday, Sept. 25, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Room 143, Stubbs Hall, at Northeast Louisiana State College.

The biology course for undergraduate credit will be taught by lectures presented over KNOE-TV, Channel 8, Monroe-West Monroe starting Tuesday, Sept. 26 and will run Monday through Friday thereafter during the fall semester from 6:45 to 7:15 a.m.

Members of the class will meet weekly for a one-hour conference session at Northeast. Each conference is scheduled on Mondays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is counting heavily on Kennedy's speech to prod representatives of the nonaligned, or neutralist, countries into action to save the United Nations, as he see it, from Soviet strangulation.

Rusk has been working hopefully on the problem all week with the argument that the powers exercised by the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold must speedily be placed in the hands of some new executive in spite of adamant Soviet opposition.

U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson is counting on Kennedy's appearance to help him in his long forthcoming struggle at this assembly to block the seating of Red China and to achieve other American objectives. Those include the condemnation, at least indirectly, of the Soviet Union for resuming nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere.

The President is expected to include disarmament proposals in his address.

Kennedy obviously wants to get across, not only to the delegates, but to the great world beyond these modernistic walls, that he is striving for peace and order to save mankind from nuclear war but that he cannot and will not consider peace at any price.

He has the double task of convincing the delegates that he wants a peaceful solution of the Berlin crisis but that, to get it, he is justified in standing up to pressures from Soviet Premier Khrushchev even at the grave risk of nuclear disaster.

By far the most urgent of the challenges before the President, however, is that of finding enough support in the 99-nation assembly to get a man into control of the U.N. secretariat and prevent Hammarskjold's death from leading to a breakdown of the whole organization.

Rusk began the campaign to bypass the Security Council, with its veto system,. within hours after learning of Hammarskjold's fatal plane crash in Africa last weekend.

His first hope was that the assembly, realizing the urgency of picking a temporary successor, would put aside its fears of Soviet opposition and act opening day.

But such uncertainty and apprehension developed among various of the neutralist delegations that the opening day ceremony was a four-minute session that ad-adjourned out of respect to Hammarskjold's memory.

Soviet Foreign Mniister Andrei A. Gromyko then moved into the fight with a firm announcement that the Soviet Union was opposed to any temporary successor. He said the U.S.S.R. wanted adoption of a three-man directorate principle, whether the solution agreed on at this session was provisional or permanent.

Rusk, British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and others who feel that a prolonged void in the secretary-general's job would cripple the United Nations beyond repair, still have not mustered the 60-odd votes they consider necessary for the assembly to act..

A dozen countries, led by Norway and Ireland, have been reported drafting a resolution which would set up the framework for a temporary U.N. executive. If they can get agreement on this, they then hope to get agreement on a man to fill the job and present the whole thing to the assembly.

They are said to have about 36 votes for their cause.

But some countries, particularly India, want the whole matter to go through the U.N. Security Council, which would make it subject to a Soviet veto. Many of the assembly delegates seemed to be influenced this weekend more by fear of Soviet displeasure or disruptive tactics than by fear of a breakdown in the United Nations.

U.S. officials, by contrast, are apprehensive that unless the assembly acts quickly the whole issue will become tangled up in parliamentary procedures and the moment for a bold stroke will be lost. In that case, the future of the organization would come under grave shadows.

Thus Kennedy's appearance here comes at a critical juncture in U.N. affairs, just as it comes at a climactic time in the East-West dispute over Berlin, and a time of discouragement in the world's hopes for imposing controls on the dangers of nuclear war.

No one disputes that what the President says will carry considerable weight.

But many diplomats quietly emphasize that if he promises action or makes threats or commitments of U.S. power he must be prepared to carry through to the limit. These observers have been worried by the apparent U.S. backdown from threats of intervention in Laos and the defeat earlier this year of the U.S.-supported Cuban invasion attempt.

Kennedy, in a word, faces a challenge not only to his policies but also to some underlying skepticism about his performance.

Governors Will Get Report On Waterway Plan

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —The proposed Tennessee - Tombigbee Waterway will be outlined to southern governors at their conference here next week.

Col. G. M. Dorland, chairman of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway Development Authority, will describe the proposed 253-mile canal which would link the inland waterway system with the Tombigbee River and Eastern Gulf.

Dorland said the waterway would directly connect eight of the 16 states represented at the conference.

The waterway is a joint effort of Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. Gov. John Patterson of Alabama, Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi and Gov. Buford Ellington serve on the authority as state chairmen.

HOUSE PROBERS REPORT

Aid Project Hurts Prestige Of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The case of the Cambodian Road—an American foreign aid showcase project that some congressional critics say is full of potholes, cracks and washouts—is completed as far as the House Foreign Operations subcommittee is concerned.

Chairman Porter Hardy, D-Va., said "from now on it's up to the International Cooperation Administration to do something to fix responsibility."

For more than two years, Hardy's subcommittee has traced the tangle of events surrounding the building of the road in far-off friendly Cambodia. Hardy has repeatedly cited the project as evidence of dereliction of duty on the part of the ICA. Now, he says, the subcommittee has gone as far as it can go.

In a final report issued Saturday, the subcommittee said the road, which was intended to be a showcase of American "know-how," was "so badly bungled that it has damaged our prestige, burdened us with costly repairs, and supplied the Communists with an effective source of anti-American propaganda."

The main lesson to be learned, Hardy said in an interview, is: "We must plan out these projects more carefully, make sure they are carried out properly—otherwise, it just gives us a black eye."

But Rep. Frank M. Clark, D-Pa., has said that it is not true that the American-built road in Cambodia is falling to pieces.

Clark, who is not a member of the Hardy subcommittee, said recently he had visited Cambodia and found that while 13 miles of the road require major repairs, and about 12 need minor repairs, the remaining 105 miles are in excellent condition.

Clark had said the Hardy subcommittee has investigated the highway "without much clarification of the facts," and had withheld information, thus stirring up a controversy that hurt forcign aid.

The facts, Clark declared, would support his findings that the "true fault for this entire fiasco must be laid at the doorstep of U.S. aid officials who, he said, interfered with the consulting engineers, Michael Baker Jr., Inc. of Rochester, Pa.

Clark said he had driven the length of the Cambodia road at an average speed of 50 miles an hour with a top speed of 80 miles. The report recommended speedy completion of an investigation by the inspector general's office to fix responsibility, and turning the result over to the justice department if the facts warrant.

The road was built from the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh some 130 miles to a port on the Gulf of Siam called Sihanoukville. It originally was to cost $15 million, but so far has cost more than $34 million, the subcommittee said.

The man in over-all charge of the project is Arthur G. Syran.

Last June, Syran told the subcommittee he expected a report by the end of the month that would fix responsibility for the road failure.

Asked about it this week, Syran told a newsman the report would not be completed for several months. A team of engineers had been selected from the Bureau of Public Roads to conduct the probe, he said, and Syran has no direct control over them.

"Engineers are pretty cagey guys," Syran said, "and they've got to dig in and be sure of their facts before they can make any charges."

Registration Set For TV Course

Registration for Biology 115 TV will be held at the first meeting of the conference session to meet Monday, Sept. 25, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Room 143, Stubbs Hall, at Northeast Louisiana State College.

The biology course for undergraduate credit will be taught by lectures presented over KNOE-TV, Channel 8, Monroe-West Monroe, starting Tuesday, Sept. 26 and will run Monday through Friday thereafter during the fall semester from 6:45 to 7:15 a.m.

Members of the class will meet weekly for a one-nour conference session at Northeast. Each conference is scheduled on Mondays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

MARION DAVIES

Death Of Actress Ends Fabled Era

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marion Davies' death Friday night from cancer of the jaw robbed Hollywood of a fabulous personality.

The town will never see her likes again. It's a cliche to say it, but her death is truly the end of an era.

The 64-year-old actress, alumna of Ziegfeld Follies, silent pictures and early talkies, died in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital where she had been since May 16. Last week she was given the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church, the church of her childhood.

Catholic funeral rites are pending.

With her when she died was Capt. Horace Brown Jr., whom she married in 1951.

In its heyday, Marion Davies' life was a modern version of medieval Versailles. In fact, she once started to build a small beach cottage at Santa Monica that when finally finished cost her $7 million. It is now a parking lot.

Marion, despite such grandeur, was an unassuming, yet complex, woman. There was some Marie Antoinette in her, because the era demanded it. But to those who knew her best, there was some Mother Cabrini about her.

Some years ago, Marion told me she was worth $10 million but estimated she had given twice that much away.

"I use the $10 million," she said, "so I can make more to give away."

The record proves that no idle boast. When stars finish a picture nowadays, they still give each member of the crew a gift usually a bottle of whiskey. On Marion's pictures crewmen also got gifts, but typical would be a four-year scholarship to medical school for an electrician's son or the payment in full of a staggering hospital bill for a wardrobe woman.

Marion had her weaknesses. The bottle was one, but as one old friend comments: "She never hurt —or knocked—anybody but herself."

Her one marriage to Brown produced no children, but children were her special joy. Most notable among her many charities was the Marion Davies Children's Clinic, founded in 1933. She lavished millions on it until the cancer she always dreaded forced her to turn it over to the UCLA Medical Center in 1959.

But with the transfer came a $2 million check to build the wing that houses the clinic, one of the best in the country.

As a social leader, she was the Mrs. Vanderbilt of Hollywood. As a hostess, her parties made the famed Washington shindigs of Perle Mesta look like backyard cookouts.

As a movie star, she was talented—a natural comedienne who was one of Hollywood's biggest in its most fabulous era.

Bing Crosby, then just a leading man crooner, was one of the last of Marion's costars. He recalls that movie-making with Marion was a highlight of his own career. The picture, "Gone Hollywood," took six months to finish in a day where a month was over schedule.

Bing explained why: "I'd show up on the set at 9 and hit golf balls until 11, when Marion would appear with her entourage. She'd be followed by a parade of hairdressers, makeup women, secretaries and a five-piece orchestra.

"We enjoyed a musicale until 11:30, usually of Marion's favorite Cole Porter tunes. Then we'd discuss the first scene with Raoul Walsh, the director.

"Then lunch was called. We'd eat in Marion's bungalow, fully staffed with cooks and servants. To my Spokane palate, the luncheons were Lucullan. There were wines from the Rhine, Bombay duck, chicken in aspic. Sometimes a delicacy would be flown in especially from a restaurant in New York or San Francisco. We dined and talked about everything but the picture until 2:30 or 3.

"Back to the set with the band playing—someimes we' listened, sometimes we danced. By 5 we figured we should shoot the day's first scene, but Marion always reminded that it was the cocktail hour.

"Nobody was ever loath, so thus restored, we'd shoot the scene. By that time it was 6 p.m. quitting time. We'd usually get about 150 feet of usable film.

"Then Marion would suggest that the party continue at her home. Movie-making sure was fun in those days."

For 32 years she was a friend of the late publisher, William Randolph Hearst, who helped her to stardom.

In later years, Marion's parties grew smaller, but they were always an event. I've been to several in recent years and dining at Marion's was like Jining with the czars.

One of her last such dinners was the night President Kennedy was nominated at the Los Angeles Democratic convention in 1960. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's father and mother, were among Marion' dearest friends. They were her guests during the convention. She told me an incident of that night, swearing me to secrecy until after she was gone.

"After dinner," Marion said, "we all went into the den to watch the final balloting on television. By the time they got a little past Alabama, Joe Kennedy fell asleep in his chair. We thought it would be a great joke if we didn't awaken him. And as far as I know, he never knew his son was nominated until he heard about it the next morning."

"I'll probably be remembered more for the parties I gave," Miss Davies said, "than for anything else."

U.S. Survey On Shelter Sites Slated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense department will enlist about 1,000 architect and engineering firms this fall to help it locate and mark a million atomic radiation fallout shelters, it was learned Saturday.

The survey will start in December. It is to be completed a year later at a cost of $93 million. Another $58 million will be spent stocking as many shelters as possible with emergency food and water supplies.

The money was voted by Congress in light of the Berlin crisis before Russia began firing the first of 15 nuclear weapons tests which have newly polluted the atmosphere.

Contracts with the firms will call for teams of skilled men to select shelters which must meet certain specifications such as thickness of walls, structural stability, and ventilation.

Before beginning their work, most of the teams will be indoctrinated in long-term protection from fallout which sifts downwind in the atmosphere after a nuclear explosion.

The department hopes to provide shelters for 50 million persons eventually but most will be limited in space. On the average each will accommodate about 50 persons.

Most will be in the basements of public and private buildings. But surface structures will be used if possible.

TOURISTS DISAPPOINTED

London Not Foggy Enough For Some

LONDON (UPI) —Davis Jones is paid to say nice things about London and he says it's all a vile canard about the place being a foggy old town.

Jones, spokesman for the government agency charged with luring tourists to Britain, says London does not have enough fog to suit tourists — especially Americans.

"They come over here in July and August fully expecting to see some of that good old pea soup fog we're supposed to be plagued with," Jones said.

He said these tourists meet the same fate as those travellers who expect to find American streets paved with gold.

"The summer tourists usually just run into a London heat wave and they don't like it very much," Jones said.

He said the trouble is movies and Sherlock Holmes stories that portray a London bathed in you can't-see-your-hand-in - front - of you-face fog. Jack the Ripper characters and Hansom cabs are supposed to pop about in the fog.

"London has less fog than most European cities," Jones said. "Tourists had better come to London in November to see any—and then they probably won't see much.

The Health Ministry and the Ministry of Housing and Local Government, which are not paid to say nice things about London, disagree with Jones.

Their government studies say fog, smog and air pollution in general costs Britons about 250 million pounds (700 million) a year. Health inistry officials say death more potent than Jack-the-Ripper stalks the smoke-darkened fog.

The polluted air of fog intensifies chest ailments, including pneumonia and bronchitis. In December 1952 a four-day fog jumped London's weekly death rate from an average of 4,000 to 9,000 —mostly persons suffering chest ailments, health officials said.

Less severe "killer" fogs struck London in 1957 and 1959. Housing Ministry officials say coal fire smoke injected the health danger into the fog—turning the tiny water droplets that form fog from lily white to ghoulish (or pea soup) green.

Fog affects London from the top down. Prince Philip's limousine once had to be escorted back to Buckingham Palace by police on foot carrying flaming torches because of fog. At the famed Smithfield cattle show here a few years ago, 14 prize steers perished from fog, or smog. Frantic cattlemen saved another 100 prize animals by slapping whiskey-soaked masks on them.

Reds Say Rocket Test Is Success

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced Saturday successful firing of another long-range rocket into the central Pacific. It was the third announced firing in the current series.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the rocket was launched Thursday to check its dependability and accuracy and to test communications equipment for the orbiting of future space satellites.

Red China Opens Drive To Win U.N. Admission

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China opened a massive propaganda campaign Saturday to win admission to the United Nations and force expulsion of the Nationalists.

The broadcasts made it clear Peiping would never accept the "two Chinas" concept and that its admission must be without strings and that the Nationalists must be expelled simultaneously.

Peiping Radio and the Red China News Agency quoted Premier Chou En-lai at length. Chou outlined his views in a speech Friday night honoring British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery has given full support to the Peiping position and the Russian position on Berlin.

Chou was officially nettled at the American-backed plan to classify the China issue as an "important question" in the General Assembly, a technical maeuver that would require a two-thirds vote for Peiping's admission. The United States believes it can block the move to seat the Reds.

The whole Chinese people are resolutely opposed to this scheme by the U. S. government," he said.

There were wines from the Rhine, Bombay duck, chicken in aspic. Sometimes a delicacy would be flown in especially from a restaurant in New York or San Francisco. We dined and talked about everything but the picture until 2:30 or 3.

"Back to the set with the band playing—someimes we listened, sometimes we danced. By 5 we figured we should shoot the day's first scene, but Marion always reminded that it was the cocktail hour.

"Nobody was ever loath, so thus restored, we'd shoot the scene. By that time it was 6 p.m. quitting time. We'd usually get about 150 feet of usable film.

"Then Marion would suggest that the party continue at her home. Movie-making sure was fun in those days."

For 32 years she was a friend of the late publisher, William Randolph Hearst, who helped her to stardom.

In later years, Marion's parties grew smaller, but they were always an event. I've been to several in recent years and dining at Marion's was like dining with the czars.

One of her last such dinners was the night President Kennedy was nominated at the Los Angeles Democratic convention in 1960. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's father and mother, were among Marion's dearest friends. They were her guests during the convention. She told me an incident of that night, swearing me to secrecy until after she was gone.

"After dinner," Marion said, "we all went into the den to watch the final balloting on television. By the time they got a little past Alabama, Joe Kennedy fell asleep in his chair. We thought it would be a great joke if we didn't awaken him. And as far as I know, he never knew his son was nominated until he heard about it the next morning."

"I'll probably be remembered more for the parties I gave,"

TOURISTS DISAPPOINTED

London Not Foggy Enough For Some

LONDON (UPI) —Davis Jones is paid to say nice things about London and he says it's all a vile canard about the place being a foggy old town.

Jones, spokesman for the government agency charged with luring tourists to Britain, says London does not have enough fog to suit tourists — especially Americans.

"They come over here in July and August fully expecting to see some of that good old pea soup fog we're supposed to be plagued with," Jones said.

He said these tourists meet the same fate as those travellers who expect to find American streets paved with gold.

"The summer tourists usually just run into a London heat wave and they don't like it very much," Jones said.

He said the trouble is movies and Sherlock Holmes stories that portray a London bathed in you-can't-see-your-hand-in - front - of your-face fog. Jack the Ripper characters and Hansom cabs are supposed to pop about in the fog.

"London has less fog than most European cities," Jones said "Tourists had better come to London in November to see any—and then they probably won't see much.

The Health Ministry and the Ministry of Housing and Local Government, which are not paid to say nice things about London, disagree with Jones.

Their government studies say fog, smog and air pollution in general costs Britons about 250 million pounds (700 million) a year. Health inistry officials say death more potent than Jack-the-Ripper stalks the smoke-darkened fog.

The polluted air of fog intensifies chest ailments, including pneumonia and bronchitis. In December 1952 a four-day fog jumped London's weekly death rate from an average of 4,000 to 9,000 —mostly persons suffering chest ailments, health officials said.

Less severe "killer" fogs struck London in 1957 and 1959. Housing Ministry officials say coal fire smoke injected the health danger into the fog—turning the tiny water droplets that form fog from lily white to ghoulish (or pea soup) green.

Fog affects London from the top down. Prince Philip's limousine once had to be escorted back to Buckingham Palace by police on foot carrying flaming torches because of fog. At the famed Smithfield cattle show here a few years ago, 14 prize steers perished from fog, or smog. Frantic cattlemen saved another 100 prize animals by slapping whiskey-soaked masks on them.

Reds Say Rocket Test Is Success

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced Saturday successful firing of another long-range rocket into the central Pacific. It was the third announced firing in the current series.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the rocket was launched Thursday to check its dependability and accuracy and to test communications equipment for the orbiting of future space satellites.

Red China Opens Drive To Win U.N. Admission

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China opened a massive propaganda campaign Saturday to win admission to the United Nations and force expulsion of the Nationalists.

The broadcasts made it clear Peiping would never accept the "two Chinas" concept and that its admission must be without strings and that the Nationalists must be expelled simultaneously.

Peiping Radio and the Red China News Agency quoted Premier Chou En-lai at length. Chou outlined his views in a speech Friday night honoring British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery at a banquet. Montgomery has given full support to the Peiping position and the Russian position on Berlin.

Chou was particularly nettled at the American-backed plan to classify the China issue as an "important question" in the General Assembly, a technical maeuver that would require a two-thirds vote for Peiping's admission. The United States believes it can block the move to seat the Reds.

The whole Chinese people are resolutely opposed to this scheme by the U. S. government," he said.

U.S. Survey On Shelter Sites Slated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense department will enlist about 1,000 architect and engineering firms this fall to help it locate and mark a million atomic radiation fallout shelters, it was learned Saturday.

The survey will start in December. It is to be completed a year later at a cost of $93 million. Another $58 million will be spent stocking as many shelters as possible with emergency food and water supplies.

The money was voted by Congress in light of the Berlin crisis before Russia began firing the first of 15 nuclear weapons tests which have newly polluted the atmosphere.

Contracts with the firms will call for teams of skilled men to select shelters which must meet certain specifications such as thickness of walls, structural stability, and ventilation.

Before beginning their work, most of the teams will be indoctrinated in long-term protection from fallout which sifts downwind in the atmosphere after a nuclear explosion.

The department hopes to provide shelters for 50 million persons eventually but most will be limited in space. On the average each will accommodate about 50 persons.

Most will be in the basements of public and private buildings. But surface structures will be used if possible.

SOME FAVOR PROPOSAL

Governor Hopefuls Give Views On One-Term Lift

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Potential candidates for Louisiana governor in 1964 gave their views Saturday on the latest proposal to let a governor serve two straight terms if the people want him.

There are five men who have said publicly in one way or another recently they were interested in the governorship.

Two of them, state Sen. W. J. Cleveland of Crowley and state public works director Claude Kirkpatrick, favored the two-term idea.

Another, former Gov. Robert Kennon, said there were good arguments both for and against it but it should simply be a matter of public preference.

A fourth, public service Commissioner John McKeithen, took the position a second straight term was unnecessary.

And a fifth, education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson, declined comment.

Sen. Elsie Lowe D'Artois, considered a possible gubernatorial starter some time ago, has no public indication that she might be a candidate for the session this time.

The two-term proposal came in the political spotlight this week by Rep. Robert Munson of Rapides Parish, chairman of the Little Hoover Commission.

Similar proposals were made during the administration of former Gov. Earl K. Long in 1956-60 and Kennon in 1952-56, and each time they died in the legislature.

Under the Munson plan, the governor would be limited to one four-year term. The governor would benefit with any [illegible] The governor could not be blamed for [illegible] other [illegible] politics.

Voters would have the final voice, should the legislature in 1962 decide to submit the question to the people. While Gov. Jimmie H. Davis hasn't commented, chances are he would consider the issue a matter for the legislature. Other governors held such views.

Munson said the present limitation of one four-year term "eliminates any desire on the part of the governor for long range planning or thinking." He said Louisiana would gain from a two-term system and insisted past fears of the buildup of a political machine were groundless because of a strong state civil service.

Most states have no limit on the number of terms a governor can serve. Most of the states with a one-term limit are in the South.

In Louisiana a governor can serve more than one term but he cannot succeed himself. In 1960, because of the late Earl K. Long's attempt to get around the constitutional ban against a governor being his own "immediate successor," the legislature changed the law to prevent such steps in the future.

The change, adopted by the people 271,358 to 137,112, blocks a governor in office from seeking a second straight term even if he resigned while in office.

Munson is trying to show the public that it might gain a better grade of politics with a two-term governor.

Kennon: "I do not wish at this time to express a point of view on the question, because it might be said I would have a direct interest in adaption of the proposal. I already have the benefit of experience in the governor's office, which normally would be one of the principal advantages of a second term.

"There are good points both ways, and it should be left to the legislature and the voters without any presentation from potential candidates."

McKeithen: "The idea has its pros and cons. As I see it, whether an individual should be allowed to succeed himself as chief executive isn't too important as continuing his philosophy of government."

Almost every incumbent governor has attempted to place a man in the office after him who would follow the same path he attempted. Because of this, the people always have had an opportunity to register at the polls their approval or disapproval of the incumbent state administration. The people are protected and a second straight term for a governor would be unnecessary."

Cleveland: "I believe the people have pretty well indicated that a governor ought to have a chance at two terms, in the return to office of Earl K. Long and Jimmie Davis.

"When he first takes his oath of office a governor of Louisiana risks becoming unpopular right away. This state has been playing pendulum politics every four years, without giving a man enough time in office to prove himself.

"A governor today can't build up a political machine the way they did in the old days. I think two straight terms for a governor is a good idea."

Kirkpatrick said: "I've always felt a governor should be allowed to succeed himself if the people want him another term."

Fifteen states, including Louisiana, now limit a governor to one four-year term. They are Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Two states provide a limit of two terms of two years each—New Mexico and South Dakota.

Three states follow a custom of two terms of two years each—Kansas, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and Oregon allow two four-year terms.

Governors in 27 other states generally are unlimited.

Soviet Says Berlin Links Will Remain

PARIS (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev told French statesman-historian Paul Reynaud in an interview published Saturday that guarantees for West Berlin's links to the West would be written into a Soviet - German peace treaty and deposited with the United Nations.

Khrushchev, who touched off the latest Berlin crisis by threatening to sign a peace treaty which would turn over control of the city's access routes to the East Germans, insisted the Soviet Union did not want war.

"We want peace, peace, peace," he was quoted as saying in a recent three - hour interview with Reynaud published in Saturday's issue of the French newspaper "Le Figaro."

Khrushchev said he agreed with Reynaud that the "question of war and peace is acute."

"It is true that war today would be suicide. We have painted a picture of a future war. Atrocities and immense sufferings," he said.

"But I wish the West would realize what war will mean to them. I told (Italian Premier Amintore) Fanfani 'We consider Italy, France and Germany as hostages'."

He said West Berlin's links with the West would remain intact after a treaty is signed.

"I emphasize that this question of communications ought also to be provided for in a treaty between East and West Germany," Khrushchev added.

"And more precisely it should be determined in a document defining the status of West Berlin—an international act certainly registered with the United Nations."

IN MANY STATES

Annual Switching Of Clocks Begins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The dance of the hours got swinging this weekend, with various states and communities throughout the nation returning to standard time.

Some had done so earlier. Minnesota and various communities in western Kentucky and in the Butte, Montana, area ended Daylight Saving Time on Labor Day. Several other states and communities made the switch at 2 a.m. Sunday morning.

However, most of the 28 states that adopted daylight saving in whole or part earlier this year will take back their deposited hour on the last Sunday of next month, Oct. 29.

All of which puts a simple question like "What time is it?" on a more relative basis than ever.

For instance, California, where many of the nation's television shows originate, is back on standard time.

New York, however, where many of the other TV shows originate, won't be going back on standard until Oct. 29. So any shuffling the networks do before then will have to be reshuffled again next month.

Nevada, Washington State and Wisconsin residents also moved back the clock Sunday, as well as residents in various communities in Idaho, New Mexico, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The situation will be a bit confused in Nevada and Pennsylvania. In Nevada, two counties will switch to Mountain Standard Time, which, in effect, keeps them on Pacific Daylight Time the year around. Consequently, the switch in those counties was not on the clock but in the name.

The bulk of Pennsylvania goes off daylight time Oct. 29, while the rural counties made the change Sept. 24.

Other states which adopted DST statewide and are going back to standard time at the end of next month are Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Also slated to return to standard at that time is the nation's capital and St. Louis, the only Missouri city to go on daylight time in the first place.

Additionally, there will be scattered communities in Iowa, Indiana, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia going back to normal time on the last Sunday of next month.

States that will have no clock-setting problem because they never went on daylight time to begin with are Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Georgia, Hawaii, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Wyoming.

Alaska, of course, situated on the top of the world and with more summer daylight than it can use, never even considered switching to DST. So, in the absence of a Darkness Saving Time, the state stayed on standard all summer long.

The only area in Florida which has been on daylight time is Elgin Air Force Base.

Ailing Former Senator Relaxes

PROVIDENCE, R.I., (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Theodore Francis Green had another "comfortable, relaxed" day Saturday, according to a spokesman at Jane Brown Hospital which he entered Sept. 8 with a heart block.

Annual Switching Of Clocks Begins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The dance of the hours got swinging this weekend, with various states and communities throughout the nation returning to standard time.

Some had done so earlier. Minnesota and various communities in western Kentucky and in the Butte, Montana, area ended Daylight Saving Time on Labor Day. Several other states and communities made the switch at 2 a.m. Sunday morning.

However, most of the 28 states that adopted daylight saving in whole or part earlier this year will take back their deposited hour on the last Sunday of next month, Oct. 29.

All of which puts a simple question like "What time is it?" on a more relative basis than ever.

For instance, California, where many of the nation's television shows originate, is back on standard time.

New York, however, where many of the other TV shows originate, won't be going back on standard until Oct. 29. So any shuffling the networks do before then will have to be reshuffled again next month.

Nevada, Washington State and Wisconsin residents also moved back the clock Sunday, as well as residents in various communities in Idaho, New Mexico, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The situation will be a bit confused in Nevada and Pennsylvania. In Nevada, two counties will switch to Mountain Standard Time, which, in effect, keeps them on Pacific Daylight Time the year around. Consequently, the switch in those counties was not on the clock but in the name.

The bulk of Pennsylvania goes off daylight time Oct. 29, while the rural counties made the change Sept. 24.

Other states which adopted DST statewide and are going back to standard time at the end of next month are Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Also slated to return to standard at that time is the nation's capital and St. Louis, the only Missouri city to go on daylight time in the first place.

Additionally, there will be scattered communities in Iowa, Indiana, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia going back to normal time on the last Sunday of next month.

States that will have no clock-setting problem because they never went on daylight time to begin with are Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Georgia, Hawaii, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Wyoming.

Alaska, of course, situated on the top of the world and with more summer daylight than it can use, never even considered switching to DST. So, in the absence of a Darkness Saving Time, the state stayed on standard all summer long.

The only area in Florida which has been on daylight time is Elgin Air Force Base.

Ailing Former Senator Relaxes

PROVIDENCE, R.I., (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Theodore Francis Green had another "comfortable, relaxed" day Saturday, according to a spokesman at Jane Brown Hospital which he entered Sept. 8 with a heart block.

Louisianans Act

THE AREA (Special)—"One of the strangest and most inexplicable oversight of our time is the failure of the educators of the United States to devise and set up in our public school a course of study in the aims and purposes of the international communist conspiracy..."

This statement by Luther A. Smith, of Washington, D.C., sovereign grand commander of the Scottish Rite Masonic bodies, thus points up a failing of a good portion of America, and at the same time shows that Louisiana is more alert than a lot of people would have you think.

Louisiana has recognized this deficiency, and, according to Smith, is one of the few places "to supply this deficiency in our educational process."

He lauded the state for launching an informal and educational program against global communism.

The Masonic leader noted that "the state of Louisiana by legislative enactment has required such a course to be put in the high schools"

Dr. Dee A. Strickland, of Monroe, head of Scottish Rite Masons in Louisiana, said the Americanism program is being taken to be public by members of a statewide committee.

Contact chairmen in this area are W. Warren Allen, Winnfield, Robert W. Cretney, Monroe, Frank L. Allen, West Monroe; R. P. Hand, Ruston; Morris Shapiro, Alexandria; Elmer I. Gibson, Harrisonburg; R. M. Graves, Winnsboro. State Chairman of the troup is J. B. Higginbotham, of Baton Rouge.

"What happens to this country in the next 20 years rests squarely on the shoulders of we, the people. What we need is a shock treatment of self-appraisal . . . something to awaken the sleeping giant of the American conscience we've got to stop concentrating on fly rods, hot rods, hot dogs and cotton candy and begin to look at the facts of life.

"We are committing national suicide every careless day we live — and are content to let the old ship of state be sent to the international scrap yard by a group that is our responsibility."

These are words by Monroe's Dr Strickland. They leave little else to be said.

U.S. To Check On Ghana Aid Before Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will send a high-ranking U.S. mission to Ghana for a last-minute check before the United States finally approves a $130-million loan for the big Volta Dam project there, informed sources said Saturday.

G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, is slated to head the U.S. team. Other members are expected to include the State Department's legal adviser, Abram Chayes, and Harold H. Linder, Export-Import Bank chairman.

The trip is tentatively scheduled for Sept. 29.

Kennedy was understood to be anxious to make sure that the best possible arrangements had been made for the financial success of the operation which runs into hundreds of millions of dollars.

While the President was reported unhappy with the left-wing leanings of Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah, the main purpose of the U.S. mission was said to be economic—not a political arm-twisting threatening withdrawal of U.S. aid if Nkrumah embraces Moscow too closely.

Part of the Volta project's success hinges on a $66-million contribution from Ghana, and the Ghanaian government has been running into economic troubles.

Five Cubans Executed By Firing Squad

HAVANA (UPI)—A firing squad executed five more Cubans in La Cabana Fortress early Saturday withing hours after a Castro war crimes court convicted them as "counter-revolutionaries" in the pay of the United States.

Sixty-four other defendants, including a British subject, were sentenced to jail terms of up to 30 years in the biggest mass trial this year of alleged enemies of Premier Fidel Castro's revolution.

The trial opened Friday and was over at 3 a.m. today. The court sentenced six defendants to death but an appeal tribunal commuted the sentence of one—Rafael E. Garcia Rubio—to 30 years imprisonment.

The five others went "to the wall" a short time later. They were Pedro Cuellas Alonso, Jorge Rojas Castellanos, Angel Posada Gutierrez, Braulio Contreras Maso and Manuel Blanco Navarro.

All the defendants were arrested in the roundup following the abortive Pig's Bay invasion attempt last April.

They were accused of having been "organized, trained, paid and directed" by the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) to carry out anti-government activities.

Sentenced to prison for 30 years was Robert M. Geddes, 29, born in Peru of British parents, and representative of a foreign soft drink company in Cuba. The prosecution accused him of being a "link" between the U. S. State Department, the CIA and the anti-Castro movement in Cuba.

Geddes told the war crimes court he was innocent, that he had been a legitimate businessman since he first arrived in Cuba in 1956. He said he was never involved in Cuban politics, was a "sympathizer" with the revolution and in favor of "all it has done for the Cuban people."

Cashier Dies Mowing Lawn In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — John B. Petitbon Jr., head cashier for the New Orleans Times-Picayune and father of two top football players, died Saturday while mowing his lawn.

His two sons starred in both college and professional football. John Petitbon Jr., was a standout at Notre Dame and played later with several professional teams. Richard Petitbon played at Tulane and is now a defensive back with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Petitbon was with The Times-Picayune for 34 years.

Other survivors include his widow; two brothers, Edward Petitbon who is a former U.S. marshal; and Maurice Petitbon.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Kurd Revolt Serious For Iraq Premier

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The revolution among Kurdish tribes in northern Iraq was described by an informed source here Saturday as a more serious issue for Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's Iraqi government than was the Kuwait crisis.

Baghdad has blacked out most news on the revolt by turbanned tribesmen, but some sketchy reports reach here from travelers in the mountainous Iraq-Iran border area. Accurate accounts of casualties and the extent of the fighting are still lacking.

The source said traditional warfare between the mountain tribes broke out in July along the Zab River, but ended this month when Kurds united and turned their rifles against government troops.

Reports indicate Kassem's biggest fear is that Kurds may seize control or sabotage production at oil-producing areas in the north.

Government troops evidently have firm hold of those regions and other major towns, while mountain warriors control surrounding hills and villages. The Iraqi Embassy here calls the fighting an "imperialist insurrection."

The fighting is led by Mullah Mustafa Barzani, an expert in guerrilla warfare who spent 12 years in exile in the Soviet Union.

Barzani, head of a tribe that bears his name, became a general in the Soviet army. He returned to Iraq with 800 armed followers after the revolution of 1958.

Six Perish In Accidents Over State

By United Press International

Louisiana jumped off to a fast and tragic start in week-end fatalities Saturday with at least six deaths resulting from a car-train crash, two auto accidents and a fire. The week-end toll runs from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Leonard, 30 and 21, were killed when their car collided with a train on La. Hwy. 1 near Paincourtville Saturday. State police said the Assumption parish couple apparently failed to stop for the train crossing. Their car was dragged 600 feet.

James R. Butler, 34, of Baton Rouge was killed early Saturday when struck by an auto during a heavy fog on U. S. 190 in West Baton Rouge parish. Walking on the highway to enter a parked car, Butler was struck by a car driven by Albert J. Rabalais Jr. of New Orleans.

Two 20-year-old youths from Madisonville died early Saturday in a three-vehicle collision on U. S. 190 near Madisonville. State police identified the pair as Francois Pelloat and Ralph Perry Jr.

Officers said Pelloat's car crashed head-on into a butane truck operated by Maurice Shaw, 25, of Gulfport, Miss. Shaw, who was slightly injured, lost control of the truck and it smashed into Perry's auto, forcing it off the road.

A 19-year-old New Orleans wife, Mrs. Sandra Ann Landry, burned to death early Saturday in a downtown apartment fire. Her husband, Joseph Landry, 21, suffered burns.

Police said they found narcotics in the apartment and booked Landry on a vagrancy charge. They said he had to be forcibly restrained from running back into the blazing apartment.

The fire started in a bed, and the couple tried to salvage the mattress. Mrs. Landry became wedged between the door frame and the mattress. Her nude body showed head and face burns.

Officers said Landry would be investigated for negligent homicide, possession of narcotics and burglary.

House Destroyed In Friday Fire

A frame house belonging to Cleo Moore on the Moore Road four miles southeast of Monroe was completely demolished Friday night when a fire swept the building.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined by fire department officials last night because the house was almost completely razed by the time trucks arrived.

The Moores were away at the time of the fire and a neighbor reported it. The neighbor said the house was burning strongly before he ever noticed it to call the fire department. Nothing was saved and fire officials said it looked like a fairly large house.

Lyle Garlock Resigns Air Force Post

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lyle S. Garlock, 54, has resigned as assistant secretary of the Air Force for financial management.

Appointed to that office in 1954 by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and reappointed this year by President Kennedy, Garlock has been responsible for the administration of one-fourth of the federal budget.

Garlock's resignation became known in a surprise announcement by Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert at an annual Air Force Association banquet Friday night.

It came after presentation to Garlock, by the AFA, of its H. H. Arnold Trophy for "contributions to national security through 25 years of public service."

Garlock, in a brief acceptance speech, gave no indication he was leaving Air Force service. The AFA had cited him as "aerospace power's man of the year."

Zuckert, main speaker for the evening, digressed from his prepared text to praise Garlock, and then read a telegram from President Kennedy thanking Garlock for the job he had done and "accepting with regret" his resignation.

There was no comment from Garlock. He reportedly left for Washington immediately after the dinner.

There had been rumors of sharp disagreement over fiscal policies between Garlock and other Zuckert advisers. Friends said his main reason for leaving, however, was poor health since a recent operation.

Garlock, a native of Walnut Grove, Minn., was a research assistant at the University of Minnesota for three years after his graduation from that school, and in 1934 entered the U.S. Employment Service and helped develop an occupational dictionary.

In 1946, he became a War Department special consultant on labor policies and problems in Japan. Later he served as assistant director of the U.S. Employment Service until his appointment in 1948 as chief of the Defense Department's budget division. In 1951 he was appointed the department's deputy comptroller for budget.

U.S. To Check On Ghana Aid Before Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will send a high-ranking U.S. mission to Ghana for a last-minute check before the United States finally approves a $130-million loan for the big Volta Dam project there, informed sources said Saturday.

G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, is slated to head the U.S. team. Other members are expected to include the State Department's legal adviser, Abram Chayes, and Harold H. Linder, Export-Import Bank chairman.

The trip is tentatively scheduled for Sept. 29.

Kennedy was understood to be anxious to make sure that the best possible arrangements had been made for the financial success of the operation which runs into hundreds of millions of dollars.

While the President was reported unhappy with the left-wing leanings of Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah, the main purpose of the U.S. mission was said to be economic—not a political arm-twisting threatening withdrawal of U.S. aid if Nkrumah embraces Moscow too closely.

Part of the Volta project's success hinges on a $98-million contribution from Ghana, and the Ghanaian government has been running into economic troubles.

Kurd Revolt Serious For Iraq Premier

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The revolution among Kurdish tribes in northern Iraq was described by an informed source here Saturday as a more serious issue for Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's Iraqi government than was the Kuwait crisis.

Baghdad has blacked out most news on the revolt by turbanned tribesmen, but some sketchy reports reach here from travelers in the mountainous Iraq-Iran border area. Accurate accounts of casualties and the extent of the fighting are still lacking.

The source said traditional warfare between the mountain tribes broke out in July along the Zab River, but ended this month when Kurds united and turned their rifles against government troops.

Reports indicate Kassem's biggest fear is that Kurds may seize control or sabotage production at oil-producing areas in the north.

Government troops evidently have firm hold of those regions and other major towns, while mountain warriors control surrounding hills and villages. The Iraqi Embassy here calls the fighting an "imperialist insurrection."

The fighting is led by Mullah Mustafa Barzani, an expert in guerrilla warfare who spent 12 years in exile in the Soviet Union.

Barzani, head of a tribe that bears his name, became a general in the Soviet army. He returned to Iraq with 800 armed followers after the revolution of 1958.

Six Perish In Accidents Over State

By United Press International

Louisiana jumped off to a fast and tragic start in week-end fatalities Saturday with at least six deaths resulting from a car-train crash, two auto accidents and a fire. The week-end toll runs from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Leonard, 30 and 21, were killed when their car collided with a train on La. Hwy. 1 near Paincourtville Saturday. State police said the Assumption parish couple apparently failed to stop for the train crossing. Their car was dragged 600 feet.

James R. Butler, 34, of Baton Rouge was killed early Saturday when struck by an auto during a heavy fog on U. S. 190 in West Baton Rouge parish. Walking on the highway to enter a parked car, Butler was struck by a car driven by Albert J. Rabalais Jr. of New Orleans.

Two 20-year-old youths from Madisonville died early Saturday in a three-vehicle collision on U. S. 190 near Madisonville. State police identified the pair as Francois Pelloat and Ralph Perry Jr.

Officers said Pelloat's car crashed head-on into a butane truck operated by Maurice Shaw, 25, of Gulfport, Miss. Shaw, who was slightly injured, lost control of the truck and it smashed into Perry's auto, forcing it off the road.

A 19-year-old New Orleans wife, Mrs. Sandra Ann Landry, burned to death early Saturday in a downtown apartment fire. Her husband, Joseph Landry, 21, suffered burns.

Police said they found narcotics in the apartment and booked Landry on a vagrancy charge. They said he had to be forcibly restrained from running back into the blazing apartment.

The fire started in a bed, and the couple tried to salvage the mattress. Mrs. Landry became wedged between the door frame and the mattress. Her nude body showed head and face burns.

Officers said Landry would be investigated for negligent homicide, possession of narcotics and burglary.

House Destroyed In Friday Fire

A frame house belonging to Cleo Moore on the Moore Road four miles southeast of Monroe was completely demolished Friday night when a fire swept the building.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined by fire department officials last night because the house was almost completely razed by the time trucks arrived.

The Moores were away at the time of the fire and a neighbor reported it. The neighbor said the house was burning strongly before he ever noticed it to call the fire department. Nothing was saved and fire officials said it looked like a fairly large house.

Lyle Garlock Resigns Air Force Post

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lyle S. Garlock, 54, has resigned as assistant secretary of the Air Force for financial management.

Appointed to that office in 1954 by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and reappointed this year by President Kennedy, Garlock has been responsible for the administration of one-fourth of the federal budget.

Garlock's resignation became known in a surprise announcement by Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert at an annual Air Force Association banquet Friday night.

It came after presentation to Garlock, by the AFA, of its H. H. Arnold Trophy for "contributions to national security through 25 years of public service."

Garlock, in a brief acceptance speech, gave no indication he was leaving Air Force service. The AFA had cited him as "aerospace power's man of the year."

Zuckert, main speaker for the evening, digressed from his prepared text to praise Garlock, and then read a telegram from President Kennedy thanking Garlock for the job he had done and "accepting with regret" his resignation.

There was no comment from Garlock. He reportedly left for Washington immediately after the dinner.

There had been rumors of sharp disagreement over fiscal policies between Garlock and other Zuckert advisers. Friends said his main reason for leaving, however, was poor health since a recent operation.

Garlock, a native of Walnut Grove, Minn., was a research assistant at the University of Minnesota for three years after his graduation from that school, and in 1934 entered the U.S. Employment Service and helped develop an occupational dictionary.

In 1946, he became a War Department special consultant on labor policies and problems in Japan. Later he served as assistant director of the U.S. Employment Service until his appointment in 1948 as chief of the Defense Department's budget division. In 1951 he was appointed the department's deputy comptroller for budget.

UP TO RED CHINA

Tiny State Ready For Peace Or War

By DAVID McCABE
United Press International

GANGTOK, Sikkim (UPI) — The tiny buffer state between two giants is ready for peace or war.

Sikkim, 2,800 square miles of Himalayan snows and fertile valleys, borders on India to the south and Chinese-controlled Tibet to the north and east.

Should the Chinese again decide to push their frontier farther south towards Calcutta, the glacial streams of Sikkim would be among the first to be reddened with blood.

India, administrator of Sikkimes external affairs since 1950, is responsible for the nation's defense network. A year ago, confirmed reports of Chinese border reinforcements increased the possibility of Sino-Indian hostilities. Since then, construction and military reinforcements have been stepped up.

Today, both official and unofficial sources agree India can meet any direct aggression into Sikkim.

Roads have been the major accomplishment. Because an army must eat, ancient mule tracks once dedicated to Indo-Tibetan trade have been widened for light traffice. Trucks and jeeps now can go well into northcentral Sikkim. The crash program has carved a new road with manual labor supplied by Tibetan refugees.

To build a road here, you first must fight the rock, whose avalanche tendencies have best been publicized by the men who climb Himalayan mountains. The road climbs mountains too, but with a one in twenty gradient that any man or machine can negotiate.

The road also crosses valleys. The longest Bailey suspension span in the world is here, sitting in the middle of nowhere—450 feet above the muddy river below.

Sikkim, as seen from the road, is the same as it has been for centuries. Bamboo huts that wither and are rebuilt each year, stud the mountainsides where corn and rice grow. Thin waterfalls plunge hundreds of feet.

If there is a war, men will be fighting above as well as below the oxygen danger line of 15,000 feet. India, which says it will never aggress, is assured of at least a temporary advantage. Its first stand would be made from the summits of the hills.

Unusual Sound Effects Heard In Music Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Unusual acoustics in the basement of the Lunt-Fontanne theater are utlized to provide a cathedral-like quality for the opening choral melody in "The Sound of Music."

The sponsors of the Rodgers-Hammerstein musical found the tonal effect so to their liking that a tape recording of that single number was made for use of the national company on cross-country tour.

BOB KENNEDY SAYS

U.S. To Enforce Bus Integration

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Saturday the Justice Department "will cooperate fully" in enforcing Commission order outlawing segregation in interstate bus travel.

He said the order, issued Friday and effective Nov. 1, was the "most far-reaching administrative action ever taken by the federal government" in the field of racial discrimination.

"I am gratified that the commission has taken this important step," the President's brother added in a statement.

In promising his department's full cooperation in enforcing the order, Kennedy said the unanimity of the ICC "reflects the determination of the American people as a whole to make progress in the civil rights field."

"If the new regulations are accepted and applied with good will and wisdom," he added, "the results will be a credit to our country."

In a reference to the "freedom riders," the Attorney General recalled that federal and state authorities found it necessary last May "to take extraordinary steps to protect the safety of interstate travelers."

He said the violence and threats of violence which marked such challenges grew out of racially discriminatory practices in interstate travel.

As a result, Kennedy said, the ICC was requested to issue new regulations "in order that these practices of segregation be terminated in the courts, rather than fought out in the streets." He said this was "consistent with the American tradition of living under the rule of law."

Kennedy also noted that the ICC held hearings last August and the department urged then that segregation in bust ravel be outlawed in line with previous court rulings.

An ICC spokesman said violation of the regulations would be a criminal offense punishable by fines. Under the order ,he said, bus companies are required to notify the commission of any violation of the regulations.

The ICC then investigates to see if there is a case. If it decides there is a basis for the charges, the case is turned over to a U.S. Attorney for prosecution.

Penalty for conviction for a first offense is a minimum fine of $100 and a maximum of $500. Fines for second offenses run from $200 to $500.

If a civil rights violation is involved, the case is referred to the Justice Department for investigation and prosecution.

The commission spokesman said responsibility for reporting such incidents lie with the interstate bus companes over which the ICC has jurisdiction. If someone tears down a sign, for example, the bus company is supposed to report the fact to the CC, he said.

Waggoner Plans Congress Race

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Joe Waggoner Jr. of Plain Dealing said Saturday he would run for the 4th district congressional seat left vacant by the death last week of Rep. Overton Brooks, D-La.

He said he would campaign against "foreign give-aways, communism within and without, deficit and backdoor spending, and federal encroachment on state and local rights." His name is the first in the race.

Waggoner, 43, is a member of the State Board of Education and of the Bossier Parish School Board.

Caddo Firms Boycott TV Film Sponsor

Caddo parish Sheriff J. Howell Flournoy and two photographic suppliers joined a boycott of Bell & Howell Co., products started Friday by the Caddo school board.

The boycott threatened to become statewide on at least two fronts.

Flournoy branded the film show, broadcast here Tuesday, "the most dastardly and inflammatory program I've ever seen in my life." He promised to urge a statewide boycott against Bell & Howell by peace officers.

Parish school board member J. D. Waggonner, also a member of the state board of education, said the parish board voted to discontinue using the firm's products in its schools.

He said he intended to seek similar action by the state board and other parish boards throughout the state.

In Chicago, Bell and Howell President Peter G. Peterson said his company planned to keep on sponsoring documentaries without restricting their content. He said the concern did not know the nature of "Walk in My Shoes" until the time it was broadcast.

Woody's Cameraland, claiming to be the largest Bell & Howell distributor in Louisiana, said today it was dropping the company's products in protest to the television show.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

Robert E. Lee returned to Richmond in the fall of 1861 from western Virginia, sad, dejected and a failure in his first field campaign of the Civil War.

Failure was a word which Lee had not known. Always he had been a success. He had found the path which led Gen. Winfield Scott to the capture of Mexico City, he had constructed forts and military projects, he had been superintendent of West Point.

Now, as he reported to his commander -in - chief, President Jefferson Davis, he was reticent about going into details of the dismal debut he had just made in the mountains of western Virginia.

Only when Davis agreed to keep the information confidential would Lee unbend enough to tell the long and sad story of what had happened — about stubborn and jealous officers, bleak terrain, record rains and compounded blunders.

Later, Davis described the interview:

"He came back, carrying the heavy weight of defeat, and unappreciated by the people . . . for they could not know . . . that, if his plans had been carried out, the result would have been victory. I would not have known it, had he not breathed it into my ear only at my earnest request and begging that nothing be said about it."

This characteristic of Lee — never to speak a word against any officer who was fighting for the Confederacy — was even more apparent later in the war.

Probably no officer could have brought off a victory in western Virginia in the summer and fall of 1861. Certainly no officer sent.

Lee had been, as only an adviser and counselor — not a commander — could reasonably have expected success.

Lee by this time was a full general, but a general without an army and without a staff.

Western Virginia was one of the early Civil War battlefields. Largely Union in sentiment, the mountain counties west of the Shenandoah Valley rebelled at secession by their tidewater fellow citizens. The territory was highly strategic. It lay across the Union communications to the west from Washington. It provided a valley and thence into eastern Virginia. It looked west on the long corridor of the Ohio Valley.

Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan, now reorganizing the Union army around Washington after its defeat at Bull Run (Manassas), had made his reputation early in the summer by driving the Confederates from the key points in the territory. Now McClellan had gone on to be commander of the Army of the Potomac and Gen. William S. Rosecrans was in charge. His army was well scattered.

Lee's job was to weld together the equally - scattered Confederates into a fighting force and retake the area.

He had left Richmond on July 28. All through August, when it rained nearly every day, he marshalled his troops to strike a blow.

By Sept. 12 Lee was ready to pounce on the Federals at Cheat Mountain, scene of an earlier Confederate defeat.

Lacking a staff, Lee himself had ridden the mountain trails in the rain and found what he thought was a route that would enable his men to surprise the Federals. Now he needed another route for a second column. Col. Albert Rust of the 3rd Arkansas found it and asked to lead that column. Lee agreed although he did not know Rust.

Confederate Gen. Armistead L. Long, later Lee's military secretary and an artillery commander, tells the story of the attempt:

"The plan was that Colonel Rust should gain the rear of the Federal position by early dawn and begin the attack . . . (His) attack on Cheat Mountain was to be the signal for the general advance of all troops (about 11,000). It was anxiously expected, from early dawn, throughout the day . . . (Gen. Samuel R.) Anderson (of Tennessee) and Gen. Daniel S.) Donelson (also of Tennessee), finding that their situation was becoming critical -- being liable to discovery and being between two superior forces—rejoined General (William W.) Loring on the 13th (of September). On the same day, Colonel Rust reported in person his operations, which amounted to this: he heard nothing of General Anderson; his heart failed him; he passed the day watching the Federals and then retired. . ."

Not one public word of censure of Rust or the other officers who had bungled came from Lee.

South and west of Cheat Mountain, Lee had other troubles. There in the Kanawha Valley, Gen. John B. Floyd, former secretary of war under President Buchanan, and Gen. Henry Wise, former governor of Virginia, each had a small force but neither of these rugged individualists would cooperate with each other, or with Lee.

On Sept. 10, two days before Lee's failure at Cheat Mountain, Floyd's force of about 5,000 men clashed at Carnifex Ferry with a Federal force under Rosecrans which was moving down from the north. Here where the Gauley and Meadow rivers join, the battle was fought in woods so dense that most of the time neither commander knew where his forces were. The Union forces made several charges against Floyd's troops but were repulsed. That night Floyd withdrew, blaming Wise for the retreat because he had not sent help. Union casualties were 17 dead 141 wounded. Floyd, wounded slightly, reported 20 casualties, all wounded.

Rosecrans moved the bulk of his forces to the vicinity of Gauley Bridge, where the Gauley and the New rivers meet to form the Kanwha, and there they faced each other the rest of September and through October.

On Nov. 1 Floyd tried again at Gauley Bridge. The affair was noisy but inconclusive. Rosecrans sent a column around Floyd's force and Floyd, hearing of it, withdrew. That ended the western Virginia campaign for 1861. Both sides withdrew troops to other theaters and the rest went into winter quarters.

Lee could count on one gain from the campaign, however. Here he found the horse Traveller, the magnificent mount that became almost as famous as his master.

When Lee first saw the horse he was ridden by Maj. Thomas Broun of the 3rd Virginia, who had paid $175 for him.

"I'll need him before the war is over," Lee told Broun.

Early in 1862, Lee bought the horse for $200 and rode him through the rest of the war.

Traveller outlived Lee and died of lockjaw.

He wrote to his wife

Now Davis had a new assignment for Lee. Go to South Carolina to supervise building of defenses.

But Lee now was not the symbol of the Confederacy he later came to be.

They were calling him "Granny" Lee and the Richmond Examiner editor expressed the hope that the would be more successful with the spade than with the sword.

Special Course In Psychology Set At NLSC

Registration for the course, Psychology 125—Psychodynamics of Everyday Life, will be held at the first meeting of the class, starting at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Sept. 25, and being held each Monday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The course will differ from the usual introductory course in academic psychology in that it will be primarily a psychoanalytic approach, with the emphasis being laid on unconscious processes, feelings and emotions.

The ultimate purpose of the course will be to assist the individual in understanding himself whether it be in his normal aspects or in areas in which he has problems.

The course is being taught at the request of the Monroe Area Guidance Center, and Dr. Edward G. Long, medical director of MAGC, will be the instructor.

Carrying two semester hours of undergraduate credit, the course will have a $10 registration fee, and a minimum of 25 persons must register.

All high school graduates who meet the admission requirements of the College will be eligible to register for the course. Students registered in full-time programs at the College must have the approval of their academic deans to take this course.

Information about the course may be obtained from the registrar's office at Northeast State.

New Series May Change Actor's Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dick Chamberlain, poor lad, doesn't know what he's in for.

He walks around like a normal human being, happy with the world, well-adjusted.

All this will change next Thursday.

Chamberlain, 26, is the 1961 Dr. Kildare, starring in the TV version of the hospital stories beginning next week.

That means he inherits not only Lew Ayres scalpel and sterile togs, but all the stale jokes as well.

"Calling Dr. Kildare." Remember all the gags that started that way?

"Already people are coming up and complaining of a pain here or there," the actor admitted. "It gets to be somewhat of a bore. The only answer I have is to prescribe a Mediterranean cruise."

Chamberlain is a Los Angeles boy, son of a manufacturer. After Army service in Korea, he studied voice and drama and landed a few roles in TV films. He starred in an MGM Western pilot film that failed to sell, but that didn't stop producer Herbert Hirschman from tapping him for Dr. Kildare.

The movie series ran to 13 features and helped spawn such stars as Red Skelton, Van Johnson and Laraine Day. "Calling Dr. Kildare" (1939) was the most famous of the films and the title became a national phrase.

"We're being careful not to use the paging system in the TV series," said Hirschman. "Whenever Dr. Kildare gets a call, it's on the telephone.

Note Aids Actress To Get Big Break

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pretty Patricia Marand got her big break on Broadway in a most unusual way. She wrote a "no, thank you" note to Richard Rodgers, who had offered her a stage job.

The unique incident was revealed by Miss Marand during an interview after she had completed a rehearsal for a new revue at one of New York's swankiest hotels (The Pierre).

Rodgers, who had received good reports on Patricia's performances in eight summer stock musicals on Cape Cod, had offered Miss Marand a job in a road show.

"I didn't want to leave New York, though," Patricia said. "So I wrote Mr. Rodgers a note turning down the offer but thanking him for his kindness."

A day or so later, Miss Marand and a friend went to a theater district restaurant for lunch. She spotted the famed composer sitting at a neary table.

"'That's Richard Rodgers,' I told my friend, who was a lawyer," Patricia said.

"'Why don't you go over and say hello to him?' my friend said."

Patricia balked at first but then walked to Rodgers' table and spoke to him. Rodgers acknowledged receipt of the note and then asked her if she would like to try out for a part in "South Pacific," which at that time was a smash hit on Broadway.

"If you don't have any other plans, come over to the Imperial Theater today at 3 p.m.," Rodgers said.

"Well, if I had an appointment with the Queen of England on that afternoon I still would have gone to the Imperial Theater a 3 p.m.," Patricia said.

The beautiful red-haired girl from Brooklyn sang "All The Things You Are" at the auditioning. That did it.

"I was told that one of the girls playing a nurse was leaving the cast and that since I looked something like her I could have the part," Patricia said.

The minor part in "South Pacific" was the big beginning. Patricia moved along fast, soon getting the lead role of "Teddy Stern" in "Wish You Were Here," another Broadway musical hit.

"Here I was cast in the leading role and I was only a kid out of high school," Patricia said. "I felt that I just didn't have the experience."

Even so, Patricia played the lead on Broadway in "Pajama Game" and had the lead roles in road show and stock show versions of "Oklahoma," "Kismet" and "Plain and Fancy."

Patricia, whose voice ranges from mezzo to soprano, has appeared in supper clubs or concert stages around the country. She served as soloist with symphony orchestras of Pittsburgh, Rochester, Baltimore, Minneapolis, New Haven, Chicago and Cleveland in concerts based on the work of Rodgers and Hammerstein, Jerome Kern and Cole Porter. She has sung in supper clubs in Las Vegas, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and New Orleans.

Patricia thrives on musicals but she has had considerable dramatic training, at the American Academy of Dramatic Art and with Uta Hagen and Claudia Franch.

"I hope to do a serious play some day," she said.

Maybe she should write a "no, thank you" note to Tennessee Williams.

Hebert Seeking U.S. Tract For Hospital Site

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., said Friday he was giving top priority toward acquisition of a 500-acre federal tract, part of the old Navy ammunition depot as a site for a hospital for retarded children.

However, he said, the site would be lost unless the state shows it is ready to make a definite commitment on construction of the hospital.

State Rep. Arthur Crais, after a talk with Hebert, said he would ask the State Bond and Building Commission to approve $3.5 million for the project.

He said he would talk with Gov. Jimmie Davis and Charles Rosenblum, director of the state hospital department.

Meanwhile, Rosenblum said in New Orleans that money to build the hospital was not available at present.

The legislature has approved building such a hospital in the New Orleans area. But steps have already been taken toward locating it at Hammond on private land donated to the state.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

Robert E. Lee returned to Richmond in the fall of 1861 from western Virginia, sad, dejected and a failure in his first field campaign of the Civil War.

Failure was a word which Lee had not known. Always he had been a success. He had found the path which led Gen. Winfield Scott to the capture of Mexico City, he had constructed forts and military projects, he had been superintendent of West Point.

Now, as he reported to his commander -in - chief, President Jefferson Davis, he was reticent about going into details of the dismal debut he had just made in the mountains of western Virginia.

Only when Davis agreed to keep the information confidential would Lee unbend enough to tell the long and sad story of what had happened — about stubborn and jealous officers, bleak terrain, record rains and compounded blunders.

Later, Davis described the interview:

"He came back, carrying the heavy weight of defeat, and unappreciated by the people . . . for they could not know . . . that, if his plans had been carried out, the result would have been victory. I would not have known it, had he not breathed it into my ear only at my earnest request and begging that nothing be said about it."

This characteristic of Lee — never to speak a word against any officer who was fighting for the Confederacy — was even more apparent later in the war.

Probably no officer could have brought off a victory in western Virginia in the summer and fall of 1861. Certainly no officer sent, as Lee had been, as only an adviser and counselor — not a commander — could reasonably have expected success.

Lee by this time was a full general, but a general without an army and without a staff.

Western Virginia was one of the early Civil War battlefields. Largely Union in sentiment, the mountain counties west of the Shenandoah Valley rebelled at secession by their tidewater fellow citizens. The territory was highly strategic. It lay across the Union communications to the west from Washington. It provided a Valley and thence into eastern Virginia. It looked west on the long corridor of the Ohio Valley.

Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan, now reorganizing the Union army around Washington after its defeat at Bull Run (Manassas), had made his reputation early in the summer by driving the Confederates from the key points in the territory. Now McClellan had gone on to be commander of the Army of the Potomac and Gen. William S. Rosecrans was in charge. His army was well scattered.

Lee's job was to weld together the equally - scattered Confederates into a fighting force and retake the area.

He had left Richmond on July 28. All through August, when it rained nearly every day, he marshalled his troops to strike a blow.

By Sept. 12 Lee was ready to pounce on the Federals at Cheat Mountain, scene of an earlier Confederate defeat.

Lacking a staff, Lee himself had ridden the mountain trails in the rain and found what he thought was a route that would enable his men to surprise the Federals. Now he needed another route for a second column. Col. Albert Rust of the 3rd Arkansas found it and asked to lead that column. Lee agreed although he did not know Rust.

Confederate Gen. Armistead L. Long, later Lee's military secretary and an artillery commander, tells the story of the attempt:

"The plan was that Colonel Rust should gain the rear of the Federal position by early dawn and begin the attack . . . (His) attack on Cheat Mountain was to be the signal for the general advance of all troops (about 11,000). It was anxiously expected, from early dawn, throughout the day . . . (Gen. Samuel R.) Anderson (of Tennessee) and Gen. Daniel S.) Donelson (also of Tennessee), finding that their situation was becoming critical — being liable to discovery and being between two superior forces—rejoined General (William W.) Loring on the 13th (of September). On the same day, Colonel Rust reported in person his operations, which amounted to this: he heard nothing of General Anderson; his heart failed him; he passed the day watching the Federals and then retired. . ."

Not one public word of censure of Rust or the other officers who had bungled came from Lee.

South and west of Cheat Mountain, Lee had other troubles. There in the Kanawha Valley, Gen. John B. Floyd, former secretary of war under President Buchanan, and Gen. Henry Wise, former governor of Virginia, each had a small force but neither of these rugged individualists would cooperate with each other, or with Lee.

On Sept. 10, two days before Lee's failure at Cheat Mountain, Floyd's force of about 5,800 men clashed at Carnifex Ferry with a Federal force under Rosecrans which was moving down from the north. Here where the Gauley and Meadow rivers join, the battle was fought in woods so dense that most of the time neither commander knew where his forces were. The Union forces made several charges against Floyd's troops but were repulsed. That night Floyd withdrew, blaming Wise for the retreat because he had not sent help. Union casualties were 17 dead 141 wounded. Floyd, wounded slightly, reported 20 casualties, all wounded.

Rosecrans moved the bulk of his forces to the vicinity of Gauley Bridge, where the Gauley and the New rivers meet to form the Kanwha, and there they faced each other the rest of September and through October.

On Nov. 1 Floyd tried again at Gauley Bridge. The affair was noisy but inconclusive. Rosecrans sent a column around Floyd's force and Floyd, hearing of it, withdrew. That ended the western Virginia campaign for 1861. Both sides withdrew troops to other theaters and the rest went into winter quarters.

Handicapped Reclaimed

Center Of Hope

By JANICE CLARK
Crossett, Ark. Correspondent

"The biggest thing that's happened to Arkansas!" is what the students and staff at the Hot Springs Rehabilitation Center keep telling people about their new training center for handicapped people.

And they might just about be right. The physical property alone of the vast Veterans' Hospital which was given to the state of Arkansas by the Defense Department is bigger than any facility in the world devoted to the reclaiming of the handicapped for useful living.

Dominated by its great main building which perches over the commercial center of Hot Springs, the 24 acre grounds hold 30 buildings, which encompass 12 acres of floor space. Replacement value of the property and equipment is estimated at over thirty-three million dollars.

FROM 5 STATES

The center, which opened on January 1 of this year, now has 167 students, with an eventual student capacity of between 350 and 400. Those students enrolled at the center come from all parts of Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, and Missouri.

The first thing a person learns upon entering the center is that there are no "patients" there — only students. Unless there is a possibility of training the applicant for a vocation, or making a handicapped wife or mother a more competent home - maker, that applicant is not accepted.

The direction of teaching and therapy is determined after a one to 30 day period of evaluation of individual potentials. This includes physical and medical examinations, psychological, social, and vocational testing.

APPROACH

The approach to analysis of the individual is neither devious nor unduly erudite. It is a simple searching for positives. What can he do? What is there to work with? These are the questions that come up over and over in staff conferences as a newcomer is going through the evaluation process. The negatives, or handicaps, are almost forgotten as the question is repeated over and over, "What are the positives in this case?"

And out of an incredible, previously overwhelming, list of negatives the center keeps as its reason for existence the finding and developing of positives in human beings.

After the evaluation period the student is given a schedule for the six - hour class day, and he becomes a member of the student body. Some of the student's six-hour day may be spent in physiotherapy, having muscles rebuilt in the gleaming stainless steel tubs where the gentle fuzzing of whirling water can massage muscles reached in no other way.

Specially built exercise machines will hold a man's leg in a sling designed for him and rotate the limb to regain lost hip function. Psychiatric consultation is available, and speech therapy, along with regular medical supervision where needed.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

The rest of the "school" day is spent working at the vocation which evaluation showed the student suited for. There is cosmotology, which is particularly adaptable for people with hearing, speech, or heart problems, as well as certain nervous disorders. Students in that area must complete 1200 hours' work and then take state board examination.

DR. GERALD FISHER
Center Administrator

Junior accounting is taught in a nine months course, and the operation of business machines. Remedial spelling, algebra and simple arithmetic are taught to help round out other basic studies. One of the most attractive secretaries at the Center was left by polio with both legs paralyzed and does her work from a wheel chair.

She received her training in an Oklahoma rehabilitation center, and is a constant sources of encouragement to others in business training.

Another popular department is the automobile repair center. This includes body and fender repair and spray painting, and general auto mechanics. A one armed with two other severe disabilities is at present being turned into a good body and fender man.

It is an eye-opening experience to the visitor to see just how much partially crippled men can do in the repair of small motors and appliances — lawn mowers, fans, electric irons, washing machines, motor bikes, boat motors, toasters, and dozens of other items on which man has become dependent.

FOR BRIDE

The sewing and tailoring instruction late in August was almost entirely in the designing and sewing of dresses for a bride and her attendants. The first wedding at the Center was August 31, and the entire Center was in on the act. The bride, who was completing her training in cosmotology, wore white — made for her by her friends in the sewing department. Her maids wore dresses of the flower colors, also run up by the students. Best man was administrator of the Center, Dr. Gerald Fisher, and maid of honor was supervisor of student services, Miss Dojelo Crabaugh.

Among other vocations taught are clock and watch making and repair, radio and TV programming and announcing, radio and TV repair, upholstery and furniture repair and woodworking. There are greenhouses ready for students when the demand develops. The future will also undoubtedly bring photography and any of countless other fields of training to fit the needs of the individuals for a new lease on life.

Recreation plays a vital part in the program of social and psychological rehabilitation. Every evening after supper the recreation rooms come alive with shuffleboard, dancing, card games, TV rooms tuned to each of the three available channels, and bowling. Here the assistant recreation director, Chuck Fitzhugh, is a walking example of a man who has overcome the serious handicap of having had both hands and arms almost to the elbow blown off by a detonation bomb while he was in the armed services. He has been fitted with two lower arms ending in curved claws, which he operates with shoulder controls. Fitzhugh has developed such complete control of his artificial hands that he skiis with great zest and skill, and does far more than most of his friends accomplish with no "handicap."

OVER BITTER ROAD

He has been over the bitter road from the deep depression that comes from feeling broken and helpless and only a partman, to the lofty triumph of having, through his own determination and the help offered in a rehabilitation center, become a whole man and a richly contributing citizen. This man is enormously happy to be helping others along the same rocky uphill road to a summit where they can know something of his own feling of triumph.

Fitzhugh works with the director of recreation, Sam Graft, to create a program not only of evening activities, but of weekend fishing and sightseeing trips and picnics. There is a bus, also inherited from the Veterans' Hospital, to take the students and staff to the countless beauty spots in the Ouachita hills surrounding the famous spa.

Recreation planning not only must include people with a wide range of physical, emotional, and mental limitations, but it must reckon with everything from the 16 year old jitterbug enthusiast to the 78 year old widow. The problems of the staff are tremendous, but they measure their success by the number of initially helpless, frightened, resentful, or socially apathetic students who slowly but surely join the society of happy, active people during recreation periods.

Much of the climate of sparkle and hope in evidence at the Center is generated by its 33-year-old administrator, Dr. Gerald Fisher. A young man of enormous vitality and zest for living, Dr. Fisher is very much alive to the immeasurable potential of the great Hot Springs Rehabilitation Center. He is content, however, to see it grow slowly, preferring that it "build slowly and soundly and remain flexible for needs as they arise."

He says they try to keep each class small—no larger than 15 students—so that the instructor can give full attention to individual needs. He adds that, "We insist that our students be able to do the job as well as, or better than, anyone else," so that when they place a student from the Center that person will prepare the way for future placements.

No student is allowed to languish in his room or rest on his infirmities. When interviewing Vernon Glenn for the position of supervisor of vocational training, Dr. Fisher stressed the importance of the students staying busy at their work or therapy during the entire six-period day. His final admonition to Glenn was, "When I go down through those training areas I want only to see backsides and elbows."

Hot Springs (Ark.) Rehabilitation Center

OWNERS

Who do these "backsides and elbows" belong to? To the visually handicapped, partially paralyzed, crippled, heart cases, those with speech problems, mentally retarded, epileptics, and many with personality problems. The Center serves as a half-way house between release from a mental institution and the outside world, where a former mental patient may have time to adjust to living with normal people under normal conditions before returning to completely unsupervised life.

If a person is handicapped in any way and evaluation shows he or she can be trained for any vocation, that person is eligible for enrollment at the Hot Springs Rehabilitation Center, and they are accepted from any state in the Union without out-of-state penalty in charges.

The Center is a part of the Arkansas Rehabilitation Service, which is nationally recognized as a leader in vocational rehabilitation. The state program, under the direction of Don Russell, of Little Rock, rated third in the nation last year in the number of rehabilitation closures per hundred thousand population, closing 136 per 100,000 in contrast to the national average of 49.

STRONG FIELD

The Arkansas program rests on a strong field counselor base. Twelve field offices and 27 field counselors give statewide service coverage. No student from Arkansas is admitted to the Hot Springs Center except through a field counselor. The program also depends on its field counselors for placement of graduating students. No student is placed without the approval of the counselor, because of his familiarity with the background and long-range needs of the individual. If anyone is interested in admission to the Center and does not know who his field counselor is, a note to the Hot Springs Rehabilitation Center will direct him.

Cost for staying at the Center is low. Standard fee is $8.00 per day, which includes room, board, medical supervision and-or treatment, therapies, vocational training, counseling, etc. Infirmary fee is $12.00 a day, and applies to students who, while receiving other needed services, must live in the infirmary.

The Arkansas Rehabilitation Service receives in Federal aid $70 for every $30 spent of state money. The student pays what he can for the rehabilitation, and the state makes up the rest of the total cost.

An increasing number of the handicapped are coming from other states than Arkansas, and no extra charge is made. At present from Louisiana there are 10 students from Lake Charles, Bastrop, Shreveport, Church Point, Pineville, Jonesboro, and Deville. There is no preferential treatment shown Arkansas students except that when the Center is filled to capacity an Arkansas person will receive first consideration on admission.

So—in terms of lives reclaimed to self-respect, self-supporting, happy living—many will agree with the crusading fervor of the students and staff at the Hot Springs Rehabilitation Center, "It is the biggest thing that's happened to Arkansas!"

THE WIDE DOORS open on a new life for beautiful Patricia Gail Nelson of Benton, Ark., the first student admitted to the Center on opening day. She is a paraplegic, the result of being accidentally shot in the back when she was 11 years old. She is training in business education, and also taking physical therapy.

Academic Life Faces Law Of Jungle

EDITOR'S NOTE — On many college campuses, the students labor to learn in a setting of natural beauty. But nature can terrify as well as delight. And o nthe campus of Columbus University, academic life come face to face with the law of the jungle.

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dusk settles on the university.

In Low Memorial Library, a student is by himself at the end of a study table, reading Aristotle in Greek. In St. Luke's Hospital, an intern closes a heavy book on pathology to answer a call. In the Juilliard School of Music, a girl experiments with harmonics, in her head. In the Jewish Theological Seminary, a young man cups his head in his hands as he reads the Book of Laws.

The shadows deepen along the walled buildings and leafy walks outside Columbia University and the schools, churches, seminaries clustered around it. And terror comes.

FACE TO FACE

For with darkness, the academic life in this center of learning comes face to face with the law of the jungle.

—A scream spirals from Morningside Park. A teen-age girl just fooling? Or a woman terrified by a purse snatcher?

—Three hep hoodlums say nasty things to a coed on the arm of her date as they stroll Amsterdam Ave. The girl clutches his arm to keep him from answering; the young man's face stiffens angrily. They hurry into a drug store.

—Two private patrolmen fasten sidearms and walk the walled enclosure of the cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Columbia University stands on a rise where Revolutionary War forces fought the Battle of Harlem Heights. Now the neighborhood is called Morningside Heights.

MUGGERS HEIGHTS

Muggers' Heights, some call it.

There are worse areas in New York City. There are streets where day or night a stranger is like a lamb ready for shearing.

But there is a special irony and despair about Morningside Heights: The savant has the theories of human behavior, but the savage knows how to terrorize him.

This is driven home very quickly.

"Morningside Park, even in the daytime, is never safe," warns a bulletin given to coeds arriving at Johnson Hall, a dormitory. "Avoid, also, Morningside Drive, Riverside Park and Central Park after sundown."

What impact does this have on a new girl?

"I have a feeling of uneasiness and resentfulness that I have to be aware of my safety at a school," says Sylvia Hertz, a Chicago coed here on a Ford Foundation grant. "I hate the idea that I can't go into Morningside Park but that they can come to Broadway."

They?

"It's easy to let prejudice work and be afraid of Negroes and Puerto Ricans," Sylvia says. "You can tell yourself they are downtrodden, exploited and that you must understand them. You realize that because they are these things they strike out. But it doesn't matter how sympathetic you may be when you are face to face with someone who might even think in these terms. You run."

12 Bids On Moon

Sometimes we get the idea that a trip to the moon is so visionary that only the federal government is interested in attempting it. Many of us probably have wondered what private industry thinks of the proposal.

If anything seems feasible and offers a chance of success and profit, we may be sure that American business is interested in it.

William Hines, science writer for the Washington Star, comes up with some extremely interesting information on the part private concerns hope to play in reaching the moon.

Twelve of the biggest companies in the space business are sharpening their pencils to bid for the job of building the spacecraft in which Americans hope to fly to the moon in the 1960s.

The contracts will go to the national aeronautics and space administration early next month and by the end of the year a prime contractor will have been chosen.

In the hard race for the moon, the United States is one of the few countries in the world that has come to grips with the problem of escape from the earth's gravity. Probably will never do more courage than that possessed by Christopher Columbus and his bold adventurers when they sailed out of sight of land around the world in America. At a time there were many who thought the world was flat and that ships that sailed too far would fall off the edge of the earth.

Today, of course, man not only knows that the world is round but has a pretty accurate account of its power to push him away from it.

In some ways the trip to the moon will be comparable to the voyage of Columbus because, in the moon trip, scientists agree there is a real possibility of being lost in space if anything goes wrong with the flight.

All of the 12 bidding companies have already devoted much energy and money to the study of the problems involved in going to the moon. Six are already closely identified with manned space flight programs. Of these six, three have conducted NASA-financed studies of the moon mission. The companies represent every skill in the space business and every section of the country.

After the prime contractor is selected, the others will have important roles in Operation Moon.

Many problems confront the capsule designers. Most unknowns, including deep-space radiation, will be no secrets no longer by the time the lunar mission is ready to go.

Things beyond the wildest dreams of those alive at the beginning of the century have come to pass.

We know that adventures into space will enable us to burst the bounds of the tiny speck which is the earth and to go into far regions of the universe. On a tremendously magnified scale, this will be comparable to the experiences of a person who has been confined to one room and who suddenly finds he has traveled the whole earth.

With modern, competent private concerns hard at work on the construction of spaceships, we are made to believe more fully that the time when people can escape from the moon which is the earth is coming.

What good does it do to have more rifles and tanks and big guns than the Russians if we don't have enough of them to do any good?

What it probably means, if war should come, we would lose some hundreds of thousands of men more than necessary while we took time to start manufacturing the weapons that should be ready now. In World War II we took about three years to get ready while England and France fought. This time we may not have three years, nor three months, in which to prepare so we should start seeing to it that we don't face the tragic fate of coming up with too little too late.

Also the president [illegible] Harriman, a [illegible] Adam Yarmolinsky, special assistant to Defense Secretary McNamara, and [illegible]

The Hamilton selection was opposed after a key democrat in the Senate warned the president that the New York lawyer's nomination would touch off a bitter Senate confirmation battle.

The Bundy — Dulles group is also proposing a promotion for Richard Bissell, the planner of the Cuban debacle. They are urging the president to name him to head up a special operations division within the CIA. This unit would handle a variety of unorthodox military operations, including guerrilla fighting.

HOUSE CLEANING?? — The other group, favoring a major shake up in the CIA, is urging the president to pick Dulles' successor from one of the following Army generals:

Lieutenant General Arthur Trudeau, chief of Army research and development and former Army G-2. General Matthew Ridgway, former Army chief of staff and brilliantly successful commander of United Nations forces in Korea, and General James Gavin, now ambassador to France.

This group consists of General Maxwell Taylor, the president's military adviser; General Alfred Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross; Senator Henry Jackson, D. Wash., a close personal friend of the late John Acting Speaker John McCormack, D. Mass.; Representative Gerald Miller, D. Calif., chairman of the House Space Committee, and Senator Styles Bridges, R. N.H., chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee.

They argue that [illegible] the bumbling and [illegible] CIA be completely house-cleaned and its worldwide intelligence operations greatly strengthened.

This group points out that either Generals Trudeau, Ridgway, or Gavin would be a natural since 30 per cent of the CIA's "hard" intelligence on Russia and Communist China, the two major enemies of the U.S., now comes from the intelligence branches of the three military services.

On the other hand, the CIA spends on the average $400 million a year — or more than 10 times the total amount of the three services — on intelligence operations with far less results.

SEARCH GOES ON — Two President Kennedy in recent days [illegible] to talk his brother Attorney General Robert Kennedy into taking the top CIA job.

However, young Kennedy in recent days has told his pro[illegible] that he believes he can be more useful to him in his present cabinet post. He has recommended to the president that he either appoint General Taylor or Deputy Attorney General Byron White.

White, one - time All - American football star and World War II Navy intelligence officer, has indicated that he would be reluctant to accept the post and would do so only if the president insisted.

The White nomination, like Hamilton's, would meet strong opposition in the Senate, according to reliable congressional sources.

As for General Maxwell Taylor, the president is very reluctant to let him go from the White House because of the role he is playing in military planning in the crises in Berlin and South Vietnam.

Switchover To Automated Handling Of Tax Returns Coming Up

The most spectacular operation in the entire history of administration of our Federal income tax laws will get under way within the next 100 days.

For, before this year ends, the Internal Revenue Service will initiate its long - heralded switchover to automated handling of tax returns, and when automation takes over, the IRS will be able to determine by figuratively pressing one button:

If you failed to file a return.

If you made mathematical mistakes on your tax return.

Whether you at any particular time still owe back taxes or other taxes.

Whether you're showing on your return what others are reporting about you on their information returns.

Whether your tax return should be selected for examination by the Revenue Service agents.

The heart of this automated tax check-up system will be the computer center at Martinsburg, West Virginia. Here the IRS will keep on magnetic tape one master file of all business taxpayers and another master file of all individual taxpayers.

Your file, as a taxpayer, will clearly identify you and show your current status — including tax liability, tax delinquency, payment and refund information, results of prior audits, related data.

Each of you, as an individual taxpayer, also will have an account number—which will be your social security number and any person who hasn't a social security number will be issued one.

Business taxpayers already have employer identification numbers and these will be used to identify their accounts in the master file for all business taxpayers.

You'll send your tax returns to local district offices, as you now do. These offices will pass on your returns for processing to one of nine regional service centers. At the regional centers, the returns will be transcribed onto punch cards which will be converted into magnetic tapes. After that, the tapes will go to Martinsburg for checking against the master files. Then, they'll come back to the regional centers which will use their automatic processing equipment to print bills, notices, etc., for mailing to taxpayers and for use by the Internal Revenue Service.

Tied in with its historic use of mechanical brains to check on taxpayers is the Treasury's decision to start examining taxpayers who previously weren't considered in "productive" fields.

The Treasury's reason for examining these taxpayers is not to find a lot of additional tax money which is the basis for its careful "productive" audits of taxpayers who receive a large percentage of their incomes in cash. Rather, its reason for extending its examinations is to keep various large groups of taxpayers reporting "accurately."

Atlanta was selected as the first of the nine regional service centers for automated operation, and it already has received and installed its computers. Starting Jan. 1, 1962, the Atlanta Center will begin to process corporation returns, quarterly federal excise tax returns, income and social security withholding taxes and others for business firms in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee. It will process individual tax returns starting Jan. 1, 1963.

The next regional service center will be set up in Philadelphia and will cover Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

On Oct. 23 in Washington, IRS Commissioner Caplin will hold a one-day conference to discuss the many and varied aspects of the conversion to automation. Business men and their professional advisers are invited to attend the conference, for the switchover is certain to have a dramatic impact on their tax filing procedures.

As for the millions of us, let's face it: the mechanical brain is going to give us the toughest tax "treatment" ever.

It came close on the heels of the removal from command of Major General Edwin A. Walker, a dedicated American, who headed up the 24th Division in Germany.

I have long known General Walker since he commanded the Arkansas Military District at one time, and while I have not always agreed with the line of action his military career compelled him to follow, I do feel in this instance that the general was punished, and harshly so, for the crime of loving America. And I hasten to add, that is no crime. It is high time, and there is a great crying need, for more and more Americans to love America, and cherish its Constitutional way of life.

General Walker is just one of many noted military men who have seen the growing Communist menace and who felt their troops should be educated to the real enemy they face. Surely there is nothing sinister about such a position. But it is this right - wing, conservative type of thinking and speaking that is being assaulted on every side.

The drive to discredit conservative fighters of the Communist movement ties in directly with the current doctrine enunciated in a Red manifesto issued no later than last December. This doctrine declares, among other things: "The coexistence of states with different social systems is a form of class struggle between socialism and capitalism."

Throughout the manifesto, the Red hierarchy equates socialism with communism, as different phases of the same movement.

And this is just what right-wing, conservative spokesmen have been saying all along — that there is no difference between communism and socialism — they are one and the same. Why, then, all this furor to muzzle the spokesmen of the right?

But this Red manifesto goes on to say more. According to expert testimony given to the Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate: "The manifesto ordered a Testimony received by the Senate committee told how political, educational, literary, clerical and other spheres of American society have been boxed in and squeezed out, quietly, one by one.

"This was the hush - hush strategy."

Surely by no use can this Red manifesto be honestly described other than as a strategy for the defeat of the United States and its absorption into the communist empire.

And one of the first steps in the Red plan is to silence all those who are aware of and have the courage to speak out against the communist menace.

The shackles that have silenced our military men should be stripped off immediately. And patriots everywhere should lend encouragement to those who are willing to speak out for America.

12 Bids On Moon

Sometimes we get the idea that a trip to the moon is so visionary that only the federal government is interested in attempting it. Many of us probably have wondered what private industry thinks of the proposal.

If anything seems feasible and offers a chance of success and profit, we may be sure that American business is interested in it.

William Hines, science writer for the Washington Star, comes up with some extremely interesting information on the part private concerns hope to play in reaching the moon.

Twelve of the biggest companies in the space business are sharpening their pencils to bid for the job of building the spacecraft in which Americans hope to fly to the moon in the late 1960s.

These bids will go to the national aeronautics and space administration early next month and by the first of the year a prime contractor will have been chosen.

In the hands of the successful bidder will rest the safety of the boldest adventurers in American history.

In reality this escape from the confines of the earth probably will require no more courage than that possessed by Christopher Columbus and his bold adventurers when they set out on a trip around the world and discovered America. At that time there were many who thought the world was flat and that if the men in the three ships provided by the queen of Spain sailed far enough they would reach the edge of the earth and drop off into limitless space.

That voyage proved that the earth is round and that man not only cannot drop off the world but needs a tremendous amount of power to push him away from it.

In some ways the trip to the moon will be comparable to the voyage of Columbus because, in the moon trip, scientists agree there is a real possibility of being lost in space if anything goes wrong with the flight.

All of the 12 bidding companies have already devoted much energy and money to the study of the problems involved in going to the moon. Six are already closely identified with manned space flight programs. Of these six, three have conducted NASA-financed studies of the moon mission. The companies represent every skill in the space business and every section of the country.

After the prime contractor is selected, the others will have important roles in Operation Moon.

Many problems confront the capsule designers. Most unknowns, including deep-space radiation, will be mysteries no longer by the time the lunar mission is ready to go.

Things beyond the wildest dreams of those alive at the beginning of this century have come to pass.

We know that adventures into space will enable us to burst the bounds of the tiny speck which is the earth and to go into far regions of the universe. On a tremendously magnified scale, this will be comparable to the experiences of a person who has been confined to one tiny room and who suddenly finds he can travel the whole world.

With many big, competent private firms bidding on the construction of spaceships, we are made to realize more fully that the time when people can escape from the tiny room which is the earth is upon us.

Our Lag In Weapons

While our chief representative in the United Nations, Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, seems practically ready to take up the cudgel in support of Russia on the question of admitting Red China and in following the one-world line, we have been led to believe that the United States has been outdistancing Russia in the matter of modern weapons. This appears to be entirely untrue, if usually authentic sources are to be believed.

Now comes the magazine U. S. News and World Report with the statement that new weapons production in this country has hardly been started.

It is startling to read that United States troops which were moved into West Berlin have hardly any of the modern weapons.

We have been told at length of the superiorities of the new weapons and we know of the vast appropriations for defense.

The United States has a splendid new rifle, the M-14, which reportedly may be better than the new Russian model. Only one of our divisions, however, is actually equipped with it and none of the large units in Europe has it. Most of our men still use the M-1 of the last war, while technical troubles snag the new assembly lines.

Considering the huge appropriations that have been made for defense, this lack of preparation is inexcusable. On the basis of this information, it would appear that if a new war were to come we might not only be outdistanced by Russia in nuclear weapons but even in the conventional weapons that have been used as far back as any of us can remember. If war were to come now, it appears that our armaments would come under the classification "too little and too late."

What is true in regard to rifles is also true of other weapons.

Our M-60 is a medium tank with double the range of the old models but at the present of production it will take 12 years to replace the old ones? Where will Russia be in 12 years. By that time our M-60s will be as out of date as the present models are now. The comparable Russian tank is in widespread use.

Reportedly, we have a self-propelled 155-mm gun that is superior to the Russian counterpart but our troops are still looking forward to delivery.

In anti-aircraft missiles the Russian vehicles are inferior to our Nike-Ajax and Nike-Hercules but this gap is somewhat countered by the fact that Russia has a great many more models.

All the way down the line it is a chilling account.

What is the trouble? What is being said in answer to mail about this magazine article by Senator Richard B. Russell and Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairmen of the committees on the armed services?

What good does it do us to have better rifles and tanks and big guns than the Russians if we don't have enough of them to do any good?

What it probably means, if war should come, we would lose some hundreds of thousands of men more than necessary while we took time out to start manufacturing the weapons that should be ready now. In World War II we took about three years to get ready while England and France fought. This time we may not have three years, nor three months, in which to prepare so we should start seeing to it that we don't face the tragic fate of coming up with too little too late.

ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

Dulles Successor Problem

Selection Of New Director For Supersecret Central Intelligence Agency Difficult Task For Kennedy

The selection of a new director for the supersecret Central Intelligence Agency is turning out to be one of Pesident Kennedy's toughest problems.

Since the CIA directed the ill-fated Cuban invasion, the president has been tugged and pulled in opposite directons in picking a successor for CIA Director Allen Dulles.

One powerful faction within the administration wants the president to name a CIA head that will continue the policies and methods of intelligence gathering of Dulles.

Also, they are bitterly opposed to any over-all shake-up of the CIA.

Headed by McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the president, and including Dulles and Walt Rostow, deputy to Bundy, this group is recommending:

Paul Nitze, undersecretary of defense for international affairs; Telford Taylor, prosecutor at the Nuernberg war criminal trials and a reserve brigadier general now practicing law in New York; Fowler Hamilton, Wall Street lawyer and one time Rhodes scholar, and Bundy.

Until this week, the president was all set to name Hamilton, a close friend of Adam Yarmolinsky, a special assistant to Defense Secretary McNamara, and one of the most powerful men in government today.

The Hamilton selection was shelved after a key democrat in the Senate warned the president that the New York lawyer's nomination would touch off a bitter Senate confirmation battle.

The Bundy - Dulles group is also proposing a promotion for Richard Bissell, the planner of the Cuban debacle. They are urging the president to name him to head up a special operations division within the CIA. This unit would handle a variety of unorthodox military operations, including guerrilla fighting.

Matthews' Excuse

New York Times Cuba Correspondent Defends His Position

Herbert Matthews, an editor of "The New York Times" and its principal correspondent in Cuba, has written an apologia to explain away the various attacks made on him as a result of the Cuban fiasco. Matthews is entitled to his day in court and this book is just that. It is his opportunity to affirm, deny, to explain or explain away various charges.

Toward the end of the book appears this paragraph:

"I consider it almost an honor to be attacked by the Eastland-Dodd Committee, by writers like the columnist George Sokolsky and William Buckley of the National Review, by publications like The American Legion Magazine and the Brooklyn Tablet. If such people did not attack me I would feel that there was something wrong with my work."

What he calls the Eastland-Dodd Committee is the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee. This committee has been holding Executive session hearings with regard to Cuba. As for the "National Review," "The American Legion Magazine" and the "Tablet," the official publication of the Brooklyn and Long Island dioceses of the Roman Catholic Church, they will survive Matthews' satisfaction that they were critical of him. As for Bill Buckley and myself, we can well afford to ask Herbert Matthews to state wherein we have been incorrect.

For what I said was that when Earl E. T. Smith was appointed Ambassador to Cuba, he was instructed to accept briefing from Herbert Matthews who was not connected with the State Department but was a "New York Times" reporter. This is what Matthews has to say on the subject:

"The fact that I was supposed to have briefed Earl Smith before he went to Cuba came up somewhat sensationally in 1960, and especially in the Senate subcommittee hearing which I have already mentioned. Arthur Gardner, who apparently did not approve of his successor, first testified that 'he (meaning me) briefed Earl Smith.'"

As I, not Arthur Gardner, am responsible for first calling attention to the briefing of Smith by Matthews, wherein I sinned? After citing Smith's testimony before the aforesaid Senate subcommittee to the effect:

"Mr. Sourwine. Is it true, sir, that you were instructed to get a briefing on your new job as Ambassador to Cuba from Herbert Matthews of The New York Times?

"Mr. Smith. Yes, that is correct.

"Mr. Sourwine. Who gave you these instructions?

"Mr. Smith. William Wieland, director of the Caribbean Division and Mexico."

There is more to this, but what is significant is that Herbert Matthews admits to the truth of Smith's testimony and if Smith was truthful, I was, for I wrote of this, not in 1960 but in 1959. Matthews says:

"Allowing for a sour note or two, this was accurate testimony. It was correct information and good advice that I gave to Earl Smith, and it was a pity that neither he nor the State Department based their policies on it."

I cannot go into the consequences of the State Department and Earl E. T. Smith not taking Herbert Matthews' advice. I, too, have been a free advice-giver in my years and have also suffered the chagrin of watching men make their own mistakes. Had they chosen to follow my advice, fate might have smiled upon them more benevolently. Herbert Matthews believes:

"Newspapermen are not turned out like Fords on an assembly line—at least, not the top-flight ones. They are unique works of art, not cogs in a machine. When they go, others come along to do just as good or better work, but it will be different work."

It is indeed fortunate that a man has so high an opinion of his craft and himself. Herbert Matthews apparently believes that he is "a unique work of art," which he may be, but that does not at all answer how we happened to make so many costly errors regarding Cuba, ending in such a cruel fiasco. Matthews says:

"It was, and is, a great injustice to two devoted and competent United States officials to blame them, as Gardner, Smith, Senators Eastland and Dodd, ex-Ambassador Hill of Mexico, Ed Pawley, the tycoon, and many columnists have done for the defeat of Batista and the triumph of Castro. I refer to Assistant Secretary of State Roy R. Rubottom and William Wieland, who is mentioned above."

If it is unjust to blame Roy R. Rubottom and William Wieland, why does not the Senate publish their testimony and the testimony concerning them? I have inquired a dozen times for this testimony and have been told that it would one day be published. Who has requested the Senate subcommittee to refrain from making this evidence public? Is the testimony too awful for publication? Would it embarrass the State Department too much? Perhaps if the record were published, Matthews' various statements might be confirmed, or if not, there might be a serious scandal. Some day, the whole truth with regard to Cuba will be made public. It has not yet been, although the truth is available.

Rightwing Thinking Criticized After Military Muzzling

HOLMES ALEXANDER has left on a brief European vacation. During his absence a number of prominent and interesting guests will contribute columns.

CONGRESSMAN DALE ALFORD

(Democrat—Arkansas)

WASHINGTON, D. C. — One of the greatest controversies raging in Washington and, in fact, across this nation today involves the growing tendency on the part of many of our so - called experts to castigate and criticize right-wing thinking and right - wing speaking.

This tendency gained its greatest publicity with the recent muzzling of our top - ranking military men following an ill - inspired memorandum to the Pentagon. It came close on the heels of the removal from command of Major General Edwin A. Walker, a dedicated American, who headed up the 24th Division in Germany.

I have long known General Walker since he commanded the Arkansas Military District at one time, and while I have not always agreed with the line of action his military career compelled him to follow, I do feel in this instance that the general was punished, and harshly so, for the crime of loving America. And I hasten to add, that is no crime. It is high time, and there is a great crying need, for more and more Americans to love America, and cherish its Constitutional way of life.

General Walker is just one of many noted military men who have seen the growing Communist menace and who felt their troops should be educated to the real enemy they face. Surely there is nothing sinister about such a position. But it is this right - wing, conservative type of thinking and speaking that is being assaulted on every side.

The drive to discredit conservative fighters of the Communist movement ties in directly with the current doctrine enunciated in a Red manifesto issued no later than last December. This doctrine declares, among other things: "The coexistence of states with different social systems is a form of class struggle between socialism and capitalism."

Throughout the manifesto, the Red hierarchy equates socialism with communism, as different phases of the same movement.

And this is just what right-wing, conservative spokesmen have been saying all along — that there is no difference between communism and socialism — they are one and the same. Why, then, all this furor to muzzle the spokesmen of the right?

But this Red manifesto goes on to say more. According to expert testimony given to the Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate: "The manifesto ordered a frontal attack on the anti - communist movement, for the first time recognized as a fundamental obstacle to Red aims. This made hash of the line taken until then, that had downgraded anti - communism as futile, not worthy of mention, which ridiculed it by such artifices as saying it really helped the Reds . . . The manifesto made plain that anti - communism had to be combatted by a major counter offensive."

Is this the end result we see in the muzzling of our patriotic, loyal military men who have been speaking out against communism? Are we not playing into the hands of our enemy when we castigate and criticize spokesmen across this broad land who are warning against the communist menace?

Testimony received by the Senate committee told how political, educational, literary, clerical and other spheres of American society have been boxed in and squeezed out, quietly, one by one.

"This was the hush - hush strategy."

Surely by nowise can this Red manifesto be honestly described other than as a strategy for the defeat of the United States and its absorption into the communist empire.

And one of the first steps in the Red plan is to silence all those who are aware of and have the courage to speak out against the communist menace.

The shackles that have silenced our military men should be stripped off immediately. And patriots everywhere should lend encouragement to those who are willing to speak out for America.

West Monroe Dog Ordinance

The other night while I was having my 15th cup of coffee, the telephone rang.

"Say," said one of my West Monroe friends, "have you seen what that city hall group has done?"

Not wanting to display my ignorance—meaning I hadn't kept up with the news like I should — I sorta mumbled something.

But apparently he didn't notice my hesitation — he just kept talking.

"I mean that dog ordinance they have passed," he yelled. "Why, that's the worst thing I've seen in a long time. Can't anyone have a dog in the city of West Monroe under that thing?"

I finally managed to get him calmed down with a promise I'd look into the situation. Then I promptly forgot it until a few days later when I noticed the smirk on the faces of my friends when they looked at the little, fuzzy animal we call a dog out at our house.

Then some other friends called me about the ordinance and the way they were telling it I figured we must have a real monster in that new law. So I sent a reporter to West Monroe city hall to pick up a copy.

Well, I waded through such things as the term dog shall mean any dog and any member of the canine family or species; that the term cat shall mean anything that is a cat, whether male, or female, and that the term officer shall mean any health officer, police officer or a duly authorized representative, and that the term owner shall mean any person, having right of property in an animal, or who keeps in his care or harbors an animal, or who acts as its custodian, or who permits an animal to remain on or about his premises.

Oh well, I thought this is just the beginning; I'll find something I can nail them on. So I kept on reading. I learned among other things that:

1. A dog two months or older must be vaccinated against rabies, and that the vaccination tag must be kept on the dog at all times.

2. If a dog isn't vaccinated, the officers is to seize and impound the said dog for a period of at least three days during which time the owner may claim the said dog by paying a certain fee.

3. If any animal that has bitten or attacked any person it is hereby deemed and declared to be a vicious animal and shall be kept effectively yarded and controlled at all times by the owner or other person having the custody thereof. Any such animal roaming at large shall be picked up and impounded by the proper officer and confined until the owner shall pay an impounding fee in the amount of $5 and cost of boarding.

4. This section of the law shall not apply if a dog is maintained as a watch dog and is effectively yarded at all times and if he bites a person trespassing upon the property of the owner or custodian. Such property, however, shall be posted if the animal is considered vicious, with a sign bearing the words "Bad Dog", which signs shall be available through the West Monroe Police Department.

5. No dog shall be permitted to run at large within the corporate limits of the City of West Monroe and any dog, when off the premises of its owner, shall be upon a leash and under the control of a responsible person. I didn't find anything so bad.

I called up my friend. "Say," I told him, "you've made me spend hours of valuable time reading this ordinance for nothing. I don't see anything wrong with it; in fact it looks like a pretty good one—better than a lot I've seen."

"Man," he replied, "you can't understand much of what you read. How did you ever become a newspaper editor?

Since I didn't want to get into a discussion on that point, I rightly kept quiet

"Tell you what you do," he continued. "You read section 11 and 14 again and if you don't get a buzz on those two, then something sure enough is wrong with your brain."

So back I went to the ordinance. Maybe I thought my colleague down at the newspaper — Willie Jasper — had influenced my thinking on the subject of dogs. In fact he dislikes - (I mean likes) dogs so much he spent several nights reading the Bible just to prove to me that whenever a dog was mentioned in that good book, it was in a disfavorable way.

In fact, he elaborated, in nearly every place in the Scriptures a dog is mentioned, it is with contempt.

But back to Section 11 and 14 Section 11 says:

But it shall be the responsibility of the owner to exercise proper care and control of his animals to prevent them from becoming a public nuisance. Excessive, continuous, or untimely barking, or noises, molesting passers-by, chasing vehicles, habitually attacking other domestic animals, female dogs or cats at large in season, dogs running at large, or any animal trespassing upon school grounds or trespassing upon private property in such a manner as to damage property shall constitute a public nuisance and shall be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of the ordinance.

Section 14 says: That it shall be unlawful for any person firm or corporation, to build, erect, establish, maintain or otherwise keep or have any pen within which dogs are kept or maintained within 40 feet of any dwelling or public meeting place or within 20 feet of an adjoining premises.

I admit I'm pretty thick on many things — but I finally began to see what my friend was so up in the air about. So Mr. West Monroe mayor if you will explain certain parts of those two sections to me and my friend maybe we won't be so upset. It could be we just don't understand good ole American English.

We just don't understand this thing about untimely barking.

When is it going to be declared untimely. And how in the world is the judge going to be able to if the ordinance doesn't say.

For example, if my friend's dog lets out a little old bark at noon, it might be more untimely for a neighbor, than say, at 1 a.m. in the morning. Then, too, suppose he barks at a prowler. That's part of his job. My friend and his dog both could get into trouble under the ordinance for this even. So how are you going to define untimely. It looks as if there are going to be more such cases in city court than can be handled — and me, I'd hate to be the poor judge who is going to have to decide this question.

Furthermore, it is natural for a dog to bark a little. In fact, my friend said he personally would rather hear some dogs bark than to have to put up with some of the shrill chatter he hears going on over the back fences—including some that originates in his own back yard. Mr. Mayor, that can be a public nuisance, too, but he says he doesn't guess there is much anybody could do about that. If you and he tried to stop that, there would be a march on City Hall as well as his house and both of you would be run out of town. Those opponents of such a move judging from experience certainly wouldn't have any trouble voicing their opinion— whereas a little old dog could only get out an "untimely" bark.

Also while he's on the subject of noises, he said he would like to complain about some others —such as, rickety, loud lawn mowers before 7 a.m. in the morning You see he does a lot of night work and must sleep a little late or he's too tired to give his boss a full days work. Then, too, this is bad on his nerves. Why, one morning this happened and it shook him up so badly he fell out of bed, skinned his right knee and elbow because he thought a nuclear war had started. You see he had been reading about how bad the world situation was just before he went to sleep that night.

Too, Mr. Mayor he's not against teenagers: He was one himself once — but that was so long ago he doesn't like to think about it. But you, he says, know they roar home late at night in these things that sorta resemble an automobile. It gets pretty loud at times—you know with the boys trying to impress their girl friends by making the car backfire and roar, slamming car doors and stepping down rather hard on the gas when they make the block after the so-long kiss.

This also distrubs his dog and he barks. And this just might be one of those hard-to-define "untimely barks." This, in turn, would make his other neighbor mad. So you see, my friend is kinda caught in the middle—not to say anything about the dog.

Then, too, I am like my friend — I don't understand about these pens and 40 and 20 feet stuff. Maybe we just didn't learn enough math. Suppose my house is on a 50 foot wide lot and the house on each side is just five feet from my property line. How in the world am I going to build a pen that will be 40 feet from each of them. Can you send one of your experts out to show me how?

Seriously, Mr. Mayor and members of your esteemed council, I am afraid section 11 and 14 might cause some bad feelings among good neighbors and in the worst instance might lead to some bloodletting. I don't want that and I know you don't. In fact my friend and I want to do what the good book says and love our neighbors.

So maybe if you would clarify this "untimely" barking deal and how to build a pen 40 feet from each house when we only have a total of 60 feet in which to accomplish that seemingly impossible venture, we'd be much obliged.

We realize to some the above maybe a little too corney, but it was a facetious attempt to point up the fact that Section 11 and 14 are too vague and can be interrupted almost anyway desirable to the person returning the decision. In any event, they don't give the dog owner a chance and are on the side of the real dog-hater.

However, in all fairness, I must say that I fully agree with the aim of the ordinance; that dogs should be controlled, that owners are careless and that all dogs should be vaccinated.

Knowing Police Chief Jeff Caldwell, the man who will actually have to enforce the ordinace, and Mayor Allen Norris as well as other members of the city council, I'm willing to bet my neck on the fact that they will be fair to all in the enforcement of the ordinance and that those ambigious and confusing sections will be changed or corrected.

BIG BROOM IN NEWPORT

New Effort To Clean-Up City

NEWPORT, Ky., (AP) — For half a century, reformers have battered, hauled and tugged at entrenched forces of vice and disorder in this northern Kentucky gamblers' haven with little more than ridicule to show for their pains.

Up to this summer, all efforts to put the lid on Newport's lawless pleasure domes broke against a wall of police indifference and public apathy. Now the wall is crumbling. Most top officials of Newport's city government are under indictment.

Decades ago Newport graduated from a brawling, lusty Ohio River port to a neon-lit center of syndicate - controlled crime and vice — a wide - open town where any conventioneer from staid Cincinnati, across the river, could find all the action he wanted.

By conservative estimate, at least 1,500 persons in this community of 30,000 earned their living from gambling and vice-connected activities: as bookies, craps dealers, waiters, bar maids, bouncers and sundry other jobs in illegal operations.

The scope of those operations was impressive. U. S. Senate crime investigators have reported that a Cleveland-based syndicate moved into Newport years ago to operate a country club and several local night spots. Smaller independents apparently had maintained an uneasy truce with the syndicate, since no bullet-riddled corpses have been found around town in years.

A Campbell County grand jury recently placed at $6 million at least, the take in wagers from numbers and handbook operations in the last fiscal year alone.

A former marshal at nearby Wilder, Jim Harris — who had been convicted of pandering involving a local night club — has reported his payoffs to officials ran into many thousands of dollars over a period of years.

The syndicate, Harris said, "would rather keep Newport going than Las Vegas where gambling is legal, that's how big it is."

Harris noted — as federal authorities also maintain — that Newport is a major center of horse race layoff betting. A bookie makes a layoff bet when he finds himself overextended and the potential loss would be too heavy. He hedges by placing opposite bets or by selling part of his bets to other bookies.

Newport today is a collection of drab brick structures, with few new buildings since 1890. The population has remained the same for 50 years. The city, squeezed between the river and small, incorporated suburbs, lacks room to expand.

Not all residents are defensive about their town's reputation or the sudden uproar with attendant publicity.

A public accountant and long-time resident says: "This is one of the finest cities in Kentucky. The people are as decent as the people anywhere in this country. I've raised my family here. I've never been in a gambling house. I've never been in a house of prostitution."

A local barber sums up the feeling of many residents: "Sure, we're liberal, but what's wrong with that?"

For others, the current investigations provide an eye-opener. An elderly woman who served on the latest Campbell County grand jury walked dazedly from the jury room during a recess.

"I have learned more about my town in one hour than I have in 70 years," she told a reporter.

But what she had discovered was a pattern the reformers have cried against for years. This time, they have going for them the national attention attracted by a bungled attempt to smear clean-up candidate and ex-football star George Ratterman, plus the vigorous state drive to oust and convict local office holders accused of obstructing justice.

Although it brought them a national spotlight, the Ratterman campaign no longer is considered the main hope of reformers. A grand jury grinding out dozens of indictments in complete defiance of local tradition has put the fear of the Lord in gamblers and sin merchants. Things now are so quiet some wags are claiming Cincinnati already is losing conventions.

Ratterman hit the headlines last May when he was arrested with a strip tease dancer named April Flowers in an apartment adjoining a Newport night club.

A sedate businessman, sandy-haired at 35 and father of eight, Ratterman said he was drugged in Cincinnati and taken across the Ohio River. A medical examination indicated he had been given knockout drops. Three charges against him were dismissed in Newport police court after the surprise testimony of a commercial photographer, who said he had been asked several weeks earlier by an unidentified man to be ready to take a picture of a couple under peculiar circumstances.

Ratterman is confident of victory in the Campbell County Sheriff's election Nov. 7, although he says he expects another smear attempt — "worse than anything before." Ratterman is opposed on the ballot by regular Democratic and Republican candidates. Most observers see the election a toss-up, with Ratterman's success hinging on how many votes the reform-minded Committee of 500 (which claims 4,000 members) can turn out on election day.

But whatever happens at the polls, Newport corruption seems headed for a roasting in the courts. The sequence is fascinating.

At the urging of reform leaders in the Newport Ministerial Association, Kentucky Gov. Bert Combs earlier this summer filed charges of neglect of duty against the county sheriff, the county police chief and the Newport city police and detective chiefs.

The first few days of hearings on these charges at the state capital in Frankfort were routine. Then Hattie Jackson, 42, stepped to a witness chair and identified herself as a former Newport prostitute and madam. Then she dropped a bombshell.

During the 1940s and '50s, she said, the names of at least a dozen law officials and police officers were on her payoff lists — including Circuit Judge Ray Murphy and Commonwealth (District) Atty. William Wise, who still hold those posts.

Judge Murphy and Wise promptly called Mrs. Jackson a liar. Murphy himself summoned a grand jury for a special session to investigate new charges.

The state attorney general put pressure on Judge Murphy to disqualify himself for the grand jury proceedings, and the judge did so. But the attorney general lost a legal move to force Wise to step aside, despite his claim Wise's presence would frighten away important witnesses.

Edward Hill, a veteran circuit judge from the mountains of eastern Kentucky, was appointed to preside over the grand jury investigation in Judge Murphy's place. Hill promptly ordered the jury to investigate not only Mrs Jackson's charges against Murphy and Wise but every phase of vice the jurors could smell in Campbell County.

A torrent of indictments followed last month and this. On Sept. 13 the jury handed down indictments against 13 public officials, including almost the entire Newport city government, charging conspiracy to corrupt or obstruct public justice. Among those named were Mayor Ralph Mussman, City Manager Oscar Hesch City Commissioners Roland Vories, Clarence Lehkamp and Joseph Schaber, retired Police Chief George Gugel and retired Detective Chief Leroy Fredericks.

No indictments were returned against Judge Murphy or Wise. The jury described Wise as "usually a vigorous prosecutor" but one who does not use his power to quash gambling and vice. "We remind him of his powers and duties," the jury said. Judge Murphy said Mrs. Jackson repudiated her earlier testimony concerning him during her appearance before the grand jury.

Parallel to the grand jury's investigation of corruption—the first ever to return indictments on a major scale—the squeeze is being applied to Newport's vice in other ways. More than 30 Internal Revenue Service agents recently raided the Sportsman's Club. They found barrels of numbers records, 11 slot machines, 7 guns, horse slips, dice, and 4 secret compartments—one of which had an entrance operated electronically—and more than $50,000 in cash.

Sterner Justice

Up in Memphis, Tennessee, the Commercial Appeal has taken to task what it calls "soft - hearted justice in the traffic courts."

The newspaper claims Memphis is suffering from that disease and said "We have a maximum fine of $51, including court costs, and even this mild punishment is too rarely used."

In Dallas, for example, a speeder may be fined $200 and sometime is. Atlanta, for example, a motorist who finds 50 miles an hour on the expressways too slow can run up a $500 bill in traffic court. In one case in which several laws were violated in Atlanta, the motorist was fined a total of $1,100.

Said the Commercial Appeal — "For the first offender in Atlanta, the speeding penalties are similar to those in Memphis. But the repeater faces a judge who has two years of his record before him, and five years of records quickly available . . ."

Pointing out the good record of nearby Jackson, Tennessee, which hasn't had a traffic death in 457 days, the newspaper said: 'The standard traffic death crashes of Memphis are gone from Jackson. The police are enforcing all the traffic laws all the time and they are making a spectacular record of life saving. But in Memphis the judges use the tape - on - the-wrist method. Even those unable to pay cash are able to work out their fines quickly."

In this area, the stiffest fine is for Driving While Under the Influence of intoxicating beverages and probably most caught would tell you that no "soft - hearted justice" is dished out here.

The irony of the situation is this — the people of any town or city are never satisfied with the laws and the fines imposed for traffic violations. Even some would gripe about a $20 fine. There will never be a traffic law passed that will meet the approval of all of the people.

Both Monroe and West Monroe have a good record as far as traffic deaths go; they have been kept to a minimum in both cities. Without getting into the pros and cons of whether the traffic laws are enforced too strictly and whether the penalties are too heavy, it is sufficient to say that a human life is much more important than dollars and a little publicity.

Of course, the best policy would be to obey the laws, then the motorist wouldn't have to face either.

Speaking Of Motorists

One is the motorist who leaves home 10 minutes late and tries to make it up on his way to his job. This particular type of driver will speed, he'll weave in and out of traffic and do just about everything contrary to safe driving. It would be all right if he was the one that got hurt, or killed; there wouldn't be much of a loss to the world for this kind to pass on to his or her reward. But usually it is the driver that's trying to obey the laws that get the worst of such an accident.

The second most obnoxious driver is the one that roars full speed right up to an intersection — even when he knows he has to stop, or at least is supposed to — then puts on his brakes and slides to a stop about halfway in the intersection.

It's a shame there isn't a special cell for these kind of drivers under the jail.

Credible New Version Of Tough Theme

A TRIP INTO TOWN. By Michael Rubin. Harper. $3.50.

The novelist who writes about the younger generation and its perennial search for "freedom" has a delicate task, for at the slightest sign his rapport is slipping, he is betrayed.

Perhaps because his age was only 26, Rubin maintained his rapport very well in this story of three college students who have come into Manhattan from Westchester and Long Island, feeling uncomfortable about their bourgeois, well - to - do families back home. All three happen to be Jewish, a fact which increases their sensitivity to the slings and arrows of university life.

The story is told by Steven, but the key character in this book is Suki, a girl with a compulsion to rush into silly, dramatic and exuberant situations in the belief that this is Life.

Even as a freshman Suki is the type who shows up in a purple leotard, or disappears for lost weekends with strange people or gets a summer job on an excursion steamer. She is forever chasing the rainbows of exotic experiences or pseudo - sophisticated antics. And, of course, always needing someone to comfort her when these bizarre experiences blow up in her pretty face.

At first her fallback and foil is Esther, whom Steven has known back in Westchester County, the conforming type that Steven is anxious to avoid. And then Steven himself becomes Suki's rescuer and comforter, all the while resisting the inevitable lure, until he finally realizes he is in love with her.

Suki's pursuit of the exhilarating hazards of life goes too far, inevitably, when she becomes entangled with a faculty member who has just written a best seller. But that doesn't mean she ever is going to settle down. And Steven mercifully is spared the fate of marrying a femme fatale, modern style.

For a first novel, this is better reading than you usually find. It has a few rough spots, but the characters are true enough to be credible. For tackling a theme that has defeated more experienced writers, Rubin gets a gold star.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCIS FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

With the fall publishing season going into full production a number of new books have arrived at the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week. "The Moon and the Thorn" is the title of a new novel by B. J. Chute. Miss Chute has succeeded in combining the romance of the past with a modern setting to tell the story of a beautiful woman who was judged a sinner because of her love for a man who could never marry her. "The Moon and the Thorn" is a dramatic, expertly wrought novel, which will appeal to many readers. Books by Frank Yerby are always popular, although they could not be considered literature. His latest book is called "The Garfield Honor." In this book Frank Yerby turns to Texas in the days following the Civil War and tells the story of Roak Garfield, a man who was most attractive to women and whose quest for power transported him from a penniless and disillusioned Civil War veteran to a life of wealth, position, and luxury. This is the story of the woman who loved him and how this love affected their lives. There is not a dull moment in this book and there will be readers waiting for it. J. D. Salinger, author of "The Cather In the Rye" has a new novel "Franny and Zooey". This is really two short stories, one called "Franny" and the other "Zooey". These novels have both appeared in the New Yorker magazine and they are the beginning of a long series about a New York family. Frankly, Mr. Salinger leaves me cold, but there are many readers who like his type of writing.

An interesting novel with a setting in World War II is "It Always Rains in Rome" by John Fishwick Leeming. The plot of this story is woven around the question of destroying a fourteenth-century Italian bridge. This is a slight but entertaining story containing some clever dialog and plot complications. Another novel, which will appeal to young adults is "The Immediate Gift" by Clarice Pont. This is well written story for older girls and has a definite interest for the world in which we live.

A new book which will appeal to many readers is "My Life in Baseball-The True Record" which is the autobiography of Ty Cobb. This book is very timely and contains much information not published before. A lovely book which came to the library as a gift is "Waterways of the United States" published by the National Association of River and Harbor Contractors." It is timely and up-to-date and is the sort of informational book, which the library needs. People of our area are especially interested in gardening books and we order everything we can find on the subject. The latest one is "Complete Book of Lilies" by Frederick Frye Rockwell and Esther C. Grayson who have collaborated on many other gardening books. It is beautifully done, profusely illustrated and most informative. It is certain to be widely used in this Parish. Cookbooks are always welcome and the latest one is called "Continental Flavor." The author is Nika Hazelton and it contains a wealth of recipes for those who are interested in foreign dishes.

A book which everyone should read now is "African Encounter"; a doctor in Nigeria." The author is William Robert Collis. He gives a good picture of this troubled land and much information which should be valuable to the general reader. In this day when so many people make regular trips to Europe a book such as "The Budget Guide to Europe" by Howard Stein is most timely and valuable. It gives many ways in which a person can save money and travel with the greatest ease.

The Ouachita Parish public library has a very fine reference collection and it is growing all the time. One set of books which we are acquiring as they are published is "The New Cambridge Modern History". The latest volume of this set is Volume V, dealing with the ascendancy of France. This set of books will be especially valuable to college students and those who are serious students of history.

RUNNING THE SCALES

'Entertainment' On Broad Front

By JOHN CALE

This column of music and dramatic entertainment in the northeast Louisiana area got its start under the name "Sounding Board" five or six years ago.

The "scales" gives a pretty good indication that serious entertainment covers a wide field, and "running" this beat is accurate in that you don't have to wait several months between attractions any more.

Since the column serves as a means of announcing live shows, plays and musical events, it serves a similar purpose to those concrete or iron poles seen in the many news photographs now coming from Europe. Such "poster poles" must have a name, so we set out to find what it was.

As luck would have it, the man who invented that particular type billboard, a Mr. Litwas, attached his name to it, making it somewhat unwieldly for a news column. It might be easy enough for a European to ask, "What's on the Litwas post this week?" But not here.

So for the 1961-62 season, we'll be "Running the Scales" again.

According to our best intelligence reports, the Northeast Concerts Series will push for another musical comedy this season, something on the order of "The Music Man." Pericles Alexander, who runs a similar scale of events for the Shreveport Times, said the local group was also negotiating in New York last summer for James Thurber's "Carnival" starring Imogene Coco.

If these "negotiations" prove more fruitful than those on the Berlin question —and we hope they will — we are in for some fine musical comedy on the local boards.

Another point brought up by writer Alexander dealt with the problem of paying the singers and fiddlers for such an occasion. He noted the attempt last year to sell "Fiorello" to Shreveport through the box office put the New York company behind. At the same time, he pointed out the show collected its full amount for a "one-nighter" in Monroe. From this observation, it is no wonder that traveling musicals will be continuing to make stops here while hesitating to do so in the larger city to the west.

Speaking of "paying the fiddler," the Northeast concerts series drive will begin this week and continue for 14 days or so. How well the drive works out will determine the quality and quantity of events to be scheduled.

The Louisiana Tech series, which brought two symphony orchestras to this part of the country last year, is featuring variety this season. Duo - pianists Ferrante and Teicher, the Robert Shaw Chorale, a full broadway theatrical, "Mary Stuart," starring Faye Emerson, and the National Ballet of Canada are four of the eight highlights listed thus far.

Meanwhile, the Little Theatre of Monroe following an active summer season, will resume its regular schedule next month. The first production, according to director Richard Clark, will be "Teahouse of the August Moon." Target date for opening night is October 14.

The local theatre organization joined forces this summer with Northeast State students and faculty members for "Mister Roberts," "King Midas," a children's drama, and "Summer and Smoke." Attendance at these was below average, but this is apt to happen when something is introduced at a new time. It's understood the two organizations will team up again next summer, and many of us believe more Monroyans will get the summer theatre habit.

A real "big top" circus is the live attraction of the week here. The Wallace Brothers circus has scheduled two performances at Selman Field, at 4 and 9 p.m., on Thursday. The circus, featuring trapeze artists, trained chimpanzees, wild animals, horses and clowns, is being sponsored by the Monroe and West Monroe Optimist clubs.

A Hopeful Message For The Builder

After the Seventh Day. By Ritchie Calder. Simon and Schuster. $6.95.

This Scotsman is a writer who can make man and his works as exciting as science fiction.

His subject, as the book's subtitle indicates, is "The World Man Has Created," after the seven days of Genesis. He covers it all, from the first crude tools of half a million years ago, through the discovery of fire and the wheel, the conflicts of the shepherds (Abel) and the cultivators (Cain); and on through the city cultures, the priest - kings and warrior-kings to modern times and the television camera in a circling satellite.

"Our knowledge can encompass this planet, like that artificial satellite, and liberate man from the circumstances which have dictated the limitations of past civilizations," in his hopeful message.

He goes dramatically into the archeological evidences of past civilizations — the early ones centered around rivers — and has some pretty convincing things to say about their downfalls. Oftener than not, the fate of a civilization was registered when sand, or salt or malarial bearing mosquitos, or choking irrigation ditches doomed the inhabitants to a fatal weakness. Calder gives short shrift to the idea that history should be an account of kings, battles or conquests. These were but the surface indications of something else that had gone wrong.

Another In A Series On Age Of Man's Era

THE AGE OF REASON BEGINS. By Will and Ariel Durant. Simon and Schuster. $10.00.

Will Durant has succeeded again in doing the seemingly impossible — recounting tersely, entertainingly and instructively an extraordinarily complex portion of Western history.

This is the seventh in the series "The Story of Civilization," that started with "Our Oriental Heritage" in 1935. For the present volume and two more still to come, Durant's wife Ariel is coauthor.

The seeming impossibility is that one could hope to tell the story of European civilization, plus the challenge of Islam, from Elizabeth to the French Revolution, all pivoting on the flowering of reason from medieval credulity. True, the Durants have found that this last installment will require three volumes instead of one.

The present work goes only through Galileo and Descartes, the French father of modern philosophy. But the information included is stupendous. There is the drama of Elizabeth and Mary Queen of Scots, the duel between Huguenots and Catholics for France, Gustavus Adolphus and the religious wars in Germany. And the chapter on Shakespeare is worth volumes.

The whole is a synthesis of political, literary, scientific, philosophical and artstic history. The Durants' skill in using secondary as well as primary sources affords judgments by others.

The book all Louisiana is talking about!

West Monroe Dog Ordinance

The other night while I was having my 15th cup of coffee, the telephone rang.

"Say," said one of my West Monroe friends, "have you seen what that city hall group has done?"

Not wanting to display my ignorance—meaning I hadn't kept up with the news like I should — I sorta mumbled something.

But apparently he didn't notice my hesitation — he just kept talking.

"I mean that dog ordinance they have passed," he yelled. "Why, that's the worst thing I've seen in a long time. Can't anyone have a dog in the city of West Monroe under that thing?"

I finally managed to get him calmed down with a promise I'd look into the situation. Then I promptly forgot it until a few days later when I noticed the smirk on the faces of my friends when they looked at the little, fuzzy animal we call a dog out at our house.

Then some other friends called me about the ordinance and the way they were telling it I figured we must have a real monster in that new law. So I sent a reporter to West Monroe city hall to pick up a copy.

Well, I waded through such things as the term dog shall mean any dog and any member of the canine family or species, that the term cat shall mean anything that is a cat, whether male, or female, and that the term officer shall mean any health officer, police officer or a duly authorized representative, and that the term owner shall mean any person, having right of property in an animal, or who keeps in his care or harbors an animal, or who acts as its custodian, or who permits an animal to remain on or about his premises.

Oh well, I thought this is just the beginning; I'll find something I can nail them on. So I kept on reading. I learned among other things that:

1. A dog two months or older must be vaccinated against rabies; and that the vaccination tag must be kept on the dog at all times.

2. If a dog isn't vaccinated, the officer is to seize and impound this said dog for a period of at least three days during which time the owner may claim the said dog by paying a certain fee.

3. If any animal that has bitten or attacked any person it is hereby deemed and declared to be a vicious animal and shall be kept effectively yarded and controlled at all times by the owner or other person having the custody thereof. Any such animal roaming at large shall be picked up and impounded by the proper officer and confined until the owner shall pay an impounding fee in the amount of $5 and cost of boarding.

4. This section of the law shall not apply if a dog is maintained as a watch dog and is effectively yarded at all times and if he bites a person trespassing upon the property of the owner or custodian. Such property, however, shall be posted if the animal is considered vicious, with a sign bearing the words "Bad Dog", which signs shall be available through the West Monroe Police Department.

5. No dog shall be permitted to run at large within the corporate limits of the City of West Monroe, and any dog, when off the premises of its owner, shall be upon a leash and under the control of a responsible person. I didn't find anything so bad.

I called up my friend. "Say," I told him, "you've made me spend hours of valuable time reading this ordinance for nothing. I don't see anything wrong with it; in fact it looks like a pretty good one—better than a lot I've seen."

"Man," he replied, "you can't understand much of what you read. How did you ever become a newspaper editor?

Since I didn't want to get into a discussion on that point, I rightly kept quiet.

"Tell you what you do," he continued. "You read section 11 and 14 again and if you don't get a buzz on those two, then something sure enough is wrong with your brain."

So back I went to the ordinance. Maybe I thought my colleague down at the newspaper — Willie Jasper — had influenced my thinking on the subject of dogs. In fact he dislikes - (I mean likes) dogs so much he spent several nights reading the Bible just to prove to me that whenever a dog was mentioned in that good book, it was in a disfavorable way.

In fact, he elaborated, in nearly every place in the Scriptures a dog is mentioned, it is with contempt.

But back to Section 11 and 14 Section 11 says:

But it shall be the responsibility of the owner to exercise proper care and control of his animals to prevent them from becoming a public nuisance. Excessive, continuous, or untimely barking, or noises, molesting passers-by, chasing vehicles, habitually attacking other domestic animals, female dogs or cats at large in season, dogs running at large, or any animal trespassing upon school grounds or trespassing upon private property in such a manner as to damage property shall constitute a public nuisance and shall be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of the ordinance.

Section 14 says: That it shall be unlawful for any person firm or corporation, to build, erect, establish, maintain or otherwise keep or have any pen within which dogs are kept or maintained within 40 feet of any dwelling or public meeting place or within 20 feet of an adjoining premises.

I admit I'm pretty thick on many things — but I finally began to see what my friend was so up in the air about. So Mr. West Monroe mayor if you will explain certain parts of those two sections to me and my friend maybe we won't be so upset. It could be we just don't understand good ole American English.

We just don't understand this thing about untimely barking.

When is it going to be declared untimely. And how in the world is the judge going to be able to if the ordinance doesn't say.

For example, if my friend's dog lets out a little old bark at noon, it might be more untimely for a neighbor, than say, at 1 a.m. in the morning. Then, too, suppose he barks at a prowler. That's part of his job. My friend and his dog both could get into trouble under the ordinance for this even. So how are you going to define untimely. It looks as if there are going to be more such cases in city court than can be handled — and me, I'd hate to be the poor judge who is going to have to decide this question.

Furthermore, it is natural for a dog to bark a little. In fact, my friend said he personally would rather hear some dogs bark than to have to put up with some of the shrill chatter he hears going on over the back fences—including some that originates in his own back yard. Mr. Mayor, that can be a public nuisance, too, but he says he doesn't guess there is much anybody could do about that. If you and he tried to stop that, there would be a march on City Hall as well as his house and both of you would be run out of town. Those opponents of such a move judging from experience certainly wouldn't have any trouble voicing their opinion— whereas a little old dog could only get out an "untimely" bark.

Also while he's on the subject of noises, he said he would like to complain about some others —such as, rickety, loud lawn mowers before 7 a.m. in the morning You see he does a lot of night work and must sleep a little late or he's too tired to give his boss a full days work. Then, too, this is bad on his nerves. Why, one morning this happened and it shook him up so badly he fell out of bed, skinned his right knee and elbow because he thought a nuclear war had started. You see he had been reading about how bad the world situation was just before he went to sleep that night.

Too, Mr. Mayor he's not against teenagers; He was one himself once — but that was so long ago he doesn't like to think about it. But you, he says, know they roar home late at night in these things that sorta resemble an automobile. It gets pretty loud at times—you know with the boys trying to impress their girl friends by making the car backfire and roar, slamming car doors and stepping down rather hard on the gas when they make the block after the so-long kiss.

This also distrubs his dog and he barks. And this just might be one of those hard-to-define "untimely barks." This, in turn, would make his other neighbor mad. So you see, my friend is kinda caught in the middle—not to say anything about the dog.

Then, too, I am like my friend — I don't understand about these pens and 40 and 20 feet stuff. Maybe we just didn't learn enough math. Suppose my house is on a 50 foot wide lot and the house on each side is just five feet from my property line. How in the world am I going to build a pen that will be 40 feet from each of them. Can you send one of your experts out to show me how?

Seriously, Mr. Mayor and members of your esteemed council, I am afraid section 11 and 14 might cause some bad feelings among good neighbors and in the worst instance might lead to some bloodletting. I don't want that and I know you don't. In fact my friend and I want to do what the good book says and love our neighbors.

So maybe if you would clarity this "untimely" barking deal and how to build a pen 40 feet from each house when we only have a total of 60 feet in which to accomplish that seemingly impossible venture, we'd be much obliged.

We realize to some the above maybe a little too corney, but it was a facetious attempt to point up the fact that Section 11 and 14 are too vague and can be interrupted almost anyway desirable to the person returning the decision. In any event, they don't give the dog owner a chance and are on the side of the real dog-hater.

However, in all fairness, I must say that I fully agree with the aim of the ordinance; that dogs should be controlled, that owners are careless and that all dogs should be vaccinated.

Knowing Police Chief Jeff Caldwell, the man who will actually have to enforce the ordinace, and Mayor Allen Norris as well as other members of the city council, I'm willing to bet my neck on the fact that they will be fair to all in the enforcement of the ordinance and that those ambigious and confusing sections will be changed or corrected.

BIG BROOM IN NEWPORT

New Effort To Clean-Up City

NEWPORT, Ky., (AP) — For half a century, reformers have battered, hauled and tugged at entrenched forces of vice and disorder in this northern Kentucky gamblers' haven with little more than ridicule to show for their pains.

Up to this summer, all efforts to put the lid on Newport's lawless pleasure domes broke against a wall of police indifference and public apathy. Now the wall is crumbling. Most top officials of Newport's city government are under indictment.

Decades ago Newport graduated from a brawling, lusty Ohio River port to a neon-lit center of syndicate - controlled crime and vice — a wide - open town where any conventioneer from staid Cincinnati, across the river, could find all the action he wanted.

By conservative estimate, at least 1,500 persons in this community of 30,000 earned their living from gambling and vice-connected activities: as bookies, craps dealers, waiters, bar maids, bouncers and sundry other jobs in illegal operations.

The scope of those operations was impressive. U. S. Senate crime investigators have reported that a Cleveland-based syndicate moved into Newport years ago to operate a country club and several local night spots. Smaller independents apparently had maintained an uneasy truce with the syndicate, since no bullet-riddled corpses have been found around town in years.

A Campbell County grand jury recently placed at $6 million at least, the take in wagers from numbers and handbook operations in the last fiscal year alone.

A former marshal at nearby Wilder, Jim Harris — who had been convicted of pandering involving a local night club — has reported his payoffs to officials ran into many thousands of dollars over a period of years.

The syndicate, Harris said, "would rather keep Newport going than Las Vegas where gambling is legal, that's how big it is."

Harris noted — as federal authorities also maintain — that Newport is a major center of horse race layoff betting. A bookie makes a layoff bet when he finds himself overextended and the potential loss would be too heavy. He hedges by placing opposite bets or by selling part of his bets to other bookies.

Newport today is a collection of drab brick structures, with few new buildings since 1890. The population has remained the same for 50 years. The city, squeezed between the river and small, incorporated suburbs, lacks room to expand.

Not all residents are defensive about their town's reputation or the sudden uproar with attendant publicity.

A public accountant and longtime resident says: "This is one of the finest cities in Kentucky. The people are as decent as the people anywhere in this country. I've raised my family here. I've never been in a gambling house. I've never been in a house of prostitution."

A local barber sums up the feeling of many residents: "Sure, we're liberal, but what's wrong with that?"

For others, the current investigations provide an eye-opener. An elderly woman who served on the latest Campbell County grand jury walked dazedly from the jury room during a recess.

"I have learned more about my town in one hour than I have in 70 years," she told a reporter.

But what she had discovered was a pattern the reformers have cried against for years. This time, they have going for them the national attention attracted by a bungled attempt to smear clean-up candidate and ex-football star George Ratterman, plus the vigorous state drive to oust and convict local office holders accused of obstructing justice.

Although it brought them a national spotlight, the Ratterman campaign no longer is considered the main hope of reformers. A grand jury grinding out dozens of indictments in complete defiance of local tradition has put the fear of the Lord in gamblers and sin merchants. Things now are so quiet some wags are claiming Cincinnati already is losing conventions.

Ratterman hit the headlines last May when he was arrested with a strip tease dancer named April Flowers in an apartment adjoining a Newport night club.

A sedate businessman, sandy-haired at 35 and father of eight, Ratterman said he was drugged in Cincinnati and taken across the Ohio River. A medical examination indicated he had been given knockout drops. Three charges against him were dismissed in Newport police court after the surprise testimony of a commercial photographer, who said he had been asked several weeks earlier by an unidentified man to be ready to take a picture of a couple under peculiar circumstances.

Ratterman is confident of victory in the Campbell County Sheriff's election Nov. 7, although he says he expects another smear attempt — "worse than anything before." Ratterman is opposed on the ballot by regular Democratic and Republican candidates. Most observers see the election a toss-up, with Ratterman's success hinging on how many votes the reform-minded Committee of 500 (which claims 4,000 members) can turn out on election day.

But whatever happens at the polls, Newport corruption seems headed for a roasting in the courts. The sequence is fascinating.

At the urging of reform leaders in the Newport Ministerial Association, Kentucky Gov. Bert Combs earlier this summer filed charges of neglect of duty against the county sheriff, the county police chief and the Newport city police and detective chiefs.

The first few days of hearings on these charges at the state capital in Frankfort were routine. Then Hattie Jackson, 42, stepped to a witness chair and identified herself as a former Newport prostitute and madam. Then she dropped a bombshell.

During the 1940s and '50s, she said, the names of at least a dozen law officials and police officers were on her payoff lists — including Circuit Judge Ray Murphy and Commonwealth (District) Atty. William Wise, who still hold those posts.

Judge Murphy and Wise promptly called Mrs. Jackson a liar. Murphy himself summoned a grand jury for a special session to investigate new charges.

The state attorney general put pressure on Judge Murphy to disqualify himself for the grand jury proceedings, and the judge did so. But the attorney general lost a legal move to force Wise to step aside, despite his claim Wise's presence would frighten away important witnesses.

Edward Hill, a veteran circuit judge from the mountains of eastern Kentucky, was appointed to preside over the grand jury investigation in Judge Murphy's place. Hill promptly ordered the jury to investigate not only Mrs. Jackson's charges against Murphy and Wise but every phase of vice the jurors could smell in Campbell County.

A torrent of indictments followed last month and this. On Sept. 13 the jury handed down indictments against 13 public officials, including almost the entire Newport city government, charging conspiracy to corrupt or obstruct public justice. Among those named were Mayor Ralph Mussman, City Manager Oscar Hesch City Commissioners Roland Vories, Clarence Lehkamp and Joseph Schaber, retired Police Chief George Gugel and retired Detective Chief Leroy Fredericks.

No indictments were returned against Judge Murphy or Wise. The jury described Wise as "usually a vigorous prosecutor" but one who does not use his power to quash gambling and vice. "We remind him of his powers and duties," the jury said. Judge Murphy said Mrs. Jackson repudiated her earlier testimony concerning him during her appearance before the grand jury.

Parallel to the grand jury's investigation of corruption—the first ever to return indictments on a major scale—the squeeze is being applied to Newport's vice in other ways. More than 30 Internal Revenue Service agents recently raided the Sportsman's Club. They found barrels of numbers records, 11 slot machines, 7 guns, horse slips, dice, and 4 secret compartments—one of which had an entrance operated electronically—and more than $50,000 in cash.

Sterner Justice

Up in Memphis, Tennessee, the Commercial Appeal has taken to task what it calls "soft - hearted justice in the traffic courts."

The newspaper claims Memphis is suffering from that disease and said "We have a maximum fine of $51, including court costs, and even this mild punishment is too rarely used."

In Dallas, for example, a speeder may be fined $200 and sometime is. Atlanta, for example, a motorist who finds 50 miles an hour on the expressways too slow can run up a $500 bill in traffic court. In one case in which several laws were violated in Atlanta, the motorist was fined a total of $1,100.

Said the Commercial Appeal — "For the first offender in Atlanta, the speeding penalties are similar to those in Memphis. But the repeater faces a judge who has two years of his record before him, and five years of records quickly available . . ."

Pointing out the good record of nearby Jackson, Tennessee, which hasn't had a traffic death in 457 days, the newspaper said: 'The standard traffic death crashes of Memphis are gone from Jackson. The police are enforcing all the traffic laws all the time and they are making a spectacular record of life saving. But in Memphis the judges use the tape - on - the-wrist method. Even those unable to pay cash are able to work out their fines quickly."

In this area, the stiffest fine is for Driving While Under the Influence of intoxicating beverages and probably most caught would tell you that no "soft - hearted justice" is dished out here.

The irony of the situation is this — the people of any town or city are never satisfied with the laws and the fines imposed for traffic violations. Even some would gripe about a $20 fine. There will never be a traffic law passed that will meet the approval of all of the people.

Both Monroe and West Monroe have a good record as far as traffic deaths go; they have been kept to a minimum in both cities. Without getting into the pros and cons of whether the traffic laws are enforced too strictly and whether the penalties are too heavy, it is sufficient to say that a human life is much more important than dollars and a little publicity.

Of course, the best policy would be to obey the laws, then the motorist wouldn't have to face either.

Speaking Of Motorists

One is the motorist who leaves home 10 minutes late and tries to make it up on his way to his job. This particular type of driver will speed, he'll weave in and out of traffic and do just about everything contrary to safe driving. It would be all right if he was the one that got hurt, or killed; there wouldn't be much of a loss to the world for this kind to pass on to his or her reward. But usually it is the driver that's trying to obey the laws that get the worst of such an accident.

The second most obnoxious driver is the one that roars full speed right up to an intersection — even when he knows he has to stop, or at least is supposed to — then puts on his brakes and slides to a stop about halfway in the intersection.

It's a shame there isn't a special cell for these kind of drivers under the jail.

Credible New Version Of Tough Theme

A TRIP INTO TOWN. By Michael Rubin. Harper. $3.50.

The novelist who writes about the younger generation and its perennial search for "freedom" has a delicate task, for at the slightest sign his rapport is slipping, he is betrayed.

Perhaps because his age was only 26, Rubin maintained his rapport very well in this story of three college students who have come into Manhattan from Westchester and Long Island, feeling uncomfortable about their bourgeois, well - to - do families back home. All three happen to be Jewish, a fact which increases their sensitivity to the slings and arrows of university life.

The story is told by Steven, but the key character in this book is Suki, a girl with a compulsion to rush into silly, dramatic and exuberant situations in the belief that this is Life.

Even as a freshman Suki is the type who shows up in a purple leotard, or disappears for lost weekends with strange people or gets a summer job on an excursion steamer. She is forever chasing the rainbows of exotic experiences or pseudo - sophisticated antics. And, of course, always needing someone to comfort her when these bizarre experiences blow up in her pretty face.

At first her fallback and foil is Esther, whom Steven has known back in Westchester County, the conforming type that Steven is anxious to avoid. And then Steven himself becomes Suki's rescuer and comforter, all the while resisting the inevitable lure, until he finally realizes he is in love with her.

Suki's pursuit of the exhilarating hazards of life goes too far, inevitably, when she becomes entangled with a faculty member who has just written a best seller. But that doesn't mean she ever is going to settle down. And Steven mercifully is spared the fate of marrying a femme fatale, modern style.

For a first novel, this is better reading than you usually find. It has a few rough spots, but the characters are true enough to be credible. For tackling a theme that has defeated more experienced writers, Rubin gets a gold star.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCIS FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

With the fall publishing season going into full production a number of new books have arrived at the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week. "The Moon and the Thorn" is the title of a new novel by B. J. Chute. Miss Chute has succeeded in combining the romance of the past with a modern setting to tell the story of a beautiful woman who was judged a sinner because of her love for a man who could never marry her. "The Moon and the Thorn" is a dramatic, expertly wrought novel, which will appeal to many readers. Books by Frank Yerby are always popular, although they could not be considered literature. His latest book is called "The Garfield Honor." In this book Frank Yerby turns to Texas in the days following the Civil War and tells the story of Roak Garfield, a man who was most attractive to women and whose quest for power transported him from a penniless and disillusioned Civil War veteran to a life of wealth, position, and luxury. This is the story of the woman who loved him and how this love affected their lives. There is not a dull moment in this book and there will be readers waiting for it. J. D. Salinger, author of "The Cather In the Rye" has a new novel "Franny and Zooey". This is really two short stories, one called "Franny" and the other "Zooey". These novels have both appeared in the New Yorker magazine and they are the beginning of a long series about a New York family. Frankly, Mr. Salinger leaves me cold, but there are many readers who like his type of writing.

An interesting novel with a setting in World War II is "It Always Rains in Rome" by John Fishwick Leeming. The plot of this story is woven around the question of destroying a fourteenth-century Italian bridge. This is a slight but entertaining story containing some clever dialog and plot complications. Another novel, which will appeal to young adults is "The Immediate Gift" by Clarice Pont. This is well written story for older girls and has a definite interest for the world in which we live.

A new book which will appeal to many readers is "My Life in Baseball-The True Record" which is the autobiography of Ty Cobb. This book is very timely and contains much information not published before. A lovely book which came to the library as a gift is "Waterways of the United States" published by the National Association of River and Harbor Contractors." It is timely and up-to-date and is the sort of informational book, which the library needs. People of our area are especially interested in gardening books and we order everything we can find on the subject. The latest one is "Complete Book of Lilies" by Frederick Frye Rockwell and Esther C. Grayson who have collaborated on many other gardening books. It is beautifully done, profusely illustrated and most informative. It is certain to be widely used in this Parish. Cookbooks are always welcome and the latest one is called "Continental Flavor." The author is Nika Hazelton and it contains a wealth of recipes for those who are interested in foreign dishes.

A book which everyone should read now is "African Encounter"; a doctor in Nigeria." The author is William Robert Collis. He gives a good picture of this troubled land and much information which should be valuable to the general reader. In this day when so many people make regular trips to Europe a book such as "The Budget Guide to Europe" by Howard Stein is most timely and valuable. It gives many ways in which a person can save money and travel with the greatest ease.

The Ouachita Parish public library has a very fine reference collection and it is growing all the time. One set of books which we are acquiring as they are published is "The New Cambridge Modern History". The latest volume of this set is Volume V, dealing with the ascendancy of France. This set of books will be especially valuable to college students and those who are serious students of history.

Another In A Series On Age Of Man's Era

THE AGE OF REASON BEGINS. By Will and Ariel Durant. Simon and Schuster. $10.00.

Will Durant has succeeded again in doing the seemingly impossible — recounting tersely, entertainingly and instructively an extraordinarily complex portion of Western history.

This is the seventh in the series "The Story of Civilization," that started with "Our Oriental Heritage" in 1935. For the present volume and two more still to come, Durant's wife Ariel is coauthor.

The seeming impossibility is that one could hope to tell the story of European civilization, plus the challenge of Islam, from Elizabeth to the French Revolution, all pivoting on the flowering of reason from medieval credulity. True, the Durants have found that this last installment will require three volumes instead of one.

The present work goes only through Galileo and Descartes, the French father of modern philosophy. But the information included is stupendous. There is the drama of Elizabeth and Mary Queen of Scots, the duel between Huguenots and Catholics for France, Gustavus Adolphus and the religious wars in Germany. And the chapter on Shakespeare is worth volumes.

The whole is a synthesis of political, literary, scientific, philosophical and artstic history. The Durants' skill in using secondary as well as primary sources affords judgments by others.

RUNNING THE SCALES

'Entertainment' On Broad Front

By JOHN CALE

This column of music and dramatic entertainment in the northeast Louisiana area got its start under the name "Sounding Board" five or six years ago.

The "scales" gives a pretty good indication that serious entertainment covers a wide field, and "running" this beat is accurate in that you don't have to wait several months between attractions any more.

Since the column serves as a means of announcing live shows, plays and musical events, it serves a similar purpose to those concrete or iron poles seen in the many news photographs now coming from Europe. Such "poster poles" must have a name, so we set out to find what it was.

As luck would have it, the man who invented that particular type billboard, a Mr. Litwas, attached his name to it, making it somewhat unwieldly for a news column. It might be easy enough for a European to ask, "What's on the Litwas post this week?" But not here.

So for the 1961-62 season, we'll be "Running the Scales" again.

According to our best intelligence reports, the Northeast Concerts Series will push for another musical comedy this season, something on the order of "The Music Man." Pericles Alexander, who runs a similar scale of events for the Shreveport Times, said the local group was also negotiating in New York last summer for James Thurber's "Carnival" starring Imogene Coco.

If these "negotiations" prove more fruitful than those on the Berlin question —and we hope they will — we are in for some fine musical comedy on the local boards.

Another point brought up by writer Alexander dealt with the problem of paying the singers and fiddlers for such an occasion. He noted the attempt last year to sell "Fiorello" to Shreveport through the box office put the New York company behind. At the same time, he pointed out the show collected its full amount for a "one-nighter" in Monroe. From this observation, it is no wonder that traveling musicals will be continuing to make stops here while hesitating to do so in the larger city to the west.

Speaking of "paying the fiddler," the Northeast concerts series drive will begin this week and continue for 14 days or so. How well the drive works out will determine the quality and quantity of events to be scheduled.

The Louisiana Tech series, which brought two symphony orchestras to this part of the country last year, is featuring variety this season. Duo - pianists Ferrante and Teicher, the Robert Shaw Chorale, a full broadway theatrical, "Mary Stuart," starring Faye Emerson, and the National Ballet of Canada are four of the eight highlights listed thus far.

Meanwhile, the Little Theatre of Monroe following an active summer season, will resume its regular schedule next month. The first production, according to director Richard Clark, will be "Teahouse of the August Moon." Target date for opening night is October 14.

The local theatre organization joined forces this summer with Northeast State students and faculty members for "Mister Roberts," "King Midas," a children's drama, and "Summer and Smoke.' Attendance at these was below average, but this is apt to happen when something is introduced at a new time. It's understood the two organizations will team up again next summer, and many of us believe more Monroyans will get the summer theatre habit.

A real "big top" circus is the live attraction of the week here. The Wallace Brothers circus has scheduled two performances at Selman Field, at 4 and 9 p.m., on Thursday. The circus, featuring trapeze artists, trained chimpanzees, wild animals, horses and clowns, is being sponsored by the Monroe and West Monroe Optimist clubs.

A Hopeful Message For The Builder

After the Seventh Day. By Ritchie Calder. Simon and Schuster. $6.95.

His subject, as the book's subtitle indicates, is "The World Man Has Created," after the seven days of Genesis. He covers it all, from the first crude tools of half a million years ago, through the discovery of fire and the wheel, the conflicts of the shepherds (Abel) and the cultivators (Cain); and on through the city cultures, the priest - kings and warrior-kings to modern times and the television camera in a circling satellite.

"Our knowledge can encompass this planet, like that artificial satellite, and liberate man from the circumstances which have dictated the limitations of past civilizations," in his hopeful message.

He goes dramatically into the archeological evidences of past civilizations — the early ones centered around rivers — and has some pretty convincing things to say about their downfalls. Oftener than not, the fate of a civilization was registered when sand, or salt or malarial bearing mosquitos, or choking irrigation ditches doomed the inhabitants to a fatal weakness. Calder gives short shrift to the idea that history should be an account of kings, battles or conquests. These were but the surface indications of something else that had gone wrong.

The book all Louisiana is talking about!

U.S. Housing Loans To Old Said Gaining

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After a slow start caused in part by a bureaucratic reshuffle, the government's program of direct loans to build housing projects for the elderly seems to be gathering momentum.

Authorized by Congress in 1959, the program couldn't get started until 1960 because the lawmakers delayed appropriating funds.

Then housing agency lawyers and the engineers had to iron out procedures and standards. That started in the office of the housing administrator, where officials initially managing the program devised a "commitment" procedure.

Several months ago the program was shifted to the community facilities administration, a part of the housing agency, whose staff has experience in making loans. That shift involved a change from "commitments" to "loan agreements."

Consider all this, if you will, a shakedown period. Officials are hopeful it is over and that the bulk of the program's problems are behind it.

A dozen loan agreements have been signed in the last five months compared to three in the preceding half-year. The 15 agreements during the last 11 months totaled about $9.4 million, a little more than one-fifth the $45 million Congress appropriated before consideration of the first fiscal 1962 supplemental appropriations bill.

The 1961 Housing Act increased the authorization for the elderly loan program to $125 million. Housing officials fear that budget pressures caused by the Berlin crisis will push the appropriations closer to what already has been voted.

With a backlog of 88 applications for the 50-year, 3¾ per cent loans — attractive terms these days — the director of the program, Kenneth C. Cavanaugh, expects to sign more loan agreements. But he is chary of predicting any dramatic outpouring.

One reason is that officials find many details of proposed elderly housing projects have to be revised by sponsors. This involves a lot of correspondence and time.

Countless deficiencies can appear in the initial applicaton: Excessive costs, inadequate design of features, poor site location, an unimpressive list of proposed directors. (As for getting men of standing to sponsor a project, Cavanaugh commented: "When you have a 50-year, 100 per cent loan you have to be pretty careful of the people back of it.")

Moreover, the applications often are submitted by people who are inexperienced in housing. This is because the program is limited to non-profit, private corporations, public agencies and consumer cooperatives. Churches and fraternal orders have expressed especially strong interest in the loans.

Cavanaugh is hesitant about estimating average processing time because there is so much variation and because each application is different. "Three to four weeks would be real fast, if everything was almost perfect," he said. But three months is more common, he has found.

Loan applications must show that private financing cannot be obtained on terms as favorable as the government offers. Because the government terms are resent money market, officials accept written statements from "at least two responsible lending institutions in the community," according to Cavanaugh. There is little doubt that a more exhaustive canvass would be no more fruitful.

Cotton Declines During Week; Start Irregular

NEW YORK (AP) — Contracts for future delivery of cotton weakened late this week after an irregular start, closing with declines of 10 cents to $2.35 on the New York Cotton Exchange.

Trade and commission house replacement buying helped bolster prices for awhile, aided by some local demand attributed to the possibility of heavy loan entries as ginnings increased. These factors were offset, and roughly balanced, by scattered liquidation, some hedge selling and profit-taking.

Analysts noted that loan entries thus far have been moderate, although a heavy volume was expected this season. The slowness was believed due to lateness of the crop. Through the middle of September, entries came to 116,000 bales compared to 490,000 bales to the same date three years ago.

Exports in the week ended Tuesday ran behind the similar 1960 week for the first time since the new season started Aug. 1. It estimated the week's exports at 48,000 bales compared with 64,000 the previous week and 55,000 a year earlier. For the season through Sept. 19, it estimated exports at 787,000 bales vs. 214,000 to the same time last season.

Five Receive Service Awards

Board Appoints New President

The National Sales and Service Association board of directors held its regular meeting Saturday, September 23. George Hurst, Chairman of board of directors, announced the appointment of Don Finney as president of the association.

Finney was chosen because of his great accomplishments as director of the sales program. He will still hold this as a special duty until all phases of sales development are completed.

AREA REGULATIONS

Formula Seemingly Gains New Chance

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The area formula for regulating wellhead prices of naturday gas apparently is to receive a new lease on life.

Joseph C. Swidler, the new chairman of the Federal Power Commission, indicated this week one of the objectives of the new FPC majority is to get the year-old formula into effective operation as quickly as possible.

He said the commission already is hard at work on the development of appropriate and comprehensive ground rules for area rate proceedings.

"It is my earnest hope we will have the answers, or the bulk of the answers, in the near future," he said. "The ultimate responsibility for seeing that these ground rules are formulated is on the commission."

The absence of ground rules had prompted much speculation in recent weeks the new 3-1 commission majority would toss aside eth aod pldeatStep-tesm forulam the formula adopted last September when the old commission abandoned its utility-type approach to federal controls.

The old commission asked producers, pipeliners, and distributors to assist the FPC staff in developing the procedures under which formal hearings on area pricing would be conducted. Prehearing conferences for two of the nation's prolific gas producing areas — southern Louisiana and the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico — ended in failure. The industry representatives were unable to agree on such matters as the types of evidence needed for formal hearings.

This failure prompted Edward B. Marsh, the senior FPC examiner, to make a tentative recommendation that the FPC abandon the area formula. He later deleted this recommendation from his report after a number of producers indicated area pricing should be given at least a trial run.

Last September's FPC order established ceiling prices for the nation's 23 major gas producing areas. It abandoned the old utility-type cost of service approach under which a tremendous backlog of cases piled up as the FPC sought to handle each producer's price problem individually.

Swidler, one of three men appointed to the commission by President Kennedy, said this week the outcome of the southern Louisiana and Permian Basin cases may set a pattern for pricing the entire industry output at the producer's level.

He said the industry probably will sell about 13 trillian cubic feet of gas this year and that a price difference of one cent for 1,000 cubic feet would be equal to $130 million.

In a speech before the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, Swidler said Marsh had raised the explicity question whether area rate proceedings were useful rate making devices.

"My own present view is the area rate proceedings probably will prove to be the most important single tool for developing a sound frame work of producer rate regulation," he said. "They seem to me to be a promising administrative innovation which should be pushed forward with all dispatch and vigor."

He said the Permian and southern Louisiana cases can be expedited and given more meaning and direction by further commission orders.

"That duty we can neither shirk nor delegate, even though we will require the parties in the proceedings to aid us by giving us their views and suggestions," he said.

". . . I hope the commission can turn to the increasing use of policy statements to express commission policies in clear cut and comprehensive way, rather than waiting for policies to emerge fragment by fragment from a mass of decisions in long drawn out cases."

JFK Request On Increase Stirs Pots

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP — The controversy over whether there should be a steel price increase steamed closer to the boiling point during the week.

More steel executives commented on President Kennedy's request for price stabilization despite a wage increase due next week, but it still wasn't clear what the industry is going to do.

Major interest shifted to the steel situation when General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union agreed on a three-year contract for the company's 350,000 hourly workers.

Avery C. Adams, chairman of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., contended a freeze on steel prices would result in a further profit squeeze, fewer and poorer tools of production, less productivity, more unemployment and less job security.

He said the presidential stand against a price increase — aimed at curtailing inflation—concerned him more than anything that has happened in his 42 years in the steel business.

Alwin F. Franz, president of Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., replying to the President's request, urged government measures to help the smaller steel companies, which he said have been hard hit by foreign competition.

And he said five of 19 integrated steel companies lost money in the first half of this year, seven did not earn their regular dividend, some have not paid a common stock dividend for some time and several returned "a small and inadequate profit."

The United Steelworkers get a wage boost Oct. 1. It will be the third since there was an increase in the price of steel.

Steel production during the week held even with the previous week at 2,032,000 tons, about 69.5 per cent of estimated capacity. Labor difficulties in the automobile industry were expected to cut severely into September steel shipments.

General Motors and the UAW finally wrapped up their national contract after having agreed on economic issues two weeks ago. However, controversy over working conditions at local levels kept some key plants from resuming operations immediately.

The GM-UAW agreement prodded the stock market into a rally after it had gone into a two-day tailspin in reaction to the death of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Settlements between the UAW and Ford and Chrysler are yet to come.

The first 1962 model cars went on sale during the week, and within two weeks 29 separate lines will be in dealers' hands. GM's Pontiac division listed prices basically unchanged from 1961 models and this was taken as an indication that other GM divisions would hold the line. In the past, other carmakers have followed the GM price pattern.

Production was estimated at 66,500 cars, up from 64,261 the previous week, because overtime operations at Ford plants offset GM shutdowns.

The nation's economy, as measured by the total value of goods and services, jumped to an all-time high in the last three months, when the gross national product increased two per cent to an annual rate of $526 billion from $516.1 billion in the second quarter.

New orders received by manufacturers of durable goods in August exceeded the July level by two per cent and sales were one per cent higher.

Corporate profits in the second quarter advanced to an annual rate of $45.5 billion in the first quarter.

Private housing starts in August declined two per cent from July to an annual rate of 1,317,000 units.

Total individual income in August dipped to an annual rate of $419.3 billion from $421.2 billion in July.

Briefly around the business scene: Lockheed Aircraft Corp. received a $92.7-million Navy contract for antisubmarine planes. . . . Auto Contract Ratification Is Expected

3-Year Agreement History Making In Profit Plans

By RICHARD PYLE

DETROIT (AP) — Within a few days, United Auto Workers Union locals at American Motors Corp. are expected to ratify the new three-year contract with its history-making profit-charing plan.

Although there may be some resistance to changes in local, plant level working agreements, AMC officials are confident—and hopeful—that ratification will be accomplished without too much trouble.

Even at that, they will be just beginning a battle to convince the critics that the much-publicized "progress-sharing" scheme included in the AMC-UAW national economic agreement is everything they believe it to be.

The program has been praised in some quarters as a milestone in labor-management relations, coming as it does in the automobile industry where bitterness between the contending parties is traditional.

AMC President George Romney, who is genrally given credit for originating the plan at American Motors, has been lauded for bringing what he himself termed "a fresh new approach" to employe union and management relations.

But others have condemned the plan as being naively based on future success that American Motors cannot guarantee itself. They have challenged the joint contention of Romney and UAW President Walter P. Reuther that it is "noninflationary."

Some say it isn't really "profit-sharing" in the true sense because the benefits to AMC's 23,000 hourly workers are extracted before instead of after taxes.

Under the agreement signed by AMC and the UAW on Sept. 15, the "progress-sharing" plan works this way: An amount equal to 15 per cent of profits before taxes and after removal of 10 per cent for stockholders' investments shall be set aside in each fiscal year (Oct. 1-Sept. 30), to form a "progress-sharing fund."

Of this amount, 10 per cent will be applied to the costs of increased pension and insurance benefits granted to the UAW workers in the new contract.

The other five per cent will be paid to workers in the form of American Motors Corp. common stock, to be held in trust by the company for an as-yet-undetermined time—there is a minimum of two years under law, dividends going into the fund.

Thereafter, the stock will be turned over to the workers with full voting rights and dividends. (Ultimately, in theory, the workers could gain control of the company but according to the only scratch-pad estimate available — this would take about 60 years.)

Of the original 10 per cent to be placed in the fund, the cost of pension increases in the new contract get first call.

Under the last — 1959—agreement, workers received monthly benefits equal to $2.40 times the number of years worked prior to Jan. 1, 1959 and $2.50 times the number of years worked after Dec. 31, 1958.

The new pact increases this to a flat rate of $2.80 times the number of years worked prior to Jan. 1, 1962.

If the 10 per cent in the progress-sharing fund is adequate to pay the pension increases and has money left over, it will go to the second priority—employes' insurance — by providing that portion of the insurance which the workers themselves now pay through paycheck deductions.

Any money left in the fund after both priorities are fulfilled will be placed in a special reserve for supplemental unemployment benefits or otherwise distributed as decided by the progress-sharing fund administrators.

This will be a joint committee of 12 persons, six from the company and six from the union. In the event of a deadlock on an administrative decision, the committee will select an impartial outsider to cast the deciding vote.

BY AMERICAN INDUSTRY

Even Smaller Compact Cars Declared To Be Underway

DETROIT (AP) — American manufacturers are continuing work on cars smaller than anything now built in the United States.

They won't be introduced with the 1962 models now beginning to appear in dealer showrooms. They may never be introduced in this country. But usually reliable informants claim at least one such car will be rolling from an American assembly line by next June.

This would be the long-rumored Ford Cardinal, although it could have another name when it comes to market. Manufacturers often use code names to hide advance projects. Current code name for the Cardinal-type car now under development by Ford in Europe is the Archbishop.

The fact Ford is working on small cars on two continents has added to the confusion. Some reports say the Cardinal will be assembled in the United States from components made abroad. Others claim only a foreign version will be built.

But the consensus is that it will be assembled domestically using both foreign and American-made parts. Ford's current compact Falcon uses some foreign parts.

The Cardinal is said to have a wheelbase of about 95 inches, five inches shorter than the Rambler American. The over-all length is reported to be about 165 inches, eight inches less than the Rambler model.

This would make the Cardinal fractionally larger than the Volkswagen, its main marketing target. The VW has a 94.5-inch wheelbase and is 160.6 inches long.

Ford declines comment on all speculation regarding a small car. So do all other domestic manufacturers with one exception —StudebakerPackard.

Sherwood Egbert, president of Studebaker, said recently: "We have a prototype of a small car. I don't like the looks of it. We do like the engine very much and we are pushing it. We won't push the car unless others go first and it looks like we need it."

Carl H. Hahn, general manager of Volkswagen of America, says he is convinced the Cardinal will appear on schedule. He is equally positive its introduction will not dent Volkswagen sales in this country.

"What I do wonder," he said in an interview, "is how long it will be before the other companies make a smaller one too."

Chevrolet is said to have developed prototypes for small cars and has made some inquiries among suppliers. Ed Cole, Chevrolet's general manager, insists there are no plans to market such a vehicle.

Hahn said he believes Chevrolet will rush to production as soon as possible after Ford introduces the Cardinal.

Asked whether he thought there was a market for a smaller domestic car Hahn replied, "Definitely, why not?" But he questioned whether the potential was great enough for everybody to jump in.

Volkswagen expects to sell about 200,000 cars in the United States in 1962, roughly 10 per cent more than this year and about half of the import total.

14-PARISH REPORT

Week Moderate In Area's Oil, Gas District

Plans for a confirmation well in the Ouachita Parish Cheniere Field, announced Thursday by Pan American Petroleum Corporation, highlighted moderate activity in the 14-parish Monroe Oil & Gas District over the preceding week.

WAYNE MEDLEY, former staff appraiser and supervisor of FHA Valuation Station in Monroe, has joined the staff of Troy and Nichols as manager of the Business Development. Medley, who is president of the local chapter of the Society of Residential Appraisers, is a graduate of LSU.

Sitting just a mile south of the discovery rig, B. E. Gamble's Bacon Unit No. 1, the Louis Werner Sawmill Company Unit No. 1 will join it in exploration of a Cadeville sand formation. The new well also is expected to plumb at depths exceeding 9,800 feet. Exact location was listed by District Manager Duncan S. Cook as the center of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 15-T17N-2E.

The area is about nine miles southwest of West Monroe. Discovery was made when the Bacon unit was sunk and completed May 19 of this year.

In other activity, there were a total of four new completions (see below) while, by Friday there had been listed with Cook 14 new locations. Twenty - four other rigs were active throughout the 14 parishes. The total of locations overall was pushed to 62, and 106 inactive sites were reported.

Here is a breakdown on last week's completions, the new locations and all newly - active rigs. While completion dates, as shown under new completions, do not always fall within last week, the rigs either were completed or came into production during that time.

COMPLETIONS

CATAHOULA PARISH, Boltner's Brake Field — Justiss Mears Oil Co. Inc. et al's Isaac Boatner no. 3, located in sec. 5-6-5E, depth 5110 ft.

New Gas Well Discovery Seems Certain

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Cities Service Petroleum Co. apparently has assured a new gas discovery well in Smith County.

Reports indicated operators cored about 26 feet of gas sand in the Rodessa formation below 12,100 feet in the Hough No. 1, sec. 6-10n-16w, about a mile southeast of the Magee oil field.

A drill stem test at 13,109-40 feet indicated gas in commercial quantities. The well is sceduled to 14,650 feet.

In Hinds County, Olin Oil and Gas Corp. was preparing to begin production tests at the Wolfe No. 1, sec. 26-3n-2w, about five miles southwest of Terry.

The wildcat was drilled by Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Co. to 14,556 feet. Slight shows were logged in the Rodessa zone at 13,005-40 feet. Olin assumed operations and set small diameter casing to 13,290 feet in an effort to determine the commercial worth of the shows logged.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. began production tests at a potential new oil field find in Covington County. The Windham No. 1, sec. 25-8n-15w, is about five miles southeast of Collins.

The well was drilled to 15,311 feet. Several oil shows of undetermined commercial worth were logged below 13,000 feet and operators were testing a perforated interval at 14,512-17 feet.

In Pike County near Magnolia, Dave Gammill abandoned the Elzy No. 1, sec. 27-2n-7e, with no shows logged to contract depth of 10,687 feet.

Pan American's deep test in the East Fork field, the Nunnery No. 1, sec. 9-3n-te, was below 14,200 feet. The current production level in the East Fork field is about 11,000 feet in the lower Tuscaloosa formation. The well was the first deep test in the field.

Also in Amite County, Serio Punches were rigging up a wildcat, the Carruth No. 1, sec. 24-4n-6e, a 11,000 foot test. The well is about three miles east of the Smithdale field in Amite County.

Field drilling the past week brought three new oilers.

Few People Have Actually Started Building Shelters

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International

Americans by the hundreds of thousands have swamped civil defense offices across the nation in the past few weeks with questions about building their own family nuclear bomb shelters.

But the number of those who have actually started digging is exceedingly small.

Those are the two main facts emerging from a UPI survey of civil defense offices from coast to coast.

Russia's resumption of nuclear tests put the final spur to a surge of public anxiety that followed President Kennedy's warning last month about protection and the grim developments in Berlin.

In Los Angeles, for example, there are six trunk telephone lines into the CD office. The switchboard has been so overrun that plans are being made to install 20 lines.

FEW PERMITS

No figures are available on the number of shelters actually being started there. But in the city of Chicago, only two building permits have been issued for construction of shelters.

And in the building permit office of New York City — with more than 7 million people — there is not a single application for a permit for shelter construction.

There are indications, however, that people are about to do more than think about protecting their families.

In Philadelphia, a model shelter was built in Fairmount Park with visiting hours 1 to 4 p.m. five days a week. Since the Russian tests started, crowds have become so great the exhibit is open seven days a week.

Defense Coordinator Joseph R. Costa says thousands of inquiries have been coming from radio stations who pass on listener requests.

"We're suffering from prosperity but we love it," he said. "We've been trying for years to get our message across. Looks like Khrushchev did it for us."

The survey could not measure families who have started shelters without asking for permits or housewives who have stocked food and water, transistor radios, candles and other essentials in their basements.

However, Cleveland Civil Defense Director John Pokornty believes basement shelters are not the answer because of the danger of the house above catching fire. He is one of those who advocates evacuation of cities.

W. A. Weatherford of Jacksonville, Fla., president of the National Civilian Defense Council, says nuclear shelter building firms have "sprung up like mushrooms."

His remarks were borne out by Director Don Carleton of Milwaukee who called a meeting of contractors interested in building shelters.

"I expected 50 and got 250," he said.

In Ohio, CD Director Loren G. Windon says public interest has gone up tremendously.

The five state headquarters in Denton, Tex., has received requests for half a million copies of pamphlets on family shelters.

The director there said many people also inquired just "what Nikita Khrushchev intends to do."

Eisenhower's theme was that unnecessary federal spending would weaken confidence in the United States abroad. He castigated what he called the Kennedy administration's "insulting concept" of government by big brother."

Nixon's theme was that at a time when the overriding problem was national security Kennedy was offering "soothing" welfare programs.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey replied that the Republicans proposed to "stop the clock on economic growth and social progress."

The Republican argument that we cannot afford to be a first rate country, that we cannot afford to educate our children or house our people, that we are better able to cope with the Communist menace with millions out of work than in an economy making [illegible] of its human and mechanical resources will not be convincing to many Americans," he said.

Nevertheless, the prospect of a $6-billion to $7-billion deficit in the current fiscal year made an impression on Congress. And with the elections coming up in 1962, Kennedy was bending every effort to present a balanced budget to the lawmakers next January. Whether a rising economy with rising revenues would make this possible seemed likely to have a vital affect on leftovers in his program.

One of these was the administration's general aid to education bill, carrying funds for classroom construction and teachers' salaries, which had sailed through the Senate.

However, Kennedy's early session fight to enlarge the House Rules Committee so that important legislation could be moved through that roadblock didn't pay off as expected. Much Of Kennedy Program On 1962 'Uncertain' Hook

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy winds up eight months of dealing with Congress with significant portions of his program hanging on the hook of 1962 uncertainties.

The young President, buffeted by adverse world developments, has managed in a series of political ups and downs marked by increasing Republican criticism to preserve the image he set out to create of a vigorous chief executive.

But whether his successes on the domestic scene outweighed his failures was subject to political interpretation, with Democrats voting "yes" and Republicans shouting "no."

Physically, Kennedy seemed to be holding up well under the strain of the office he once told a visitor wryly involved "The kind of a job that if you lost it, you shouldn't mind."

A back ailment incurred when he shoveled three spades of dirt at a May 16 ceremony in Ottawa, Canada, cleared up after severl weeks during which the President spent some time on crutches. He subsequently avoided golf, got his relaxation swimming, sailing and yachting.

In the field of executive action, Kennedy could claim that his policy of persuasion—and no new legislation—had contributed to the peaceful integration of some of the schools in the South. But earlier in the year he sent in U.S. marshals when "Freedom Riders" were mobbed in Alabama.

He and his aides could settle the Metropolitan Opera dispute. But they could get nowhere in the maritime strike and reluctantly he had to employ the 80-day cooling off procedures of the Taft-Hartley Act, the 18th, time these have been used since the law was passed in 1947.

As Kennedy himself put it: "Unemployment is bad enough when there is a recession. It is intolerable when there is prosperity." Intolerable or not, it remained.

In his relations with a Congress controlled 2-1 by the Democrats Kennedy employed political devices from the carrot to the whip, to get action on an ambitious program aimed at lifting the nation's economy and providing additional government services to young and old.

He maintained a high batting average on Senate confirmation of his appointments. But the President had to give up a plan to name George D. Woods, New York investment banker, as foreign aid administrator when strong Senate opposition developed to Woods because of his firm's connection with the Dixon-Yates case. He named Fowler Hamilton, New York attorney, for the post.

In the first few months after his inauguration in January Kennedy's program rolled along with only an occasioal setback. His team was in first place in the legislative league standings on July 4 but after that it slumped badly.

In the early months of the year, Kennedy got satisfactory unemployment compensation, housing, minimum wage and area redevelopment bills. Congress appropriated $600 million for Latin-American aid and the Senate ratified U.S. participation in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

From seven to 13 Republicans provided the margin of votes the President's supporters needed in the Senate to ward off amendments to the minimum wage bill, unemployment compensation and housing. His depressed areas bill would have been defeated in the House if 41 Republicans had not come to its rescue there.

But the Berlin crisis and the President's request for a $3.5-billion increase in defense funds—which Congress upped to around $5 billion—brought the Republicans out in full economy cry, demanding curtailment of civilian spending.

Congress acted speedily to give the President authority to call up reserves and to keep men in uniform an additiinal year. It gave a go-ahead for an expanded space program, including a future moon shot.

But a GOP-Southern Democratic coalition closed in against such proposals as general aid to education, medical care for the aged, creation of a youth conservation corps and establishment of a cabinet department of urban affairs.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower keynoted the Republican attacks on the Kennedy spending proposals. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., joined in zestfully.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana used their weekly "Ev and Charlie" show to pound away at the argument that, with increased defense expenditures, civilian outlays ought to be cut.

Eisenhower's theme was that unnecessary federal spending would weaken confidence in the United States abroad. He castigated what he called the Kennedy administration's "insulting concept of government by big brother."

Nixon's theme was that at a time when the overriding problem was national security Kennedy was offering "soothing" welfare programs.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey replied that the Republicans proposed to "stop the clock on economic frowth and social progress."

"The Republican argument that we cannot afford to be a first rate country, that we cannot afford to educate our children or house our people, that we are better able to cope with the Communist menace with millions out of work than in an economy making full use of its human and mechanical resources will not be convincing to many Americans," he said.

Nevertheless, the prospect of a $6-billion to $7-billion deficit in the current fiscal year made an impression on Congress. And with the elections coming up in 1962, Kennedy was bending every effort to present a balanced budget to the lawmakers next January. Whether a rising economy with rising revenues would make this possible seemed likely to have a vital affect on leftovers in his program.

One of these was the administration's general aid to education bill, carrying funds for classroom construction and teachers' salaries, which had sailed through the Senate.

However, Kennedy's early session fight to enlarge the House Rules Committee so that important legislation could be moved through that roadblock didn't pay off as expected. The school bill was kept bottled up in committee.

The President got only an extension of assistance for school districts crowded by federal civilian and military personnel and of the National Defense Education Act, which provides scientific equipment grants and loans, as well as student loans.

Significantly, these extensions were for two years, which many thought would foreclose action on a general school bill until after the 1962 congressional elections.

With his tacit approval, Kennedy's program to provide medical care for the aged through Social Security financing was put on the shelf until next year. Congress did nothing about his plan to establish a Cabinet department of urban affairs or his request for creation of a youth conservation corps. Tax reform and postal rate increase legislation went over for a year at least.

The Senate passed a job retraining bill, but the House pigeonholed it. That body also did not act on a Senate-passed measure to give the President authority to aid Iron Curtain countries if he thinks such assistance is in the interest of U.S. security.

After a lengthy battle, Kennedy got half a loaf on foreign aid—a five-year authorization for development loans for fledging nations but yearly congressional action on the funds involved instead of the freer-hand Treasury borrowing he wanted.

The administration took a licking on its do-it-yourself farm programs under which growers would have called the shots on the type of controls and assistance, subject to congressional veto. Congress passed its own version of a price support measure.

On the other hand, Congress voted increases in Social Security benefits for widows, the disabled and old age pensioners. It passed a community facilities bill for the ill and aged.

To cut the flow of dollars abroad, it voted to reduce customs exemptions for returning travelers from $500 to $100. It set up a tourist bureau to lure foreign vacationers to this country.

Congress put on the books four measures supported by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to clamp down on underworld gambling and rackets. It made plane hijacking a crime that might be punishable by death.

The lawmakers voted to create 73 new federal judgeships, arranged the financing to complete the interstate highway program, approved a continuance of federal airport assistance and gave the President government reorganization powers.

Kennedy got approval of four independent agency reorganization plans he submitted and salvaged a part of another.

The House defeated his FCC reorganization plan, but legislation subsequently was enacted giving him much of what he had proposed. The House rejected his NLRB reorganization.

The Senate rejected his SEC reorganization plan, but subsequently passed a bill—which awaits House action—to give him some of what he had requested in delegation of functions. Kennedy's CAB, FTC, Home Loan Bank Board and Maritime Commission reorganization plans all became effective.

4 Governors To Confer On South Unity

By LARRY BOWMAN

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Four governors eager to restore the image of the solid South will hold a strategy session in advance of the 27th annual Southern governors' conference which opens here Sunday night.

Enthusiasm on the part of other Dixie chief executives for the "Southern unity" plan of Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett has been notably lacking, however. And the four main figures in the unity plan have widely different views of what it should mean.

Barnett called a "unity" meeting at Jackson, Miss., during the summer, but only a few Southern governors responded. Barnett has prepared a speech for the governors' conference on this theme.

The Southern governors' conference traditionally has shied away from controversial matters and limits its agenda to discussion of atomic energy, highways, higher education and industry. Florida Gov. Farris Bryant said he regards the annual meetings chiefly as a chance to get on a first-name basis with other chief executives so that mutual problems may be discussed informally.

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, John Patterson of Alabama and Barnett make up the core of the unity bloc. They plan a full-scale meeting at Montgomery, Ala., after the conference.

Faubus has been quiet on the subject, and Hollings and Patterson have their own ideas of what it should mean.

Hollings has called for a nationwide coalition of "conservative" governors without the deep South label. Patterson wants to include lieutenant governors and state attorneys general in a "progressive" coalition that would react as a group to Southern problems.

The principal speaker at the conference will be vice president Lyndon Johnson, the man who drew the wrath of many Alabama and Mississippi Democrats in the 1956 presidential election. Johnson is a close personal friend of Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington, host for the meeting.

Bryant and Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver are more interested at this time in talking civil defense than in talking politics. Vandiver, chairman of the National Governors' conference committee on the National Guard, is urging all residents of his state to build fallout shelters. Bryant was the first governor to undertake the two-week civil defense survival training program.

State Education Official Slated At OPHS Monday

James H. Perry, supervisor of special education in the Louisiana State Department of Education will speak to the Ouachita Parish High School faculty on the superior and talented student program Monday.

Perry, a former teacher from Bastrop, has been with the state department for a number of years in the capacity of visiting teacher and is now working with special education in the state. The state department is interested in establishing reading resource rooms for gifted students in Louisiana.

Ouachita Parish High School participated in a summer workshop and conference at LSU sponsored by the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges. The workshop was comprised of 10 high schools from throughout the state to serve as pilot project schools in a Superior and Talented Student Program. A direct result of Ouachita's attendance at this work shop, Perry will present the school with a set of books entitled, "Great Books of the Western World," for use in expanding Ouachita's reading resource program for gifted students.

Representing Ouachita at the LSU conference and workshop were: C. P. Brupbacher, principal of Ouachita Parish High School; S. T. Howell, head of Ouachita guidance department; and Milton C. Hall, Assistant Superintendent of Ouachita Parish Schools.

Perry will speak to the faculty about experiences and observations that he had in his year long tour of the United States observing various schools and their Superior and Talented Student Program.

Ground Breaking Ceremonies Set For Toledo Dam

HADDEN'S FERRY, La. (AP) —The governors of Texas and Louisiana will take part in ground breaking ceremonies Oct. 5 for the $60 million Toledo Bend Dam project.

Govs. Price Daniel of Texas and Jimmie Davis of Louisiana will do the honors when the first spade of earth is turned just west of here on the joint project of the two states.

Hadden's Ferry is one mile south of the dam site. W. R. Jackson Jr., Louisiana vice president of the Toledo Development Association, said Hadden's Ferry was chosen for the ceremonies because "It is physically impossible to get to the actual dam site."

He said the big project is "the first in the United States where two states have joined to build a dam, lake and power plant, under local control."

A group of Texas bands will play "The Eyes of Texas" and a group of Louisiana bands will play "You Are My Sunshine."

Others on the ground breaking program include Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex.

Open House Set

An open house will be held October 1 from 2 to 5 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin Staley of Swartz in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Drilling Up In 2 Parishes

FERRIDAY (Special) — One recompletion of a well in the Rodney Field in Tensas Parish the issuance of a permit for a field well in Catahoula Parish and the abandonment of two tests in Tensas Parish are included in the semi-weekly report of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

Drilling activity, however, in both Concordia and Catahoula parishes has increased materially during the past two weeks because of the large number of permits which have been issued, mostly for wildcat ventures.

The recompletion, permit and abandonments are: Recompletion —Tensas, Rodney Island, Tenneco Corp. No. 7 Rodney Island Unit, S11-10N-12S, recompleted as oil well making 67 barrels oil, with 20-64" choke; TP 175; BS&W 45.5 PD 9250-53; TD 9350. Ser. No. 60092.

Permit — Catahoula, Boltner Brake Olin Oil & Gas Corp. et al No. 29—Olin-Tensas Fee S8-6N-5E. 3421' South 89 degrees 43' East and 589' south of northwest corner to 5100'; Ser. No. 86641.

Abandonments — Tensas-Crimea, LaGrange Petroleum Co. No. 3 J. M. Stanton, S22-12N-11E to 8700 dry, 9-13-61; Ser. No. 86058; Wildcat Est. of William G. Helis No. 1 S. P. Burton et al; S2611N-11E TO 9200' dry, 9-12-61; Ser. No. 86190.

Canadian Says U.N. To Survive Present Crisis

OTTAWA (AP) — Foreign Minister Howard Green told the House of Commons Saturday he thinks the United Nations will emerge "stronger than ever before" from the crisis brought about by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's death.

The statement brought desk-thumping applause.

Green, just back from New York, where he attended opening meetings of the U.N. General Assembly session, said the death of Hammarskjold could be disastrous for the world organization.

"I believe, however, there will be a great rallying of support for the United Nations. Most delegations are determined that it will not be allowed to fail, but will go on to achieve growth under the inspiration given by Mr. Hammarskjold."

Green said he remains convinced that the world organization is "the one hope of mankind."

Singer Says U.S. Opera Not Popular

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Intervention by U.S. Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg to save the Metropolitan Opera from shutting its doors this season was only postponing the inevitable, says singer Vivienne Della Chiesa.

The famed opera company, beset by labor problems with musicians, planned to cancel this year's season. Government concern, in the persons of President Kennedy and Secretary Goldberg, brought about resumption of negotiations which paved the way for an opera season in New York.

But despite all the breast beating on behalf of opera, that fine old art form has little chance for survival in the United States, Vivienne said.

"It's inevitable that opera is going," she added. "They could modernize the whole opera business. It can be a terrible bore." The blonde singer explained that "in Europe, opera is part of the people's life. But here, it isn't."

"Opera doesn't appeal to the masses, I don't care what anybody says. I love it, but you have to face facts. Ever since I've been in show business, I've been told that the public is becoming more interested in opera. But the companies are always in the red."

Vivienne said she could have sung at the famed Metropolitan but the salary would not have been enough.

"I would have starved," she said.

For years, Vivienne travelled around the country singing in classical concerts, switching to club appearances in 1959.

"I wish I'd started working in supper clubs a lot sooner," she said. "You can be out singing operas and concerts and nobody even knows where you are. You sing in these little squeedunk towns and nobody knows you're working.

Two Techsters At Air Meet

RUSTON (Special) — The O'Donnell Squadron of the Arnold Air Society of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute sent two delegates to the 13th National Conclave of the Arnold Air Society held in Philadelphia, Penn. The delegates are Douglas H. Fisher and Paul W. Nelson, both of Shreveport.

The Arnold Air Society is a national honor society for Air Force ROTC cadets. Each school year, the Society holds a convention in a different city. This year Philadelphia played host to delegates from throughout the nation, and Puerto Rico.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force Chief-of-Staff, headed the list of notables who addressed the cadets.

Movies Said Good Medium Of Diplomacy

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor John Gavin, back from a meeting of the Organization of American States in Uruguay, says movie-makers should be more concerned about pictures sent to that important part of the world.

Gavin is one of filmland's rising stars and a versatile man whose interests range from professional football to complex economic problems.

The former U.S. Navy officer went to Punta Del Este, Uruguay, recently to serve on the staff of Dr. Jose A. Mora, secretary general of the OAS.

In the absence of Eric Johnston, head of the American Association of Motion Picture Producers, Gavin also represented the film industry.

DISCUSSED

When not working as an advisor on communications, education and public information at the conference, Gavin spoke with delegates and others regarding Hollywood pictures.

He mentioned the tenacity and organizational ability of the Communists who take every opportunity to heap scorn on the United States in Latin America.

"The Communists get into an area and organize 100 people who are worth something," he said. "Then they get malcontents and fellow travelers. So when the time comes, they make a big noise with parades and demonstrations."

PROPAGANDA

Gavin said films have a great propaganda value which could be used to show the falsity of communism.

Why don't we make a picture about Russian tanks going into Hungary and shooting people?" he suggested.

Gavin returned to Hollywood intending to find out what the movie industry can do to help create understanding between North and South America.

"One of the things we hope to do in supporting the program of education is to make films explaining the aims of OAS," he said. "People in North and South America are ignorant of each other's countries."

Gavin is going to Washington for further meetings with OAS officials and plans for Hollywood cooperation will be discussed.

'COME SEPTEMBER,' starring Rock Hudson and Gina Lollobrigidia, is now showing at the Jim Theatre. Sandra Dee, Bobby Darin and Walter Slezak also star in the Technicolor production, filmed on the Italian Riviera and in Rome and distributed by Universal-International pictures.

South African Finances Show

NEW YORK (AP)—The entire $350,000 needed to finance production of Broadway's new musical "Kwamina" was posted by John Schlesinger, a South African businessman.

The show, written by Robert Alan Aurthur with music by Richard Adler, concerns present-day affairs in an emergent African nation.

Wig don't we make a picture about Russian tanks going into Hungary and shooting people?" he suggested.

Gavin returned to Hollywood intending to find out what the movie industry can do to help create understanding between North and South America.

"One of the things we hope to do in supporting the program of education is to make films explaining the aims of OAS," he said. "People in North and South America are ignorant of each other's countries."

Gavin is going to Washington for further meetings with OAS officials and plans for Hollywood cooperation will be discussed.

AFTER FILM SUCCESS

Douglas Laughs All Way To Bank

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Happiest guy in town is Kirk Douglas, who did everything backward while making "Spartacus" and now is laughing all the way to the bank.

The picture, already being released for its second go-around, is on its way to becoming the biggest money-maker in the history of Universal-International Studios.

"I'm positive now that if I'd known more about how to make a movie when I decided to do it, I'd never have undertaken it," the 44-year-old actor-producer said over breakfast in his Beverly Hills home.

The idea for the film started simply enough when Douglas read the book.

GOT STARS EASILY

"I thought, 'How wonderful it would be to make this.' I kept thinking 'Boy, wouldn't it be something to imagine Sir Laurence Olivier in one part, and Charles Laughton and Peter Ustinov in others!' "

Instead of the usual jockeying, Douglas got them easily.

"Well," said Douglas, "I read Yul Brynner was going to do 'The Gladiators,' which is the story of Spartacus. People kept telling me, 'Well, I guess you're not going to do it now.'

"The next week, a photo of Brynner came out with him in a gladiator's costume. Again the people said, 'Guess you're not gonna do it.' But, what the heck, I could go to a costume store and dress up too. So out of perverseness, I decided to go ahead."

He quickly got rights to the book from author Howard Fast without the usual big option deal.

LIKED PART

"Then, a very good friend of mine, Tony Curtis, read the script and said there was a small part he'd love to do. I told him, 'But you're a big star.' Anyway, we rewrote a little, and he was in.

"Next we had problems with the director and had to let him go. That was on a Friday. At that time, director Stanley Kubrick had been bounced from Brando's 'One-eyed Jacks.' I talked our picture over with Kubrick on Saturday and Sunday, and Monday, we kept shooting—with him directing—without missing a day.

"Next we lost a German girl we'd brought over for the picture. She wasn't right. And suddenly Jean Simmons wanted to do the movie. She was in. At this point we found out Brynner wasn't going to do his film."

The picture was 1½ years in the works, cost $12 million, was plagued with injuries—and most of the stars, in addition to being first-rate hams, had also been producers and directors. The movie took so long to complete that nearly every star made another film while working in it.

Film Fare

The listing of the cast for "Teahouse of the August Moon," has been announced by the director. On it are:

Sakini, Lamar Mullican; Sergeant Gregorich, Bill Blythe; Colonel Wainwright, Beryl Franklin; Captain Fisby, Arthur Griffith; Old Woman, Janice Hattaway; Old Woman's Daughter, Alice Goorley; Daughter's Children, Susan Odom, Bobby Smith, Mike Smith; Ancient Man, Phil Lisotta; Mr. Hokaida, Bill Eason.

Mr. Omura, Bob Evans; Mr. Sumata, H. H. Gentry; Mr. Seika, Curtis Rape; Mrs. Higa Jiga, June Sherman; Mr. Keora, Joe Johnston; Lotus Blossom, Marilyn Frantom; Captain McLean, Claude Fuller; Villagers, Jon Hattaway, Bruce Jones, Dewayne May, Jack Friday; Ladies' League for Democratic Action, Gail Merhige, Juanita Gentry, Evelyn Boggs, Jan Evans, Kathryn Mizell.

GOOD RESPONSE

There has been a very good response to items requested. Mrs. Glenda Lacey is helping with the Ikinawan dialect. Mrs. Mike Napoli is the special consultant on oriental customs for the production.

The play is now in its second week of rehearsals. October 20 is the tentative date for opening night. Donna Vae Hughes, whom you may remember as the female lead in "Summer and Smoke," is the assistant to Richard Clark, the director.

The Little Theatre will give a special performance of "Teahouse of the August Moon," for the Airport Managers' Convention in October.

The membership drive is doing very well with over 100 patron members already.

Many Americans Show Abroad In Cultural Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Four thousand American performers have been sent on tours to 105 countires in the seven years since establishment of the State Department cultural exchange program, according to Robert Schnitzer.

Schnitzer, general manager of the project, told the American Educational Theater Association that the 150 attractions on the program ranged from symphony orchestras to theatrical productions.

"Theater drama was the last invited to participate," he said. "The recent European trip of the American repetory group effectively disposed of the ghost that language is a barrier."

'FRANCIS OF ASSISI,' the story of a young adventurer, opens today at the Paramount Theatre. The picture stars Bradford Dillman and Delores Hart, and is in CinemaScope color.

TENSE SCENE from 'The Mystery at Tiger Bay' stars Hayley Mills and Horst Buchholz. The film opens Friday at the Paramount Theatre.

Yogi Berra of the Yankees has been in 11 World Series. Babe Ruth played in 10.

Tribe Loses Heartbreaker In Final Minutes, 38-34

Lamar Tech Rallies Twice In Last Quarter For Win

By BOB ANDERSON

BEAUMONT, Tex. — Lamar Tech came from behind in the final period with two spectacular passes to nullify a second - half rally by Northeast State and take a wild 38-34 victory here Saturday night.

Quarterback Windell Hebert hit speedy Bobby Jancik with 64 and 55-yard touchdown passes in the last six minutes to rob Northeast's Indians of victory.

Northeast, quarterbacked superbly by freshman Ronnie Myrick, had rallied from a 10-point deficit in the final period before Hebert and Jancik exploded their aerial fireworks. Northeast's final touchdown came with 6:26 left in the game and gave the Tribe a 34-24 lead.

Five touchdowns were scored in the wild fourth period, three by rallying Northeast and two by the host Cardinals, opening their season.

Northeast went into the third period down by a 17-14 count. Lamar pushed its advantage to 24-14 late in the period when Ronnie Fontenot ran eight yards for the six-points and Walter Smith added the PAT.

Northeast took the resulting kickoff and moved 63 yards for a touchdown. Twelve and 10 yard sweeps by Ken Newton sparked the push, climaxed by Al Ott's one-yard blast over guard. Willie Ragan kicked the PAT to make it Lamar 24, Northeast 21 with 11:28 left in the game.

Harold Mayo fumbled on his kickoff runback and R. F. Wilson recovered on the Lamar 41. Three plays gained seven yards. Myrick tossed to Newton for a TD on fourth down but the play was called back on a clipping rap and Northeast penalized back to the 20. Myrick tossed to Newton again for five, then swept wide for 15 yards and the touchdown that put Northeast ahead for the first time. Willie Ragans's kick was blocked but Northeast had a 27-24 lead with 8:10 left.

Lamar Tech again fumbled on the kickoff runback, Fontenot the victim again, and the ball popped into Ragan's hands on the 20. Willie ran it to the 14, then went for five from scrimmage. Don Wattigny picked up six wide, then Gordon Salsman rammed off tackle for the touchdown. Ragan's kick was good and Northeast led, 34-24, with 6:26 remaining.

Lamar held on to the next kickoff and Jancik sped behind the Tribe defenders, took a Hebert toss on the 20 and dashed into the end zone to complete a 64-yard play. Smith's kick was good and Northeast's lead was cut to 34-31 with 5:33 remaining.

The Indians took the kickoff, could manage only five yards in three tries and Salsman punted to the Lamar 36. Jancik picked up four and Fontenot five With third and one at his 45, Jancik got open again to take another Hebert toss to win the game. Smith's kick, making it 38-34, came with 1:33 left.

Northeast refused to be counted out. Don Blackwelder returned the kickoff to the Tribe 32 and Myrick promptly hit Ken Thornhill with a nine-yard pass, then drilled Bo Dick Smith with a 23-yard pitch that put the ball on the Lamar 36. But there it stayed. Myrick passes to Newton, Salsman, and Jim Love were incomplete. With fourth and 10 at the 36, Myrick's final toss to Love was batted down by Don Phillips on the five.

The game ended six seconds later.

Northeast deserved to win. The Indians, now 1-1 for the season, had the statistical edge in first downs, rushing, passing and total offense.

The Indians got fine defensive work from Love, Tommy Beaube, Ragan, Jim LaCoste and O. J. Louviere in a game that wasn't quite all offense.

Myrick was a dazzling offensive performer for the Indians. He completed seven of 14 passes for 148 yards, ran five times for 42 yards, scored two touchdowns and set up two others with long passes to Smith.

Newton accounted for 37 yards rushing with Ragan picked 28 yards in 10 carries.

John Kent was Lamar's leading rusher with 67 yards. Hebert tossed nine passes, completed five for a whopping 156 yards.

Lamar Tech got its first points with 6:02 left in the first period. Northeast's Gordon Salsman, rushed, punted only 17 yards to the Indian 37. Ralph Stone got nine yards and quarterback Ronnie Wright 12 to spark the Cardinals to the 10, from where freshman Walter Smith booted a field goal from his 16.

A 39-yard pass interception by David Webb set up the first Lamar touchdown. Young David picked off a Don Wattigny pitch on his own 45 and traveled back to the Tribe 17, almost making it all the way. Webb's return ended the first period. Three plays into the second quarter Boddy Jancik danced six yards for the ID. Smith booted the extra point.

Northeast struck back immediately. Don Blackwelder reeled off a sparkling 32-yard kickoff return to the Tribe 40. Willie Ragan got one before Myrick faked convincingly to Ragan, then hit Bo Dick Smith all alone at the 20. Webb caught up with Smith at the one but Ott burst off guard on the next play for the first Tribe touchdown. Ragan added the PAT and it was 10-7 with 12:20 left in the half.

John Kent's 59-yard gallop to the 10, where Morris Douglas pulled him down from behind, set up the second Tech TD. Richard Prejean ran to the one and Ralph Stone bucked it over. Smith added the extra point to make it 17-7 with 9:57 left in the half.

Late in the period, Myrick and Smith struck again, this time teaming up for a 31-yard play that took the ball to the 10. Myrick swept wide around right end on the next play for the TD. Ragan kicked to make it 17-14 with 5:42 left.

It was still 17-14 at the half. Lamar Tech's freshmen engaged in a "shoe scramble" during halftime, then the two football teams took over again for a much wilder scramble.

RUGGED DEFENSE

Mississippi State Eases By TT, 6-0

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State, playing its usual brand of rugged defensive football, shows signs of promise for the 1961 season Saturday night by downing Texas Tech 6-0.

The Southeastern Conference team displayed a potential attack but couldn't punch a touchdown across until late in the third period when quarterback Charlie Furlow rammed over from the one.

During the scoring drive, fullback Mackie Weaver supplied the offensive impetus, covering 42 of the 80-yard march.

On two other occasions, Mississippi State moved deep into Red Raider territory—once to only one foot from the goal line—but failed to score.

It was a blend of running and passing from quarterbacks John Carrero, Billy Hill and Furlow moved State forward most of the time.

The victory ended a 22-year drought for State against Southwest Conference teams. Tech beat State 27-20 in 1953 and Saturday night's game was only the second meeting between the two.

Tech's only serious threats came early in the game when fullback Coolidge Hunt, the leading rusher in the SWE last year, sparked the Raiders on drives that carried 40 yards each. Both ended on State's 32-yard line.

State rolled up 361 yards running and passing while Tech was able to muster only 111 against the always—tough Maroon defenses.

Coach Wade Walker's charges, dwellers in the SEC second division for the last two seasons, showed a trouble that has plagued them for several years.

The Maroon offense generated well until it reached scoring territory, but usually bogged down in the neighborhood of the Tech 20.

Late in the first period, State moved deep into the Tech corral on a combination of Carrero's running and passing. The Greenwood, Miss., signal caller picked up 17 yards in a 65-yard march that went to within one foot of Tech's goal. But the Raiders held firmly while State took three shots at scoring.

Correro's 33-yard pass to end David Kelley moved the ball to the Tech 3. Tech again withstood four State attempts to score and State surrendered possession at the Tech 1.

Sophomore halfback Hal Green gave life to the only other State drive as the target of four passes from Furlow covering 9, 11, 16 and 4. But State's hopes for six points on the scoreboard died on the Tech 31.

Miami Upends Kentucky, 14-7 In Fiery Tilt

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The Miami Hurricanes pounded out steady gains on the ground Saturday night to upend Kentucky 14-7 for their first football victory in a six-game grid series.

The game was marked by frequent penalties and hostilities and officials broke up a free-swinging melee involving a dozen players with five seconds to go.

The wildcats marched 80 yards the first time they had the ball, featuring the accurate passing of quarterback Jerry Woolum to end Tom Hutchinson.

Fullback Gary Cochran circled right end from 11 yards out for the touchdown. Clarkie Mayfield kicked the extra point.

Miami's first assault at the Kentucky goal stopped by an intercepted pass on the five. But Miami rebounded and John Bennett plunged two yards for the touchdown in the second quarter. Charles Livingston kicked the point for a 7-7 halftime tie.

Miami moved 90 yards in nine plays in the third, capped by a George Mira pass to end Bill Miller.

Ags Run Wild Over Grizzlies

LOGAN, Utah. (AP) — Utah State's football machine battered outclassed Montana relentlessly Saturday and routed the Grizzlies 54-6 in a Skyline Conference game

It was the most humiliating Montana defeat in the 28-game series with USU that dates back to 1904.

The powerful Aggies scored every time they got the ball until the final seconds of the first half when time ran out with Utah State on the Montana 15.

Phils Outlast Bucs To Win 5-4 In 16th

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A homer by Wes Covington in the 16th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night.

The game was the longest of the season in the National League.

Covington's blow over the right field wall gave the victory to Jack Baldschun, who relieved starter Johnny Buzhardt with two out in the ninth and blanked the Bucs on three hits through the last seven and one-third innings. Baldschun's record is now 5-3. Elroy Face lost his 12th game against six wins.

Libertore Gets Florida Past Clemson, 21-17

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Lightning strikes by Larry Libertore through the air and on the ground carried Florida to a 21-17 victory over Clemson in a thrilling football opener for both teams Saturday.

The 138-pound Libertore had food company in halfback Lindy Infante, who ran for two touchdowns and scored a third on a 17-yard pass from the Gator quarterback. Libertore gained 95 yard passing and 66 rushing.

The first two passes Libetore tried were complete to Infante, the second chalking up a 17-yard touchdown late in the first quarter. This snatched the lead from Clemson, which counted first on a 31-yard field goal by Lon Armstrong.

Bears Maul WF With 31-0 Victory

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Baylor's Bears scored the first three times they got the ball Saturday night, turning Wake Forest's mistakes into a rout as they defeated the Deacons, 31-0.

The Bears all-America candidate, Ronnie Bull, scored twice, racing 21 yards untouched in the first quarter and dashing 22 yards in the fourth period on a screen pass from quarterback Bobby Ply.

Ply capped a 69 yard match with a 7-yard touchdown throw to end Herbert Harlan in the third period and Jim Oldham put in an 8-yard touchdown run in the first period. Carl Choat booted a 21 yard field goal and had a perfect night kicking extra points.

Fumbles and pass interceptions ruined the Atlantic Coast Conference Deacons. A crowd of 28,000, sweltering in 84 degree heat, watched three Baylor units contribute to the Bears 11th consecutive opening game victory.

Baylor guard Herby Adkins pounced on fullback Bruce McDonnell's fumble at the Wake Forest 38 to set up the Bears first score. Baylor scored in four plays, with Bull breaking off l guard for the last 21 yards. Choate added his first of four successful placements.

Rice Rolls By LSU 16-3 In Easy Fashion; Cox Is Star

By KYLE THOMPSON

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)— Quarterback Billy Cox aimed precision passes at the right time Saturday night for two touchdowns to guide Rice University to a 16-3 victory over Louisiana State University before a record crowd of 73,000.

Cox failed to fill the air with passes as some had expected, but when he chose to pass, he picked the exact time in the two touchdown efforts by the Owls while LSU's defense appeared to be at its weakest.

In addition to the two scoring drives, the Owls' Butch Blume made good a 27-yard field goal toward the end of the final period. The Tigers only score was a field goal climaxing their finest scoring effort that opened the second half.

On that drive, which featured passes of 11 and 15 yards by LSU quarterback Lynn Amedee to halfback Jerry Stovall, the Tigers penetrated to the Rice 14 and Wendell Harris completed the 25-yard field goal after three attempts to reach the goal failed.

Cox's masterful passes that made the difference included a speedy jump aerial in the end zone to end Johnny Burrell from the four, and a 47-yard pass play to fullback Roland Jackson who had slipped behind the LSU defense early in the fourth period.

In the latter, LSU's Harris caught up with Jackson around the three yard line, but Jackson's momentum was so great that the tackle carried both over the goal line.

Rice looked good from every angle. Cox completed seven of 10 pass attempts for a net of 101 yards. To back this up, the Owl defense allowed Amedee only nine completions out of 26 attempts, and intercepted three key passes to stay LSU drives.

Stovall, in addition to being on the receiving end of most of Amedee's passes, was LSU's workhorse on the ground. He accounted for 37 of the Tigers' 60 net yards rushing, carrying the ball nine times.

ARK. STATE VICTIM

Louisiana Tech Wins 47-8 Rout

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech turned its opening grid game into a track meet here last night in routing what was supposed to be a good Arkansas State eleven, 47 to 8, with reserves playing much of the second half.

The Techmen, somewnat of a preseason question mark because of the loss of a number of stars of the 1960 team, started early and quit late with their scoring punch.

Tech coach Joe Aillet cleared his bench and no one player got to see much action. The first unit got the first touchdown in the initial period when tackle Herschel Vinyard recovered a fumble at the Indian 41. Andy Farless and Jack Lestige moved the ball to the five, and Mickey Slaughter scored on a keeper.

Tech used four quarterbacks and all performed well. Slaughter connected on two of three for 73 yards; Pat Shows four of seven for 30 yards; Johnny Hudson, three of three for 48; and Bill Weaver, one for 14 yards.

The Bulldog offense rolled for 272 yards, 202 on the ground and 170 through the air.

Frosh halfback Wayne Noland was the top ball carrier, getting 49 yards on four carried. Paul Labine, soph halfback, went 65 yards for a TD with a screen pass in the second period.

Despite the big point output no player scored more than one TD for Tech, and reliable kicker Gud Alexander tallied eleven points on two field goals and five conversions.

Demons Shell Mexico Tech In 55-8 Rout

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Northwestern State gave Mexico Polytech's touring football team a hot reception Saturday night with an offense that produced eight touchdowns and a 55-8 rout of the visitors from below the border.

Halfback Kenny Thompson started the onslaught with a four-yard scoring run and Vick Norcia booted the first of five conversions.

Norica followed with a four-yard run for a touchdown, and in quick succession Jerry Burton tallied on a six-yarder, Dickie Rogers went two yards into Mexico paydirt and Gary Moore took a 10-yard scoring pass from Larry Crow.

Mexico Polytech scored on a 7-yard pass from Oscar Riviera to Francisco Riviera. Eduardo Escovar ran for a two-point conversion.

But NSC started the onslaught again with Crow passing 35 yards to Glenn Talbert for a touchdown, Jackie Smith returning a pass interception 34 yards for another tally and Steve Murphy finally ended the rout on a four-yard run. G. W. Zachary converted after the last two touchdowns.

The game, played before 6,000 fans, sent Northwestern's record to two victories without a loss. The Mexicans lost to Northeast Sept. 16.

East Jeff Bows To Redemptorist

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Reserve halfback Paul Boudreaux engineered Redemptorist to a 7-0 triple-A football victory over East Jefferson Saturday.

Boudreaux, put in the game when injuries sidelined Tommy Nides and Pat Scully, carried the ball 24 times and picked up 117 yards. He scored the touchdown with an 18-yard burst over right tackle. Bobby Doyle booted the extra point.

Penn State's Rally Spoils Middie Upset

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Don Caum picked up a faltering Penn State offense Saturday to thwart Navy's bid for an upset, 20-10.

Jonas scored State's first touchdown on a 6-yard sprint around end, kicked the extra point and later added two field goals as State struggled fitfully against the two-touchdown underdogs.

Until Caum's entry in the final quarter, however, the Lions, rated in pre-season forecasts as the leading contender for Navy's Eastern championship, couldn't find the right offensive combination.

Meanwhile, junior quarterback Ron Klemick and Bob Hecht gave Navy a passing superiority that kept the Middies ahead until Jonas' second field goal, in the fourth quarter.

Klemick's passing produced a score with the season less than five minutes old when he hit Jim Stewart with an over the line shot for the final 2 yards in a 60-yard drive. A 31-yard pass from Hecht to halfback Bob Beall set up a 45-yard field goal by Mather with less than five seconds remaining in the half.

Jonas kicked the tying field goal a 31-yarder, after a 78-yard State march stalled on the Navy 14. His three-pointer from the 25 early in the fourth quarter put State ahead for the first time.

Navy using all three of its lines, was able to jam the middle to slow the State ground game almost effectively as 'if the sun-baked field was mired in mud.

Then came Caum to spark the 68-yard late drive that included his 46-yard pass to Gary Wydman and a 19-yard dash around left end for the clincher.

Duke Rallies Late To Ease Past SC, 7-6

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Duke survived an attack of fumbles and scored with two minutes left Saturday night to whip underdog South Carolina 7-6 in the Atlantic Coast Conference opener for both teams.

Reserve halfback Dean Findley kicked 26 and 37-yard field goals for South Carolina, in the first and fourth periods.

With two minutes to play, however, quarterback Walt Rappold directed the Dukes on a 50-yard march that ended with fullback Red Burch plunging over from the three for a touchdown. Halfback Bill Reynolds kicked the extra point that gave the Blue Devils their third opener in six years against South Carolina.

Wildcats Romp Over Alabama Rivals, 39 To 0

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Levi Barber paced Louisiana College to a 39-0 rout of Troy (Ala.) State in a football game Saturday night.

Barber scored on dashes of 57 and 93 yards and caught a 58-yard pass from quarterback Corky Yates for another touchdown.

Billy Aucum added another tally on a 5-yard plunge and Bobby McCardle scored late in the fourth quarter on a 2-yard buck.

The Alabama team never seriously threatened.

Grambling In 59-0 Slaughter Over Steers

GRAMBLING (Special) — The Grambling Tigers used a devastating offense and a go-get-um defense to ground out a 59-0 victory over Texas College here Saturday night.

The visiting Steers were hornless and helpless against Coach Ed Robinson's Tigers and rarely advanced beyond mid-field on their own power. They penetrated Tiger territory only once.

The issue was never in doubt after all - American halfback Jerry Robinson burst throught tackle for 27 yards and the first score.

Robinson tallied again five plays later on a reverse which was virtualy unstopable as he rambled 33 yards. He gathered in a 35 yard pass from Lawrence Hunter for his third marker.

Except for a brief spell in the second stanza, Texas College was continuously hammered by the Tiger assault as Sammy Tayler, Louis Flanagin, Howard McCowan, Sam Preston, Roy Neal Shelling of Monroe, and Stone Johnson scored on long marches.

Grambling picked up 500 yards in the air and on the ground while the Steers managed only 103 yards. The Tigers held a 16-6 advantage in the first down department.

Mighty Rebels Masters Over Arkansas, 16 To 0

Ole Miss Line Too Powerful For Porkers

By RICK BRYAN
MORNING WORLD SPORTS EDITOR

MISSISSIPPI MEMORIAL STADIUM, Jackson—Mighty Mississippi rolled with ponderous ease to crush the Arkansas Razorbacks 16-0 in the climaxer of their modern grid series before a sellout crowd of 46,000 and a nationwide TV audience here Saturday afternoon.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) Statistics of the Arkansas-Mississippi game

	ARK	Miss
First downs	5	18
Rushing yardage	92	259
Passing yardage	75	116
Passes	2-9	7-8
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	4-42.0	3-22.7
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	12	160

The win gave the Rebels a 13-12 edge in the 53-yearo-ld rivalry and was the first of a double-header dedicating Jackson's new Mississippi Memorial Stadium. It was the first game ever played here. Mississippi State and Texas Tech played the nightcap at 8 p.m.

For the standing - room - only crowd witnessing the crucial in the 90-degree heat of the warm and sunny afternoon there was little doubt who was superior.

Mississippi uncorked three long drives to paydirt, while holding the vaunted attack of the speedy Razorbacks to little more than a few touchdown threats.

The Johnny Rebs scored the first time they had the ball, taking the opening kickoff and driving 61-yards for the touchdown.

A 35-yard pass play from quartervack Doug Elmore to end Woody Dabbs climaxed the drive.

Mississippi put three more points on the scoreboard early in the second quarter when end Wes Sullivan booted a 15-yard field goal to cap a 66-yard drive.

The final touchdown came in the third quarter and ended an 80-yard march — the longest of the game.

First unit halfback Art Doty got the score, plunging over from the yard and a half mark.

Essentially, it was a game of lines, and Mississippi's was magnificent throughout.

They tackled with hard-nosed fervor, and their rushing was brutal. When the chips were down they completely throttled Arkansas. On offense they punched big holes in the Hogs' lighter line, particularly in the interior section.

The Rebels crunched out 375 yards total offense, and 259 of these were on the ground.

Arkansas in turn, was held to a 108 total with a meager 92 yards rushing.

Tackles Rush McKay and Jim Dunaway, along with guard Johnny Mitchelo turned in top-notch defensive performances for the Rebels.

But the best was probably Sullivan. Time after time his tackles chilled the Porkers.

The speedy, 178-pound All-Southwest conference back was spectacular everytime he found the least bit of open field.

He was Arkansas's top ground gainer with 51-yards in nine carries, and made some sparkling punt and kickoff returns.

On one drive in the second quarter he gained 26 and eight yards on keeper plays and completed three passes.

Rebel Coach Johnny Vaught went as deep as the fourth unit in the final period and the youngsters moved the ball almost as well as the regulars.

Early in the second quarter the Rebels started again, rambling 66 yards on 10 plays to the Hog five where Sullivan angled in a three-pointer. The ball was held at the 17 about 15-yards in from the east sideline.

Arkansas did get into scoring range twice in the first half. The first time was on an 8-play march that started on the Piggie 35 and wound up at the Ole Miss 27. Quarterback Gleen Griffin pounced on Hog ballhandler George McKinney's fumble here to half the bid.

Late in the second quarter the Hogs got started again. Beginning at their 37 they slipped all the way down to the Rebel 18, but again they were doomed to be denied.

An interference ruling that moved the ball from the Arkansas 42 to the Mississippi 33 was the key play in keeping the Hogs rolling.

Morris intercepted the pass at the 30 but the White Shirts wouldn't let him keep it.

Ole Miss made its longest drive of the game in the third quarter, marching 80 yards to score in 18 plays.

Doty got the touchdown, crashing over right tackle from the one and a half yard line with 3:57 left in the third quarter.

The drive consisted mainly of short gains with Doty's 13-yard run to the Hog 33 the longest.

Arkansas' try came the first time they got the ball after the half.

Alworth returned the kickoff from his six to the Pig 42. Only a shoestring tackle by Elmore, the last man to have a chance at him, stopped Alworth.

Another interference ruling moved the ball to the Mississippi 30 and then speedy Lance made another of his talented scampers, this one for 14-yards to the Rebel 15.

Porker field goal specialist Jim Grizzle, a senior end, came in then to try for the three points, but his kick was low.

Arkansas made one other bid to score, a drive from their 36 to the Rebel 32.

But Alworth fumbled and Mississippi guard Sam Owen recovered.

Mississippi, with third - string quarterback Dunn guiding the attack, almost cashed in again in the fourth period. But their drive from the Reb 26 to Hog halfyard mark was thwarted when the entire right side of the Arkansas line rose up to smother sophomore halfback Tommy Smith on fourth down.

Arkansas ran the ball out to the 24 where Alworth got off a booming 72-yard punt that rolled all the way down to Mississippi's four.

Before the Rebs could spring their devastating attack into one more play the game ended and Arkansas had lost by a good bit more than the 10-7 margin by which Mississippi won last year.

Aggies, Cougars In Tie Game, 7-7

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., (UPI) — Quarterback Jim Keller plunged two yards for a Texas A&M touchdown in the final quarter Saturday night and the Aggies tied the University of Houston 7-7.

Two defensive stands by Houston halted A&M drives on the 3 and 6 yard lines before 22,000 Kyle Field fans.

Houston missed two chances to win the game as field goals fell short from the Aggie 41 and 35 yard lines.

Keller, playing his first varsity football game after lettering in basketball, sparked the tying drive with runs of six yards and a pass of 11. The Aggies went 54 yards in 11 plays and Daryle Keeling kicked the tying point with 12:14 left to play.

Little Ken Bolin scored Houston's first-half touchdown on a three yard charge around right end. The 5-11, 165-pound halfback had set up the score by recovering a Ronnie Brice fumble on the Aggie 8. Brice had dropped a 54-yard punt by Larry Lindsey.

Eddie Mitchamore of Houston kicked the extra point. He missed a field goal from the 36 after the Aggies tied it up.

Dodgers Keep Faint Series Hopes Alive

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The still-hopeful Los Angeles Dodgers, led by Duke Snider and Norm Larker and aided by four St. Louis errors, beat the Cardinals and old nemesis Larry Jackson Saturday, 8-5, and stayed alive in the National League pennant chase.

Even though they won, the Dodgers lost ground because first place Cincinnati whipped San Francisco 10-6 and reduced its "magic number" to just three games. Cincy still packs a four-game lead.

The 35-year-old Snider drove in three runs with a double, triple and sacrifice fly. Larker drove in two runs with two doubles and a sacrifice fly.

Four Redbird errors — two by rookie shortstop Jerry Buchek — gave the Dodgers four unearned runs, two in the seventh to let them go ahead 4-3. The Dodgers iced it with a four-run eighth, two of them unearned, and sent Jackson to the showers. Snider's two-run triple off Ed Bauta, coming on the heels of Julian Javier's error, was the crusher.

TCU Upsets Kansas 17-16 On Spearman's Field Goal

By DON SMITH
United Press International

Giant quarterback Sonny Gibbs set up the field goal when he drove the Frogs from their own 44 to the Kansas 18. With a fourth and six situation, Spearman came in and kicked the three-pointer that made the difference.

The one-point margin was made possible when, after an apparently successful conversion try following a third-quarter Kansas touchdown, the Jayhawks were penalized 15 yards for holding. The second attempt at the conversion was short.

TCU went into the fourth quarter trailing 16-7 after Kansas punched over a first-period touchdown and field goal and another touchdown in the third period.

TCU pulled that up to 16-14 with 9:03 left when Gibbs capped an 80-yard, 11-play drive by tossing 24 yards to halfback Roy Dent behind two defenders in the end zone.

THROWS KEY PASS

Going into the final period, the 6-foot, 7-inch Gibbs had passed only twice during the game. During the touchdown drive and the series that led to the field goal, he threw 10 times and completed four, the big one the scoring toss to Dent.

Kansas took an early lead when Kent Staab jumped on a Frog fumble on the TCU 44 on the fourth play of the game. Ten plays later, Kansas quarterback John Hadl pitched out to halfback Lee Flachbarth who went one yard for the score.

TCU took the following kickoff and stormed 67 yards in five plays with Gibbs getting the score when he rolled out to the right and went over from the five. Soph fullback Jim McAteer added the conversion.

TCU then fumbled the ball to Kansas after forcing the Jayhawks to punt, John Collins covering the loose ball on the Frog 20. Kansas gained six yards in three plays, and Elvin Basham kicked a field goal from the 30.

PUNT GOES BAD

The score stood up until late in the third quarter when TCU halfback Garry Thomas rolled a punt off the side of his foot and the Jayhawks took over on the Frog 43.

Hadl kept on the option play to his left side and raced 40 yards before Larry Thomas pulled him down on the 3. On the next play, Hadl again kept and slipped over for the score. The conversion attempt failed when Kansas drew a 15-yard penalty.

TCU fullback Tommy Crutcher was the top gainer in the game with 76 yards in 14 carries—71 of those coming on eight tries in the first half. Hadl led the Kansans with 56 on 16 tries, followed by Curtis McClinton with 43 on 13 carries.

TCU outgained Kansas 284 yards to 216 in total offense. The difference came on passes. Gibbs hit five of 12 for 93 yards, while Hadl completed three of eight for only 26 TCU had 191 yards rushing to 190 for Jayhawks.

Barber Falters; Hill Takes Lead

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Veteran Jerry Barber of Los Angeles faded badly Saturday while young Dave Hill shot a 3-under par 69 to take a two-stroke lead after 54 holes in the 72-hole Portland Open Golf Tournament.

Tied for second behind Hill's 203 were Jerry Steelsmith, the early leader, 30-year-old Gordon Jones and Bruce Crampton, 25, the Australian standout. They had three-round totals of 205.

Barber, the 45-year - old PGA champ, who only Friday set a new course record of 64 on the 6,675 yard Columbia Edgewater course, was three over par on the front nine and wound up with a 73. He missed a left-handed swing on the seventh hole, with his ball up next to a tree, 30 yards from the green.

Jones, who went into Saturday's round four strokes behind Hill, Steelsmith and Barber, fired a 67. Steelsmith, having trouble with his putting, scored a 71. Crampton shot a 68 to make up one stroke on Hill and Steelsmith.

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Outfielder Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves holds the record for hitting home runs in each National League Park for seven straight seasons.

Montgomery Leading Cage Association

BASTROP, La. (Special)—High school principals and coaches of this area completed organization of the Northeast Louisiana High School Basketball Officials Association at a meeting here with the election of Denny Montgomery as president.

Other officers elected were George Davis, vice president; G. S. Manning, secretary and treasurer, and directors L. J. Fontenot, Cecil Johnson, and Wig Reily.

Two more directors are to be named.

J. M. McBeth and Dewey Albritton were elected commissioners, serving jointly until December 1, at which time McBeth will assume full duties of the office.

An executive committee meeting (officers, directors and commissioners) will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Bastrop High School to make further plans for full operation of the organization by the opening of the basketball season October 15.

Northeast Puts ETS Cardboard On Early Sales

Tickets for Northeast State's Saturday night game with East Texas State here will be on sale at four locations in the Twin Cities this week, according to Athletic Director Jack Rowan.

Rowan said tickets for the East Texas clash would be on sale at three downtown locations — R&A Jewlers on DeSiard Street, Simmons' Esso Servicecenter on Louisville and Calvert's Drug Store in West Monroe—from Monday through Friday only. Ducats can be purchased at the college athletic office from Monday through Saturday noon, however. No tickets will be sold from Saturday noon until the ticket booths open at Brown Stadium at 6:30, Rowan continued.

Tickets for any of the remaining Northeast home games, Rowan pointed out, may be purchased at the four locations. Other Northeast home games, in addition to East Texas, are McNeese Oct. 14, Southeastern Oct. 21, Delta State Nov. 4 and Arlington State Nov. 11.

Mathews Hits 2 For Circuit; Adcock Gets 1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eddie Mathews hit two home runs and Joe Adcock one Saturday to drive in all of Milwaukee's runs as the Braves scored a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The game was called at the end of 6½ innings because of rain, and a scheduled second game was postponed until Sunday.

Rookie Tony Cloninger went the distance for the Braves, pitching five-hit ball for his seventh victory against two defeats and his sixth in a row. He was scored on only in the third inning, when his pitching victim, Jack Curtis, started a three-run uprising with a home run.

Mathews' two homers gave him 30 or more for the ninth time and enabled him to break a tie with the late Mel Ott for the National League record. He also improved on his own mark by reaching that figure for the ninth year in succession.

Buffalo Upsets BU

Stofa hoodwinked Terrier defenders with a modern version of the old Statue of Liberty on which halfback Ron Clay back scampered 24 yards to score in the second period. Stofa then pitched touchdown passes of 10 yards to Clayback and 15 to Bill Selent.

Mighty Rebels Masters Over Arkansas, 16 To 0

Ole Miss Line Too Powerful For Porkers

By RICK BRYAN
MORNING WORLD SPORTS EDITOR

MISSISSIPPI MEMORIAL STADIUM, Jackson—Mighty Mississippi rolled with ponderous ease to crush the Arkansas Razorbacks 16-0 in the climaxer of their modern grid series before a sellout crowd of 46,000 and a nationwide TV audience here Saturday afternoon.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Statistics of the Arkansas-Mississippi game:

	ARK.	MISS.
First downs	8	18
Rushing yardage	92	259
Passing yardage	16	116
Passes	2-9	7-8
Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	4-42.0	3-22.7
Fumbles lost	3	1
Yards penalized	52	160

The win gave the Rebels a 13-12 edge in the 53-yearo-ld rivalry and was the first of a doubleheader dedicating Jackson's new Mississippi Memorial Stadium. It was the first game ever played here. Mississippi State and Texas Tech played the nightcap at 8 p.m.

For the standing - room - only crowd witnessing the crucial in the 90-degree heat of the warm and sunny afternoon there was little doubt who was superior.

Mississippi uncorked three long drives to paydirt, while holding the vaunted attack of the speedy Razorbacks to little more than a few touchdown threats.

A 35-yard pass play from quartervack Doug Elmore to end Woody Dabbs climaxed the drive.

Mississippi put three more points on the scoreboard early in the second quarter when end Wes Sullivan booted a 15-yard field goal to cap a 66-yard drive.

The final touchdown came in the third quarter and ended an 80-yard march -- the longest of the game.

Essentially, it was a game of lines, and Mississippi's was magnificent throughout.

They tackled with hard-nosed fervor, and their rushing was brutal. When the chips were down they completely throttled Arkansas. On offense they punched big holes in the Hogs' lighter line, particularly in the interior section.

The Rebels crunched out 375 yards total offense, and 259 of these were on the ground.

Arkansas in turn, was held to a 108 total with a meager 92 yards rushing.

Tackles Rush McKay and Jim Dunaway, along with guard Johnny Mitchelo turned in top-notch defensive performances for the Rebels.

But the best was probably Sullivan. Time after time his tackles chilled the Porkers.

The speedy, 178-pound All-Southwest conference back was spectacular everytime he found the least bit of open field.

He was Arkansas's top ground gainer with 51-yards in nine carries, and made some sparkling punt and kickoff returns.

On one drive in the second quarter he gained 28 and eight yards on keeper plays and completed three passes.

Rebel Coach Johnny Vaught went as deep as the fourth unit in the final period and the youngsters moved the ball almost as well as the regulars.

Early in the second quarter the Rebels started again, rambling 66 yards on 10 plays to the Hog five where Sullivan angled in a three-pointer. The ball was held at the 17 about 15-yards in from the east sideline.

Arkansas did get into scoring range twice in the first half. The first time was on an 8-play march that started on the Piggie 35 and wound up at the Ole Miss 27. Quarterback Gleen Griffin pounced on Hog ballhandler George McKinney's fumble here to half the bid.

Late in the second quarter the Hogs got started again. Beginning at their 37 they slipped all the way down to the Rebel 18, but again they were doomed to be denied.

An interference ruling that moved the ball from the Arkansas 42 to the Mississippi 33 was the key play in keeping the Hogs rolling.

Morris intercepted the pass at the 30 but the White Shirts wouldn't let him keep it

Ole Miss made its longest drive of the game in the third quarter, marching 80 yards to score in 18 plays.

Doty got the touchdown, crashing over right tackle from the one and a half yard line with 3:57 left in the third quarter.

The drive consisted mainly of short gains with Doty's 13-yard run to the Hog 33 the longest.

Arkansas' try came the first time they got the ball after the half.

Alworth returned the kickoff from his six to the Pig 42. Only a shoestring tackle by Elmore, the last man to have a chance at him, stopped Alworth.

Another interference ruling moved the ball to the Mississippi 30 and then speedy Lance made another of his talented scampers, this one for 14-yards to the Rebel 15.

Porker field goal specialist Jim Grizzle, a senior end, came in then to try for the three points, but his kick was low.

Arkansas made one other bid to score, a drive from their 36 to the Rebel 32.

But Alworth fumbled and Mississippi guard Sam Owen recovered.

Mississippi, with third - string quarterback Dunn guiding the attack, almost cashed in again in the fourth period. But their drive from the Reb 26 to Hog halfyard mark was thwarted when the entire right side of the Arkansas line rose up to smother sophomore halfback Tommy Smith on fourth down.

Arkansas ran the ball out to the 24 where Alworth got off a booming 72-yard punt that rolled all the way down to Mississippi's four.

Before the Rebs could spring their devastating attack into one more play the game ended and Arkansas had lost by a good bit more than the 10-7 margin by which Mississippi won last year.

TOUGH DEFENSE

Aggies, Cougars In Tie Game, 7-7

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., (UPI) — Quarterback Jim Keller plunged two yards for a Texas A&M touchdown in the final quarter Saturday night and the Aggies tied the University of Houston 7-7.

Two defensive stands by Houston halted A&M drives on the 3 and 6 yard lines before 22,000 Kyle Field fans.

Houston missed two chances to win the game as field goals fell short from the Aggie 41 and 35 yard lines.

Keller, playing his first varsity football game after lettering in basketball, sparked the tying drive with runs of six yards and a pass of 11. The Aggies went 54 yards in 11 plays and Daryle Keeling kicked the tying point with 12:14 left to play.

Little Ken Bolin scored Houston's first-half touchdown on a three yard charge around right end. The 5-11, 165-pound halfback had set up the score by recovering a Ronnie Brice fumble on the Aggie 8. Brice had dropped a 54-yard punt by Larry Lindsey.

Eddie Mitchamore of Houston kicked the extra point. He missed a field goal from the 36 after the Aggies tied it up.

Dodgers Keep Faint Series Hopes Alive

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The still-hopeful Los Angeles Dodgers, led by Duke Snider and Norm Larker and aided by four St. Louis errors, beat the Cardinals and old nemesis Larry Jackson Saturday, 8-5, and stayed alive in the National League pennant chase.

Even though they won, the Dodgers lost ground because first place Cincinnati whipped San Francisco 10-6 and reduced its "magic number" to just three games. Cincy still packs a four-game lead.

The 35-year-old Snider drove in three runs with a double, triple and sacrifice fly. Larker drove in two runs with two doubles and a sacrifice fly.

Four Redbird errors — two by rookie shortstop Jerry Buchek — gave the Dodgers four unearned runs, two in the seventh to let them go ahead 4-3. The Dodgers iced it with a four-run eighth, two of them unearned, and sent Jackson to the showers. Snider's two-run triple off Ed Bauta, coming on the heels of Julian Javier's error, was the crusher.

TCU Upsets Kansas 17-16 On Spearman's Field Goal

By DON SMITH
United Press International

Giant quarterback Sonny Gibbs set up the field goal when he drove the Frogs from their own 44 to the Kansas 18. With a fourth and six situation, Spearman came in and kicked the three-pointer that made the difference.

The one-point margin was made possible when, after an apparently successful conversion try following a third-quarter Kansas touchdown, the Jayhawks were penalized 15 yards for holding. The second attempt at the conversion was short.

TCU went into the fourth quarter trailing 16-7 after Kansas punched over a first-period touchdown and field goal and another touchdown in the third period.

TCU pulled that up to 16-14 with 9:03 left when Gibbs capped an 80-yard, 11-play drive by tossing 24 yards to halfback Roy Dent behind two defenders in the end zone.

THROWS KEY PASS

Going into the final period, the 6-foot, 7-inch Gibbs had passed only twice during the game. During the touchdown drive and the series that led to the field goal, he threw 10 times and completed four, the big one the scoring toss to Dent.

Kansas took an early lead when Kent Staab jumped on a Frog fumble on the TCU 44 on the fourth play of the game. Ten plays later, Kansas quarterback John Hadl pitched out to halfback Lee Flachbarth who went one yard for the score.

TCU took the following kickoff and stormed 67 yards in five plays with Gibbs getting the score when he rolled out to the right and went over from the five. Soph fullback Jim McAteer added the conversion.

TCU then fumbled the ball to Kansas after forcing the Jayhawks to punt, John Collins covering the loose ball on the Frog 20. Kansas gained six yards in three plays, and Elvin Basham kicked a field goal from the 30.

PUNT GOES BAD

The score stood up until late in the third quarter when TCU halfback Garry Thomas rolled a punt off the side of his foot and the Jayhawks took over on the Frog 43.

Hadl kept on the option play to his left side and raced 40 yards before Larry Thomas pulled him down on the 3. On the next play, Hadl again kept and slipped over for the score. The conversion attempt failed when Kansas drew a 15-yard penalty.

TCU fullback Tommy Crutcher was the top gainer in the game with 76 yards in 14 carries—71 of those coming on eight tries in the first half. Hadl led the Kansans with 56 on 16 tries, followed by Curtis McClinton with 43 on 13 carries.

TCU outgained Kansas 284 yards to 216 in total offense. The difference came on passes. Gibbs hit five of 12 for 93 yards, while Hadl completed three of eight for only 26 TCU had 191 yards rushing to 190 for Jayhawks.

Barber Falters; Hill Takes Lead

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Veteran Jerry Barber of Los Angeles faded badly Saturday while young Dave Hill shot a 3-under par 69 to take a two-stroke lead after 54 holes in the 72-hole Portland Open Golf Tournament.

Tied for second behind Hill's 203 were Jerry Steelsmith, the early leader, 30-year-old Gordon Jones and Bruce Crampton, 25, the Australian standout. They had three-round totals of 205.

Barber, the 45-year - old PGA champ, who only Friday set a new course record of 64 on the 6,675 yard Columbia Edgewater course, was three over par on the front nine and wound up with a 73. He missed a left-handed swing on the seventh hole, with his ball up next to a tree, 30 yards from the green.

Jones, who went into Saturday's round four strokes behind Hill, Steelsmith and Barber, fired a 67. Steelsmith, having trouble with his putting, scored a 71. Crampton shot a 68 to make up one stroke on Hill and Steelsmith.

Montgomery Leading Cage Association

BASTROP, La. (Special)—High school principals and coaches of this area completed organization of the Northeast Louisiana High School Basketball Officials Association at a meeting here with the election of Denny Montgomery as president.

Other officers elected were George Davis, vice president; G. S. Manning, secretary and treasurer, and directors L. J. Fontenot, Cecil Johnson, and Wig Reily.

Two more directors are to be named.

J. M. McBeth and Dewey Albritton were elected commissioners, serving jointly until December 1, at which time McBeth will assume full duties of the office.

An executive committee meeting (officers, directors and commissioners) will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Bastrop High School to make further plans for full operation of the organization by the opening of the basketball season October 15.

Northeast Puts ETS Cardboard On Early Sales

Tickets for Northeast State's Saturday night game with East Texas State here will be on sale at four locations in the Twin Cities this week, according to Athletic Director Jack Rowan.

Rowan said tickets for the East Texas clash would be on sale at three downtown locations — R&A Jewlers on DeSiard Street, Simmons' Esso Servicecenter on Louisville and Calvert's Drug Store in West Monroe—from Monday through Friday only. Ducats can be purchased at the college athletic office from Monday through Saturday noon, however. No tickets will be sold from Saturday noon until the ticket booths open at Brown Stadium at 6:30, Rowan continued.

Tickets for any of the remaining Northeast home games, Rowan pointed out, may be purchased at the four locations. Other Northeast home games, in addition to East Texas, are McNeese Oct. 14, Southeastern Oct. 21, Delta State Nov. 4 and Arlington State Nov. 11.

Mathews Hits 2 For Circuit; Adcock Gets 1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eddie Mathews hit two home runs and Joe Adock one Saturday to drive in all of Milwaukee's runs as the Braves scored a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The game was called at the end of 6½ innings because of rain, and a scheduled second game was postponed until Sunday.

Rookie Tony Cloninger went the distance for the Braves, pitching five-hit ball for his seventh victory against two defeats and his sixth in a row. He was scored on only in the third inning, when his pitching victim, Jack Curtis, started a three-run uprising with a home run.

Mathews' two homers gave him 30 or more for the ninth time and enabled him to break a tie with the late Mel Ott for the National League record. He also improved on his own mark by reaching that figure for the ninth year in succession.

Buffalo Upsets BU

Stofa hoodwinked Terrier defenders with a modern version of the old Statue of Liberty on which halfback Ron Clay back scampered 24 yards to score in the second period. Stofa then pitched touchdown passes of 10 yards to Clayback and 15 to Bill Selent.

It appeared for a while as if Stanford would run the string to 12 when Tulane grabbed a 7-3 lead in the third period. The touchdown was set up when sophomore Stanford quarterback Steve Thurlow messed up an attempted patchout to Mike Barnes on the Indians' two-yard line and Tommy Cato recovered for the Greenies. Lenny Stein smashed over from the one two plays later and Charles Connell kicked the extra point.

The Indians victory march started after Ted Miller's punt had rolled dead on the Stanford 20. Barnes got off a nine-yard run to start the Indians in the other direction and Royse netted 11 more yards on a pair of sweeps.

Recreation Grid Quiz

The Recreation Grid Quiz offers its second selection today in a ten-week contest while tabulators will be counting the returns tonight to determine winners in the first week's contest that ends with today's pro games and included the big college games of Saturday.

The contest, sponsored by the Monroe Recreation Department and open to readers of the News-Star-World, is all for fun with championship grid prediction trophies to be awarded at the end of the season to the men and women with the best seasonal score.

All that's necessary to enter is to circle the names of the teams you think will win from each week's selections, sign your name and address clearly and mail to "Recreation Grid Quiz, P. O. Box 1293, Monroe," for a postmark not later than midnight Wednesday.

Engineers Tame Trojans, 27 To 7

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Georgia Tech, a mild underdog, struck for three touchdowns and a field goal in the first half Friday night and rolled over Southern California 27-7 before 36,950.

The Ramblin' Wrecks, in their first appearance in this sector since posting an 87 Rose Bowl victory over California in 1929, quickly dispelled the one-point favoritism bestowed on the Trojans.

Second string quarterback Billy Lothridge started the Tech scoring with a 35-yard field goal in the first quarter and ended it with a 27-yard fielder in the fourth.

The shutout was Pascual's eighth of the season, tying him for first department with Steve Barber of Baltimore.

The Twins scored twice in the first inning to give Pascual all the cushion he needed and then added to the margin by taking advantage of five Washington errors.

COWBOYS, VIKINGS HOT

Unbeaten Upstarts Cause Concern Among NFL Clubs

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

It may be the only time it happens this season, but come sundown Sunday, either of those two undefeated upstarts, the Dallas Cowboys or the Minnesota Vikings, should share the lead in one division of the National Football League.

The NFL's top Sunday game actually pits the Baltimore Colts against the Detroit Lions at Baltimore. But attention of the pro football curiosity-seekers also will focus on the battle between the league's two newest teams at Dallas.

The Cowboys' last-second 27-24 opening victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers and the fact that the Vikings also were impressive in upsetting the Bears last weekend were expected to draw a crowd of more than 30,000 to the Cotton Bowl. This would be the largest turnout ever to watch the Cowboys in a regular-season game at home.

Oddsmakers made the Cowboys 6-point picks, with the Colts a slim 2-point favorite over the Lions.

The champion Philadelphia Eagles were a 17-point choice at home against the Washington Redskins; the Cleveland Browns were picked by 10 at home against the St. Louis Cardinals; the Green Bay Packers were 7 at home over the San Francisco Forty-Niners; and the Pittsburgh Steelers were the choice by 2 points at home against the New York Giants.

RAMS ENTERTAIN BEARS

In the American Football League the San Diego Chargers were favored by 3 points at home against the Houston Oilers; the New York Titans were 7 at home over the Denver Broncos, and the Dallas Texans were picked by 6 over the Raiders at Oakland. The Buffalo Bills met the Boston Patriots Saturday night.

The Dallas Cowboys were in excellent physical shape for their game against the Vikings. Coach Tom Landry said his club avoided injuries "because they were putting out so aggressively" in last week's win over the Steelers.

The guessing is that Don Meredith was due to get the Cowboys' starting quarterback assignment, but Landry was saying flatly. Landry might switch to Eddie LeBaron, who engineered two touchdown drives last week.

For Minnesota, rookie Fran Tarkenton, who broke into pro football by throwing four touchdown passes and carrying over for another, was scheduled to start his first game and push more experienced George Shaw into the background. Jerry Reichow, a quarterback for the past four seasons, will start at offensive end for the Vikings.

A sellout crowd of 54,000 was assured in Baltimore, where Ray Berry, All-NFL offensive end, was expected to play for the first time following a knee operation. Coach Weeb Ewbank also said he planned to try quarterback Lamar McHan as a running halfback.

Coach George Wilson of the Lions said he would not tamper with success and would make no changes in his starting lineup. That meant Earl Morrall would handle the quarterback assignment. Before the start of the season, Wilson would have settled for a split in the first two tough road games against Green Bay and Baltimore, but now he and his Lions are hungry for a sweep.

The Eagles were in reasonably good shape following last Sunday's win over the Browns. Coach Nick Skorich's main concern was over-confidence for the game against the punchless Redskins. Rookie Norm Snead will get another shot at the Redskins' starting quarterback job.

Washington's pass receivers were in poor shape. Pat Heenan was out with a knee injury and Bill Anderson and Steve Junker were hobbling in practice.

BROWNS WORKED ON TRAPS

The Browns worked week-long on traps and "safety-valve" passes to offset the furious red-dogging defense which the Cards worked with such success against New York last Sunday. The Cards, with John David Crow and Joe Childress previously sidelined, faced the loss of two more good running backs in injured Frank Mestnik and Mal Hammack.

Green Bay, beaten in its opener by Detroit, lost its starting offensive tackle, Dave Hanner, because of an appendectomy. Coach Vince Lombardi brushes off San Francisco's "shotgun" offense as "nothing more than a spread" and insists "power wins NFL games."

Coach Red Hickey of the Forty-Niners called the game "the big early test for the Forty-Niners. the Packers know they may be dead if they lose their first two games."

The return of quarterback Y. A. Tittle and fullback Phil King brightened the Giants' hopes for victory over Pittsburgh. Charlie Conerly spent a rough afternoon last weekend and Tittle could give the club a big lift if Conerly is starting to show his age.

DUMPS OREGON STATE

Syracuse Looks Powerful Again

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Brawny Syracuse lived up to its pre-season forecasts as one of the nation's football powers by downing Oregon State 19-8 Saturday.

Syracuse, ranked No. 10 in the pre-season poll took advantage of two Oregon State fumbles to score touchdowns and added the clinching touchdown in the fourth quarter march.

Ernie Davis, the tall, fleet 210-pound All-America candidate, scored two of Syracuse's touchdowns, and was the man the invaders turned to when the Oregon State line proved tough.

Repeatedly Davis ground out the vital yards. When Syracuse had to have one touchdown to insure the victory, but lacked 18 yards. Davis was called upon five successive times. He banged through for gains each time, needing only one yard on his final plunge, early in the fourth quarter.

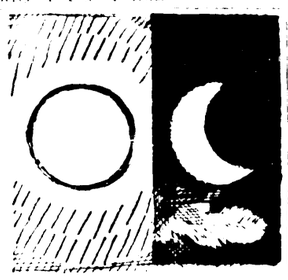
The other Syracuse touchdown was scored by quarterback Dave Sarette in the second quarter. It followed an Oregon State fumble which tackle Stan Sokol recovered on the State 15. In four plays Syracuse punched to the one, and from there Sarette squeezed over.

Quarterback Terry Baker, tall 195-pound southpaw, scored Oregon State's only touchdown by running through the entire Syracuse team in the first quarter. From the Syracuse 26 Baker faded to pass, seemed trapped on the 50, broke through a knot of tacklers and then dodged through the remaining defenders to cross the goal line standing up. Then he passed to end John Thomas for the conversion. It gave Oregon State a short-lived 8-7 lead.

Syracuse power took over the game after that. The line, averaging 230 pounds, repeatedly stopped State's attack. Twice in the third quarter, Syracuse marched deep into State territory, only to be stopped once on the 5, and again on the 4. A fumble accounted for the last failure to score.

3 Field Goals Help Patriots

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Two quick third period touchdowns and Gino Cappelletti's three field goals provided the Boston Patriots with a 23-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills in an American Football League game Saturday night.



day and night... A CEASELESS STREAM OF PEOPLE

In Africa, the Angolans fled their terror-struck country and poured into the strife-torn Congo. Tens of thousands . . . a ceaseless stream. And they were all hungry.

On the spot to comfort, feed, house and help were the forces of American religious agencies . . . dedicated to helping those in need, no matter what their political or religious affiliation.

Coleman Belts 2 As Reds Win 10-6

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds came up with lusty hitting Saturday including two home runs by Gordon Coleman and three doubles by Don Blasingame and moved closer to the National League pennant with a 10-6 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Coleman drove in five runs with his 24th and 25th homers and a single.

The Reds also had a little assistance from their former catcher, Ed Bailey. He bumped into third baseman Jim Davenport to let a foul pop fall safely which opened the gates for one run. He also ran to the dugout after forcing Davenport in the seventh and was tagged out. He apparently either thought it was the third out or thought he also had been retired.

Coleman's home runs were his first since Aug. 26.

O'Toole was knocked out of the box in the eighth inning.

Guide Shows Way To Win Beldame Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Airmans Guide, owned by Hugh A. Grant of Pennsylvania, overhauled Primonetta in the stretch at Belmont Park Saturday and went on to capture the $96,000 Beldame Stakes before a sun-splashed crowd of 37,284.

A dozen of the nation's top fillies and mares competed, and Airmans Guide won with authority as she heads for a probable designation as champion of her division for 1961.

Frank J. Viggiani's Craftiness came up in the final strides to take second money by three quarters of a length behind the winner as the Darby Dan Farm's Primonetta tired and finished third. Primonetta, 2½ lengths back of Craftiness, was 5½ lengths in front of Foxcatcher Farm's Berlo, 1960 winner.

Airmans Guide, a 4-year-old, and the 6-year-old Craftiness carried 123 pounds, while Primonetta leading candidate for 3-year-old filly honors, had 118.

It was the first start for Airmans Guide, fleet daughter of One Count-Navigating, by Hard Tack, since she won the $155,000 Delaware Handicap over many of the same horses on July 29 at Delaware Park.

Jockey Howard Grant, no relation to the owner, rode Airmans Guide confidently and the winner paid $9.30, $5.70 and $3.80. Craftiness, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, paid $12.30 and $6.20, while Primonetta, the favorite, with Willie Shoemaker up, returned $3.30.

The time for the 1⅛ miles on a fast track was 1.49 2-5, compared with Gallant Man's 1957 track record of 1:47 1-5.

This was the sixth victory in eight starts this season for Airmans Guide, and the purse of $62,400 boosted her 1961 total to $228,346.

Newcomer To Wrestle Here Tuesday Night

Tuesday night's wrestling card at Roll Arena will feature the Great Bolo, Mighty Bolo, Silento Rodriguez and Jerry London in what should be three action-packed events.

Mighty Bolo will take on Silento Rodriguez in the first event which will be a one fall, 20-minute time limit event.

The second event, which will also be one fall, with a 20-minute time limit, will feature the Great Bolo against Jerry London.

The main event will be a four-man tag team match — best two out of three falls with no time limit. For this event the Great Bolo and Mighty Bolo will team up against Silento Rodriguez and Jerry London.

Rodriguez is a newcomer to the Twin City and hails from Mexico City. He acquired the nickname "Silento" — which means silent in Spanish — from the fact that he is deaf and dumb. However, he claims that this is no handicap, because he is not distracted by the noise of the crowd and thereby can concentrate more on what he is doing.

Tulane Falls To Stanford On Fourth Quarter Score

By SCOTT BAILLIE
United Press International

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford's eleven game losing streak came to an end Saturday when Chuck Butler, a third string quarterback, lofted a 47-yard touchdown pass to Larry Royse for a come-from-behind 9-7 victory over favored Tulane.

The clutch toss came in the fourth period after the Green Wave had moved out to a 7-3 lead with the aid of a Stanford fumble during the third period.

Butler, a senior who saw 90 seconds of action with the varsity last year, moved the Indians on an 80-yard drive for the go-ahead tally.

It was the first victory for coach Jack Curtice since November 14, 1959, when Stanford defeated Oregon State, 39-22. After, they lost the final game of the season to California and dropped all 10 of last years' contests.

It appeared for a while as if Stanford would run the string to 12 when Tulane grabbed a 73 lead in the third period. The touchdown was set up when sophomore Stanford quarterback Steve Thurlow messed up an attempted pitchout to Mike Barnes on the Indians' two-yard line and Tommy Cato recovered for the Greenies. Lenny Stein smashed over from the one two plays later and Charles Connell kicked the extra point.

The Indians' victory march started after Ted Miller's punt had rolled dead on the Stanford 20. Barnes got off a nine-yard run to start the Indians in the other direction and Royse netted 11 more yards on a pair of sweeps.

Pascual Closely Misses No-Hitter

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) —Camilo Pascual came within inches of pitching a no-hitter Saturday, finally ending up with a two-hit 10-0 victory over Washington in the second game of a doubleheader.

The Senators took the first contest 6-4 on Jim King's seventh inning grand slam home run.

Bud Zipfel recorded the first Washington hit in the second inning when Minnesota first baseman Harmon Killebrew failed to charge his slow grounder down the line. The ball hit the bag as Killebrew sat back waiting for it.

Pascual was near perfect from then on, walking only three men and retiring 17 batters in order until Bob Johnson doubled with two out in the ninth. The Cuban curveballer also struck out seven to run his league-leading total to 214.

The shutout was Pascual's eighth of the season, tying him in that department with Steve Barber of Baltimore.

The Twins scored twice in the first inning to give Pascual all the cushion he needed and then added to the margin by taking advantage of five Washington errors.

Recreation Grid Quiz

The Recreation Grid Quiz offers its second selection today in a ten-week contest while tabulators will be counting the returns tonight to determine winners in the first week's contest that ends with today's pro games and included the big college games of Saturday.

The contest, sponsored by the Monroe Recreation Department and open to readers of the News-Star—World, is all for fun with championship grid prediction trophies to be awarded at the end of the season to the man and women with the best seasonal score.

All that's necessary to enter is to circle the names of the teams you think will win from each week's selections, sign your name and address clearly and mail to "Recreation Grid Quiz, P. O. Box 1293, Monroe," for a postmark not later than midnight Wednesday.

Engineers Tame Trojans, 27 To 7

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Georgia Tech, a mild underdog, struck for three touchdowns and a field goal in the first half Friday night and rolled over Southern California 27-7 before 36,950.

The Ramblin' Wrecks, in their first appearance in this sector since posting an 87 Rose Bowl victory over California in 1929, quickly dispelled the one-point favoritism bestowed on the Trojans.

Second string quarterback Billy Lothridge started the Tech scoring with a 35-yard field goal in the first quarter and ended it with a 27-yard fielder in the fourth.

COWBOYS, VIKINGS HOT

Unbeaten Upstarts Cause Concern Among NFL Clubs

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

It may be the only time it happens this season, but come sundown Sunday, either of those two undefeated upstarts, the Dallas Cowboys or the Minnesota Vikings, should share the lead in one division of the National Football League.

The NFL's top Sunday game actually pits the Baltimore Colts against the Detroit Lions at Baltimore. But attention of the pro football curiosity-seekers also will focus on the battle between the league's two newest teams at Dallas.

The Cowboys' last-second 27-24 opening victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers and the fact that the Vikings also were impressive in upsetting the Bears last weekend were expected to draw a crowd of more than 30,000 to the Cotton Bowl. This would be the largest turnout ever to watch the Cowboys in a regular-season game at home.

Oddsmakers made the Cowboys 6-point picks, with the Colts a slim 2-point favorite over the Lions.

The champion Philadelphia Eagles were a 17-point choice at home against the Washington Redskins; the Cleveland Browns were picked by 10 at home against the St. Louis Cardinals; the Green Bay Packers were 7 at home over the San Francisco Forty-Niners; and the Pittsburgh Steelers were the choice by 2 points at home against the New York Giants.

RAMS ENTERTAIN BEARS

In the American Football League, the San Diego Chargers were favored by 3 points at home against the Houston Oilers; the New York Titans were 7 at home over the Denver Broncos, and the Dallas Texans were picked by 6 over the Raiders at Oakland. The Buffalo Bills met the Boston Patriots Saturday night.

The Dallas Cowboys were in excellent physical shape for their game against the Vikings. Coach Tom Landry said his club avoided injuries "because they were putting out so aggressively" in last week's win over the Steelers.

The guessing is that Don Meredith was due to get the Cowboys' starting quarterback assignment, but Landry was saying flatly. Landry might switch to Eddie Le Baron, who engineered two touchdown drives last week.

For Minnesota, rookie Fran Tarkenton, who broke into pro football by throwing four touchdown passes and carrying over for another, was scheduled to start his first game and push more experienced George Shaw into the background. Jerry Reichow, a quarterback for the past four seasons, will start at offensive end for the Vikings.

A sellout crowd of 54,000 was assured in Baltimore, where Ray Berry, All-NFL offensive end, was expected to play for the first time following a knee operation. Coach Weeb Ewbank also said he planned to try quarterback Lamar McHan as a running halfback.

Coach George Wilson of the Lions said he would not tamper with success and would make no changes in his starting lineup. That meant Earl Morrall would handle the quarterback assignment. Before the start of the season, Wilson would have settled for a split in the first two tough road games against Green Bay and Baltimore, but now he and his Lions are hungry for a sweep.

The Eagles were in reasonably good shape following last Sunday's win over the Browns. Coach Nick Skorich's main concern was over-confidence for the game against the punchless Redskins. Rookie Norm Snead will get another shot at the Redskins' starting quarterback job.

Washington's pass receivers were in poor shape. Pat Heenan was out with a knee injury and Bill Anderson and Steve Junker were hobbling in practice.

BROWNS WORKED ON TRAPS

The Browns worked week-long on traps and "safety-valve" passes to offset the furious red-dogging defense which the Cards worked with such success against New York last Sunday. The Cards, with John David Crow and Joe Childress previously sidelined, faced the loss of two more good running backs in injured Frank Mestnik and Mal Hammack.

Green Bay, beaten in its opener by Detroit, lost its starting offensive tackle, Dave Hanner, because of an appendectomy. Coach Vince Lombardi brushes off San Francisco's "shotgun" offense as "nothing more than a spread" and insists "power wins NFL games."

Coach Red Hickey of the Forty-Niners called the game "the big early test for the Forty-Niners; the Packers know they may be dead if they lose their first two games."

The return of quarterback Y. A. Tittle and fullback Phil King brightened the Giants' hopes for victory over Pittsburgh. Charlie Conerly spent a rough afternoon last weekend and Tittle could give the club a big lift if Conerly is starting to show his age.

Indians Win Over A's, 9-5 On 4-Run 9th

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cleveland picked on relief pitcher Dave Wickersham for four runs in the ninth inning and broke out of a tie to beat the Kansas City Athletics Saturday 9-5.

day and night... A CEASELESS STREAM OF PEOPLE

In Africa, the Angolans fled their terror-struck country and poured into the strife-torn Congo. Tens of thousands . . . a ceaseless stream. And they were all hungry.

But within days there were tons of powdered milk, rice, beans, fish, and beef, as well as bales of clothing . . . and hospitals quickly sent medical aid.

On the spot to comfort, feed, house and help were the forces of American religious agencies . . . dedicated to helping those in need, no matter what their political or religious affiliation.

Help like that given Angolans goes on everywhere. America's three faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—maintain programs that help millions in need overseas every year . . . with jobs, tools, education, equipment . . . and hope.

Next time an appeal is made, give generously!

DUMPS OREGON STATE

Syracuse Looks Powerful Again

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Brawny Syracuse lived up to its pre-season forecasts as one of the nation's football powers by downing Oregon State 19-8 Saturday.

Syracuse, ranked No. 10 in the pre-season poll took advantage of two Oregon State fumbles to score touchdowns and added the clinching touchdown in the fourth quarter march.

Ernie Davis, the tall, fleet, 210-pound All - America candidate, scored two of Syracuse's touchdowns, and was the man the invaders turned to when the Oregon State line proved tough.

Repeatedly Davis ground out the vital yards. When Syracuse had to have one touchdown to insure the victory, but lacked 18 yards, Davis was called upon five successive times. He banged through for gains each time, needing only one yard on his final plunge, early in the fourth quarter.

The other Syracuse touchdown was scored by quarterback Dave Sarette in the second quarter. It followed an Oregon State fumble which tackle Stan Sokol recovered on the State 15. In four plays Syracuse punched to the one, and from there Sarette squeezed over.

Quarterback Terry Baker, tall 195-pound southpaw, scored Oregon State's only touchdown by running through the entire Syracuse team in the first quarter. From the Syracuse 36 Baker faded to pass, seemed trapped on the 50, broke through a knot of tacklers and then dodged through the remaining defenders to cross the goal line standing up. Then he passed to end John Thomas for the conversion. It gave Oregon State a short-lived 8-7 lead.

Syracuse power took over the game after that. The line, averaging 230 pounds, repeatedly stopped State's attack. Twice in the third quarter, Syracuse marched deep into State territory, only to be stopped, once on the 5 and again on the 4. A fumble accounted for the last failure to score.

3 Field Goals Help Patriots

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Two quick third period touchdowns and Gino Cappelletti's three field goals provided the Boston Patriots with a 23-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills in an American Football League game Saturday night.

DUCK BLINDS
Black Bayou Lake

Blinds must be registered and maintained this season.

Registration lists will be placed at Payne's Boat Dock; Oliver's Boat Dock and the Company's Monroe Office on OCTOBER 16, 1961

Due to the short duration of the 1961 Duck Season, hunters may use the lake all day and fishermen may do likewise.

Work on the blinds must be completed by November 2, and blinds not registered and maintained will be destroyed.

Major League Averages

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP) — Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh increased his National League batting lead to 13 points over runner-up Vada Pinson of Cincinnati Friday night.

Clemente had two hits in four tries and lifted his average one point to .355. Pinson remained at .342 with one hit in four trips.

In the American League, Norm Cash of Detroit has the championship all but wrapped up. He has a .355 average. Elston Howard of New York is batting .362 but he has no chance of compiling the required 502 total appearances to qualify for title consideration. Howard has 453 total appearances on 423 official times at bat, 25 wlks, four sacrifices and one hit by pitcher. Jimmy Piersall of Cleveland is next in line to Cash with a .323 mark.

The averages which follow are for use only by subscribers to the weekly major league statistics service.

Taylor Spark In Missouri's 28-6 Triumph

By SKIPPER PATRICK

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Ronnie Taylor, a salty little senior quarterback, directed a potent Missouri passing attack that gave the Tigers a 28-6 football victory over Washington State Saturday.

A record-home opening crowd of 37,000 watched the Tigers crack out a touchdown a period. The visitors of the Pacific Northwest frequently threatened on Mel Melin's passing but scored only in the last four minutes.

Taylor stuck to rushing plays last season as the Tigers were outscored in only one of 11 games. But with the top runners from the Big Eight championship club gone the 170 - pound Chillicothe, Ill., quarterback frequently called the pass with good success.

Twice Taylor sneaked over to score from inside the 1-yard line to give the Tigers 14-0 halftime advantage.

Missouri recovered a fumble on the Cougars' 39-yard line and Taylor completed a 10-yard pass to the 13 in the first drive. He completed two long ones in the second touchdown drive of 76 yards.

Twice the Tigers intercepted passes, one thrown by Melin and another by Dick Mathieson to stop Washington State threats in the second quarter.

Mike Hunter, a junior halfback threw 26 yards to Bill Tobin for the Tigers' third quarter touchdown. Relief quarterback Jim Johnson sneaked one yard for the final Missouri score on the first play of the fourth period.

The Cougars, faced with their first shutout in 12 games, finally got the range in the last minutes. Melin, who completed 16 of 28 passes for 136 yards, connected on a short toss to halfback Pete Schenck who ran 10 yards for the touchdown.

Missouri, with Taylor completing 6 of 9 for 124 yards, outpassed the Cougars 165 yards to 156, and led on the ground 164 to 91.

YANKS WHIP BOSOX, 8-3

Ford, With Help, Gets 25th Decision; Mantle Homers

BOSTON (AP) — Roger Maris failed to hit a homer but Mickey Mantle got his 54th Saturday as Whitey Ford won his 25th game for the New York Yankees, 8-3 over Boston.

Ford needed four innings of stout relief pitching by Jim Coates and Luis Arroyo, three double plays and one of his own patented pickoff moves to grab the decision by working the required minimum of five innings. Ford was lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth with the Yanks leading 4-3. Coates pitched the next three and Arroyo finished the job.

Mantle's three-run homer off loser Don Schwall came in the first after Bobby Richardson had been hit by a pitch and Maris reached first safely on an error by rookie first baseman Don Gile. Mantle hadn't started since last Sunday because of a heavy cold.

After getting aliFe on an error in the first, Maris walked in the third and fourth and grounded out in the sixth before he singled in the eighth. He didn't come close to boosting his homer total past 59. Elston Howard, however, smashed No. 21 and pinch hitter Bob Cerv hit No. 4 in the ninth.

Cerv's drive was his third pinch homer of the season and No. 12th lifetime, breaking his own American League record. Gus Zernial had the old mark of 10. George Crowe holds the National League career record with 14.

Maris scored the tie-breaking run in the fifth when he walked, moved to third base on an infield out and a wild pitch and scored on Frank Malzone's wild throw of Howard's grounder. Maris' single in the eighth knocked in the second run of the inning, the first having scored when Chuck Schilling threw to the plate too late to get Clete Boyer, who had walked and moved to third on Coates' sacrifice and Arnold Earley's wild throw.

The Red Sox had Ford on the ropes in the first but settled for one run driven in by Jim Pagliaroni's single. Giles hit his first homer of the year with his first hit of the season in the second and Carl Yastrzemski hit homer No. 11 in the fourth.

OVER GEORGIA

'Bama Wins 32-6 On Iron Defense

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Fullback Mike Fracchia, ripping off yardage with reckless abandon, set the stage for Alabama Saturday as the Crimson Tide opened its bid for the Southeastern Conference championship with an easy 32-6 victory over outclassed Georgia.

Most of the fans in a near-capacity crowd of 44,000 sat in silence as Alabama completely dominated play, rolling up the largest margin run up by Alabama against the Bulldogs since 1926.

Fracchia scored two touchdowns, the first on a one-yard plunge in the second period after he had helped set up the score on a 12-yard run; the second from two yards out at the start of the fourth period.

Fracchia had to share some of the glory with Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell, who threw a 37-yard touchdown pass to halfback Butch Wilson in the third period and kept the Bulldog's defense guessing with a fine display of ball handling.

Wilson's touchdown came after he had intercepted a Georgia pass on the previous play.

Major League Averages

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP) — Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh increased his National League batting lead to 13 points over runner-up Vada Pinson of Cincinnati Friday night.

Clemente had two hits in four tries and lifted his average one point to .355. Pinson remained at .342 with one hit in four trips.

In the American League, Norm Cash of Detroit has the championship all but wrapped up. He has a .355 average. Elston Howard of New York is batting .362 but he has no chance of compiling the required 502 total appearances to qualify for title consideration. Howard has 453 total appearances on 423 official times at bat, 25 wlks, four sacrifices and one hit by pitcher. Jimmy Piersall of Cleveland is next in line to Cash with a .323 mark.

Taylor Spark In Missouri's 28-6 Triumph

By SKIPPER PATRICK

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Ronnie Taylor, a salty little senior quarterback, directed a potent Missouri passing attack that gave the Tigers a 28-6 football victory over Washington State Saturday.

A record-home opening crowd of 37,000 watched the Tigers crack out a touchdown a period. The visitors of the Pacific Northwest frequently threatened on Mel Melin's passing but scored only in the last four minutes.

Taylor stuck to rushing plays last season as the Tigers were outscored in only one of 11 games. But with the top runners from the Big Eight championship club gone the 170 - pound Chillicothe, Ill., quarterback frequently called the pass with good success.

Twice Taylor sneaked over to score from inside the 1-yard line to give the Tigers 14-0 halftime advantage.

Missouri recovered a fumble on the Cougars' 39-yard line and Taylor completed a 10-yard pass to the 13 in the first drive. He completed two long ones in the second touchdown drive of 76 yards.

Twice the Tigers intercepted passes, one thrown by Melin and another by Dick Mathieson to stop Washington State threats in the second quarter.

Mike Hunter, a junior halfback threw 26 yards to Bill Tobin for the Tigers' third quarter touchdown. Relief quarterback Jim Johnson sneaked one yard for the final Missouri score on the first play of the fourth period.

The Cougars, faced with their first shutout in 12 games, finally got the range in the last minutes. Melin, who completed 16 of 28 passes for 136 yards, connected on a short toss to halfback Pete Schenck who ran 10 yards for the touchdown.

Missouri, with Taylor completing 6 of 9 for 124 yards, outpassed the Cougars 165 yards to 156, and led on the ground 164 to 91.

YANKS WHIP BOSOX, 8-3

Ford, With Help, Gets 25th Decision; Mantle Homers

BOSTON (AP) — Roger Maris failed to hit a homer but Mickey Mantle got his 54th Saturday as Whitey Ford won his 25th game for the New York Yankees, 8-3 over Boston.

Ford needed four innings of stout relief pitching by Jim Coates and Luis Arroyo, three double plays and one of his own patented pickoff moves to grab the decision by working the required minimum of five innings. Ford was lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth with the Yanks leading 4-3. Coates pitched the next three and Arroyo finished the job.

Mantle's three-run homer off loser Don Schwall came in the first after Bobby Richardson had been hit by a pitch and Maris reached first safely on an error by rookie first baseman Don Gile. Mantle hadn't started since last Sunday because of a heavy cold.

After getting alife on an error in the first, Maris walked in the third and fourth and grounded out in the sixth before he singled in the eighth. He didn't come close to boosting his homer total past 59. Elston Howard, however, smashed No. 21 and pinch hitter Bob Cerv hit No. 3 in the ninth.

Cerv's drive was his third pinch homer of the season and his 12th lifetime, breaking his own American League record. Gus Zernial had the old mark of 10. George Crowe holds the National League career record with 14.

Maris scored the tie - breaking run in the fifth when he walked, moved to third base on an infield out and a wild pitch and scored on Frank Malzone's wild throw of Howard's grounder. Maris' single in the eighth knocked in the second run of the inning, the first having scored when Chuck Schilling threw to the plate too late to get Clete Boyer, who had walked and moved to third on Coates' sacrifice and Arnold Earley's wild throw.

The Red Sox had Ford on the ropes in the first but settled for one run, driven in by Jim Pagliaroni's single. Giles hit his first homer of the year with his first hit of the season in the second and Carl Yastrzemski hit homer No. 11 in the fourth.

OVER GEORGIA

'Bama Wins 32-6 On Iron Defense

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Fullback Mike Fracchia, ripping off yardage with reckless abandon; set the stage for Alabama Saturday as the Crimson Tide opened its bid for the Southeastern Conference championship with an easy 32-6 victory over outclassed Georgia.

Most of the fans in a near-capacity crowd of 44,000 sat in silence as Alabama completely dominated play, rolling up the largest margin run up by Alabama against the Bulldogs since 1926.

Fracchia scored two touchdowns, the first on a one-yard plunge in the second period after he had helped set up the score on a 12-yard run; the second from two yards out at the start of the fourth period.

Fracchia had to share some of the glory with Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell, who threw a 37-yard touchdown pass to halfback Butch Wilson in the third period and kept the Bulldog's defense guessing with a fine display of ball handling.

Wilson's touchdown came after he had intercepted a Georgia pass on the previous play.

MONROE MORNING WORLD

September, 24

Engagement of Miss Mary Louise Danna to Wade Marshall Williams, Memphis, Tennessee, formerly of West Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Richard Danna, of Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Albert Casey, New Orleans and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Brossett, West Monroe, with whom he formerly made his home. The wedding will be solemnized November 4 in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church, at 10 a.m.

Solemnized Saturday, September 22 in Fellowship Baptist church of Monroe, was the wedding of Miss Patricia Monroe Guice and Danny Rayford Duke. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Guice and Mr. and Mrs. Danny R. Duke, all of Monroe. Rev. Pat M. Guice of Jena, uncle of the bride, officiated at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony.

At right: Vows uniting Miss Sue Ellen Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Houston Briggs of Monroe, and Jack Allan Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Renford Williams of Tendal, were solemnized Friday, September 22 in College Place Baptist Church. Rev. T. Earl Ogg performed the 7 p.m. ceremony.

Below: Mrs. Harry D. Wilson II, prior to her marriage in a garden setting September 20 at 5 p.m. was Miss Martha Katherine Brown, daughter of Mrs. Denis Brown Jr., and the late Mr. Brown, Panola Plantation, Lake Providence. Mr. Wilson is the son of Justin E. Wilson of Denham Springs and Mrs. Harry B. Tipton of New Orleans. The vows were read by Rev. George York in the garden at the home of the bride's mother.

Fall travel is becoming increasingly popular, in this area as well as throughout the country. Vacations in autumn take advantage of invigorating weather and less crowded conditions. Cities in particular are more fun at this time of year, with theatrical and musical seasons, as well as the social [illegible] summer doldrums.

[illegible] a luncheon at the Paragon. The U-shaped table [illegible] with travel folders, menus and [illegible] from abroad. Seating [illegible] poems, advising [illegible] were read. [illegible] used for [illegible] overseas [illegible]

This coming Saturday afternoon is the date set for the fifth annual silver tea to be given by Lt. Joseph Bowmar society, Children of the American Revolution. The home of LIZA, CLAIRE, DEBORAH and MARTHA SCHONLAU, 1815 Pargoud boulevard, will be the scene of the party between the hours of three-thirty and six. Children interested in membership, mothers of members, Daughters of the American Revolution, and clubwomen in the area are invited to the affair.

What nicer party for a sixteen-year-old young lady than a surprise luncheon? PENNY NICHOLS was so honored last Saturday at Bayou DeSiard country club. The table on the porch was covered with a pink cloth and decorated with pink candles and pink snapdragons down the center. Places for twenty girls were marked by cards holding satin-bound sachets. A shrimp salad plate was served, with ice cream and birthday cake for dessert. Penny received a bracelet and a gold charm [illegible].

Swami Santha, Nomads Observe Anniversary

The 13th anniversary of Swami Santha No. 102 Nomads of Avrudasa was celebrated at a birthday party Monday night, September 18 in Castle Hall, 127½ St. John St. following first Darbar since June.

Mrs. Callie Crow was acting [illegible] and during the business session it was decided to invite Joe Smalanga, a Nomad from El Dorado, Ark. to attend the next Darbar Monday, October 16 and show colored films of Nomads and Dukes convention held in Miami, Fla. in August. Other Nomads from El Dorado will also be invited to the meeting.

Mrs. Harriett Thompson, representative from Swami Santha No. 102 at the Imperial convention of Nomads and Arvadaka of Miami, gave a report on the session.

At conclusion of the darbar the group adjourned to the dining hall in the club room for the anniversary party. A cake, decorated in the Nomad colors of purple and gold, and topped with 14 candles was furnished by Dr. H. H. Baur, and served with an ice course prepared by Angelo Kanelos.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parker, Mrs. Callie Crow, Jim Tolson, Dr. Baur, Zora Minor, Velma Parcell, Anita Causey, Ila Frost Smith, Harriett Thompson, Gertrude Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Kanelos.

Bigger And Bolder

And when, perforce, we must digress,
We tell we're wearing fancy dress.

[illegible] Are we man or mouse,
[illegible] glamorous on our spouse?
Let's raise the eye like sunset's burst,
And [illegible] like knees at first?
You first.

Fall travel is becoming increasingly popular, in this area as well as throughout the country. Vacations in autumn take advantage of invigorating weather and less crowded conditions. Cities in particular are more fun at this time of year, with theatrical and musical seasons, as well as the social whirl, resuming after the summer doldrums.

Europe is the destination of three groups leaving Monroe in a little over a week. HELEN ABELL and SALLIE HUMBLE left last Sunday for two months abroad, visiting eight countries. On Wednesday the JAMES A. NOES departed to join GAY and GORDON M'LENDON of Dallas for several weeks in Oslo, Stockholm, Paris, Italy and Spain. This coming Friday ANNA SLAGLE, MABEL RATLIFF, MARILYN TAYLOR, and MARY FLOURNOY leave for London, Paris, and Rome.

Last Friday, Helen and Anna were honored by their daughters at a going-away party attended by members of their study club and their travelling companions. BENNIE ABELL's home was scene of the affair, and CLARICE JOHNS was co-hostess.

Ropes of gay pennants outlined the walk to the front door, where the entrance was decorated with small paper miniatures of the Arc de triomphe, a Parisian kiosk, and the Eiffel Tower. Large travel posters hung on the living room walls, and folders were placed on tables. On the piano was a metal model, three feet high, of the Eiffel Tower, topped with French flags and red, white, and blue balloons. A large arrangement of greenery and butterfly lilies filled the fireplace, and bronze chrysanthemums were used in the den.

Pennants decorated the ceiling in the dining room, where the table was centered with a small suitcase filled with zinnias. On the buffet was a paper steamship. GENE STACK poured coffee at one end of the table, while ANN SLAGLE served sherry at the other. The hostesses served cheese dollars, peppermints, and homemade poundcake.

LILY HARRINGTON invited Anna, Mary, Marillyn, and Mabel with their families, for Sunday night supper. Green and white calladium leaves and butterfly lilies were placed on the living room coffee table, while roses and zinnias in shades of pink to red filled a silver container on the dining table. Following supper, Lily showed her colored slides made on trips to Europe, giving the travellers a preview of what to look for. The hostesses presented her guests with packable satin jewelry holders for the trip.

On Tuesday, members of Mabel's exercise class (Ladies of the Leotard) surprised her with a luncheon at the Paragon. The U-shaped table was strewn with travel folders, guidebooks, menus and programs from abroad. Several original poems, advising Mabel for her trip, were read. The L.O.L. presented her with a gift of cash to be used for something special overseas. There were thirty present for this party.

Visitors from out of town were honored when BETTY MABRAY was hostess for luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club Friday. Special guests were MRS. J. D. TRIMBLE of El Dorado, Arkansas, Betty's mother; and MRS. B. C. Goodwin of Hot Springs, Arkansas, her aunt, who were here for two days last week. Roses in shades of pink centered the table in the bay window of Bayou DeSiard country club's dining room, where eight guests were seated. On the menu were gumbo, crabmeat au gratin, and a choice of desserts.

Also in town last week were SARABETH PARKES of Shreveport, and MARGIE LEE of Atlanta, who were here with their parents, the FRANK FARMERS. The girls honored their parents with a dinner party in the private dining room of the Frances hotel on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

First new after-five dresses of the Fall season were spied last Saturday night at the party given at Bayou DeSiard country club by the OLIVER VREELANDS and the CHRIS ULRICHS. An autumn theme was reflected in the bronze chrysanthemums, bittersweet, cattails, and seasonal foliage which centered the green-covered table. Outfits which caught our eye included JANE SARTOR's gold crepe with its belt of gold rope ending in a tassel . . . . . and LIL MARX's beige silk sheath with beige lace bodice . . . . . NANCY DAVIS chose black wool crepe with low cut back and a wide sash with fringe reaching to the hemline . . . . . With a cut velvet skirt in shades of blue, green, magenta, and black, CAROL M'DONALD wore a blue chiffon blouse . . . . . BETTY B. JACKSON chose chiffon printed in fall shades of orange, yellow and green . . . . . A gold and crystal bib necklace accented CAROL TENNIS's beige wool sheath.

After this party, the JACK TOM JACKSONS, DAN SARTORS, and FRED SARTORS invited a few friends to the Jackson home for buffet supper. Guests served themselves from the dining table, and then were seated at individual tables on the patio. Chicken spaghetti was the highlight of the menu, with a choice of pecan pie, apricot pie, cream puffs, or chess pie for dessert. There was dancing on the patio to stereo music after dinner.

This coming Saturday afternoon is the date set for the fifth annual silver tea to be given by Lt. Joseph Bowmar society, Children of the American Revolution. The home of LIZA, CLAIRE, DEBORAH and MARTHA SCHONLAU, 1815 Pargoud boulevard, will be the scene of the party between the hours of three-thirty and six. Children interested in membership, mothers of members, Daughters of the American Revolution, and clubwomen in the area are invited to the affair.

What nicer party for a sixteen-year-old young lady than a surprise luncheon? PENNY NICHOLS was so honored last Saturday at Bayou DeSiard country club. The table on the porch was covered with a pink cloth and decorated with pink candles and pink sasanquas down the center. Places for twenty girls were marked by cards holding satin-bound sachets. A shrimp salad plate was served, with ice cream and birthday cake for dessert. Penny received a ukelele and a gold charm bracelet.

Hallowe'en cast its shadow before at two parties last Saturday. ANNA JOHNS, seven years old, invited twenty-two little girls for a party on the pennant-hung patio. A spook house and go - fishing game were on the program, and the group cooked wieners for lunch outdoors.

For her ninth birthday that evening, HOLLY HEUER was honored at a supper party attended by twenty litte girls. Fried chicken in the basket was served, along with birthday cake for dessert. The little guests sat in a candlelit room to hear a ghost story read as "eyeballs" and such horrors were passed about.

Highlight of the season for members of the Paragon will be the dance scheduled for this Friday night, September 29. The world-famous Glenn Miller orchestra under the direction of Ray McKinley will play for dancing between the hours of nine and one.

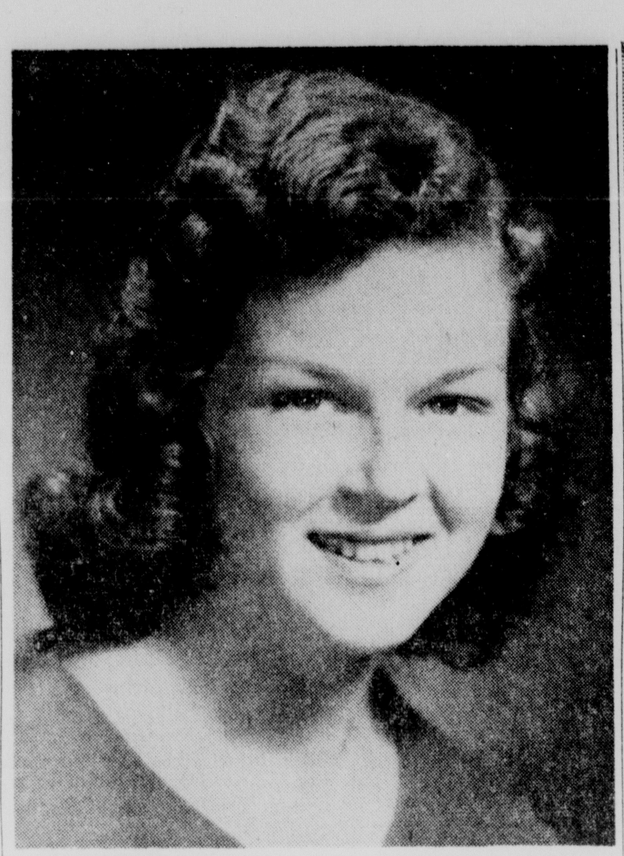
We were speaking above of ladies clothes. Now let us consider what Norman Jaffray has to say about men's clothes in "Fine Feathers":

Back in the days of Louis Quinze
The peacock mode of dress was man's:
In scarlet breeches, satin hose,
He made the women look like crows.

No decent man would show his face
Today, in frills and cuffs of lace,
In solemn black or charcoal gray
We tread the formal path today
And when, perforce, we must digress,
We fell we're wearing fancy dress.

What ails us? Are we man or mouse,
To be outglamoured by our spouse?
Let's daze the eye, like sunset's burst,
And dress like kings again! . . .
You first.



MISS CARRIE ELIZABETH JARRELL is engaged to marry Lieut. Carl Peter Shambro of Monroe. Announcement of the forthcoming vows is made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Jarrell of Eros. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Shambro, Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized in St. Joseph's Catholic church in Monroe, on October 28 at 10 a.m.

Swami Santha, Nomads Observe Anniversary

The 14th anniversary of Swami Santha No. 102-Nomads of Avrudaka was celebrated at a birthday party Monday night, September 18 in Castle Hall, 127½ St. John St., following first Darbar since June.

Mrs. Callie Crow was acting rani and during the business session it was decided to invite Joe Smallings, a Nomad from El Dorado, Ark., to attend the next Darbar Monday, October 16 and show colored films of Nomads and Dokey convention held in Miami, Fla. in August. Other Nomads from El Dorado will also be invited to the meeting.

At conclusion of the darbar the group adjourned to the dining hall in the club room for the anniversary party. A cake, decorated in the Nomad colors of purple and gold, and topped with 14 candles was furnished by Dr. H. H. Baur, and served with an ice course provided by Angelo Kanelos.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parker, Mrs. Callie Crow, Jim Tolson, Dr. Baur, Zora Minor, Velma Purcell, Anita Causey, Illa Frost Smith, Harriett Thompson, Gertrude Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Kanelos.

MRS. WILLIAM EARL EVERITT

Everitt-Winn Wedding Held In Bride's Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Winn, 105 Arlington Place, West Monroe, was the scene of the wedding of their daughter, Mary Arlyne to William Earl Everitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Everitt Sr., Monroe, formerly of Shreveport, on Monday, September 11 at 7 p.m.

An arch of greenery, flanked by baskets of white chrysanthemums and branched candelabra holding white tapers, formed an improvised altar where the double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John Stewart of the First Christian church.

Candles were lighted by Miss Lila Jefferson, cousin of the bride and a program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope. Vocalist was Mrs. Roy Johnson Jr., of Fitzgerald, Georgia, aunt of the bride, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "A Wedding Prayer."

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, wore a frock of champagne taffeta, embossed with lace medallions. Her hat was of matching material designed as a miniature pillbox and accented by a brief veil. Champagne accessories completed her ensemble and she carried a white prayer book, topped with a white orchid, surrounded by baby lilies.

Miss Dian Bennett served as maid of honor and wore a jacket dress in deep brown with brown pillbox hat and carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Dick Etheridge was best man.

Mrs. Winn chose for her daughter's wedding a moss green two-piece silk ensemble with black accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore an olive green sheath with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of green - tinted white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Winn entertained wedding guests at a reception and later were hosts at a dinner at the Paragon club for out-of-town guests.

Out - of - town guests included Mrs. G. C. Burge, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson Jr., Fitzgerald Georgia; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. England, of Winder, Ga., Mrs. George E. Johnson of Atlanta, Ga., Mr. and Mrs G. W. Everitt Sr., of Shreveport and Mr. and Mrs George Abraham, Meridian, Miss.

For travel the bride chose a black and white striped dressmaker suit with black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. After their wedding trip the couple will reside at 1106 North 8th in Monroe.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. G. C. Burge, Fitzgerald, Ga., formerly of Monroe, and the late Mr. Burge, and of Mrs. A. A. Moak and the late Ed Winn. Mr. Everitt is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Monsour of Shreveport and G. W. Everitt and the late Mrs. Everitt, Shreveport.

Mrs. Everitt graduated from West Monroe high school and was a member of Delta Kappa Phi sorority. Mr. Everitt attended Neville high school, Northwestern State College and Northeast Louisiana State College.

PTA Policies Discussed At Crosley Unit

Basic policies of the Parent-Teacher Association were quoted to Crosley P.-T.A. by Mrs. G. C. Bedenbender, Ouachita Parish P.-T.A. Council president, at its first regular meeting in the school.

In her address she stated "The Parent-Teacher organization shall be educational; shall be noncommercial, nonsectarian and nonpartisan; shall seek neither to direct the administrative activities of the schools nor to control their policies and shall not enter into membership with other organizations save such international or national organizations as may be approved by the National Board of Managers."

Wood Sers, Crosley principal, gave the school policies and introduced the faculty to the unit. A "get-acquainted" session was held in each classroom.

Mrs. D. M. Frantom Jr. conducted the business session prior to the program during which the proposed budget for the year was presented by G. C. Bedenbender and adopted by the group.

Room count was won by Miss Golson's first grade, after which refreshments were served under direction of Mrs. Jack Noble.

Pharmaceutical Auxiliary Opens New Season

First meeting of the year for the Ladies Auxiliary of the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association was held Saturday, September 17 at the Rendezvous Restaurant.

Mrs. William J. Robinson was a special guest.

Following luncheon Mrs. W. J. Pierron Jr., presided over a business session, during which plans were made for the forthcoming year.

The auxiliary voted to assist the Pharmacy School at Northeast Louisiana State College in obtaining relics for its anticipated pharmaceutical museum.

Members present were Mrs. Perry Miers, Mrs. Roger Harvison, Mrs. August Danti, Mrs. J. B. Kendall Jr., Mrs. E. A. Hoodemaker, Mrs. Thomas Kelly, Mrs. Wilfred Scroggin, Mrs. Wirt Rodgers Jr., Mrs. W. M. Jones, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. J. W. Collens, Mrs. Gene Spatafora, Mrs. Joe Maggio, Mrs. Frank Martin, Mrs. W. J. Pierron Jr. and Mrs. Nathan Watzman.

Style Trends

What's the trend in furniture styles? Modern is on the upswing, along with Early American and Colonial. English is on the downgrade, with French, Italian and Spanish about the same popularity as during the past ten years.

Cosmopolitan Dance Club Ends Season With Gay Gridiron Ball at Paragon

Last dance of the 1960-61 season for the Cosmopolitan Dance club was held Friday night, September 22 from 8:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. at the Paragon Supper Club. The fall dance paid tribute to the new football season in theme and spirit and was dubbed "Gridiron Ball." Music was provided by the Dixielanders.

The ball room was gaily decked in the "colors" of numerous schools and colleges throughout the country, in the form of pennants and streamers. Large goal posts, decorated appropriately, formed the focal point on the dance floor. Beneath the goal posts was a figure representing the "Football Sweetheart."

Each table carried out the theme, with runners of crepe paper gridirons, centered with miniature goal posts. At each end of the tables were many gay pennants radiating from a small football.

Mrs. Harold Lary, chairman of the decorating committee, was assisted by Mrs. William Bartlett, Mrs. W. E. McGoug, Mrs Klein Crow, Mrs. Hewitt Johnson and Mrs. Bob Bright. The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. E. P. Chapman and Mrs. Hewitt Johnson.

Mrs. Ed Brown, Mrs. Bob Bright and Mrs. Fred Liner greeted guests at the door where they were presented pennant name tags. Special guests of the evening included all prospective new members for the forthcoming club year, which begins with the Christmas dance in December.

MRS. ARMAND ENOCHS BREARD

Travis Turner, Armand Enochs Breard Exchange Vows In Atlanta Ceremony

Miss Travis Moore Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chapman Turner of Atlanta, Georgia, became the bride of Armand Enochs Breard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armand Vaughan Breard of Monroe, at 4 o'clock Nuptial Mass yesterday afternoon, September 22. The ceremony was held in the Cathedral of Christ the King in Atlanta, with Father John J. Mulroy officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a traditional gown of delustered satin. The fitted bodice styled on princess lines, featured a scoop neckline appliqued in Alencon lace embroidered with tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Long satin sleeves formed lily points over her hands and the overskirt was designed with a polonaise drape caught up in the back with a cluster of poufs from which fell the chapel train. Her tiered veil of illusion was attached to a bandeau of Alencon lace, encrusted in seed pearls. She carried a crystal and silver rosary and a bouquet of orchids, and stephanotis entwined with ivy.

Mrs. John P. Ora Jr., of Chapel Hill, N. C., sister of the bride, and matron of honor was gowned identically with the bridesmaids who were Mrs. Louis P. Milner Jr., of Collinston, La., sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Andrew C. Hobbs, Miss Josephine Miller, Mrs. Juha Kokko, and Miss Edythe Williams of Atlanta.

Their dresses were of candy pink satin with inserts of matching pink velvet in the bodice and full skirts. They wore tiny veiled pillboxes of candy pink and carried bouquets of rebrum lilies.

Nancy Milner, niece of the bridegroom and Leslie Ora, niece of the bride, dressed in white with halo crowns of flowers, carried small baskets of flowers.

Serving as best man was the bridegroom's father, Mr. Breard. Ushers were Louis P. Milner Jr., Malcolm Jones, Frank Strickland, Ralph Hicks and David McNeill.

Mrs. Turner selected for her daughter's wedding a gown of mint green satin with a matching coif and a corsage of white orchids. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Breard, wore a gown of oriental beige Alencon lace with a small coif of beige and green and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents at the Cherokee Town and Country Club. After a wedding trip to South Carolina, the couple will reside at 18 Avery Drive, N. E., Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Armand V. Breard, parents of the bridegroom, entertained the wedding party with a rehearsal supper Thursday night in Atlanta.

Let's talk about Maternity Fashions

NOT TOO EARLY

[illegible] Eve just discovered you're pregnant, it's never too early to start making plans. There are [illegible] things to be considered [illegible] your diet for example. Watch your weight as [illegible] and you'll find it [illegible] gradually. [illegible] your hair [illegible] the glamorous [illegible] Let your hair grow [illegible] get yourself [illegible] permanent [illegible] if you [illegible] Experiment with new [illegible] Keep your nail polish [illegible] your eyes an intriguing [illegible] perfume.

PEPPY WARDROBE

Get busy with a good maternity wardrobe plan [illegible] one that is sure to contain something for every occasion [illegible] something selected just for you alone [illegible] not a "make-do" or "hand-me-down" from a well meaning friend. Make sure your wardrobe contains at least a couple of gay tops that are different from the clothes you usually choose. And be especially sure that you have some very glamorous dresses and outfits for evenings out with that important guy you married! I also suggest you select a pretty duster and a gown for your visit to the hospital.

If this is your first child, you more than anyone, will need the advice you can get from us right in our shop.

WE PAMPER YOU

When you're pregnant you'll enjoy being pampered just a little [illegible] and we'll do our part. Stop in at Lillians Maternity Wear 1129 Forsythe in Forsythe Shopping Center tomorrow morning and let's get acquainted. When you decide to make a purchase you may use our convenient lay-away.

We are open until 5:30 p.m. and for night appointments call Lillian in advance at FA 3-2382. Adv.

Garden At Panola Plantation Scene Of Wilson-Brown Wedding Vows

Panola Plantation in Lake Providence, home of the bride, was scene of a garden ceremony which united in marriage Miss Martha Katherine Brown and Harry D. Wilson II of Denham Springs, on Wednesday, September 20 at 5 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Denis Brown Jr., Panola Plantation, and the late Mr. Brown. Mr. Wilson is the son of Mrs. Harry B. Tipton of New Orleans and Justin E. Wilson of Denham Springs.

Vows were exchanged at an improvised altar on the lawn, illuminated with hurricane lamps, before a tall candelabra and pedestal baskets of white gladioli, stock and chrysanthemums. Rev. George York performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Herman Schwartz, organist, played "I Love You Truly," "Because," "The Lord's Prayer," and other wedding selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, William D. Brown of Monroe. She wore a gown of peau de soie satin featuring a sheath effect with overskirt outlined by a deep border of embroidered Alencon lace, which billowed into a cathedral train. The Alencon lace motif edged the portrait neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her veil of Brussels lace in fingertip length was attached to a crown of lace embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. Atop a pearl - covered Bible she carried a bouquet which included a white orchid and stephanotis arranged in tiered French design with fleur d'amour.

Mrs. Gerald Howard Wolff attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore an afternoon length gown of silk chiffon in royal blue, fashioned with a cowl neckline, full gathered skirt and beaded satin belt. A matching whimsey and satin shoes completed her costume and she carried a bouquet fashioned on the French design with fleur d'amour.

Bridesmaid was Miss Honor Wyly, cousin of the bride, who wore a gown of light blue silk organza over taffeta, styled with puff sleeves, lace trimmed bodice and cummerbund sash. She wore a matching whimsey and carried a bouquet identical to the honor attendant's in smaller arrangement.

Mr. Wilson attended his son as best man and groomsman were Gerald Fannaly of Denham Springs and William D Brown III, Monroe, nephew of the bride. Ushers were Grady W. Brown, brother of the bride and Captain Jack Wyly, her uncle.

Mrs. Brown selected for her daughter's wedding and lawn reception which followed, a dress of light blue silk organza, embroidered in deeper blue and gold threads, with scoop neck banded in light blue satin. She wore gold accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The serving table for the reception beneath spreading mimosa trees, was centered with a bouquet of white blossoms. Miss Myrtis Wyly, cousin of the bride, presided at the silver punch bowl. The bride's table held the tiered wedding cake, encircled by small white flowers, which was served by Mrs. William D. Brown of Monroe. Other members of the houseparty for the reception were Mrs. C. J. Wyly, Mrs. J. G. Wyly Sr., Mrs. McFarland Long, Lake Providence and Mrs. J. G. Wyly Jr. of Tallulah.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a blue pure silk and cotton tweed jacket dress with navy accessories, a beaded and veiled pillbox hat and white kid gloves. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will establish a home in Baton Rouge, where Mr. Wilson will enter Louisiana State University. He attended St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis and graduated from Southeastern high in Hammond, and recently completed three years service with the Marine Corps. Mrs. Wilson is a graduate of Lake Providence high school and received her B.S. degree from Louisiana State University. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Out - of - town guests included Mrs. F. J. Lewis, Hammond; Mr. and Mrs. Bolivar Kemp, Amite; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lane, Margaret Dickson, Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Tipton, New Orleans; Mrs. Guy Garrison and Mrs. Harry D. Wilson, Amite; Richard Gray and Michael Merrill, Baton Rouge; Kip Webb, of Robert, La., Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wyly, Jr., Tallulah; Mrs. W. S. Peck and Miss Willie Woodward, Sicily Island; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hill, Denham Springs.

Psychiatric Scars

NEW YORK (UPI) — A hospital is no place for child discipline, a professor of surgery at Northwestern University Medical School told the Illinois State Medical Society at its annual meeting.

Dr. Willis J. Potts said that some children are so frightened by their hospital stay that they require psychiatric treatment after discharge. "We don't want children to get well physically and go home with a psychiatric scar," he said.

K. Easley, Mrs. W. R. Lemert.

Twenty guests called at the home of Mrs. Jack Rowan, who with Mrs. Leon Manley and Mrs. W. A. Walker were hostesses for an informal gathering. On the dining table the silver service was complimented by a centerpiece of specimen yellow chrysanthemums and bronze wheat. Fall flower arrangements completed the decor throughout the living room.

Mrs. Alva Huffman served guests who were Mrs. Eugene Dodson, Mrs. W. M. Williams, Mrs. Robert Grosclose, Mrs. Doryse Jobe, Mrs. Leona Rodden, Mrs. W. C. Buchannen, Mrs. E. J. Upshaw, Mrs. E. L. Stockton, Mrs. Josie Palmer, Mrs. J. F. Monroe, Mrs. H. H. Hyman, Mrs. A. S. Huffman, Mrs. E. J. Foster and Mrs. R. L. DeMoss.

Mrs. George Sixby was hostess in her home on Glenmar with Mrs. W. W. Moore to honor newcomers in her neighborhood. The serving table was appointed with a fall floral arrangement of zinnias, roses and lilies in a crystal bowl. Mrs. Lake Oxford and Mrs. Dale Bedgood presided at each end of the coffee table. Guests included Dr. Ethel Trice, Mrs. Waylon White, Mrs. Hollis Cate, Mrs. M. S. Nicklas, Mrs. John Hill, Mrs. R. L. Murdock, Mrs. Albin Lassiter, Mrs. John Sawyer and Miss Alma Lufcy.

Hostessing a coffee in her home on Guy Avenue was Mrs. Earl Prince, assisted by Mrs. Beryl Franklin. A bronze and yellow color scheme was noted throughout the home. The dining table was centered with bronze and yellow chrysanthemums interspersed with leather leaf fern in a silver basket container.

Mrs. Earl Trabue and Mrs. L. R. Longfellow presided at the silver coffee service. Guests included Mrs. H. H. Hyman, Mrs. Matthew Hamner, Mrs. C. C. Fuller, Mrs. William Scurlock, Mrs. J. G. Hammons, Mrs. Foster Holdeman, Mrs. G. E. Sanders, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. Wilford Smith, Mrs. Derrell Spiva, Mrs. Jack Wilkes and Mrs. Mike Covington.

Varied greenery in a Grecian brass planter formed the focal point for the informal seated coffee in the home of Mrs. J. R. Brown with Mrs. George Brian and Mrs. Lawrence Browning as co-hostesses. Friends gathering for the occasion were Mrs. Kenneth Durr, Mrs. J. A. Anderson, Mrs. Alfonso Gonzales, Mrs. R. A. Hickman, Mrs. John M. Hicks, Mrs. J. O. Lancaster, Mrs. John McCarter, Mrs. Marcus Mapp and Mrs. E. L. Taylor.

Mrs. E. H. Allen greeted guests at the home of Mrs. Howard Morton on Blanks Street. The appointed table featured mass triangular arrangements of tuberoses, white and gold zinnias accented by two large magenta zinnias in a crystal epergne. Decorating the living room was palm slathes spiraled with tea roses and celosia to form a vertical arrangement.

Co-hostesses for the affair were Mrs. E. H. Allen, Mrs. W. L. Perkins, Mrs. L. Price. Guests included Miss Carolyn Crawford, Mrs. Charles DePoe, Mrs. L. W. Simpson, Mrs. Wayne Wells, Mrs. Levelle Haynes, Mrs. E. W. Lockhart, Mrs. L. E. McClure, Mrs. W. J. McDonald, Mrs. Lamar Rogers, Mrs. Edward Scutz, Mrs. LeMar Stephen, Mrs. A. L. Tatum, Mrs. E. C. Whatley, Mrs. R. D. Whitecotton and Miss Winetta Thomas.

A color scheme of pink and white rosebuds in an antique container formed the centerpiece for the coffee table at the home of Mrs. Jack Herrington on Lakeshore Drive. Mrs. W. J. Christmas poured from the silver service. Those present were Mrs. Henry Olmstead, Mrs. Larry Bonner, Mrs. Thomas Pennell, Mrs. Willis Knight, Mrs. Clarence Ball, Mrs. James Coates, Mrs. Donald Farrow, Mrs. R. T. George, Mrs. Jack Collins, Mrs. Barry Johnson, Mrs. A. J. Speece, Mrs. Clint Hanna, Mrs. Ralph Wilson, Mrs. Joe B. Mullins and Mrs. J. J. Barnes.

Let's talk about Maternity Fashions

NOT TOO EARLY

Even if you have just discovered you're pregnant, it's never too early to start making plans. There are lots of things to be considered . . . your diet for exmple. Watch your weight as you go along and you'll find it unnecessary to franticlly try to reduce during your last few weeks. Plan to be glamorous all the way. Let your hair grow just a little and then get yourself a good permanent . . . if you need one. Experiment with new make-up, keep your nails polished, buy yourself an intriguing new perfume.

PEPPY WARDROBE

Get busy with a good maternity wardrobe plan . . . one that is sure to contain something for every occasion . . . something selected just for you alone . . . not a "make-do" or "hand-me-down" from a well meaning friend. Make sure your wardrobe contains at least a couple of gay tops that are different from the clothes you usually choose. And be especially sure that you have some very glamorous dresses and outfits for evenings out with that important guy you married! I also suggest you select a pretty duster and a gown for your visit to the hospital.

If this is your first child, you more than anyone, will need the advice you can get from us right in our shop.

WE PAMPER YOU

When you're pregnant you'll enjoy being pampered just a little . . . and we'll do our part. Stop in at Lillians Maternity Wear 1129 Forsythe in Forsythe Shopping Center tomorrow morning and let's get acquainted. When you decide to make a purchase you may use our convenient lay-away.

We are open until 5:30 p.m. and for night appoinements call Lillian in advance at FA 3-2382. Adv.

Area Couple Is Wed In Church Rites

Arrangements of white gladioli and stock against a background of tropical foliaged palms interspersed with seven-branched candelabra holding white cathedral tapers formed a setting in the Baptist church of Downsville for the wedding of Miss Betty Averitte and George Layton Leachman. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Victor Averitte of Downsville and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Leachman of Choudrant.

Rev. John B. Leachman of Ruston performed the double ring ceremony before the altar which was covered in white with garlands of English ivy. Candles were lighted by Johnny McFarland and Gary Patterson, after a program of nuptial music by Mrs. Janet Pesnell, who also accompanied Mrs Jesse Bryan who sang "O Promise Me," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Carolyn Ruth McFarland assisted Mrs. Pesnell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta and tiers of bridal net. The bodice featured a deep off-shoulder scalloped neckline bordered in lace petals and long lace sleeves which tapered to lily points over her wrists. The skirt front of multi-tiered lace swept back into panels to reveal tier upon tier of ruffled net which extended to the floor. Her veil of illusion fell from a Swiss braid coronet accented with seed pearls and she carried a bouquet consisted of an orchid mounted on a white pearl Bible, surrounded by white carnations, orchid and white tulle and lace with streamers tied in lovers knots.

Mrs. Jerry Hammons served her sister as matron of honor. She wore a frock of light blue nylon organza over taffeta, styled with full skirt and flat bow of organza and taffeta at the waistline. Her headdress was a blue pearl trimmed ruch of net from which fell a veil of blue tulle. Miss Connie Averitte was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Leachman, Miss Brenda Leachman, sisters of the bridegroom and Miss Linda Robinson. They wore dresses identical to the honor attendant's with large picture hats of matching organza and taffeta. All wore short white gloves, blue shoes and carried bouquets of white carnations with posts of blue tulle, surrounded by lace. For ornamentation they wore strands of pearls, gift of the bride.

Miss Pat Leachman was flower girl and also wore a blue organza over taffeta frock, with a headband of matching ruffles. She wore a corsage of white carnations and carried a blue ruffled basket filled with white rose petals.

Mr. Leachman attended his son as best man and groomsmen-ushers were Fred Leachman, Billy Leachman, Delane Leachman, brothers of the bridegroom, and Felton Patterson.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a navy lace dress with pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a light blue jersey dress with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony in the social hall of the church where two massive baskets of white gladioli and fern formed a background. The bride's table was covered in pale blue, overlaid with lace with the bride's bouquet as a centerpiece, flanked by pink tapers in ornamented crystal candelabra. Miss Diane Greer served the tiered wedding cake and presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Moses Stivers, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Juett McGee had charge of the guest book table, and rice bags were distributed by Mrs. B. H. Hamilton.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip to Galveston and a tour of the Gulf Coast, the bride was wearing a suit of coffee brown and black, with small black veiled hat and black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. They will be at home at 201 Bernard Street in Ruston, where Mr. Leachman is established with a local firm and Mrs. Leachman is a senior at Louisiana Tech.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Nick Conti, Miss Virginia Conti, Vince Trabona, Mr. and Mrs. Aubry Hammons, Mr. and Mrs. Juett McGee, Mrs. Ludvic Herlevic and Peggy, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hammons and Miss Melinda Hammons of West Monroe.

MRS. GEORGE LAYTON LEACHMAN

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Hilda Gay West to Tommy Noel Polko is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oran West of Spearsville. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Grace Polko and the late George Polko of Donna, Texas. The wedding is planned for Saturday, November 18 in the First Methodist church of Houston, Texas.

Belts Encircle Fashions For Waistline Whimsey

How you dress your waistline this fall will set the mood of your fall costume. A new leather belt will emphasize, or give the illusion of a lithe figure. Smooth, suede, brushed and lustred leather circlets complement interesting fall suit and dress textures.

Slim belts, wide belts, sash belts and cummerbunds are seen in a range of bold autumn reds, browns, greens and yellows, or muted shades that understate a costume mood.

Soft crushed leather is used to fashion smart looking sash belts to soften the look of the classic tunic. This same easily draped leather appears in cummerbunds for both day and evening wear.

Ransom PTA Plans Project For New Year

Ransom Elementary school Parents and Teachers Association held its first meeting of the year September 14 in the school cafeteria with Mrs. Carter Gillmore, president, in charge.

Mrs. Gillmore introduced Mrs. Cortlandt McCoy, past Ouachita district director of P.-T.A., who gave a talk on general problems parents and teachers encounter with children while at school.

The project planned for the coming year by the group is to purchase game equipment for each classroom to use during rainy days. The budget for the year was approved with a nursery to be provided for pre-school children.

James W. Walters, school principal, introduced the faculty. Room count was a tie between Mrs. Vi Cotton's first grade and Mr. Hammett's sixth grade. At conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be open house at the school.

Baptist Church Setting For Duke-Guice Wedding

Baskets of stock and twin candelabra holding pink tapers formed a setting in Fellowship Baptist church Friday night, September 22, for the wedding of Miss Patricia Monroe Guice and Danny Rayford Duke. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Guice and Mr. and Mrs. Danny R. Duke Jr., all of this city.

Rev. P. M. Guice, pastor of East Jena Baptist church, and uncle of the bride, officiated at the double ring vows at 7:30 p.m. Appropriate nuptial music was provided by the organist, Ronnie Brothers, who also accompanied E. M. Wooten, who sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace over net ruffling and taffeta. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and long sleeves which ended in petal points over the hands. Wrist fastenings of satin covered buttons were duplicated in the row of buttons at the back bodice. The skirt was triple tiered scalloped lace in front and caught up in back to form paniers over the multi - ruffled net. Her fingertip veil of tulle was attached to a tiara of tulle and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids showered with satin streamers.

Attendants for the bride were Miss Glenda Hart, maid of honor; Miss Roberta Louise Keller, junior bridesmaid and Miss Maxine Brown and Miss Mary Joe Duke, bridesmaids. They were dressed identically in waltz length frocks of pink brocade, styled with large puff sleeves. They wore pink satin slippers and headdresses of pink nylon net, embellished with seed pearls and carried bouquets of white tuberoses with pink and white streamers.

Berle Humphries served as best man and groomsmen - ushers were James Simmons and Joe Thigpen.

A reception followed in the church social room where the lace - covered bride's table was centered with an arrangement of pink roses and white chrysanthemums. A pink and white theme was carried out in all appointments. Mrs. Marguerite Guice served the tiered wedding cake and Miss Kitty McGehee and Miss Jo Ann Bagwell alternated at the punch bowl. Mrs. Sue Simmons presided at the bride's [illegible].

For a wedding trip to Biloxi, Miss [illegible] the bride was wearing a suit of brown silk linen with beige accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 710 Peach Street in Monroe.

Out - of - town guests were Mrs. Lucille Russell, Mrs. Mary Fons, Mrs. Marshal, all of Tucson, Arizona and Mrs. O. P. Willcox of McCalla, Alabama.

Get Acquainted Meeting Held By Millsaps PTA

A "get acquainted" meeting opened the new season for Millsaps Parent Teacher Association last Thursday night at the school.

Wood Sets, principal of Crosley elementary school, was guest speaker for the evening, using as his subject, "Relationships of Parents and Teachers." He urged parents to take an active part in school activities and the Parent Teacher Association, thereby working closer with the child in helping solve difficulties.

Teachers of the school were introduced by the principal, C. O. Wilson. After the meeting parents visited the various classrooms of their children.

At conclusion of the evening refreshments were served by the room representatives in each classroom.

Jr. League Maps Plans For Season

Monroe Junior Charity League launched the new fall season Thursday at the first scheduled meeting held at Ouachita Parish Public Library.

League summer work was reviewed as chairmen of each project reported the past three months' progress.

Of special interest was an appeal made by the Thrift Shop chairman for more merchandise. Members were urged to canvass in a special drive this month for used clothes and housewares to replenish the depleted Thrift Shop store.

Those wishing to donate and who desire the articles picked up, the following numbers were given to call: FA 5-3733; FA 2-5964 and FA 3-7379.

Mrs. Christian Ulrich was commended for her outstanding representation of the organization in the field of special education.

November 20 through December 10 was noted as dates for the Monroe Junior Charity League's art show, which will be open to the public without charge at the Monroe Little Theatre.

Trim Illusion

It's best not to try to camouflage heavy legs with a long skirt. This looks dowdy and emphasizes the legs. Instead, try exercising to slim the calves and ankles. And also create a trim illusion by sitting with the legs crossed at the ankles, and standing with the heel of one foot placed at the arch of the other.

Girl Scout News

SILVER WATER GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL

As Girl Scout troops start fall meetings, parents eager to have their daughters in Brownie Scouts begin plans for new troops. Work is now underway at Lakeshore, Highland, Kiroli, Mitchell, Crosley, and Good Shepherd, to meet these demands.

Five new Brownie Scout troops were organized late last spring in the Northside Neighborhood. With the new one at the Good Shepherd school, Brownie Scouting should be available to all girls. At Georgia Tucker Mrs. B. R. Oliver and Mrs. P. J. Burks are leaders of Troop 41, while Mrs. Herbert Wilson and Mrs. L. E. Hayden, III, work with Troop 57. Mrs. Edwin Nolen and Mrs. Faye Cook are to be leaders of the troop at Lakeshore School.

Looking forward to their first reunion after vacation are the girls of Troop 46. Mrs. C. W. Cox is leader. These girls, now enrolled in junior high can look back on nearly four years of Girl Scouting. In March the troop birthday month, they will start their new year on the Girl Scout golden anniversary.

Four of the girls, Candy Cain, True Guerriero, Suzanne Macon, and Evelyn Jones attended day camp and earned the Rambler and Insect badges. True and Candy participated in the pottery class and earned the Cook badge in the class sponsored by Louisiana Power Company, and Candy earned the Swimmer badge.

Outdoor enthusiasts, members of Troop 46 have set a date on the camping calendar in October, for camp at Pine Woods.

Every year, the Girl Scout craft exhibit at Caldwell Art Festival has won a blue ribbon, as have individual girls. Leaders and parents are asked to bring pottery and other articles to the office now, for an exhibit this year. On Saturday, October 14 at the community house at Columbia, the festival is a gay, outdoor affair, with displays strung on wires or placed on table under the trees. From 10:00 until 4:00 the grounds and building are thronged with visitors, the crowds becoming larger and more enthusiastic. In case of rain, the exhibits are placed in the courthouse. In charge of plans for this year's festival, and largely responsible for past successes is our Girl Scout friend, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds.

Last week adult and senior scout volunteers worked at the United Givers office. They processed materials for the fund drive. As an agency of the fund and as citizens of our community, we should support the United Fund in every way.

Tweeds In Fashion

The stamp of unforgettable fashion will mark the fall tweeds for 1961. Colorwise, they're an autumn medley . . . cinnamon and spice, wild plums and cobalt blues, russets with the greenest greens in years. In important autumn shapes, tweed takes to the jaunty cape, the widening skirt and talked-about stoles.

Stylish Tots

The size 3-to-6x set will be right in style this fall with sleek skinny pants and "relaxed" waistline dresses that have either unfitted belt bands or that eliminate the waistline completely. Many are made of cotton corduroys, cotton jacquards, and stretch cottons that thrive on simple laundering.

Baptist Church Setting For Duke-Guice Wedding

Baskets of stock and twin candelabra holding pink tapers formed a setting in Fellowship Baptist church Friday night, September 22, for the wedding of Miss Patricia Monroe Guice and Danny Rayford Duke. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Guice and Mr. and Mrs. Danny R. Duke Jr., all of this city.

Rev. P. M. Guice, pastor of East Jena Baptist church, and uncle of the bride, officiated at the double ring vows at 7:30 p.m. Appropriate nuptial music was provided by the organist, Ronnie Brothers, who also accompanied E. M. Wooten, who sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace over net ruffling and taffeta. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and long sleeves which ended in petal points over the hands. Wrist fastenings of satin covered buttons were duplicated in the row of buttons at the back bodice. The skirt was triple tiered scalloped lace in front and caught up in back to form paniers over the multi - ruffled net. Her fingertip veil of tulle was attached to a tiara of tulle and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids showered with satin streamers.

Attendants for the bride were Miss Glenda Hart, maid of honor; Miss Roberta Louise Keller, junior bridesmaid and Miss Maxine Brown and Miss Mary Joe Duke, bridesmaids. They were dressed identically in waltz length frocks of pink brocade, styled with large puff sleeves. They wore pink satin slippers and headdresses of pink nylon net, embellished with seed pearls and carried bouquets of white tuberoses with pink and white streamers.

Berle Humphries served as best man and groomsmen - ushers were James Simmons and Joe Thigpen.

A reception followed in the church social room where the lace - covered bride's table was centered with an arrangement of pink roses and white chrysanthemums. A pink and white theme was carried out in all appointments. Mrs. Marguerite Guice served the tiered wedding cake and Miss Kitty McGehee and Miss Jo Ann Bagwell alternated at the punch bowl. Mrs. Sue Simmons presided at the bride's book.

For a wedding trip to Biloxi Miss., the bride was wearing a suit of brown silk linen with beige accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 710 Peach Street in Monroe.

Out - of - town guests were Mrs. Lucille Russell, Mrs. Mary Tom, Mrs. Marshal, all of Tucson, Arizona and Mrs. O. P. Willhite of McCalla, Alabama.

Girl Scout News

SILVER WATER GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL

As Girl Scout troops start fall meetings, parents eager to have their daughters in Brownie Scouts begin plans for new troops. Work is now underway at Lakeshore, Highland, Kiroli, Mitchell, Crosley, and Good Shepherd, to meet these demands.

Five new Brownie Scout troops were organized late last spring in the Northside Neighborhood. With the new one at the Good Shepherd school, Brownie Scouting should be available to all girls. At Georgia Tucker Mrs. B. R. Oliver and Mrs. P. J. Burks are leaders of Troop 51, while Mrs. Herbert Wilson and Mrs. L. E. Hayden, III, work with Troop 57. Mrs. Edwin Nolen and Mrs. Faye Cook are to be leaders of the troop at Lakeshore School.

Looking forward to their first reunion after vacation are the girls of Troop 46, Mrs. C. W. Cain, leader. These girls, now enrolled in junior high can look back on nearly four years of Girl Scouting. In March, the troop birthday month, they will start their new year on the Girl Scout golden anniversary.

Four of the girls, Candy Cain, True Guerriero, Suzanne Mavo, and Evelyn Jones attended day camp and earned the Rambler and Insect badges. True and Candy participated in the pottery class, and earned the Cook badge in the class sponsored by Louisiana Power Company, and Candy earned the Swimmer badge.

Outdoor - enthusiasts, members of Troop 46 have set a date on the camping calendar in October, for camp at Pine Woods.

Every year, the Girl Scout craft exhibit at Caldwell Art Festival has won a blue ribbon, as have individual girls. Leaders and parents are asked to bring pottery and other articles to the office now, for an exhibit this year. On Saturday, October 14 at the community house at Columbia, the festival is a gay, outdoor affair, with displays strung on wires or placed on table under the trees. From 10:00 until 4:00 the grounds and building are thronged with visitors, the crowds becoming larger and more enthusiastic. In case of rain, the exhibits are placed in the courthouse. In charge of plans for this year's festival, and largely responsible for past successes is our Girl Scout friend, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds.

Last week adult and senior scout volunteers worked at the United Givers office. They processed materials for the fund drive. As an agency of the fund and as citizens of our community, we should support the United Fund in every way.

Jr. League Maps Plans For Season

Monroe Junior Charity League launched the new fall season Thursday at the first scheduled meeting held at Ouachita Parish Public Library.

League summer work was reviewed as chairmen of each project reported the past three months' progress.

Of special interest was an appeal made by the Thrift Shop chairman for more merchandise. Members were urged to canvass in a special drive this month for used clothes and housewares to replenish the depleted Thrift Shop store.

Those wishing to donate and who desire the articles picked up, the following numbers were given to call: FA 5-3733; FA 2-5964 and FA 3-7379.

Mrs. Christian Ulrich was commended for her outstanding representation of the organization in the field of special education.

November 20 through December 10 was noted as dates for the Monroe Junior Charity League's art show, which will be open to the public without charge at the Monroe Little Theatre.

Trim Illusion

It's best not to try to camouflage heavy legs with a long skirt. This looks dowdy and emphasizes the legs. Instead, try exercising to slim the calves and ankles. And also create a trim illusion by sitting with the legs crossed at the ankles, and standing with the heel of one foot placed at the arch of the other.

Candlelight Vows Unite Sue Briggs, Mr. Williams

In a candlelight ceremony performed Friday, September 22 in College Place Baptist Church, Miss Sue Ellen Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Houston Briggs of Monroe, became the bride of Jack Allan Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Renford Williams of Tendal. Rev. T. Earl Ogg performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m.

Two baskets of white gladioli and greenery at either end of a pyramid of tapers in branched candelabra and flanked by two spiral candelabra, formed a background for the exchange of vows.

Traditional wedding selections were played by the organist, Miss Betty Pope, who also accompanied Michael DeShong as he sang "O Perfect Love," and "Wedding Prayer." During the lighting of the candles Miss Pope played "Calm is the Night."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of white lace, with scalloped hem and neckline, embellished with seed pearls and sequins. The basque bodice featured long sleeves which tapered to points over her hands and her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid with stephanotis atop a Bible.

Miss Sandra Kay Johnson of Fairbanks, who served as maid of honor, wore a blue satin gown in afternoon length, styled with basque bodice, scalloped neckline, sweetheart sleeve and pleated skirt. She wore matching slippers and a bandeau of blue satin, topped with a flat bow. Her bouquet was a nosegay of small white chrysanthemums.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Ruth Williams, sister of the bridegroom, and candlelighters, Miss Phyllis Kulcke and Miss La Kay Guraedy, wore dresses of light blue brocade, fashioned identically to the maid of honor's. They also wore blue slippers and bandeaux of brocade. The candlelighters wore wrist corsages of white carnations and the junior bridesmaid carried a nosegay of white mums.

Mr. Williams attended his son as best man and ushers were John Dennis of Lakeview, Ark., Don Cheek of Winnsboro; Tolbert Williams of Tallulah and Charles McCullen of Monroe.

Mrs. Briggs chose for her daughter's wedding a toast lace sheath, styled with sweetheart neckline and brief sleeves, with matching shoes and tiny hat of toast velvet petals. Her corsage was of bronze chrysanthemums. Mrs. Williams, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of deep purple crepe with three-quarter sleeves and roll collar forming ties in front. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

A reception was held in the church social hall following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered in blue with a floor length skirt of white net, garlanded with greenery. Centerpiece was of white carnations and German statice. Miss Jean Williams, sister of the bridegroom, served the and Mrs. Charles McCullen presided at the punch bowl. The bride's book placed on a table decorated similar to the reception table, with a single white candle in a silver holder, was presided over by Miss Betty Thomas.

The couple will reside in Monroe and will continue studies at Northeast Louisiana State College. Mrs. Williams, a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority at Northeast. A senior at Northeast, Mr. Williams graduated from Tallulah high school.

Hemlines Focal Point

Whether they're going up or going down, in every season of fashion, hemlines make news. However this fall, hemlines make real headlines—not in how high or how short—but by their design, detail and motion.

There's a particular fanfare for hems in both daytime and late day fashions. In afternoon costumes, there's lots of interest in the shape of the hem.

Dresses and coats, and some suit skirts, too, have attention-compelling detailing in flounces . . . low godets . . . pleats that ripple into fullness from the knee . . . and the sudden flare at the hem that stems from long-lined, chemise-type dresses.

But after-five the "hem look" becomes most exciting. Classic-looking yet elegant styles in rich fabrics are starkly simple. The sudden, startling point of interest in many of these are on the hem, in fur bands or ostrich on glamorous sheers like chiffons, or glittered accents on sheer, sheer wools; in crepe that takes on loops of its own fabric to give grace to the hem while wool and silk are very often seductively fringed.

Equally interesting and colorful hemline interest is gained by stripes, plaids and contrasting color worked on the diagonal on hem borders or flounces. So whether it's flirtatious swing of fringe, the drama of tone on tone or color with color, or fur, feathers and glitter, the fuller, fancier hemlines of fall fashion give every woman the look of grace—whether she's sitting, walking or dancing.

MISS ASHLEY ELLEN JOHNSON

Ashley Johnson Engaged To Wed Carson Pridgen

Announcement is made by the Rev. and Mrs. Everette A. Johnson of Bossier City, formerly of Monroe, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ashley Ellen Johnson to Carson Pridgen. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Pridgen of Natchitoches.

Miss Johnson is the granddaughter of Mrs. Noel R. Henderson of Monroe and James Roy Millis of Minden, and is the great granddaughter of Mrs. Blanche Crews of Monroe and the late Frank Crews.

The bride - elect attended Ouachita Parish High School and was graduated from North Caddo High in Vivian. Mrs. Pridgen graduated from Natchitoches High School. Both attended Northwestern State College.

The wedding, is planned to be an event of December 29.

Patou Believes In Seeing Both Hairdo And Hat

PARIS (AP) — Half a hat is far better than one, believes designer Jean Patou.

You can have a whole chapeau to begin with, he claims, as long as you fold in in half, leaving part of the hair uncovered.

The hats this year are like chignons, leaving the front of the head uncovered. Even larger hats are worn well back with the brims framing the face and fitting close to the nape of the neck.

For sportswear Patou designed head - hugging bandeaux with attached hood scarves that fall to the shoulders and knot under the chin. A beret is worn at the very back of the head and tied in front. Larger hats have turned up visors or rippled brims.

Scarves Wrap High

Former West Monroe Man Wed At LSU

The chapel of the Baptist Student Center on the LSU campus was scene of the wedding Saturday, September 9 at 11 a.m. which united in marriage Miss Sharon Lynn Landry and Bruce Bennett Humphries Jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Joseph Landry of Baton Rouge and Mr. Humphries is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce B. Humphries Sr., Baton Rouge, formerly of West Monroe.

Rev. Melvin A. Bradley performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white gladioli, palms and lighted tapers. Miss Nell Hammett, organist and Mark A. Tullos, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace, styled with basque bodice long fitted sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of lily of the valley.

Miss Sandra Gayle Landry, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Linda Auter and Miss Jane Bradley. They wore identical gowns of orchid silk organza over satin, with boat necklines, scalloped sleeves and flowing skirts. Their headdresses were tiny pale orchid crowns encrusted with tear drop pearls. Miss Susan Kaye Landry and Miss Shelley Marie Landry, sisters of the bride, were flower girls.

Mr. Humphries attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Thomas Hinton III and Jimmy Kees. They also served with Calvin Bartlett as ushers. Candles were lighted by Myron Keith Landry and Miss Alice Bradley.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Landry chose a dress of beige lace with a green taffeta overskirt, matching accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Humphries, wore a gown of gray lace over pink taffeta, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the lounge of the center. The bride's table, covered in white net over a white satin cloth, was adorned with tiny white satin bows and held a central arrangement of white gladioli and orchid asters. The tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and cake squares and punch were in identical shade of the bridesmaids' gowns.

For a wedding trip to Florida the bride was wearing a green suit with black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return they will be at home at 267 Lovers Lane. The bride was graduated from Istrouma high school and Mr. Humphries graduated from West Monroe high school and is now attending LSU, where he is a member of Phi Mu Alph Sinfonia. He is also director of music at First Baptist Church, Port Allen.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Kees, New Orleans; Mrs. Audie Hinton and son, Thomas Hinton III, Olla; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kees, Natchitoches and Mrs. G. A. Oden of West Monroe, all relatives of the groom.

Nu Phi Mu Rush Party Set September 28

Plans for a rush party were discussed by members of Phi Upsilon Chapter of Nu Phi Mu sorority when they met Monday, September 18 at St. Paschal's school with the sponsor, Mrs. Roy Gray, presiding.

A pedal pusher party was planned to entertain rushees Thursday night, September 28.

During the business session reports of committees were given and a report of the executive board meeting held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Gray.

The cultural program on "Hair Styles and Care of the Hair," was presented by Miss Martha Kemp, following which the hostess, Mrs. Carolyn French served refreshments. Those present were Misses Phenita Blake, Linda Broomfield, Jessie Conville, Jeanette Holdeman, Martha Kemp, Anita Smith, Frances Yeldell and Mrs. Gray.

Arranger Gives Program For Welcome Garden Club

Dr. John A. Wright, nationally accredited flower show judge and a Flower Show School instructor, was guest speaker for the Welcome Garden Club at its first meeting of the new club year. The initial meeting was held in the Louis Locke Room of the Ouachita Parish Library Monday afternoon, September 11.

Mrs. V. S. Garnett, president, opened the meeting and welcomed the members and guests.

Mrs. W. E. Kramer, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, who used a mass of fall colors in creating 12 or more arrangements. Dr. Wright discussed mechanics, pointing out the various methods of anchoring material in a container, listing the needle point holder as his favorite. The arranger - instructor stated that most arrangements are line mass, with emphasis on line.

Outstanding arrangement he designed was a palm spathe container on a bamboo mat. A unique design used a chartreuse gourd for large round form with foliage of yellow and green eunonymous and small blending gourds and for height a pepper stalk showing red and green peppers. Another design was a vertical arrangement in a tall copper pitcher using bronze and rose dahlias, plum celosia with a touch of red barberry foliage and the unusual seed pod of the flowering magnolia (Soulangana) curving over the side of the container.

His church arrangement created interest among all the club members. He used a 16-inch white urn in pottery with handles on each side and in the background he placed green aspidistra leaves with green eunonymous, white gladioli, tuberoses, large white chrysanthemums with smaller white mums completing the mass arrangement.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. W. R. Laing, Mrs. Robert Cowden, Mrs. W. G. Clark, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. J. Howard Carroll and Mrs. R. M. Kettenring.

Members and guests present for the lecture - demonstration included Mrs. J. C. Anders, Mrs. R. W. Bandy, Mrs. William G. Bartlett, Mrs. Luther Branch, Mrs. Lela K. Breard, Mrs. J. Howard Carroll, Mrs. Charles Chisholm, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Mrs. Robert Cowden, Mrs. Mabel Ford, Mrs. Bert E. Gambrell, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mrs. W. B. Questions And Answers On Interior Decorating

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: My kitchen cabinets are natural and counters, table and chairs are pearl gray. The floor is block linoleum in kelly green and white. I have previously painted the room yellow, then pink and am ready for a change. Can you suggest another color? What color curtains?

A: For a spacious, cool look you might use very soft blue-green with white curtains. A light honey color with curtains in lime green cotton print on white would be quite pretty, or you could choose a multi - color print with some green and use this against pale gray walls.

Q: I would like to increase the apparent size of my bedroom with new wall color, draperies. French Provincial twin beds have rose-grey faille spreads with dust ruffle in print of muted salmon, blue and green. Lamps and mirror frame are white. What color for walls and draperies? What color for a boudoir chair?

A: Walls in a pale tint of the rose-grey would be subtle and very pretty. Draperies might be oyster white or pure white cotton damask. If these run across the wall, full length, they will give your room a luxurious and spacious look. Clear cerulean blue would be a beautiful addition. Have boudoir chair and perhaps throw pillows in this shade.

Candlelight Vows Unite Sue Briggs, Mr. Williams

In a candlelight ceremony performed Friday, September 22 in College Place Baptist Church, Miss Sue Ellen Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Houston Briggs of Monroe, became the bride of Jack Allan Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Renford Williams of Tendal. Rev. T. Earl Ogg performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m.

Two baskets of white gladioli and greenery at either end of a pyramid of tapers in branched candelabra and flanked by two spiral candelabra, formed a background for the exchange of vows.

Traditional wedding selections were played by the organist, Miss Betty Pope, who also accompanied Michael DeShong as he sang "O Perfect Love," and "Wedding Prayer." During the lighting of the candles Miss Pope played "Calm is the Night."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of white lace, with scalloped hem and neckline, embellished with seed pearls and sequins. The basque bodice featured long sleeves which tapered to points over her hands and her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid with stephanotis atop a Bible.

Miss Sandra Kay Johnson of Fairbanks, who served as maid of honor, wore a blue satin gown in afternoon length, styled with basque bodice, scalloped neckline, sweetheart sleeve and pleated skirt. She wore matching slippers and a bandeau of blue satin, topped with a flat bow. Her bouquet was a nosegay of small white chrysanthemums.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Ruth Williams, sister of the bridegroom, and candlelighters, Miss Phyllis Kulcke and Miss Ila Kay Guraedy, wore dresses of light blue brocade, fashioned identically to the maid of honor's. They also wore blue slippers and bandeaux of brocade. The candlelighters wore wrist corsages of white carnations and the junior bridesmaid carried a nosegay of white mums.

Mr. Williams attended his son as best man and ushers were John Dennis of Lakeview, Ark., Don Cheek of Winnsboro; Tolbert Williams of Tallulah and Charles McCullen of Monroe.

Mrs. Briggs chose for her daughter's wedding a toast lace sheath, styled with sweetheart neckline and brief sleeves, with matching shoes and tiny hat of toast velvet petals. Her corsage was of bronze chrysanthemums. Mrs. Williams, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of deep purple crepe with three-quarter sleeves and roll collar forming ties in front. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

A reception was held in the church social hall following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered in blue with a floor length skirt of white net, garlanded with greenery. Centerpiece was of white carnations and German statice. Miss Jean Williams, sister of the bridegroom, served the and Mrs. Charles McCullen presided at the punch bowl. The bride's book placed on a table decorated similar to the reception table, with a single white candle in a silver holder, was presided over by Miss Betty Thomas.

The couple will reside in Monroe and will continue studies at Northeast Louisiana State College. Mrs. Williams, a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority at Northeast. A senior at Northeast, Mr. Williams graduated from Tallulah high school.

Hemlines Focal Point

Whether they're going up or going down, in every season of fashion, hemlines make news. However this fall, hemlines make real headlines—not in how high or how short—but by their design, detail and motion.

There's a particular fanfare for hems in both daytime and late day fashions. In afternoon costumes, there's lots of interest in the shape of the hem.

Dresses and coats, and some suit skirts, too, have attention-compelling detailing in flounces . . . low godets . . . pleats that ripple into fullness from the knee . . . and the sudden flare at the hem that stems from long-lined, chemise-type dresses.

But after-five the "hem look" becomes most exciting. Classic-looking yet elegant styles in rich fabrics are starkly simple. The sudden, startling point of interest in many of these are on the hem: in fur bands or ostrich on glamorous sheers like chiffons; or glittered accents on sheer, sheer wools; in crepe that takes on loops of its own fabric to give grace to the hem while wool and silk are very often seductively fringed.

Equally interesting and colorful hemline interest is gained by stripes, plaids and contrasting color worked on the diagonal on hem borders or flounces. So whether it's flirtatious swing of fringe, the drama of tone on tone or color with color, or fur, feathers and glitter, the fuller, fancier hemlines of fall fashion give every woman the look of grace—whether she's sitting, walking or dancing.

Patou Believes In Seeing Both Hairdo And Hat

PARIS (AP) — Half a hat is far better than one, believes designer Jean Patou.

You can have a whole chapeau to begin with, he claims, as long as you fold in in half, leaving part of the hair uncovered .

The hats this year are like chignons, leaving the front of the head uncovered. Even larger hats are worn well back with the brims framing the face and fitting close to the nape of the neck.

For sportswear Patou designed head - hugging bandeaux with attached hood scarves that fall to the shoulders and knot under the chin. A beret is worn at the very back of the head and tied in front. Larger hats have turned up visors or rippled brims.

Scarves Wrap High

Former West Monroe Man Wed At LSU

The chapel of the Baptist Student Center on the LSU campus was scene of the wedding Saturday, September 9 at 11 a.m. which united in marriage Miss Sharon Lynn Landry and Bruce Bennett Humphries Jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Joseph Landry of Baton Rouge and Mr. Humphries is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce B. Humphries Sr., Baton Rouge, formerly of West Monroe.

Rev. Melvin A. Bradley performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white gladioli, palms and lighted tapers. Miss Nell Hammett, organist and Mark A. Tullos, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace, styled with basque bodice long fitted sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of lily of the valley.

Miss Sandra Gayle Landry, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Linda Auter and Miss Jane Bradley. They wore identical gowns of orchid silk organza over satin, with boat necklines, scalloped sleeves and flowing skirts. Their headdresses were tiny pale orchid crowns encrusted with tear drop pearls. Miss Susan Kaye Landry and Miss Shelley Marie Landry, sisters of the bride, were flower girls.

Mr. Humphries attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Thomas Hinton III and Jimmy Kees. They also served with Calvin Bartlett as ushers. Candles were lighted by Myron Keith Landry and Miss Alice Bradley.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Landry chose a dress of beige lace with a green taffeta overskirt, matching accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Humphries, wore a gown of gray lace over pink taffeta, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the lounge of the center. The bride's table, covered in white net over a white satin cloth, was adorned with tiny white satin bows and held a central arrangement of white gladioli and orchid asters. The tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and cake squares and punch were in identical shade of the bridesmaids' gowns.

For a wedding trip to Florida the bride was wearing a green suit with black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return they will be at home at 267 Lovers Lane. The bride was graduated from Istrouma high school and Mr. Humphries graduated from West Monroe high school and is now attending LSU, where he is a member of Phi Mu Alph Sinfonia. He is also director of music at First Baptist Church, Port Allen.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Kees, New Orleans; Mrs. Audie Hinton and son, Thomas Hinton III, Olla; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kees, Natchitoches and Mrs. G. A. Oden of West Monroe, all relatives of the groom.

Arranger Gives Program For Welcome Garden Club

Dr. John A. Wright, nationally accredited flower show judge and a Flower Show School instructor, was guest speaker for the Welcome Garden Club at its first meeting of the new club year. The initial meeting was held in the Louis Locke Room of the Ouachita Parish Library Monday afternoon, September 11.

Mrs. V. S. Garnett, president, opened the meeting and welcomed the members and guests.

Mrs. W. E. Kramer, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, who used a mass of fall colors in creating 12 or more arrangements. Dr. Wright discussed mechanics, pointing out the various methods of anchoring material in a container, listing the needle point holder as his favorite. The arranger - instructor stated that most arrangements are line mass, with emphasis on line.

Outstanding arrangement he designed was a palm spothe container on a bamboo mat. A unique design used a chartreuse gourd for large round form with foliage of yellow and green eunonymous and small blending gourds and for height a pepper stalk showing red and green peppers. Another design was a vertical arrangement in a tall copper pitcher using bronze and rose dahlias, plum celosia with a touch of red barberry foliage and the unusual seed pod of the flowering magnolia (Soulangana) curving over the side of the container.

His church arrangement created interest among all the club members. He used a 16-inch white urn in pottery with handles on each side and in the background he placed green aspidistra leaves with green eunonymous, white gladioli, tuberoses, large white chrysanthemums with smaller white mums completing the mass arrangement.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. W. R. Laing, Mrs. Robert Cowden, Mrs. W. G. Clark, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. J. Howard Carroll and Mrs. R. M. Kettenring.

Members and guests present for the lecture - demonstration incleded Mrs. J. C. Anders, Mrs. R. W. Bandy, Mrs. William G. Bartlett, Mrs. Luther Branch, Mrs. Lela K. Breard, Mrs. J. Howard Carroll, Mrs. Charles Chisholm, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Mrs. Robert Cowden, Mrs. Mabel Ford, Mrs. Bert E. Gambrell, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mrs. W. B. Haab, Mrs. Cotham Haddad, Mrs. Oscar Harrell, Mrs. W. G. Haynes Sr., Mrs. Harry Hipp, Mrs. Ed Hislop Jr.

Artist Claims Beauty Contests Have Bad Effect

NEW YORK (AP) — Mothers should think twice — three or four times — before [illegible] pretty daughters to enter beauty contests.

So believes an internationally known artist, Joseph J. Myers. She has helped select 126 Miss Somethings.

[illegible] beauty contests are [illegible] modern Cinderella [illegible] made of Myers and [illegible] Boy [illegible] sponsoring [illegible] on good marriage matches.

[illegible] has also created [illegible] beauty of Marilyn [illegible] Kim Novak, and not quite so beautiful prime Minister Lawrence Welk and Admiral W. [illegible] Halsey in oils is also convinced that ugly nothing sit parades have these adverse effects.

Body [illegible] shop [illegible] encourages young girls to dress in [illegible] to emulate [illegible] figures.

[illegible] are [illegible] so designed for their wearers [illegible] appearance.

[illegible] and [illegible] often become fascinated by [illegible] of make-believe [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible].

Being [illegible] queen often [illegible] glorious and shallow personalities [illegible] of their [illegible] beauty to eradicate any mental [illegible] comes.

Resultant cheesecake publicity [illegible] are appalled to [illegible] more of the unhealthy same.

Why then does Myers continue to judge beauty contests? A real one, in his eyes, is one who [illegible] remains sweet, naturally fresh [illegible] forces. Standing in pots, with [illegible] soil [illegible] and [illegible] looking amazingly wholesome despite the attitudes [illegible] of other entrants, most [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] as other audience — or even against the wall forming an interesting [illegible].

Marilyn Hall, Fiance Plan October Vows

Mr and Mrs. Edwin Hall of Swartz, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marilyn Joyce, to Jerald Louis Ketchens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ketchens of West Monroe.

The wedding will take place Saturday, October 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist church in Swartz.

Mr. Ketchens is a graduate of West Monroe high school and is locally employed. Miss Hall is attending Ouachita Parish high school.

Home Entrance Is Transformed By Accessories

A promise of things to come—pleasant moments to be savored and comfort to be enjoyed — should be implicit in the entrance to your home. All too often, however, the small foyer is forgotten in the general decorating scheme making it a source of embarrassment when guests arrive.

Actually, this small area requires only a few carefully chosen accessories to make it attractive and inviting. Coordinated wall groupings, for example, of mirror and sconces or a pair of pictures and that may be needed to transform its appearance.

Harry Eaton designer, suggests baroque accessories for the foyer as being highly decorative and suitable to any decor. One grouping, especially favored is the goods ized rectangular mirror framed in metalgold, deeply carved with stylized scrolls and flanked by a pair of sconces carved in the same scroll motif. Hung on a small wall, or in a recessed niche, these three pieces are elegant in styling and rich in detail — created a mood for the entire house.

Greenery indoors, is always attractive and does a touch of color as well. In the baroque [illegible] are wall planters [illegible] containers to hold real [illegible] leaves or flowers. A pair of these planters hung on either side of the door would be particularly charming.

Nature has been [illegible] with [illegible] and does a [illegible] every place that [illegible] has been beautifully executed [illegible] the scent [illegible] blossoms. In a foyer, where space is limited, a handful of posies in a hanging planter is a gay note and a wonderful way to carry through color accents.

Other highly decorative accessories that require little space are [illegible] [illegible] and orange remains sweet, naturally fresh [illegible] trees. Standing in pots, with [illegible] soil [illegible] and [illegible] looking amazingly wholesome despite the attitudes [illegible] of other entrants, most [illegible] [illegible] as other audience — or even against the wall forming an interesting [illegible].

Chief Tusquahoma DAR Has Talk On Constitution

Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its first meeting of the year Saturday, September 16, at Highland Park Country Club.

Mrs Herman M. McGuire, regent, presided and introduced and welcomed Mrs. H. C. Mize, Mrs. D. W. Rhodes, Sr., Mrs. Mattie Stewart, Mrs. Jennette Mahaffey and Mrs. Faye Piner Heard as new members.

Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Helen LeFevre, history teacher from West Monroe high school, who gave a talk on "The Constitution." Her speech centered around recent Supreme Court interpretations of the Constitution. In observance of Constitution Week — September 17-23, the National Defense Chairman, Mrs. Louis I. Craig, gave an outline of the chapter's activities during the observance.

Mrs. J. E. Dupuy, Jr., read the President General's message, and urged members to display the flag during Constitution Week.

A brief talk was given by Mrs. McGuire, on the Continental Congress held in Washington, D. C. last April, which she attended.

During the business session, members were urged to subscribe to the D.A.R. Magazine and to the Motion Picture Revue. The Chapter voted to place a Revue in the West Monroe High School and the West Monroe Library. During the summer, the chapter had placed two books in the local library. In June, two boxes of used clothing totalling 265 lbs. were sent to the Tamassee DAR School in Tamassee, S. C.

Members were urged to attend the third district D.A.R. meeting to be held at the Ouachita Parish Public Library on Thursday, September 28, with the Fort Miro Chapter as hostess, also to attend the dedication of the Fort Miro marker which will take place on that date at 3:00 p.m.

Mrs. J. Metris Bell, Sr. was appointed chairman of the chapter Arsenal Committee to function under direction of the recently inaugurated state committee for restoration and preservation of the old Arsenal at Baton Rouge. Mrs. Bell asked for old relics to place in the museum or contributions of money for same.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the members were invited into the private dining room of the club for a salad course.

Hostesses for the meeting were Miss Katherine Averett, Mrs. Warren McGee, Miss Mary Louise Ellis, Mrs. Francis Ortis, Mrs. J. E. Dupuy, Jr. and Mrs. E. G. Davidson. Guests included Mrs. Helen LeFevre, Mrs. Fred Riser, Mrs. T. A. Brown, Mrs. Fred Brownlee. Members present were Mrs. H. M. McGuire, Miss Katie McGee, Mrs. J. C. Steele, Jr., Mrs. J. C. Stewart, Mrs. Gordie L. Roy, Mrs. James L. McGuire, Mrs. H. Clifton Mize, Mrs. Louis I. Craig, Mrs. Edward Koserog, Mrs. J. Otto Miller, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt, Mrs. Mattie Stewart, Mrs. Jennette Mahaffey, Mrs. Jeff W. Caldwell, Mrs. H. C. Ervin, Mrs. D. W. Rhodes, Sr., Mrs. C.G. Wall, Jr., Mrs. Henry Hamilton, Mrs. Jack Willis, Mrs. J. B. Artist Claims Beauty Contests Have Bad Effect

NEW YORK (AP) — Mothers should think twice — three or four times really — before encouraging pretty daughters to enter beauty contests.

So believes an internationally known artist, John J. Myers, who has helped select 126 "Miss Something-or-others" in the past dozen years.

Certainly beauty contests are the stuff modern Cinderella dreams are made of, Myers admits. They are often springboards to movie, modeling, TV careers, even good marriage matches.

But the man who has captured the voluptuous beauty of Marilyn Monroe, Kim Novak, and not quite so beautiful prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and Admiral William Halsey in oils is also convinced that leggy bathing suit parades have these adverse effects:

—Body measurement worship influences young girls to dress in bad taste in an effort to emphasize their young figures.

— Very young girls become far too sophisticated for their years by imitating older girls who are their competition.

— Some misguided young ladies often develop false values for later living by trying to win favor of male judges with coquetry, or suggestive behavior.

— Being crowned queen often turns some innocents into vainglorious and shallow personalities, too worshipful of their outer beauty to cultivate any mental attractiveness.

— Resultant cheesecake publicity unleashes an appetite for more of the unhealthy same.

Why then does Myers continue to judge beauty contests? A real beauty in his eyes is one who remains sweet, naturally fresh, poised (but not sophisticated) and wholesome despite the attitudes of other entrants, pushy parents, an eager audience — or even judges.

Marilyn Hall, Fiance Plan October Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hall of Swartz, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marilyn Joyce, to Jerald Louis Ketchens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ketchens of West Monroe.

The wedding will take place Saturday, October 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist church in Swartz.

Mr. Ketchens is a graduate of West Monroe high school and is locally employed. Miss Hall is attending Ouachita Parish high school.

Home Entrance Is Transformed By Accessories

A promise of things to come—pleasant moments to be savored and comfort to be enjoyed — should be implicit in the entrance to your home. All too often, however, the small foyer is forgotten in the general decorating scheme, making it a source of embarrassment when guests arrive.

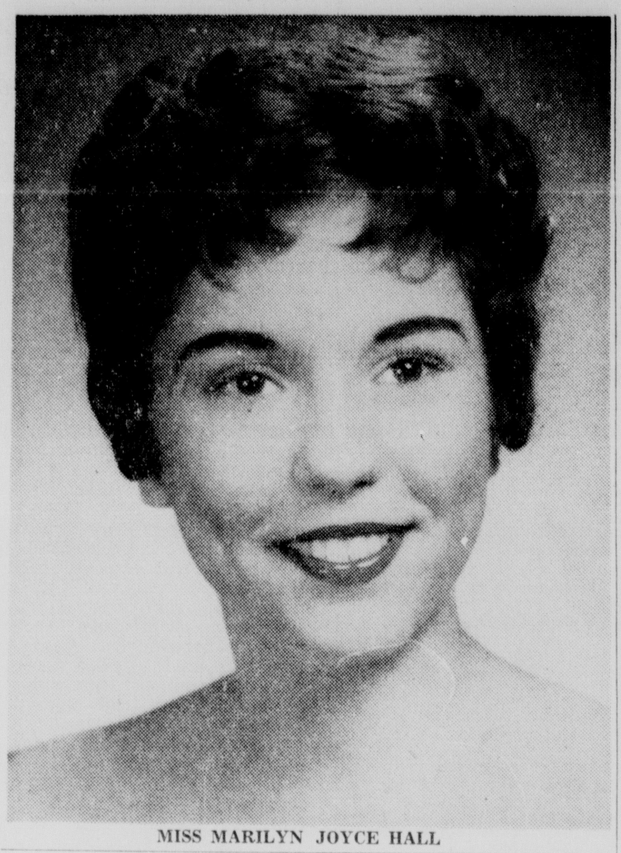
Actually, this small area requires only a few carefully chosen accessories to make it attractive and inviting. Coordinated wall groupings, for example, of mirror and sconces or a pair of planters is all that may be needed to transform its appearance.

Harry Laylon, designer, suggests baroque accessories for these areas as being highly decorative and suitable to any decor. One grouping, especially favored is the good-sized rectangular mirror framed in metalgold, deeply carved with stylized scrolls and flanked by a pair of sconces carved in the same scroll motif. Hung on a small wall, or in a recessed niche, these three pieces —elegant in styling and rich in detail — created a mood for the entire house.

Greenery, indoors, is always attractive and provides a touch of color as well. In the baroque manner, there are wall planters with brass containers to hold real or artificial leaves or flowers. A pair of these planters hung on either side of the door would be particularly charming.

Nature has been "improved upon" in the new artificial leaves and flowers. Virtually every plant that grows has been beautifully recreated — only the scent is missing. In a foyer, where space is limited, a handful of posies in a hanging planter is a gay note and a wonderful way to carry through color accents.

Other highly decorative accessories that require little space are espaliered lemon and orange trees. Standing in pots, with fruit and leaves looking amazingly real, though made of painted metal, the lovely branches spread out against the wall forming an interesting pattern.



MISS MARILYN JOYCE HALL

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Scott of Winnsboro, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Carolyn Scott to Charles Ashley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ashley of Baskin. The wedding will be an event of October 13 at 7 p.m. in the home of the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. Clara Scott at Winnsboro.

Miss Danna, Mr. Williams Plan November Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Richard Danna, 118 Glenmar Avenue, announce today the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Louise, to Wade Marshall Williams of Memphis, Tennessee, formerly of West Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Albert Casey of New Orleans and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Brossett of West Monroe, with whom he formerly made his home.

The wedding will be solemnized at 10 a.m. November 4 in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic church of Monroe. Father Richard Fale of St. Matthews Catholic Church, will perform the ceremony.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Miss Theresa Anne Danna, to serve as maid of honor, and her aunt, Mrs. Kenneth Bartlett, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Faye Parker, Miss Maria Varino, Miss Eliza Ford and Mrs. Leon Leslie.

Robert E. Williams, brother of the prospective bridegroom, will serve as best man and groomsmen will include Leon Leslie, J. D. Cascio Jr., Ray Vineyard, A. C. Liles Jr. and John Hanna.

Miss Danna is the granddaughter of Mrs. Anna F. Danna and the late Tony Danna, and of Mrs. Mary F. Danna and the late Sam B. Danna, all of Monroe. She is a graduate of Neville high school and received her B.S. degree in Business education from Northeast Louisiana State College. Her social sorority is Phi Mu.

A graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, Mr. Williams attended Northeast Louisiana State College and is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

The couple will make their home in Memphis, Tennessee, where Mr. Williams is employed as sales representative for a local firm.

Mitchell PTA Has Speaker

Monthly meeting of W. R. Mitchell P-TA was held Wednesday, September 13 in the school cafeteria with Mrs. W. W. Hinson, president, in charge.

Committee chairmen for the year were introduced by Mrs. Hinson and teachers received recognition.

Wood Sers, guest speaker, gave a talk on "Relationship Between Parent and Teacher." He stressed a need for closer relationship between the home and school with parents taking their problems to the teacher for discussion. In conclusion he stated the school and P-TA group is like a partnership. Children, he said get their strongest impressions at home and school.

Room count was won by Mrs. Willis' third grade.

McGuire HDC Fetes Guests, New Member

Mrs. Charles Gorman was welcomed as a new member of McGuire Home Demonstration club when it met September 14 in the home of Mrs. Marty Dray in West Monroe.

Special guests for the morning meeting were Mrs. Ernest Grubbs and Mrs. Bobbie McKoin.

THE HOME SHIFT

Lawn Trim Duty Lighter

By MILDRED SWIFT

There's a feeling of fall and with it a feeling of relief that the lawn will not need to be mowed so often. The mower blades can be raised, now, from one-half to one inch higher than for summer mowing.

FALL JOBS

Some bulbs to plant now are calla, Louisiana iris, snowflakes, daylily, Easter lily, hyacinth, scilla (like acid soil) crocus, daffodils, jonquil, narcissus, madonna and regal lilies, anemones.

Several weeks ago I mentioned that many people were very successful with bluebonnets. If you've seen these growing in Texas, you'll probably plant some in your own garden. Soak the seed overnight before planting, as they have a very hard coating.

Unless you're going to plant these very soon, forget bluebonnets. This plant likes alkaline soil and most of ours is acid. However, they will live and bloom unless the acidity is very high. Lime will sweeten the soil but I hesitate to tell you to use this unless your soil is first tested and you find the amount to use.

Since the bulbs of the pink and yellow lycoris come to market, here, only at this time of year, we naturally plant them at this time. These are in the seed stores now.

IN CONTAINERS

Don't forget to bring some coleus in and put it in containers in water. This is very lovely in the house all winter, then you'll have plants for the yard again next spring.

Time to plant your early blooming sweet peas, now. They should bloom for you in mid-winter, especially if the weather is mild or you plant in a protected spot.

Callas are going through a rest period now. This is an ideal time to dig up, divide and replant. They need good drainage, lots of humus and plenty of water. Just a few plants will produce many of the white exotic blossoms.

When mentioning bold foliage plants last week, I forgot the centurn plant. They need plenty of room, light, air and almost full sun. You'll have your choice of the green and yellow or the gray. These plants multiply rapidly so you can divide with your neighbor. They send out little ones from the roots, so there's no need to disturb the parent plant when sharing with a friend.

CRINUMS

The milk and wine crinums have been blooming. My, they give you lots for a little labor. If you have a large property you'll want some of these. Any gardener who has grown this lily for a few years will now have an overflow. They can be divided after they bloom. New bulbs of the fine varieties come to our stores in late winter so you'll plant these when you can get them.

The flowers of the crinums for the most part are summer bloomers. As a rule, they don't bloom the first year. The older the clumps get, the better they bloom.

Crinums need full sun or filtered shade. They are planted very shallow since they are in the amaryllis family. That means the neck of the bulb is exposed when planted.

Work some bone meal and sand in the soil before planting. Sand helps with the drainage.

CARE

Crinums will respond to complete fertilizer. Apply this just when the scapes start coming up. This is not necessary, but the plants bloom more often with this additoinal food. If your plants are established and growing, give them a good feeding with 8-8-8 now or in early spring.

This plant has few diseases but is bothered by snails.

FOR CUTTING

Crinums are nice for cutting. There are two ways to arrange them — with a short stem which is stuck on a needle holder. When cut with long stems they are lovely in colored bottles that pick up the color of the stamen of the flowers.

MORE JOBS

Watch the caladium bulbs, or rather watch for frosts. You want to dig them before the heavy frosts come. Dig with a fork so as not to cut any of the fleshy bulb. Let the tops die, then store in a dry place where they won't freeze.

After clematis has finished blooming, prune the vine if it needs cutting back. The old fashioned white one will need pruning after a few years. You can cut the vine back to the root, or best cut out some of the limbs. Clematis blooms on the current year's growth so there's no danger of missing a year's bloom, if you prune now or in early spring.

Transplant and divide pineapple lily bulbs, watsonia, oxalis, lirope, daylilies, if they need it.

AROUND ABOUT

There's a new look to hair styles for fall and winter, with the touseled hair-do definitely out. American hair stylists returning from Paris say fall coiffures will be designed to go with the new fitted, more molded fashions. These clothes, they explain, call for smaller, more silhouetted coiffures. The new styles all focus attention to the brow. The hair is combed smoothly across the forehead into bangs, for those who can wear them. Height is added to the evening hair styles.

Here's a way to clean brass candlesticks, drawer pulls, or any brass accessory. Soak overnight in a solution of vinegar and salt. Then scrub with a small brush, wash in hot soap or detergent suds, rinse and dry thoroughly.

If your kitchen woodenware (chopping bowl or bread board, and mixing spoons) becomes dark with use, scrub occasionally with well lathered steel wool. Once the wood surface is light again, wash the pieces quickly in warm soap or detergent suds, rinse without soaking, and wipe dry immediately. Woodenware should never be soaked in water. This not only darkens, but often causes warping.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mrs. John J. Parker of Columbia, La. mailed me a white eggplant and some stems of white French mulberry. Both of these we grow here in purple, but neither had I ever seen in white. They are beautiful in flower arrangements. We're saving the seed to plant.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Jean Cloy will give us some tailoring tips; Tuesday, Lola Caldwell, "Cleaning Furniture"; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Welcome Garden Club; Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next week.

New Weapon In War On Mosquitoes

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

There is a new weapon in the never-ending war against mosquitoes.

One of the latest "annoyance preventatives" on the market is a dry insecticide carried by granular vermiculite. This concoction reportedly disrupts the mosquito's feeding system. The pest does not die, but it loses its appetite for biting.

The lightweight vermiculite is covered with an oil derivative and DDT. It may be broadcast by hand or by a seed spreader. It blends in color with the lawn or garden, is not harmful to flowers, soil, plants or animals.

COVERAGE

The manufacturer says a five-pound package will cover about half an acre. He explains that the cells in the vermiculite hold drops of the insecticide and permit evaporation at a uniform rate. Protective coverage is promised for three to five days, depending, of course, on the weather.

The mixture reportedly has been tested commercially by the South Cook County Mosquito Abatement District in Illinois and the Greater Winnepeg Mosquito Abatement District in Canada.

SEVERAL NAMES

Although it has several more common names and many unprintable ones, the Culicoides have had a good year, as far as biting you is concerned. The cool, humid weather of the north-east, especially, has made for good hunting by these bugs, better known as no-seeums, midges or biting gnats.

The tiny insects are especially difficult to spot in the dim light of evening and a spot of blood may be the first warning that you have been nipped. Later, red marks may prove that blood has been drawn and a bit of foreign protein left behind. A rather lengthy reaction awaits allergics.

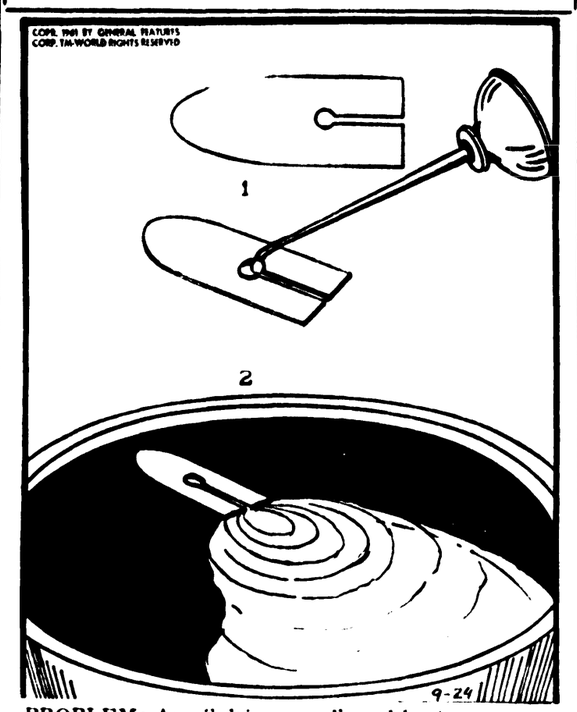
To protect against midges, use the same sprays used to control mosquitoes around dwellings.

Play Based On 'Simone' Book Readied

NEW YORK (AP)—A new play based on Lion Feuchtwanger's novel "Simone" is being readied for Broadway by Ben Hecht. The theme concerns a girl who attempts to rouse her French village against Nazi conquerors in 1940.

Science For You

By BOB BROWN



PROBLEM: An oil-driven cardboard boat.
NEEDED: A pan of still water, a piece of cardboard cut as shown and a drop of oil.
DO THIS: Place the boat on the water. Place a drop of oil carefully in the hole. The boat will move forward.
HERE'S WHY: The oil, which is lighter than the water, floats on the surface. As it runs out the rear opening, the surface tension is reduced but the surface tension at the front is not reduced. The boat moves in the direction of the greater pull.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The experience of adding a new dimension — direct sound — to 8mm home movies is one that I tried recently and the results are quite credible. The actual voices of my family and my mother, in addition to their likenesses, can only prove more valuable as time goes by and changes take place.

Although it is more than a year since its introduction, the Fairchild Cinephonic Eight is still the only 8mm movie camera containing a built-in sound system enabling it to record both sight and sound simultaneously. It makes possible an exciting new home movie library of children's birthday parties, baby's first words, family gatherings, weddings, confirmations, graduations and Christmas celebrations in which the participants are heard as well as seen.

PLAN FOR SOUND

I found that the addition of sound requires a bit more planning and work than shooting movies alone. It also helps if an assistant is available to take care of the microphone and to relay signals from the photographer or to act as an announcer for certain scenes.

The camera, which weighs about 4½ pounds, can be hand held but since all movies are steadier when the camera is firmly anchored and since it gives the hands more freedom to manipulate the volume control, I put it on a tripod. The microphone, with a 15-foot-wire radius, plugs into the camera and is quite sensitive.

The photographer monitors all sound by wearing earphones which also plug into the camera through a two-foot, easily-detachable cord. I discovered the reason for the slip-in, slip-out cord very quickly. During rehearsals, forgetting that earphones were clamped on my head, I'd dart over to adjust the mike or position a subject. If the wire weren't made to come apart easily, I'd have pulled the camera over!

By pressing a button on the camera, the photographer hears the sound and regulates the volume with a thumb-control knob until the level is just right. Then he presses the shooting button for the sound film take.

SHOOT DURING REHEARSAL

I found it takes quite a few rehearsals for people to get over mike fright and to take without giggles or sudden lapses of memory. By assuring them it was only a dry run, they were apt to relax and be more natural. Often, I actually shot during a rehearsal, for I found that subjects tightened up when I announced: "This is the take."

To make editing easier later, it is helpful to shoot a couple of feet of film both before and after the sound begins and ends. That's because the sound is recorded about 52 frames away from the picture itself.

The camera's nickel cadmium battery should be charged the night before a shooting session is scheduled. This is merely a matter of plugging the charger, which comes with the camera outfit, into an electric outlet.

Stamp News

"Hansel and Gretel," the beloved children's story by Grimm, has been translated into nearly every known language in the world. Now scenes from the classic work appear on the latest set of four semi - postal stamps issued by West Germany. Each of the four depicts a different scene from "Hansel and Gretel," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The 7 pfenning plus 3 shows little Hansel and Gretel strolling through the woods after they have been sent on a ruse by their wicked stepmother. Hansel is seen dropping crumbs of bread to help find his way back while a little bird hovers in the background ready to eat the crumbs.

The 10 pfennig plus 5 depicts Hansel and Gretel being invited into the gingerbread house by the evil witch. The 20 pfennig plus 10 pictures Hansel in a cage where he is being fattened. The witch gleefully watches while sad little Gretel looks on helplessly.

The 40 pfennig plus 10 illustrates the happy ending after the witch has been dispatched by the clever children. The relieved father is shown hugging Gretel as Hansel smiles approvingly.

The additional values on this set will go to general charities of West Germany.

The first 1962 edition of the H. E. Harris "U. S. and British North America" catalog is on the market. It has 160 pages and nearly 2,000 illustrations. Featured is a special "Americana" section. United Nations issues complete and the valuable U.S. Stamp Identifier.

The new edition has hundreds of up - to - the minute price changes and its editors claim it is an accurate barometer of the current stamp market.

The catalog costs only 35 cents and can be obtained by writing to H. E. Harris & Co., Boston 17, Mass.

Canada will issue on Oct. 12 a new stamp illustrating the multiple use of Canada's renewable natural resources, reports the Canada Post Office Department in Ottawa. The new stamp will symbolize agriculture, forestry, water power, fisheries and wildlife, linking them all with the wheel of industry.

Liberia has issued two new stamps and a souvenir sheet to commemorate the 15th anniversary of UNESCO. The 25 cents for regular mail is labeled "Education - Science - Culture" and depicts a discussion group. The 25 cents air mail shows a vignette scene of a science class at the University of Liberia. The souvenir sheet, bearing a 50 cents air mail stamp, pictures Liberian students being instructed in physics at the University of Liberia by an instructor from UNESCO.

'Time To Laugh' London Exhibit Gotham Perlude

NEW YORK (AP)—London exhibit of "A Time to Laugh" is scheduled as a prelude to a Broadway production. The play is described by author Robert J. Crean as striking "a delicate balance between comedy and serious content."

Wendy Waring Is Understudy

She succeeds Anita Gillette who won loud cheers from producer David Merrick while filling in recently when Miss Alberghetti was ill. Miss Gillette has a lead role of her own in the new musical "The Gay Life."

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Feeling Of Early Fall In Displays

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The College Heights Garden Club of Monroe, had the flower show last week. The show was presented by Mrs. Morris L. Johnson, president of the club, also, president of the Twin City Garden Club Council.

The club members made seven arrangements and each one had the feeling of early fall. The flowers came from their own gardens and could be considered the long-lasting type of arrangements.

CENTRAL AREA

Three milk and wine lilies placed within the central area of the line formed the focal area. These were accented on either side by rows of lovely deep rose pink pom pom zinnias. Celosia foliage was placed in the back of the lilies to create depth and form a background for the lilies.

The arrangement was placed on the lefthand side of a large black base. To the right of the design a lovely ballerina figurine was placed, accenting the rhythmic feeling of the Hogarth curve. This is indeed a lovely creation and should be used in the living room or formal dining room.

Mrs. Shep Baber made the next arrangement. It was a long-lasting type so satisfying to the arranger. The triangle line was achieved by using the ginger lily foliage. The tallest placement was a rolled leaf, followed by four tiered leaves to the left of the design. The one flower used was the buds of the banana plant.

These were placed within the overall line. Loquat leaves clustered around a larger flower bud formed the center of interest. The design was made in a low green container lined with yellow, a perfect blend with the yellow stamens of thee banana buds. This arrangement would be especially suitable for the den.

FALL ARRANGEMENT

Mrs. Tinora Mullins created a very interesting fall arrangement using a black metal miniature cook stove for her container, which also formed the center of interest of the design.

A diagonal line of bright orange pyracantha berries formed the overall line of the arrangement. Three large orange Japanese persimmons were placed within this line, one on the top of the stove and two on the black base to the left. The large black base added to the effect of the whole black and orange color design and balance. This arrangement would be nice in the panelled wall den.

Mrs. Tolar made a long-lasting arrangement. In fact it had been made up over a week before the show. Two palm spathes formed the vertical line. These were placed in a tall green compote container. A spiralled line of tearose coxcomb celosia was placed to accent the palm spaths.

Dried dock followed this overall spirallying line. To the lower right, new growth of the sassanqua leaves, reddish-brown in color, were placed as filler.

Larger blooms of the celosia formed the focal area. The design was tied into the container by the placement of large green hydrangea leaves. This design would be suitable for the church altar.

ALL FOLIAGE

Mrs. Tolar made another arrangement using all foliage, a green monochromatic. The vertical design was formed by placing five tiered canes cut from the banana plant. The leaf rib (green side showing) was placed within the curve of this hollow cane. These were placed in a boat-shaped dark green container.

The foliage of the pittosporum with the green seed pods was used as a filler around a rosette of wax leafed hydrangea which served as the focal point. This long-lasting arrangement would be suitable almost any place in the home.

Mrs. Johnson made a second arrangement using the red Canna leaves to form a vertical line in a large brown pottery pitcher. Within the line and forming the center of interest she placed lovely white ornamental dahlias. To the right of these she used a massed line of gardenia foliage as a filler. The overall line extended below the edge of the pitcher, thus tying the pitcher in with the vertical line. This is lovely for the modern den or the family room.

SPIDER LILIES

The last arrangement was made by Mrs. Katie Ruth Braley. She used spider lilies to form a vertical line in a low green bowl. For filler around the focal area of massed lilies she placed large magnolia leaves. These extended to the back and placed high to form a background for the lilies and also to achieve depth in the design.

This was a well made design. So often we find that it is hard to arrange the spider lilies. Congratulations to Mrs. Braley for her excellent job. This arrangement would be so lovely in the entrance hall or on almost any table in the home where flowers are needed to brighten the spot.

The horticulture was most unusual for this show. Mrs. John J. Parker of Columbia sent the white egg plant. She said it tasted the same as the common purple egg plant. Also, Mrs. Parker sent sprays of the white French mulberry. This was grown in the Jena area.

School Slated In Landscape Design Work

Louisiana State University and the Louisiana Garden Club Federation will conduct a three - day Landscape Design School on the L.S.U. campus, October 12-14.

The October school is to be one of four in a series to be conducted at six - month intervals. The purpose of the program of Landscape Design of the National Council of State Garden Clubs from its beginning in 1952 has been to educate Garden Club members and the general public to know good landscape practices and to serve as guardians and critics of outdoor beauty in the U.S.A.

Enlightened individuals are needed to serve as guardians of outdoor beauty and to protect the interests of the public in matters where parks, open spaces, super highways and parkways as well as urban renewal are concerned, officials said.

The first course at L.S.U. to be held at Pleasant Hall with feature outstanding personnel in the field of landscape architecture. Instructors for Course I will be Hubert Owens, head, Department of Landscape Architecture, University of Georgia; Bobie T. Chapin, landscape architect, Baton Rouge; and Armand Brunet, assistant professor of landscape architecture, L.S.U.

GATHERINGS

Besides the time allotted for class - room study, there will be informal gatherings where other University personnel will speak on subjects related to landscape architecture and horticulture.

The school is open to the public. Members of the Federated Garden Clubs will be given an assessor's certificate upon the satisfactory completion of the series.

Busy Scenarist Turning Again To Broadway

A drama, "The Umbrella," is to be her first offering. The work, credited to Bertrand Castelli and Raphael Hollander, is to star Geraldine Page and Anthony Franciosa.

Fall Planting Of Perennials

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Many perennial flowers fare better if planted in the fall rather than in the spring. This is especially true of the hollyhock, shasta daisy, oriental poppy, canterbury bell and many others. Be sure to plant them in September or October. You may plant many annuals flower seed this month such as larspur, phlox, drummond, and cornflower.

If your verbena has quit blooming, cut back heavily, fertilize and water well. This will result in beautiful fall blooms.

Plant a few Dutch Iris bulbs now for spring cut flowers. They will bloom soon after the earliest blooming daffodils and along with some of the later varieties.

To keep crape myrtles blooming longer clip off the old blossoms. If seed matures, the plants have accomplished their purpose in life and their blooming will cease. If your crape myrtle has a grayish appearance from mildew, dust with sulphur.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS

Home Management leaders, remember your training meeting Wednesday, September 27th at 9:30 A.M. at the Agricultural Auditorium. Mrs. Hissong, home management specialist from LSU, will give the instructions.

Another very important meeting for Home Demonstration Club members is the Civil Defense leader training meeting, Thursday, February 28 at 9:30 - 2:00 P.M. Meeting will be at the Agricultural Building. Mrs. Peggy Richards from New Orleans will give the information. It is most important that you come and get the training to give to others in your community. Lunch will be served you.

FARM BUREAU WOMEN

Mrs. Rankin Earle, chairman of Women's Organization of Farm Bureau, asked me to remind you of the monthly meeting tomorrow, Monday, September 25th, at Mrs. T. W. Humphries, 3401 Byers Drive, Monroe, at 9:30 A.M. Members, come and make your organization stronger by taking part.

FOOD FACTS

The average family eats about 50 different kinds of food in a week. That's what the U. S. Department of Agriculture found out when it checked with about 6,000 householders scattered across the country.

Meals for a week included about 10 pounds of vegetables and fruits, 4½ quarts of milk or corresponding amounts of cheese and ice cream, 4 pounds of meat, 7 eggs, one pound of fat, 1½ pounds of sugar and 3 pounds of cereal products for each person in the household. Of the dollar spent for food in 1955, meat, poultry, fish or eggs accounted for 35 cents. Vegetables and fruit accounted for 18 cents, milk and milk products took 14 cents, flour, cereal and baked goods 11 cents, and beverage took a dime. The other 12 cents left in the family food dollar went for a number of miscellaneous products such as fats and oils, sugar and sweets, soups, sauces, relishes and seasonings.

FAIR EXHIBITS

If you plan to exhibit in the parish fair October 9-14, be sure to come by the Agricultural Extension office, 704 Cypress, West Monroe, and get your premium exhibit card. We cannot mail them so come by anytime from 8:00 until 4:30 P.M.

SEWING NEW FABRICS

Laminated fabrics are attracting the attention of buyers. These new fabrics can present a problem if you don't know the answer as laminated fabrics do not drape as other fabrics. The pattern must be simple and the lining should have the same care qualities as the laminated fabric. Our specialist, Miss Fae Roark, suggests that you sew a test sample. Try a large stitch with a medium tension on seams pinned at a right angle to the seams with pins about one inch apart and start sewing slowly, perhaps turning the wheel by hand for the first five or six stitches. If the fabric does not feed evenly, place strips of paper or organdy under and over seam lines. If you use organdy trim it off to about one eighth inch from each side of the seam and it will serve as a reinforcement.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Keep Check On Boxwood

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Keep an eye on your boxwood during the moist hurricane weather of September. The cold winters we have had for several years have left a lot of weakened and dead twigs in boxwood.

Box bushes should be brushed out several times a year, but especially in late summer because blight is harbored in trash and in the half dead wood. Most gardeners have seen whole branches of their boxwood suddenly turn yellow, break out in little yellow excrescenses and die. This is boxwood blight.

CONTROL

To control this pest, spray your bushes with a one to 50 lime sulfur spray. Where blight has occurred in former seasons, be sure to do this regularly, and if you have a formal boxwood garden an annual spray program should be carried out some time after mid-July to protect the plants.

Summer in the southern states is made up of alternate drouths and very wet periods. During the drouth, boxwood often suffers from the ravages of red spider. This damage looks like tiny pin scratchings on the foliage. When the hurricanes come and bring very wet periods, boxwood blight, present in the dead wood from the previous year, breaks out.

In spraying against blight, be sure to use the weak 1-50 lime sulfur — not the full strength solution we use in winter.

FAVORED

In spite of all its ailments in the hotter parts of the south, almost everybody grows some boxwood. In larger gardens and public plantings the different forms of Japanese holly are being used because of its relative freedom from pests. New sizes and shapes and shades of green are constantly being developed from the seeds of this fine textured holly.

While boxwood is native to Europe and to England, the greatest wave of its popularity came to English gardens when William of Orange and Mary Stuart brought it to the gardens of Hampton Court. They planted it in great profusion and edged all their private little gardens with it.

Although Queen Anne, when she came to the throne, had a great deal of it "rooted up" in favor of more turf and gravel because she did not like the odor of boxwood, much of the charm of Hampton Court today derives from the "William III Orangery" side of the palace and the formality left by this garden loving royal pair. Queen Mary knew quite a bit about plants and was especially interested in new ones — so much so that she was said to be "skilled in exoticks."

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice,

"I have some beautiful all wool cashmere of which I want to make a coat. I would like to know what sort of thread to use to top stitch the coat? Also, what kind of thread is best to sew the entire coat?"

Mrs. E. T. R.

Dear Mrs. E. T. R.:

You didn't ask me this, but I am hoping you will remember that you must cut the cashmere in one direction. The nap must run "down," in other words, the same direction as fur.

Top stitching is usually done by hand with silk buttonhole twist. This stitching is called hand-picking. It serves two purposes, it is decorative detail on the plain fabric, and also holds the facing of this soft fabric in place.

You may use mercerized thread to sew any wool fabric. It has the elasticity needed for wool and is very easy to work with.

DART GUIDE

Mrs. Lois Thompson, Belleville, Ill., wins one of my exclusive Tailor Trix pressing boards for this suggestion.

"Dear Eunice,

"I can never get down to serious sewing unless I have a plastic measuring tape hung around my neck. It is indispensable.

"May I make this suggestion to those who find making darts difficult, use your tape as a guide. The presser foot will hold it nicely in place while you sew to the point of the dart."

"Dear Eunice Farmer,

"Is there any way to add width to a straight, one piece skirt? The seam is in the back with a kick pleat."

Mrs. M. O. J.

ADD WIDTH

Dear Mrs. M. O. J.:

This kind of a skirt, which is cut without side seams, is almost impossible to alter once it has been cut.

You must buy a one - piece skirt pattern according to your hip measurement. Before you cut the skirt, measure the pattern from the center front to the center back, double this measurement, and add 2" for ease and you should have your exact hip measurement.

If you wish to add to the hip measurements, you would have to cut through the pattern from the end of the side dart, straight to the bottom of the pattern. Separate the pattern the exact amount you need and make your dart a little deeper at the waistline.

SEWING GLOSSARY

Hand picking: This is a decorative stitch used on plain fabrics and can be any desired distance from the edge. Use a single, waxed, thread of silk buttonhold twist. If you cannot get the buttonhole twist in the exact color you need, use a double waxed mercerized threat.

The stitch is made with a tiny back - stitch, catching in the intertacing, but not going clear through the coat facing where the stitches would show. Don't pull the stitches too tight, and they should be about ¼ inch apart. This stitch is also used when applying zippers by hand.

Please send your questions and suggestions to Sew Simple. Questions of the most general interest will be answered in this column, not personally. I have compiled a booklet of the 20 questions most frequently asked. If you would like to have this booklet send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of Morning World.

THE HOME SHIFT

Lawn Trim Duty Lighter

By MILDRED SWIFT

There's a feeling of fall and with it a feeling of relief that the lawn will not need to be mowed so often. The mower blades can be raised, now, from one-half to one inch higher than for summer mowing.

FALL JOBS

Some bulbs to plant now are calla, Louisiana iris, snowflakes, daylily, Easter lily, hyacinth, scilla (like acid soil) crocus, daffodils, jonquil, narcissus, madonna and regal lilies, anemones.

Several weeks ago I mentioned that many people were very successful with bluebonnets. If you've seen these growing in Texas, you'll probably plant some in your own garden. Soak the seed overnight before planting, as they have a very hard coating.

Unless you're going to plant these very soon, forget bluebonnets. This plant likes alkaline soil and most of ours is acid. However, they will live and bloom unless the acidity is very high. Lime will sweeten the soil but I hesitate to tell you to use this unless your soil is first tested and you find the amount to use.

Since the bulbs of the pink and yellow lycoris come to market, here, only at this time of year, we naturally plant them at this time. These are in the seed stores now.

IN CONTAINERS

Don't forget to bring some coleus in and put it in containers in water. This is very lovely in the house all winter, then you'll have plants for the yard again next spring.

Time to plant your early blooming sweet peas, now. They should bloom for you in mid-winter, especially if the weather is mild or you plant in a protected spot.

Callas are going through a rest period now. This is an ideal time to dig up, divide and replant. They need good drainage, lots of humus and plenty of water. Just a few plants will produce many of the white exotic blossoms.

When mentioning bold foliage plants last week, I forgot the centurn plant. They need plenty of room, light, air and almost full sun. You'll have your choice of the green and yellow or the gray. These plants multiply rapidly so you can divide with your neighbor. They send out little ones from the roots, so there's no need to disturb the parent plant when sharing with a friend.

CRINUMS

The milk and wine crinums have been blooming. My, they give you lots for a little labor. If you have a large property you'll want some of these. Any gardener who has grown this lily for a few years will now have an overflow. They can be divided after they bloom. New bulbs of the fine varieties come to our stores in late winter, so you'll plant these when you can get them.

The flowers of the crinums for the most part are summer bloomers. As a rule, they don't bloom the first year. The older the clumps get, the better they bloom.

Crinums need full sun or filtered shade. They are planted very shallow since they are in the amaryllis family. That means the neck of the bulb is exposed when planted.

Work some bone meal and sand in the soil before planting. Sand helps with the drainage.

CARE

Crinums will respond to complete fertilizer. Apply this just when the scapes start coming up. This is not necessary, but the plants bloom more often with this additoinal food. If your plants are established and growing, give them a good feeding with 8-8-8 now or in early spring.

This plant has few diseases but is bothered by snails.

FOR CUTTING

Crinums are nice for cutting. There are two ways to arrange them — with a short stem which is stuck on a needle holder. When cut with long stems they are lovely in colored bottles that pick up the color of the stamen of the flowers.

MORE JOBS

Watch the caladium bulbs, or rather watch for frosts. You want to dig them before the heavy frosts come. Dig with a fork so as not to cut any of the fleshy bulb. Let the tops die, then store in a dry place where they won't freeze.

After clematis has finished blooming, prune the vine if it needs cutting back. The old fashioned white one will need pruning after a few years. You can cut the vine back to the root, or best cut out some of the limbs. Clematis blooms on the current year's growth so there's no danger of missing a year's bloom, if you prune now or in early spring.

Transplant and divide pineapple lily bulbs, watsonia, oxalis, lirope, daylilies, if they need it.

AROUND ABOUT

There's a new look to hair styles for fall and winter, with the touseled hair-do definitely out. American hair stylists returning from Paris say fall coiffures will be designed to go with the new fitted, more molded fashions. These clothes, they explain, call for smaller, more silhouetted coiffures. The new styles all focus attention to the brow. The hair is combed smoothly across the forehead into bangs, for those who can wear them. Height is added to the evening hair styles.

Here's a way to clean brass candlesticks, drawer pulls, or any brass accessory. Soak overnight in a solution of vinegar and salt. Then scrub with a small brush, wash in hot soap or detergent suds, rinse and dry thoroughly.

If your kitchen woodenware (chopping bowl or bread board, and mixing spoons) becomes dark with use, scrub occasionally with well lathered steel wool. Once the wood surface is light again, wash the pieces quickly in warm soap or detergent suds, rinse without soaking, and wipe dry immediately. Woodenware should never be soaked in water. This not only darkens, but often causes warping.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mrs. John J. Parker of Columbia, La. mailed me a white eggplant and some stems of white French mulberry. Both of these we grow here in purple, but neither had I ever seen in white. They are beautiful in flower arrangements. We're saving the seed to plant.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Jean Cloy will give us some tailoring tips; Tuesday, Lola Caldwell, "Cleaning Furniture"; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Welcome Garden Club; Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next week.

New Weapon In War On Mosquitoes

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

There is a new weapon in the never-ending war against mosquitoes.

One of the latest "annoyance preventatives" on the market is a dry insecticide carried by granular vermiculite. This concoction reportedly disrupts the mosquito's feeding system. The pest does not die, but it loses its appetite for biting.

The lightweight vermiculite is covered with an oil derivative and DDT. It may be broadcast by hand or by a seed spreader. It blends in color with the lawn or garden, is not harmful to flowers, soil, plants or animals.

COVERAGE

The manufacturer says a five-pound package will cover about half an acre. He explains that the cells in the vermiculite hold drops of the insecticide and permit evaporation at a uniform rate. Protective coverage is promised for three to five days, depending, of course, on the weather.

The mixture reportedly has been tested commercially by the South Cook County Mosquito Abatement District in Illinois and the Greater Winnepeg Mosquito Abatement District in Canada.

SEVERAL NAMES

Although it has several more common names and many unprintable ones, the Culicoides have had a good year, as far as biting you is concerned. The cool, humid weather of the north-east, especially, has made for good hunting by these bugs, better known as no-seeums, midges or biting gnats.

The tiny insects are especially difficult to spot in the dim light of evening and a spot of blood may be the first warning that you have been nipped. Later, red marks may prove that blood has been drawn and a bit of foreign protein left behind. A rather lengthy reaction awaits allergics.

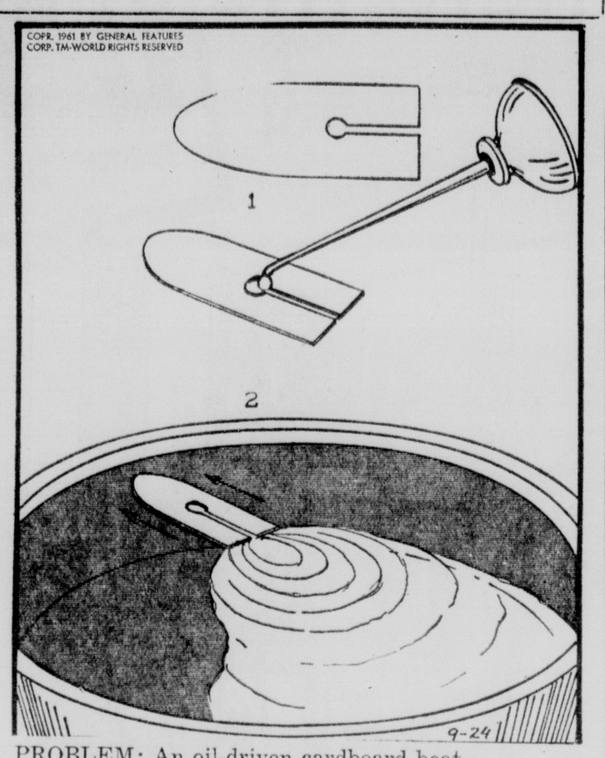
To protect against midges, use the same sprays used to control mosquitoes around dwellings.

Play Based On 'Simone' Book Readied

NEW YORK (AP)—A new play based on Lion Feuchtwanger's novel "Simone" is being readied for Broadway by Ben Hecht. The theme concerns a girl who attempts to rouse her French village against Nazi conquerors in 1940.

Science For You

By BOB BROWN



PROBLEM: An oil-driven cardboard boat.

DO THIS: Place the boat on the water. Place a drop of oil carefully in the hole. The boat will move forward.

HERE'S WHY: The oil, which is lighter than the water, floats on the surface. As it runs out the rear opening, the surface tension is reduced but the surface tension at the front is not reduced. The boat moves in the direction of the greater pull.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The experience of adding a new dimension — direct sound — to 8mm home movies is one that I tried recently and the results are quite credible. The actual voices of my family and my mother, in addition to their likenesses, can only prove more valuable as time goes by and changes take place.

Although it is more than a year since its introduction, the Fairchild Cinephonic Eight is still the only 8mm movie camera containing a built-in sound system enabling it to record both sight and sound simultaneously. It makes possible an exciting new home movie library of children's birthday parties, baby's first words, family gatherings, weddings, confirmations, graduations and Chirstmas celebrations in which the participants are heard as well as seen.

PLAN FOR SOUND

I found that the additon of sound requires a bit more planning and work than shooting movies alone. It also helps if an assistant is available to take care of the microphone and to relay signals from the photographer or to act as an announcer for certain scenes.

The camera, which weighs about 4½ pounds, can be handheld but since all movies are steadier when the camera is firmly anchored and since it gives the hands more freedom to manipulate the volume control, I put it on a tripod. The microphone, with a 15-foot-wire radius, plugs into the camera and is quite sensitive.

The photographer monitors all sound by wearing earphones which also plug into the camera through a two-foot, easily-detachable cord. I discovered the reason for the slip-in, slip-out cord very quickly. During rehearsals, forgetting that earphones were clamped on my head, I'd dart over to adjust the mike or position a subject. If the wire weren't made to come apart easily, I'd have pulled the camera over!

By pressing a button on the camera, the photographer hears the sound and regulates the volume with a thumb-control knob until the level is just right. Then he presses the shooting button for the sound film take.

SHOOT DURING REHEARSAL

I found it takes quite a few rehearsals for people to get over mike fright and to take without giggles or sudden lapses of memory. By assuring them it was only a dry run, they were apt to relax and be more natural. Often, I actually shot during a rehearsal, for I found that subjects tightened up when I announced: "This is the take."

To make editing easier later, it is helpful to shoot a couple of feet of film both before and after the sound begins and ends. That's because the sound is recorded about 52 frames away from the picture itself.

The camera's nickel cadmium battery should be charged the night before a shooting session is scheduled. This is merely a matter of plugging the charger, which comes with the camera outfit, into an electric outlet.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Keep Check On Boxwood

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Keep an eye on your boxwood during the moist hurricane weather of September. The cold winters we have had for several years have left a lot of weakened and dead twigs in boxwood.

Box bushes should be brushed out several times a year, but especially in late summer because blight is harbored in trash and in the half dead wood. Most gardeners have seen whole branches of their boxwood suddenly turn yellow, break out in little yellow excrescenses and die. This is boxwood blight.

CONTROL

To control this pest, spray your bushes with a one to 50 lime sulfur spray. Where blight has occurred in former seasons, be sure to do this regularly, and if you have a formal boxwood garden an annual spray program should be carried out some time after mid-July to protect the plants.

Summer in the southern states is made up of alternate drouths and very wet periods. During the drouth, boxwood often suffers from the ravages of red spider. This damage looks like tiny pin scratchings on the foliage. When the hurricanes come and bring very wet periods, boxwood blight, present in the dead wood from the previous year, breaks out.

In spraying against blight, be sure to use the weak 1-50 lime sulfur — not the full strength solution we use in winter.

FAVORED

In spite of all its ailments in the hotter parts of the south, almost everybody grows some boxwood. In larger gardens and public plantings the different forms of Japanese holly are being used because of its relative freedom from pests. New sizes and shapes and shades of green are constantly being developed from the seeds of this fine textured holly.

While boxwood is native to Europe and to England, the greatest wave of its popularity came to English gardens when William of Orange and Mary Stuart brought it to the gardens of Hampton Court. They planted it in great profusion and edged all their private little gardens with it.

Although Queen Anne, when she came to the throne, had a great deal of it "rooted up" in favor of more turf and gravel because she did not like the odor of boxwood, much of the charm of Hampton Court today derives from the "William III Orangery" side of the palace and the formality left by this garden loving royal pair. Queen Mary knew quite a bit about plants and was especially interested in new ones — so much so that she was said to be "skilled in exoticks."

Stamp News

"Hansel and Gretel," the beloved children's story by Grimm, has been translated into nearly every known language in the world. Now scenes from the classic work appear on the latest set of four semi - postal stamps issued by West Germany. Each of the four depicts a different scene from "Hansel and Gretel," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The 7 pfenning plus 3 shows little Hansel and Gretel strolling through the woods after they have been sent on a ruse by their wicked stepmother. Hansel is seen dropping crumbs of bread to help find his way back while a little bird hovers in the background ready to eat the crumbs.

The 10 pfennig plus 5 depicts Hansel and Gretel being invited into the gingerbread house by the evil witch. The 20 pfennig plus 10 pictures Hansel in a cage where he is being fattened. The witch gleefully watches while sad little Gretel looks on helplessly.

The 40 pfennig plus 10 illustrates the happy ending after the witch has been dispatched by the clever children. The relieved father is shown hugging Gretel as Hansel smiles approvingly.

The additional values on this set will go to general charities of West Germany.

The first 1962 edition of the H. E. Harris "U. S. and British North America" catalog is on the market. It has 160 pages and nearly 2,000 illustrations. Featured is a special "Americana" section, United Nations issues complete and the valuable U.S. Stamp Identifier.

The new edition has hundreds of up - to - the minute price changes and its editors claim it is an accurate barometer of the current stamp market.

The catalog costs only 35 cents and can be obtained by writing to H. E. Harris & Co., Boston 17, Mass.

Canada will issue on Oct. 12 a new stamp illustrating the multiple use of Canada's renewable natural resources, reports the Canada Post Office Department in Ottawa. The new stamp will symbolize agriculture, forestry, water power, fisheries and wildlife, linking them all with the wheel of industry.

Liberia has issued two new stamps and a souvenir sheet to commemorate the 15th anniversary of UNESCO. The 25 cents for regular mail is labeled "Education - Science - Culture" and depicts a discussion group. The 25 cents air mail shows a vignette scene of a science class at the University of Liberia. The souvenir sheet, bearing a 50 cents air mail stamp, pictures Liberian students being instructed in physics at the University of Liberia by an instructor from UNESCO.

'Time To Laugh' London Exhibit Gotham Perlude

NEW YORK (AP)—London exhibit of "A Time to Laugh" is scheduled as a prelude to a Broadway production. The play is described by author Robert J. Crean as striking "a delicate balance between comedy and serious content."

Wendy Waring Is Understudy

She succeeds Anita Gillette who won loud cheers from producer David Merrick while filling in recently when Miss Alberghetti was ill. Miss Gillette has a lead role of her own in the new musical "The Gay Life."

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Feeling Of Early Fall In Displays

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The College Heights Garden Club of Monroe, had the flower show last week. The show was presented by Mrs. Morris L. Johnson, president of the club, also, president of the Twin City Garden Club Council.

The club members made seven arrangements and each one had the feeling of early fall. The flowers came from their own gardens and could be considered the long-lasting type of arrangements.

CENTRAL AREA

Three milk and wine lilies placed within the central area of the line formed the focal area. These were accented on either side by rows of lovely deep rose pink pom pom zinnias. Celosia foliage was placed in the back of the lilies to create depth and form a background for the lilies.

The arrangement was placed on the lefthand side of a large black base. To the right of the design a lovely ballerina figurine was placed, accenting the rhythmic feeling of the Hogarth curve. This is indeed a lovely creation and should be used in the living room or formal dining room.

Mrs. Shep Baber made the next arrangement. It was a long-lasting type so satisfying to the arranger. The triangle line was achieved by using the ginger lily foliage. The tallest placement was a rolled leaf, followed by four tiered leaves to the left of the design. The one flower used was the buds of the banana plant.

These were placed within the overall line. Loquat leaves clustered around a larger flower bud formed the center of interest. The design was made in a low green container lined with yellow, a perfect blend with the yellow stamens of thee banana buds. This arrangement would be especially suitable for the den.

FALL ARRANGEMENT

Mrs. Tinora Mullins created a very interesting fall arrangement using a black metal miniature cook stove for her container, which also formed the center of interest of the design.

A diagonal line of bright orange pyracantha berries formed the overall line of the arrangement. Three large orange Japanese persimmons were placed within this line, one on the top of the stove and two on the black base to the left. The large black base added to the effect of the whole black and orange color design and balance. This arrangement would be nice in the panelled wall den.

Mrs. Tolar made a long-lasting arrangement. In fact it had been made up over a week before the show. Two palm spathes formed the vertical line. These were placed in a tall green compote container. A spiralled line of tearose coxcomb celosia was placed to accent the palm spaths.

Dried dock followed this overall spirallying line. To the lower right, new growth of the sasanqua leaves, reddish-brown in color, were placed as filler.

Larger blooms of the celosia formed the focal area. The design was tied into the container by the placement of large green hydrangea leaves. This design would be suitable for the church altar.

ALL FOLIAGE

Mrs. Tolar made another arrangement using all foliage, a green monochromatic. The vertical design was formed by placing five tiered canes cut from the banana plant. The leaf rib (green side showing) was placed within the curve of this hollow cane. These were placed in a boat-shaped dark green container.

The foliage of the pittosporum with the green seed pods was used as a filler around a rosette of wax leafed hydrangea which served as the focal point. This long-lasting arrangement would be suitable almost any place in the home.

Mrs. Johnson made a second arrangement using the red Canna leaves to form a vertical line in a large brown pottery pitcher. Within the line and forming the center of interest she placed lovely white ornamental dahlias. To the right of these she used a massed line of gardenia foliage as a filler. The overall line extended below the edge of the pitcher, thus tying the pitcher in with the vertical line. This is lovely for the modern den or the family room.

SPIDER LILIES

The last arrangement was made by Mrs. Katie Ruth Braley. She used spider lilies to form a vertical line in a low green bowl. For filler around the focal area of massed lilies she placed large magnolia leaves. These extended to the back and placed high to form a background for the lilies and also to achieve depth in the design.

This was a well made design. So often we find that it is hard to arrange the spider lilies. Congratulations to Mrs. Braley for her excellent job. This arrangement would be so lovely in the entrance hall or on almost any table in the home where flowers are needed to brighten the spot.

The horticulture was most unusual for this show. Mrs. John J. Parker of Columbia sent the white egg plant. She said it tasted the same as the common purple egg plant. Also, Mrs. Parker sent sprays of the white French mulberry. This was grown in the Jena area.

School Slated In Landscape Design Work

Louisiana State University and the Louisiana Garden Club Federation will conduct a three - day Landscape Design School on the L.S.U. campus, October 12-14.

The October school is to be one of four in a series to be conducted at six - month intervals. The purpose of the program of Landscape Design of the National Council of State Garden Clubs from its beginning in 1952 has been to educate Garden Club members and the general public to know good landscape practices and to serve as guardians and critics of outdoor beauty in the U.S.A.

Enlightened individuals are needed to serve as guardians of outdoor beauty and to protect the interests of the public in matters where parks, open spaces, super highways and parkways as well as urban renewal are concerned, officials said.

The first course at L.S.U. to be held at Pleasant Hall with feature outstanding personnel in the field of landscape architecture. Instructors for Course I will be Hubert Owens, head, Department of Landscape Architecture, University of Georgia; Bobie T. Chapin, landscape architect, Baton Rouge; and Armand Brunet, assistant professor of landscape architecture, L.S.U.

GATHERINGS

Besides the time allotted for class - room study, there will be informal gatherings where other University personnel will speak on subjects related to landscape architecture and horticulture.

The school is open to the public. Members of the Federated Garden Clubs will be given an assessor's certificate upon the satisfactory completion of the series.

Busy Scenarist Turning Again To Broadway

A drama, "The Umbrella," is to be her first offering. The work, credited to Bertrand Castelli and Raphael Hollander, is to star Geraldine Page and Anthony Franciosa.

Fall Planting Of Perennials

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Many perennial flowers fare better if planted in the fall rather than in the spring. This is especially true of the hollyhock, shasta daisy, oriental poppy, canterbury bell and many others. Be sure to plant them in September or October. You may plant many annuals flower seed this month such as larspur, phlox, drummond, and cornflower.

If your verbena has quit blooming, cut back heavily, fertilize and water well. This will result in beautiful fall blooms.

Plant a few Dutch Iris bulbs now for spring cut flowers. They will bloom soon after the earliest blooming daffodils and along with some of the later varieties.

To keep crape myrtles blooming longer clip off the old blossoms. If seed matures, the plants have accomplished their purpose in life and their blooming will cease. If your crape myrtle has a grayish appearance from mildew, dust with sulphur.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS

Home Management leaders, remember your training meeting Wednesday, September 27th at 9:30 A.M. at the Agricultural Auditorium. Mrs. Hissong, home management specialist from LSU, will give the instructions.

Another very important meeting for Home Demonstration Club members is the Civil Defense leader training meeting, Thursday, February 28 at 9:30 - 2:00 P.M. Meeting will be at the Agricultural Building. Mrs. Peggy Richards from New Orleans will give the information. It is most important that you come and get the training to give to others in your community. Lunch will be served you.

FARM BUREAU WOMEN

Mrs. Rankin Earle, chairman of Women's Organization of Farm Bureau, asked me to remind you of the monthly meeting tomorrow, Monday, September 25th. at Mrs. T. W. Humphries, 3401 Byers Drive, Monroe, at 9:30 A.M. Members, come and make your organization stronger by taking part.

FOOD FACTS

The average family eats about 50 different kinds of food in a week. That's what the U. S. Department of Agriculture found out when it checked with about 6,000 householders scattered across the country.

Meals for a week included about 10 pounds of vegetables and fruits, 4½ quarts of milk or corresponding amounts of cheese and ice cream, 4 pounds of meat, 7 eggs, one pound of fat, 1½ pounds of sugar and 3 pounds of cereal products for each person in the household. Of the dollar spent for food in 1955, meat, poultry, fish or eggs accounted for 35 cents. Vegetables and fruit accounted for 18 cents, milk and milk products took 14 cents, flour, cereal and baked goods 11 cents, and beverage took a dime. The other 12 cents left in the family food dlolar went for a number of miscellaneous products such as fats and oils, sugar and sweets, soups, sauces, relishes and seasonings.

FAIR EXHIBITS

If you plan to exhibit in the parish fair October 9-14, be sure to come by the Agricultural Extension office, 704 Cypress, West Monroe, and get your premium exhibit card. We cannot mail them so come by anytime from 8:00 until 4:30 P.M.

SEWING NEW FABRICS

Laminated fabrics are attracting the attention of buyers. These new fabrics can present a problem if you don't know the answer as laminated fabrics do not drape as other fabrics. The pattern must be simple and the lining should have the same care qualities as the laminated fabric. Our specialist, Miss Fae Roark, suggests that you sew a test sample. Try a large stitch with a medium tension on seams pinned at a right angle to the seams with pins about one inch apart and start sewing slowly, perhaps turning the wheel by hand for the first five or six stitches. If the fabric does not feed evenly, place strips of paper or organdy under and over seam lines. If you use organdy trim it off to about one eighth inch from each side of the seam and it will serve as a reinforcement.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice,

"I have some beautiful all wool cashmere of which I want to make a coat. I would like to know what sort of thread to use to top stitch the coat? Also, what kind of thread is best to sew the entire coat?"

Mrs. E. T. R.

Dear Mrs. E. T. R.:

You didn't ask me this, but I am hoping you will remember that you must cut the cashmere in one direction. The nap must run "down," in other words, the same direction as fur.

Top stitching is usually done by hand with silk buttonhole twist. This stitching is called hand-picking. It serves two purposes, it is decorative detail on the plain fabric, and also holds the facing of this soft fabric in place.

You may use mercerized thread to sew any wool fabric. It has the elasticity needed for wool and is very easy to work with.

DART GUIDE

Mrs. Lois Thompson, Belleville, Ill., wins one of my exclusive Tailor Trix pressing boards for this suggestion.

"Dear Eunice,

"I can never get down to serious sewing unless I have a plastic measuring tape hung around my neck. It is indispensable.

"May I make this suggestion to those who find making darts difficult, use your tape as a guide. The presser foot will hold it nicely in place while you sew to the point of the dart."

"Dear Eunice Farmer,

"Is there any way to add width to a straight, one piece skirt? The seam is in the back with a kick pleat."

Mrs. M. O. J.

ADD WIDTH

Dear Mrs. M. O. J.:

This kind of a skirt, which is cut without side seams, is almost impossible to alter once it has been cut.

You must buy a one - piece skirt pattern according to your hip measurement. Before you cut the skirt, measure the pattern from the center front to the center back, double this measurement, and add 2" for ease and you should have your exact hip measurement.

If you wish to add to the hip measurements, you would have to cut through the pattern from the end of the side dart, straight to the bottom of the pattern. Separate the pattern the exact amount you need and make your dart a little deeper at the waistline.

SEWING GLOSSARY

Hand picking: This is a decorative stitch used on plain fabrics and can be any desired distance from the edge. Use a single, waxed, thread of silk buttonhold twist. If you cannot get the buttonhole twist in the exact color you need, use a double waxed mercerized threat.

The stitch is made with a tiny back - stitch, catching in the interfacing, but not going clear through the coat facing where the stitches would show. Don't pull the stitches too tight, and they should be about ¼ inch apart. This stitch is also used when applying zippers by hand.

Please send your questions and suggestions to Sew Simple. Questions of the most general interest will be answered in this column, not personally. I have compiled a booklet of the 20 questions most frequently asked. If you would like to have this booklet send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of Morning World.

New Leaders May Emerge In Indonesia

By RUSSELL E. DYBVIK

JAKARTA (UPI) — Groundwork for a possible Indonesian government reorganization has been laid.

Carefully, and in small steps, over the past two months President Sukarno has prepared the nation and its leaders for possible government reorganization from the cabinet level down through departments to local government areas.

Sukarno, who has been Indonesia's only president during the nation's 16 years of independence, has even opened the door to his own retirement.

In July, he warned that he would "push aside all incapable leaders."

He asked for popular support to "manipulate economically" in an inconspicuous pre-Independence Day address.

Sukarno devoted a major portion of his three-hour Independence Day oration to the need for national leadership.

Three reasons point toward the need for reorganization.

—Indonesia's faltering economy and the massive financial load imposed by the nation's eight-year overall development plan.

This army pressure was expected to force the replacement of Communist-sympathizing government leaders at top levels. Natural replacements would be drawn from the ranks of the military, according to usually correct political observers here.

Despite the assurances of ailing First Minister Djuanda Kartawidjaja that the nation is financially sound, thorough-going reforms were expected to take place in Indonesia's finance ministry.

An unfavorable balance of trade caused mainly by declining exports of rubber, copra, oil and tin has led the list of Indonesian economic woes.

Sukarno has urged the nation to "give me the freedom to manipulate so as to facilitate construction . . . under the first eight-year national development plan.

"It is an almost inhuman task," Sukarno told the nation, in describing the problems of financing the nation's industrial, agricultural and economic development.

Much of the development financing is being done through government-to-government credits which specify the type of development to be accomplished. Many credits are for establishment of complete industries, such as steel mills, paper plants, hydro-electric projects, and the like. Much of the aid received today comes from Communist-bloc nations.

Bids Scheduled On Improvement For State Route

JONESVILLE (Special) — Louisiana Highway Director Ray Burgess said Saturday that bids will be received Sept. 27 on a 4.9-mile improvement project on the Nickel - Aimwell highway (State Route 126) in LaSalle and Catahoula parishes.

The director added that this project connects with a 7.2-mile road improvement project on the Aimwell - Manifest highway in Catahoula Parish which is now under construction after a $131,543 contract was awarded to the Catahoula Construction Co. of Sicily Island in August.

The new project will begin northeast of Nickel at the junction of State Route 503 and 126, then proceeds southeast along SR-450 for 4.9 miles to the junction with SR-459.

Plans call for grading, drainage structures, aggregate type or soil cement base course, bituminous surface treatment 20 feet wide with one 100-foot and another 180-foot concrete slab span bridges with a 24-foot clear roadway.

Burgess said that the project is scheduled for comletion 12 months after the contract has been awarded.

ACCEPTS CALL TO SERVE

'Brain' To Direct U.S. Moon Shot

MOORESTOWN, N.J. (AP) — A man whose wife calls him "Brain" is going to direct Americans effort to send a man 250,000 miles into space and land him on the moon by 1970.

"Brain" is the wife's pet name for Dr. Joseph Boyer Holmes, 40, Moorestown engineer who's quitting a top management job with Radio Corp. of America to accept President Kennedy's call to serve his country.

"This will be a staggering task," he says frankly, and adds a bit of awe. "The research and development that will result from this mammoth undertaking will be of great strength to our country's knowledge."

In accepting, Dr. Holmes, a native of Lexington, Ky., will be asked to take a cut in pay. He will get $22,000 a year from the United States, a whopping $7,000 less than his present RCA salary.

Still, Dr. Holmes says the government thinks he is the man who can manage the space program, spending millions for those projects to success.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said Saturday that in his 30 years in Washington "I've never seen a more responsible and cooperative Congress."

Johnson said in a statement, "There has been no back-biting and no jealousy among leaders at this session."

"This goes for the Republicans as well as the Democrats," he said. "Congress has accomplished a great deal.

"All this testifies to the effectiveness of both parties in the Congress and to President Kennedy's leadership in the executive department. Both have genuine respect for each other and both have put the national interest first."

ACCEPTS CALL TO SERVE

'Brain' To Direct U.S. Moon Shot

MOORESTOWN, N.J. (AP) — A man whose wife calls him "Brain" is going to direct America's effort to send a man 238,000 miles into space and land him on the moon by 1970.

"Brain" is the wifely, affectionate nickname for D.—(for Dyer)—Brainerd Holmes, 40, electrical engineer who's quitting a top management job with Radio Corp. of America to answer President Kennedy's call to serve his country.

"This will be a staggering task," he says frankly, and with a bit of awe. "The research and development that will result from this mammoth undertaking will provide great strength, great knowledge to our country."

His acceptance, admittedly, was a patriotic gesture. Holmes believes that any person asked to take the job would have to say yes. It will cost him financially. He will get only $21,000 a year from the United States, "a whopping cut" from his present RCA salary.

"Sure, I'm proud it was I," he says. "I'm pleased my government thinks I'm the man who can manage the space flight program, spending maybe two or three million dollars a day, and bring it to success."

He shrugs off his name—"it's a mouthful. I was named after my grandfather, but I'd never give it to any son of mine." At college his fraternity brothers used the shortened "Brain." Now only his wife does. Friends use Brainerd. No one ever called him Dyer, even as a child.

Still looking like a college boy, with prematurely gray hair cut short, and dark-rimmed glasses covering large, popping, expressive brown eyes, Holmes describes himself as "a dynamic, businessman-type manager who has the knack of coordinating a team in the design and development of weapons."

His words are not meant to be boastful, he quickly emphasizes. But anyone speaking with him for only a few minutes soon realizes that this is a likeable, knowledgeable executive who knows what to do and how to do it. He figures it is only proper to tell you so.

Holmes makes it clear that today, anyway, he knows very little about rockets, astronauts, space. But one can't help but feel that it won't take him long to know the fundamentals, if not the minute details. His specialty is electronics and radar—subjects he learned at Cornell University where he was graduated in 1943; and in wartime studies at Bowdoin University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Currently, and until the end of October, he is RCA's project manager of the ballistic missile early warning system BMEWS and general manager of the major defense systems division.

BMEWS, costing over a billion dollars since early 1958, involved construction of radar bases in Greenland, Alaska and England to scan the polar skies and warn of any missile attack.

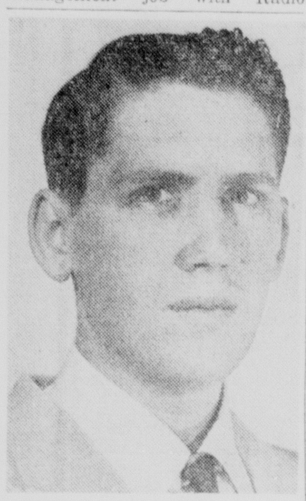
Holmes said America's space scientists have been doing a fine job "but it hasn't been run with a centralized manager, and that's where I come in."

Weekends, Holmes tries to devote to his family—wife, Dorothy; daughters Dorothy, 16, and Katherine, 12, and the big playful boxer, Rum.

Whenever the family can—"and that's as often as possible"—it goes sailing in the family ketch, a 41-footer tabbed "Yankee."

At Cornell, and before that at Newark (N.J.) Preparatory Academy, Holmes—now 5 feet 10 and 160 pounds—participated in track and football. For the Big Red, as a sophomore, he was a varsity end.

"But then the war came," he says, "and football seemed unimportant."



ALTON L. HARE, son of Mrs. M. R. Hare of Monroe, has been appointed instructor of mathematics at Mississippi Southern College at Hattiesburg. He is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast State College. He received his master's degree at Louisiana Tech.

Quiet Session Is Expected By Governors

BY RUSS DALEY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Southern governors get together here Sunday for their annual meeting and controversial subjects likely will be kept under wraps if possible.

It's an "off year" from a political standpoint and the agenda for the four-day meeting lists discussions on such topics as freight rates, nuclear energy, law enforcement, highway safety and industrial development.

Featured speaker will be Vice President Lyndon Johnson who will address the group Monday night. Gov. Price Daniel of Texas is chairman of the conference.

The conference has a strict set of rules aimed at keeping touchy issues behind the scenes. But this year's program is so arranged that there will be plenty of time for private talk about such things as southern unity, segregation, states' rights and politics.

The two most mentioned possibilities for new chairman are Govs. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia and Buford Ellington of Tennessee. Vandiver is vice chairman, a new spot created last year.

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, the conference veteran from a standpoint of seniority, has been by-passed several times for the job. Some Deep South governors, such as Ross Barnett of Mississippi, would like to see Faubus named, and this shapes up as a potential point of controversy.

The two groups that will control most of what comes before the business sessions will be a nominating committee and a resolutions committee.

It takes a two thirds vote to get anything before the conference that hasn't been recommended by the two committees and another two-thirds vote to pass such a matter.

There are 16 governors in the conference and all but Gov. Mallard Dawes of Maryland are due to be on hand.

Republican Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, also will attend.

A Sunday night reception at the governors' mansion will mark the start of the meeting. Morning business sessions are set for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, leaving the afternoons free for private talks.

States represented in the conference are Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

U.N. Chief Says White Residents Back Katangans

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — White residents of Elisabethville were denounced by Lt. Gen. Sean McKeown Saturday as backers of Katanga in the eight-day war against U.N. efforts to force the mineral-rich province back under Leopoldville's rule.

The chief of the U.N. Congo Command told newsmen nearly every white person living in the provincial capital, developed by Belgians when the Congo was a Belgian colony, was armed and nearly all were against the United Nations.

"Every white was a source of information on the movement of U.N. troops," McKeown said, "and this greatly embarrassed our activities."

He said his troops were never in danger of defeat in the battle ended by a cease-fire Wednesday midnight and that they now have the situation completely under control.

He blamed some "trick or trap" for the Katangans' capture of the 155-man Irish garrison of Jadotville.

He denied stories that Indian U.N. troops had committed atrocities, adding that "they displayed the finest discipline in very dangerous and aggravating conditions."

$36,250 Suit Filed In Area

RUSTON (Special) — Leonard H. Giles and his wife, Olga Stiffler Giles have filed a suit in District Court here against the city of Ruston claiming a total of $36,250 in damages as a result of an accident on Alabama street.

They contend that Mrs. Giles stepped on a loose cover to a water meter box, painfully injuring her left leg and hip and her right knee.

Tulane Study Cites Need For Leaders

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23 (UPI) —The South's most pressing economic problem is a lack of able businessmen within its borders, says a Tulane University economist who completed a detailed study this week.

Tulane's Dr. Clarence H. Danhof sent lengthy questionnaires to Southern executives listed in "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry" and the results indicate two main obstacles to economic progress.

The first obstacle is scarcity of capital, according to Danhof's study, and the second biggest Southern handicap is lack of aggressive business leadership.

"Enterprising business leadership is the key to obtaining capital for new ventures," says Danhof. He says the South's best opportunities are not promotional efforts or tax inducements for new industry.

"The foundation of a long-range program of economic development in the South must be its educational effort," says Danhoff. "Economic equality rests on educational equality."

Highlights of the Danhof study:

—80 per cent of the polled businessmen believe ways and means should be developed to keep promising young Southerners in the South.

—75 per cent think deliberate efforts should be made to lure promising young Northerners to the South.

—More than half criticized college training in business administration, saying it fails to develop aggressiveness and imagination.

—40 per cent prefer engineering or technical training for potential businessmen.

—20 per cent prefer liberal arts training plus graduate work. Only 14 per cent said they preferred undergraduate business training.

—90 per cent believe there are more opportunities in the South than in the past, but most said North-South and South - North movements of promising executives are about equal.

—The South's per capita income is less than 70 per cent of the national average. Judging by present trends, it will not catch up for 75 years, if at all.

Dr. Danhof believes the South's share of the nation's leaders, not only in business but in science and technology as well, will determine the region's future productivity.

British Pilot Lauds Tshombe As Courageous

LONDON (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe's private pilot, a Briton, says Tshombe "is a very courageous man who knows what he wants and will get it."

The pilot is Capt. Walter Hillary of Belfast, Northern Ireland, a former wing commander in Britain's Royal Air Force. He expressed this view when he arrived at the London airport Saturday on his way home from the Congo.

"I was driving my car in Elizabethville eight days ago when I was stopped by Indian troops," he said. "They identified me from papers as President Tshombe's private pilot and decided I was a fine prize."

He was freed Friday and decided to head home and visit relatives.

He said he had been a pilot for nine years with the Air Katanga Flying Co., when Tshombe declared the independence of the province last year and then got the job of flying the president.

Manifest 4-H Officers Picked

Diane Breithaupt, president; Nelda Reeves, vice president; Rissa Doughty, secretary; Arlene Tradewell, treasurer; J. G. Breithaupt, and Virginia Alexander, executive committee members; Marjorie Poole, reporter, and Jana Gunin and Butch Hawks, song leaders.

Deaths

E. E. Dean

FARMERVILLE (Special) —Funeral services for E. E. (Genie) Dean, 91, of Farmerville, will be held 3 p.m. Sunday at the Farmerville First Baptist Church with the Rev. L. B. Hall officiating, assisted by the Rev. Ted Lann.

Interment will be in Taylor Cemetery under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of Farmerville.

Mr. Dean, father of three West Monroyans, died early Friday morning in a Monroe nursing home following a long illness.

Surviving are three sons, Wilbur and H. O. (Buck) Dean, both of West Monroe; Percy Dean, Farmerville; three daughters, Mrs. Emma Jean Mouton, West Monroe; Mrs. Margerite Gantt, San Marcos, Tex., and Mrs. Christelle O'Banion, San Antonio, Tex.; nine grandchildren and a great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Palmer Dean, Elton Allbritton, John Henry Caskey, Jamie Lee Wilhite L. H. McVicker and Sam Phelps.

U.N. Denies Attack Due On Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga charged Saturday troops of the central Leopoldville government were massing to attack his breakaway province. The United Nations promptly called the charge false.

Tshombe told a news conference "35 Ilyushin planes are waiting at the Stanleyville Airport." He said a total of 4,600 troops of the National Congolese Army were waiting in Luluabourg, Coquilhatville, Goma and Stanleyville to be transported to Katanga.

"We shall defend ourselves until the end," Tshombe said.

Minutes later, U.N. civilian chief Conor Cruise O'Brien described the statement as "totally untrue" and said "Mr. Tshombe has been listening to too many alarmist rumors."

O'Brien admitted Tshombe's charge that U.N. troops fired on a crowd of rioting Balubas, killing one and wounding four.

"The Balubas became excited and the United Nations had to intervene," O'Brien said. "We deeply regret the use of force."

O'Brien said Baluba leaders had promised the United Nations to curb the rampaging tribesmen.

Each side in the smouldering dispute accused the other of ceasefire violations. Tshombe charged troop reinforcements have been arriving at the U.N.-held Elisabethville Airport. He said the constant movement of U.N. columns through the city was an act of provocation in defiance of the cease-fire agreement.

Addressing reporters in his palatial residence Friday night, Tshombe denied his troops fired on the trouble-swept camp of Baluba refugees. He proposed that Baluba refugees who fled to the camp to seek U.N. protection "simply return to their homes and everything will be arranged."

Throughout Friday, there were growing reports of difficulties between Katangan troops and white mercenaries serving in the Katanga army.

But the city was struggling to get back on its feet. More and more stores were opening throughout town. Black servants were sweeping broken glass and in several places masons appeared to repair damage. Waiters and floorboys appeared in the hotels and fresh towels were issued to patrons.

REDS TAKE OVER

Laotian Village Loses Freedom

By MICHAEL T. MALLOY
United Press International

VIENTIANE, Laos. (UPI)—Three sunburned soldiers in khaki stepped from the silent jungle and strolled down the single dirt street of a tiny Laotian village.

They walked straight to the thatched hut of the village mayor without asking directions from the farmers, who froze in open-mouted awe at the sight of the strangers' submachine guns.

They had never seen these men before, but the villagers knew that spies had told them which hut was the mayor's. They also knew that when three of these men walked into a strange village, seven or eight hid nearby in the jungle.

"We are from the Pathet Lao," the strangers told the mayor. "We want rice and water."

The Pathet Lao were firm but polite. They got rice and water for themselves and enough for the other guerrillas who lurked within rifle shot.

The three contact men told the mayor to assemble his people, who came willingly because their fear was less strong than their curiosity about the legendary "jungle men."

The Pathet Laos' theme was "unity." They said no village would be safe until the war was over. The war would not end until the kingdom was united. It would not be united until Pathet Lao had destroyed the wicked government and driven away the Americans, who caused the war, the guerrillas said.

The Pathet Lao made only one threat before leaving the village, and they made it politely.

Villagers who sell food or give water to government soldiers are not helping "unity," they said. And they fingered their weapons significantly.

Two weeks later, a government patrol camped in the village for one day. Its lieutenant asked for a buffalo and some rice, but the people looked fearfully at the jungle and refused.

The soldiers were hungry, so they killed a buffalo anyway.

When the guerrillas came to the village again they said: "we told you the government soldiers were thieves."

This time there were 10 Pathet Lao. They had heard that the villagers wanted to clean out a mud-choked spring, so they got all the village people together and helped them with the job.

Afterward, the Pathet Lao performed a play on the porch of the mayor's house. It was about a village where all the people worked together to expand their rice fields. At the end of the play, the village had become rich, because its people had learned to work together. That was unity, the Pathet Lao said.

From this time on the Pathet Lao came more often. At harvest time, 30 of them cme and helped in the rice paddies.

When the work was over, they talked about unity and the schools in communist North Viet Nam where Lao boys and girls could learn to be airplane pilots and nurses.

When they left the village this time, they were followed by boys and two girls, who wanted to go to school.

One day, a Pathet Lao patrol passed through the village, but left one of its number behind. The people were honored that he had chosen to live with them, because he was an educated man who could read and write.

The stranger told the farmers they should use their tools and buffalo more efficiently, to become rich, like the village in the play.

He told the farmers with several buffalo to give their extra animals to those who had none, so all the fields could be tilled at once.

The mayor objected to this, because he had four buffalo. He was told that he was mayor no longer.

The Pathet Lao representative replaced the old mayor with a farmer.

When the villagers saw their mayor replaced, they suddenly realized that there would be many such changes if the Pathet Lao conquered the rest of the country. They also realized that men who proved their loyalty to the guerrillas would be first in line for the government jobs.

From then on, many villagers hated to see the government soldiers come, because they feared they would be punished for letting their friends and relatives join the Pathet Lao.

The poor farmers and the new mayor hoped the soldiers would stay away so they could keep their new benefits.

The rich farmers and the old mayor were afraid to tell the soldiers what happened because they feared Pathet Lao vengenace.

Most villagers were neither rich nor poor, but they also resented the government soldiers. They didn't care who ruled them and they knew that the presence of government soldiers could only mean fighting and trouble.

Because theirs was now a Pathet Lao village.

Flight Request Of East German Mayor Refused

COVENTRY, England (AP)—Lord Mayor William Callow says the mayor of the East German city of Dresden has been refused permission by Western authorities to fly to Coventry for a man-in-the-street peace conference.

Callow told reporters Saturday he has vainly appealed to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to intervene.

The conference opens Monday in Coventry, Britain's most heavily bombed city in World War II. Callow invited civic leaders from many overseas towns to attend the talks, which he says are aimed at expressing the desire of ordinary people for peace.

Mayors of Detroit, Mich.; Toronto and the Dutch city of Arnhem have refused to attend, saying international problems should be left to statesmen.

A spokesman at Macmillan's office in London confirmed that Callow's appeal has been turned down.

"There has been a withdrawal of facilities for East Germans to travel in Western countries," he said, "following the introduction of restrictions in Berlin by the Communists."

ELMO S. KOSCHEL, above, general sales manager of the Southern Bell in Louisiana, of New Orleans, will be guest speaker Monday night at the Sales Executives Club at the Paragon club. Koschel started with the company in 1936 as a mail clerk and after a series of promotions was made general sales manager in 1959.

BLAST DANGERS GREAT

Moon Rocket Site Carefully Chosen

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If a giant moon rocket should blow up on the launch pad, the blast would be greater than that of many an atomic weapon.

Even if it worked perfectly, it still would inflict irreparable damage on the body and mind of any person unlucky or foolish enough to be standing near at liftoff. It would do it not with blast but with noise.

These are among the reasons the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) was so careful in picking the site for its $885 million new moon port. The site is an 90,000-acre area north and west of the present launching grounds at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

NASA insisted on an "exclusion area" extending 10 miles in all directions from the launch pads of the Nova rockets which will boost astronauts to the moon.

The exclusion area at the Cape site will be easy to police because about half of it will extend out into the ocean.

One version of the Nova would generate 12 million pounds of thrust as it rose from the pad. It would stand as high as a 36-story building and weigh about eight million pounds. Its fuel alone would weigh about five million pounds.

Suppose this five million pounds of fuel suddenly blew up. Its blast effect would be comparable to that of an atomic bomb equal in force to about 1,250 tons of TNT. This country has tested many atomic weapons of far smaller violence.

Suppose on the other hand that on the day of the first manned moon shot the huge rocket rose beautifully and without a flaw. Its booster motors would roar with a noise hard to image.

At a distance of 100 feet this noise would hit a level of 170 decibels. Another version of the Nova, with 20 million pounds of thrust, would hit a peak of 173 decibels.

The decibel is a unit of sound. For every increase of three to six decibels, the noise level is doubled. One way of putting it is that a Nova's noise compares to a violent thunderstorm as the thunderstorm does to a hoarse whisper.

A turboprop plane taking off produces about 110 decibels of sound, a pneumatic pavement chipper about 120. Noise at the 115-decibel level is a highly irritating nuisance.

At 135 you get pain and blurring of vision, at 150 permanent damage to hearing, and at 155 and above permanent damage to the bones and tissue plus addling of the brain and nervous system which may cause irremediable psychological injury.

Astronauts atop a moon rocket would be so well insulated against the noise pouring from the bottom end that they would get no more than about 115 decibels—and that for only about a minute.

Half a mile away in the blockhouse control center, with its 12-foot concrete walls, the noise would be noticeable but would not interfere with conversation.

At a distance of 10 miles ordinary buildings and the people in them would be safe whatever Nova did. According to Samuel Snyder, NASA's assistant director of launch operations, the noise during liftoff would be worse than that of a nearby power mower

If the Nova blew up, the effect at 10 miles would be about the same as a 60-mile-an-hour wind.

JFK Takes Sinatra On Boat Cruise

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP — President Kennedy took a 3½-hour boat trip Saturday with singer Frank Sinatra as one of his guests.

An overcast, as well as a Hollywood air hung over the motor cruiser Marlin.

Also aboard with the President and Mrs. Kennedy were nine or ten other guests, including his brother-in-law, actor Peter Lawford.

Sinatra is the "leader" and Lawford a member of a group of Hollywood figures who call themselves the "Clan."

Sinatra and the President's sister, Mrs. Lawford, arrived by air Friday night, landing at New Bedford, about 50 miles away when fog closed airports on Cape Cod. An unidentified couple was with them.

The President's brother, Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy landed at the same airport shortly after the other four.

They drove to the Cape by taxi, with another cab engaged to carry their baggage.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger confirmed that Sinatra was one of the guests on the Marlin. Lawford's wife also was aboard and so were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spaulding, of New York, old friends of the President.

The Marlin cruised about eight miles to Cotuit Bay, and anchored in a sheltered spot. Most of the guests remained aboard, but Mrs. Kennedy, who took up the sport this summer, water skied for a while despite the chill.

She wore a white bathing cap and the jacket half of a skin-diver suit over her bathing suit, obviously as a protection against the chill.

Salinger said Sinatra is not staying at the President's house, but is visiting the Lawfords, who are at the home of the President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

Car Taken From Parking Lot

A search for a car reported stolen from a store parking lot here was being conducted yesterday by Monroe police.

The car, belonging to C. R. Collins of route four, Monroe, was described as a 1950-model, black and red, tudor Mercury.

Collins said he parked the car around 11:20 a.m. on the lot and when he returned, it was missing.

The vehicle has 1961 Louisiana license No. 460-209. A description has been circulated to all law offices in an attempt to locate the auto.

Legion Group Keeps 'White Only' Status

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The 40 and 8 refused to make any change in its "white only" qualification clause Saturday as the group ended its 42nd annual convention.

Delegates of the 80,000-member veterans' group unanimously voted down attempts to wipe the qualification clause from the constitution, leaving unchanged its relation with the American Legion. The legion has forbidden the fun-making group use of the legion emblem unless the membership qualification is changed.

Clifton L. Baker of East Orange, N.J., was elected president of the 40 and 8 to succeed Reginald C. White.

Racial Group To Sponsor New Freedom Rides

CHICAGO (UPI) — The national director of the Congress of Racial Equality says the organization will sponsor another series of "freedom rides" in November to test a new federal order banning segregation on facilities used in interstate bus travel.

James Farmer of New York told an audience here Friday night that the Interstate Commerce commission ruling amounts to a vindication of "freedom riders" who were convicted in Jackson, Miss., of breach of the peace after they integrated travel terminals. He said the new order must be enforced.

"Mississippi has gone all out to persecute and prosecute over 300 freedom riders who have tried to use terminal facilities without segregating themselves," Farmer said. "The ICC's ruling means if the state of Mississippi insists on segregation, then that state must do without interstate bus service."

PRIVATE CLASSROOMS

Mennonites Start Schools On Farms

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Two dozen or more conservative Mennonite families have withdrawn their children — 63 in all — from public schools in East Earl Township and have set up two private classrooms on neighborhood farms.

Lemon Martin, spokesmen for the group, said Saturday "We just sort of fell there is too much atheism in the public schools today. Everything is turning toward unbelief. There's too much science studying, in other words."

"So the only thing we could do is teach ourselves," he continued.

"Studying about going to the moon—that's nothing. Nobody in our group is going to the moon. If anybody else wants to go, let them go and help themselves. We don't care what our children learn about the moon as long as it's common sense."

Before this term the 63 children, first to sixth-grade pupils, attended one-room schools. Now the township education board has closed some of the smaller schools and opened two modern buildings, one at Union Grove with eight rooms, the other at Blue Ball, with 12 rooms.

Martin had this to say about the change: "There's going to be a lot of new ways in the new buildings, like teaching science, that trend to unbelief."

Mode of transportation also had something to do with the Mennonites' action. Martin explained that the children were in walking distance of the single-room schools whereas they would have to ride buses to the new buildings.

As a matter of principle, part of a decidely austere faith, the Mennonites do not drive automobiles. Many of them refuse even to ride in a car. They stick to the horse and carriage.

The private substitutes for public classrooms, it was reported, are in a converted washhouse and a renovated poultry house on two farms.

Ivan Wittwer, head of the township school board, said the families are within their legal rights in the course they have taken.

Sen. Stennis Pays Tribute To Middleton

Stennis' remarks were recorded this month in the Congressional Record along with an editorial from the Jackson, Miss., Clarion-Ledger which praised Middleton as a man who brought credit to his native state.

It is a remarkable achievement for most persons when they devote their lives to a single endeavor and excel, Stennis said, but Middleton excelled in two major fields.

He said Middleton "earned wide recognition and great respect as leader of outstanding ability in World War I and World War II.

"After his retirement from the Army, he was called upon by the governing board of Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge to assume the high post of president of that great institution."

He added, "This man, born and educated in Mississippi, in keeping with his acceptance of responsibility, with straightforward conviction took the job as LSU president. And, after 10 years of outstanding service in this capacity he is now about to retire.

"It is with great pride in the outstanding career of this remarkable individual that I ask the Senate to join me in saluting a man who has given two full measures to the service of mankind."

Area Lawmaker To Speak At Meeting Here

State Senator J. C. (Sonny) Gilbert of Sicily Island, member of the board of directors of the Lovely Louisiana Tourist Association, will be one of the featured speakers Monday, September 25, at the Monroe regional meeting of the Louisiana Savings and Loan Association.

Senator Gilbert, who is also a member of the Joint Legislative Committee is one of the founders of the Lovely Louisiana group, which was organized early this past summer.

An active worker in tourist campaigns for years, Gilbert will outline the aims and purposes of the LLTA and explain the association's ten-point program.

He will also discuss the important role which can be played in the campaign for a better tourist economy by such private organizations as the savings and loan group. Gilbert said he will answer questions from the floor.

The meeting, one of a series scheduled this week, will be held at the Paragon Club.

AAUW Meeting Held: State Report Is Given

The Monroe branch of the American Association of University Women met in the home of Mrs. G. E. Boggs, 2802 Pargoud Blvd., September 14, for the fiscal year.

Mrs. Anthony M. Wilbert, president, opened the meeting with a brief business session. She reported on the state AAUW workshop, which she attended with Mrs. F. L. Harmon and Mrs. C. S. King, in Alexandria, July 22.

After new members, Mrs. William M. Harper and Miss Sarah Nell Taylor, were welcomed into the organization, Miss May Coker, local program chairman for October, introduced Mrs. Gregor Goethal, Northeast Louisiana State College, who gave an illustrated talk on contemporary art.

Punch was served by the hostess to Mrs. Wilbert, Miss Coker, Mrs. Goethals, Mrs. Harper, Miss Taylor, Mrs. M. J. Cook, Mrs. F. L. Harmon, Mrs. L. E. Hayden, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. A. C. Hutts, Mrs. C. S. King, Miss Annis Klie, Miss Hazel Mitchell, Miss Marjorie Oliver, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, and Miss Mary Alma Tompkins.

The next meeting will be a tea for members and their guests October 14, 4 to 6 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Anthony M. Wilber, 2011 Stuart Ave.

Two Are Booked On Drunken Driving Charges

Two persons were booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages late Friday and early Saturday.

Booked around 5 p.m. Friday for DWI and reckless driving was Jack S. James, 41, of P.O. box 903, Monroe. He was apprehended at South Fifth Street and Winnsboro Road.

Sylvia Cook Smith, 47, of Jackson, Miss., was charged with both DWI and reckless driving at 3 a.m. She was arrested at the intersection of Texas Avenue and Orange Street.

Bonds for both were set at $435 each and they will be tried in Monroe city court.

Police Assigned To Guard JFK On Visit To U.N.

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 1,000 uniformed police have been assigned to guard President Kennedy during his visit here to address the United Nations General Assembly.

They will be augmented by an undisclosed number of police detectives and Secret Service and federal agents in plain clothes.

Kennedy will arrive by plane late Sunday from Hyannis Port, Mass. He will address the assembly Monday and will leave the city Tuesday morning.

He will spend Sunday and Monday nights at the Carlyle Hotel.

PRIVATE CLASSROOMS

Mennonites Start Schools On Farms

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Two dozen or more conservative Mennonite families have withdrawn their children — 63 in all — from public schools in East Earl Township and have set up two private classrooms on neighborhood farms.

Lemon Martin, spokesmen for the group, said Saturday "We just sort of fell there is too much atheism in the public schools today. Everything is turning toward unbelief. There's too much science studying, in other words."

"So the only thing we could do is teach ourselves," he continued.

"Studying about going to the moon—that's nothing. Nobody in our group is going to the moon. If anybody else wants to go, let them go and help themselves. We don't care what our children learn about the moon as long as it's common sense."

Before this term the 63 children, first to sixth-grade pupils, attended one-room schools. Now the township education board has closed some of the smaller schools and opened two modern buildings, one at Union Grove with eight rooms, the other at Blue Ball, with 12 rooms.

Martin had this to say about the change: "There's going to be a lot of new ways in the new buildings, like teaching science, that trend to unbelief."

Mode of transportation also had something to do with the Mennonites' action. Martin explained that the children were in walking distance of the single-room schools whereas they would have to ride buses to the new buildings.

As a matter of principle, part of a decidely austere faith, the Mennonites do not drive automobiles. Many of them refuse even to ride in a car. They stick to the horse and carriage.

The private substitutes for public classrooms, it was reported, are in a converted washhouse and a renovated poultry house on two farms.

Ivan Wittwer, head of the township school board, said the families are within their legal rights in the course they have taken.

Sen. Stennis Pays Tribute To Middleton

Stennis' remarks were recorded this month in the Congressional Record, along with an editorial from the Jackson, Miss., Clarion-Ledger which praised Middleton as a man who brought credit to his native state.

It is a remarkable achievement for most persons when they devote their lives to a single endeavor and excel, Stennis said, but Middleton excelled in two major fields.

He said Middleton "earned wide recognition and great respect as leader of outstanding ability in World War I and World War II.

"After his retirement from the Army, he was called upon by the governing board of Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge to assume the high post of president of that great institution."

He added, "This man, born and educated in Mississippi, in keeping with his acceptance of responsibility, with straightforward conviction took the job as LSU president. And, after 10 years of outstanding service in this capacity he is now about to retire.

"It is with great pride in the outstanding career of this remarkable individual that I ask the Senate to join me in saluting a man who has given 'two full measures' to the service of mankind."

Area Lawmaker To Speak At Meeting Here

State Senator J. C. (Sonny) Gilbert of Sicily Island, member of the board of directors of the Lovely Louisiana Tourist Association, will be one of the featured speakers Monday, September 25, at the Monroe regional meeting of the Louisiana Savings and Loan Association.

Senator Gilbert, who is also a member of the Joint Legislative Committee, is one of the founders of the Lovely Louisiana group, which was organized early this past summer.

An active worker in tourist campaigns for years, Gilbert will outline the aims and purposes of the LLTA and explain the association's ten-point program.

He will also discuss the important role which can be played in the campaign for a better tourist economy by such private organizations as the savings and loan group. Gilbert said he will answer questions from the floor.

The meeting, one of a series scheduled this week, will be held at the Paragon Club.

AAUW Meeting Held; State Report Is Given

The Monroe branch of the American Association of University Women met in the home of Mrs. G. E. Boggs, 2802 Pargoud Bldv., September 14, for the fiscal year.

Mrs. Anthony M. Wilbert, president, opened the meeting with a brief business session. She reported on the state AAUW workshop, which she attended with Mrs. F. L. Harmon and Mrs. C. S. King, in Alexandria, July 22

After new members, Mrs. William M. Harper and Miss Sarah Nell Taylor, were welcomed into the organization, Miss May Coker, local program chairman for October, introduced Mrs. Gregor Goethal, Northeast Louisiana State College, who gave an illustrated talk on contemporary art.

Punch was served by the hostess to Mrs. Wilbert, Miss Coker, Mrs. Goethals, Mrs. Harper, Miss Taylor, Mrs. M. J. Cook, Mrs. F. L. Harmon, Mrs. L. E. Hayden, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. A. C. Hutts, Mrs. C. S. King, Miss Annis Klie, Miss Hazel Mitchell, Miss Marjorie Oliver, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, and Miss Mary Alma Tompkins.

The next meeting will be a tea for members and their guests October 14, 4 to 6 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Anthony M. Wilber, 2011 Stuart Ave.

Two Are Booked On Drunken Driving Charges

Two persons were booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages late Friday and early Saturday.

Booked around 5 p.m. Friday for DWI and reckless driving was Jack S. James, 41, of P.O. box 903, Monroe. He was apprehended at South Fifth Street and Winnsboro Road.

Sylvia Cook Smith, 47, of Jackson, Miss., was charged with both DWI and reckless driving at 3 a.m. She was arrested at the intersection of Texas Avenue and Orange Street.

Bonds for both were set at $435 each and they will be tried in Monroe city court.

Police Assigned To Guard JFK On Visit To U.N.

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 1,000 uniformed police have been assigned to guard President Kennedy during his visit here to address the United Nations General Assembly.

They will be augmented by an undisclosed number of police detectives and Secret Service and federal agents in plain clothes.

Kennedy will arrive by plane late Sunday from Hyannis Port, Mass. He will address the assembly Monday and will leave the city Tuesday morning.

He will spend Sunday and Monday nights at the Carlyle Hotel.

SALESMAN

WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE HOME WITH YOUR FAMILY EVERY NIGHT—STILL MAKE GOOD MONEY—WITH A FUTURE.

We are looking for a professional salesman with integrity, who is confident of his ability to sell, having proved it to everyone's satisfaction. This man works out of his own pride and desire to be outstanding in his chosen profession. He should be between 35 and 50 and have a family for whom he is determined to provide a better than average future. Starting salary $6500 per year plus expenses, plus opportunity to earn more, and no night-time selling. This is a National Firm." Reply Box 410 c/o News-Star.

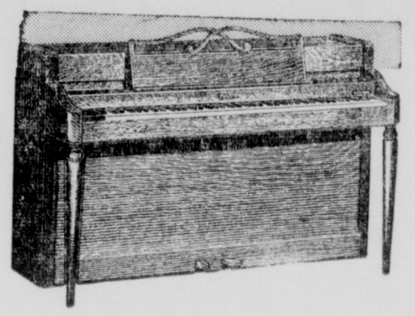
Fill Your Home With Music



The "HOWARD 402"

By Baldwin

What music could be more beautiful than the rich singing tone of a genuine Baldwin-Built Piano. The Howard is Baldwin's lowest priced Spinet, yet, the musical quality is unmistakably "Baldwin." In sound, in touch, in every important respect, the new Howard is a gift your whole family will cherish and enjoy for years.
Remember, no home is really complete without a piano.

LOCATED 113 WESTERN AVE. West Monroe

Strikingly different and dramatic in design with the accent on spaciousness! From the foyer, you enter the entertaining-size carpeted 12x24 living room and dining area. Then you'll admire the Westinghouse kitchen that makes meal-planning or formal dinners a simple task, with its built-in oven and range, dishwasher, disposal, custom cabinets, and pantry. There are 4 bedrooms—3 have luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting, and the 4th bedroom on the lower level is in Natura cherry paneling. And two of the three full ceramic tile baths have built-in dressing tables. An unforgettable feature on the lower level is the extra-large bonus room, in the ever-beautiful Natura cherry paneling, that offers all the space you could want for informal entertaining or recreation. To add to the luxury, this home is climate conditioned for year 'round comfort, and has built-in stereo and intercom system, acoustical ceilings in bonus room, Armstrong corlon floors, and radio controlled garage doors. This is truly a prestige home for those who demand the best in custom construction—the best in location!

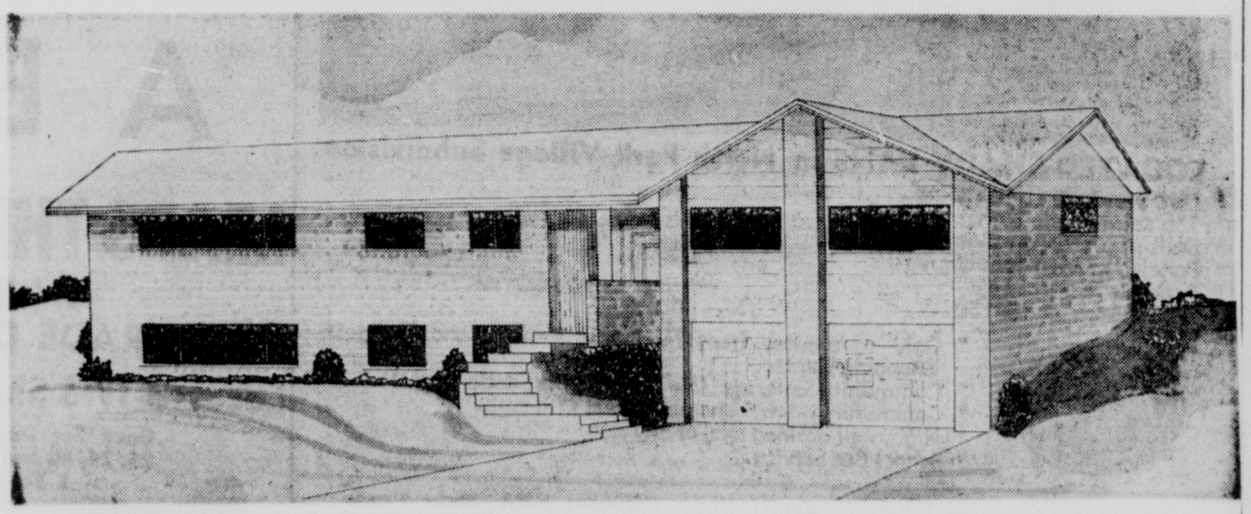
Completely Furnished For Your Inspection



LOCATED 113 WESTERN AVE. West Monroe

Strikingly different and dramatic in design with the accent on spaciousness! From the foyer, you enter the entertaining-size carpeted 12x24 living room and dining area. Then you'll admire the Westinghouse kitchen that makes meal-planning or formal dinners a simple task, with its built-in oven and range, dishwasher, disposal, custom cabinets, and pantry. There are 4 bedrooms—3 have luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting, and the 4th bedroom on the lower level is in Natura cherry paneling. And two of the three full ceramic tile baths have built-in dressing tables. An unforgettable feature on the lower level is the extra-large bonus room, in the ever-beautiful Natura cherry paneling, that offers all the space you could want for informal entertaining or recreation. To add to the luxury, this home is climate conditioned for year 'round comfort, and has built-in stereo and intercom system, acoustical ceilings in bonus room, Armstrong corlon floors, and radio controlled garage doors. This is truly a prestige home for those who demand the best in custom construction—the best in location!

HANNA-BARBERA'S

Yogi Bear

IF I WAS A CAT, I'D TAKE A CAT NAP.. BEING A BEAR...I'LL TAKE A BEAR NAP!

AUGIE, MY SON.. THERE ARE RULES TO OBSERVE WHEN IN THE WOODS AND I HAVE THE RULE BOOK HERE, M'BOY!

BUT WHO CARES....

IF I HAVE A NIGHTMARE IN THE DAYTIME, I GUESS THAT WOULD BE A DAYMARE!

DOGGIE DADDY.. YOU ARE A REAL KEEN PAL TO YOUR NICE SON!

NOW LISTEN ATTENTIVELY, AUGIE BOY!...CHAPTER ONE... PAGE ONE... SENTENCE ONE.. "WHEN IN THE WOODS, BE ALWAYS ON THE LOOKOUT FOR WILD ANIMALS!"

"SOME ANIMALS ARE VERY DANGEROUS."

I'M ON THE LOOKOUT, DOGGIE DADDY!

WHAT ABOUT BEARS, DOGGIE DADDY?

"IF CONFRONTED BY A BEAR, LOOK THE BEAST SQUARELY IN THE EYE!"

THEN WHAT, DEAR OLD DAD?

"IF THE BEAR SHOWS SIGNS OF ANGER, OFTEN A SHARP RAP ON HIS SENSITIVE NOSE...

"I WILL CAUSE A BEAR TO RETREAT!!"

POP!

"SOMETIMES A SUDDEN LOUD SHOUT WILL GET RESULTS!"

THAT GOT RESULTS, DEAR DAD...RUN FOR YOUR LIFE!

YOU CAN HAVE YOUR BOOK BACK, DOGGIE DADDY...AS SOON AS I REMOVE THE BEAR FACTS HEY! HEY! HEY!

RIP

FOR PETE'S SAKE, JOE... I CAN'T WORK OUT TAKE-OFF COMPUTATIONS WITH THAT RACKET OUT THERE! WHAT IS IT...?

I'LL HAVE A LOOK OUTSIDE!

SOUNDS LIKE A HERD OF ELEPHANTS.

WELL, NOT EXACTLY ELEPHANTS... BARNEY...!!

YOU, SLAVE! YOU KNOW WHERE IS THE LAND OF MARS... WHERE ONE GOES BY FIRE CHARIOT?!

JOE, IS THIS ANOTHER ONE OF YOUR GAGS?

ANSWER, SLAVE!! THERE ARE DESERTS ON MARS, NO? THEY HAVE TURNED OUR DESERTS TO ROTTEN FARMLAND... FOR PEASANTS!

TO THIS, THE DESERT RIDERS OF PRINCE AL MAARRI WILL NOT NOW BOW! YOU WILL TAKE US TO MARS ...NOW!!

NEXT WEEK: PURSUIT!!

PATCH ME UP, DOC!! I GOT BRIAR SCRATCHES ALL OVER ME AN' A SPRAINT ELBOW AN' A DADBURN RIFLE BALL IN MY LAIG

YE OUGHT TO SEE YORESELF, SNUFFY -- HAW-HAW-HAW! YO'RE A MESS!!

WHAT'S SO ALL-FIRED COMICAL?

HAW HAW HAW I CAN JEST SEE THEM REVENOOERS CHOPPIN' UP YORE STILL RIGHT NOW

THEN THEY HOLLERED "YO'RE UNDER ARREST" AN' YE LIT OUT RUNNIN' LIKE A SCAIRT SWAMP RABBIT.

YE MUST A-BEEN PEEKIN'

HEE-HEE-HEE HOW DID YE KEEP FROM GITTIN' KILT THIS TIME?

I HID IN OL' HOBGOBLIN CAVE AN' THEY RUN RIGHT PAST

YE KNOW DURN GOOD AN' WELL WHAR IT IS -- IT'S ON YORE PROPITTY!!

... DEAR ME, NO! MR. O'HARE DOESN'T OWE ME ANY MONEY! I WANT TO GIVE HIM MONEY! I'D LIKE TO BACK A PLAY!

YOU'D...?! IF YOU'RE SERIOUS, FOLLOW ME!

ITALIAN CUISINE

JUST PLAIN SPAGHETTI, ROSABELLA. THE OLD BANKROLL'S PRETTY ANAEMIC!

NEVER MIND PLAIN SPAGHETTI! A BIG HUSKY FELLOW LIKE YOU NEEDS MEAT! I BRING YOU NICE BRACIATO! YOU PAY ME SOMETIME!

MIKE! I'M SO GLAD YOU'RE HERE! ARE YOU IN THE MARKET FOR ANGELS?

... BONIFACE! WALTER T. BONIFACE! I MANUFACTURE PET FOOD...

A BIT CORNY, BUT I COULDN'T RESIST! WORD GAMES ARE A PASSION OF MINE!

CATCHY THOUGH — PEOPLE REMEMBER IT! DID MARY IMPLY THAT YOU WANTED TO BACK A PLAY?

YES — VERY MUCH, BUT PLEASE — FINISH YOUR DINNER! BUSINESS TALK IS BAD FOR THE DIGESTION... HAVE YOU EVER PLAYED A GAME CALLED RHYMIE-STYMIE?

RHYMIE-STYMIE?!

I DON'T THINK SO...

IT'S A LOVELY GAME! I SUPPLY A DEFINITION AND YOU MUST ANSWER IN TWO RHYMING WORDS THAT FIT IT! FOR EXAMPLE — A DESERT SONG WOULD BE A DUNE TUNE...

I THINK I GET IT! WOULD A PLEASED FATHER BE A GLAD DAD?

EXCELLENT!... OR IT COULD EVEN BE A HAPPY PAPPY! NOW LET'S SEE... UM... WHAT WOULD A PRETTY MILKMAID BE?
